Girligigs

Now you can stop dreaming . . it looks like we'll have a marshmallow world for Christmas after all.

If Santa takes some of these radio crooners even the littlest bit seriously this year, there are going to be a lot of happy hippopotamuses under a lot of Christmas trees on Christmas morn . . . and a lot of new upper plates tucked into the toes of a lot of Christmas stockings.

Or else he's going to be so discouraged about lugging around a load of hippopotamisters and hippopotamisses that he's going to tell a lot of warblers to go sit on a tack.

Now I wouldn't think of sticking my neck out like that . . . it's much more sensible to go around humming about pink convertibles with white upholstery . . . or ermine and velvet parkas . . . or diamond dusted nylons . . or a foam rubber cooshin for my office chair.

'Course I realize that everyone's likes and loves are not the same, thank goodness . . . because it's for sure that if Santa loaded up with hippopotamuses and false teeth there wouldn't be room left for any green bananas!

INTERPRETING THE NEWS

by Gene Alleman

WILL MICHIGAN'S potent prison problem remain unsolved after the legislature return in January?

This question disturbs many people interested in the welfare of the state in general and penal problems in particular. A repetition of the 1952 riots has been predicted if present conditions are not corrected.

If recent statements by Adrian deBoom (R-Owasso) foreshadow sentiment of a large group of lawmakers, the taken-for-granted issue of a new prison can turn into a first class row causing serious delay!

Rep. deBoom announced recently that he planned to ask for a special legislative committee to review the whole problem of prisons, even at the expense of postponing construction until another year.

He criticized the newly organized Corrections Commission for embracing the advice of "out of state experts."

OBJECT of this attack is considered to be Austin MacCormick, nationally recognized prison authority who was executive director of a non-partisan special committee appointed by the governor to study the startling Jackson riots.

MacCormick is also the author of an article in the December Reader's Digest. In it he holds up Michigan's prison system as a horrible example. Millions of Digest subscribers read his description of how Jackson prisoners with no activity to divert their time were jammed together in crowded cells. "Caged, idle men are the dynamite of which prison explosions are made," he wrote.

Serving with him on the committee when he investigated Michigan's riots were several well known state citizens. Its chairman was Prentiss M. Brown.

A COMPLETE report was filed in February last year based on the April, 1952 riots. Most emphatic of its recommendations was that overcrowding must be reduced. It proposed a 1,200-man prison expected to cost about $14 million, which would mean "sorting out" of prisoners, particularly psychopatic criminals.

The legislature, with more discussion about the location of the new building than about the cost, appropriated $75,000 to lay plans. Rep. deBoom was present for this legislation but did not vote upon the issue.

They appropriated nearly half a million dollars to remodel Jackson.

A commission type administration for state prisons was also created. This body began functioning Oct. 2. All its members were appointed by Gov. Williams. deBoom charges that the commission held a "secret" session in Detroit with MacCormick a few days before publicly endorsing the proposed $14 million institution for Ionia.

Commission members are said to occupy a very weak position to take action since none have been confirmed by the senate and the "secret meeting" in Detroit leaves them open to criticism.

NOW COMES a request from Rep. deBoom for more time to study the prison situation. He suggests that another solution might be better. Perhaps a 600-man institution for an estimated $7,200,000, or maybe two of them in different portions of the state.

Best argument is that "out-of-state" experts were wrong another time, when they recommended that Jackson prison be built. Its gigantic size is now considered by other "experts" to make it an administrative impossibility. DeBoom is said to favor more probationary camps.

Economic facts of legislative life cannot be overlooked. Fourteen million dollars is a large sum of money. The state financial situation is a chief concern of many lawmakers.

Much of Michigan's income is derived from taxes which shrink shockingly when business drops off. Returns from sales taxes and business receipt taxes would reduce overnight should there be a recession.

If this should develop, the legislature would prefer not to be caught spending $14 million when it might be argued that $7 million would do as well."

"TEMPORARY uneasy peace exists behind bars," said Austin MacCormick in his Digest article. It could easily be broken with newer and more serious riots if conditions that caused previous uprisings are not rectified.

Prisoners have no one to lobby in their interests. If legislative action does not meet minimum living needs, no one should be surprised at another revolt. Their fate is interwoven with politics, economics and other factors beyond their control.

The governor is stuck with accepting the recommendation of the commission he just appointed. To refuse would be to invite its members' resignations.

The legislature is stuck with the dilemma of beginning a prison construction program now, or facing blame for future riots which MacCormick says must be expected.

Inmates are stuck in red tape of inactivity. After two years of investigating, they face the possibility that investigations will start all over again. In the meantime they exist in cramped quarters, seasoned criminals with first offenders; lunatics with "normal" prinsoners. Insufficient activity; insufficient medical care, and certainly insufficient rehabilitation programs.

Taxpayers are stuck with the bill. Whatever is decided, they will pay the check. If the decisions of the legislature are wise and made in time to remedy a situation long overdue for action, they can take some comfort from the knowledge that a social situation that no one is proud of has at least been dealt with in a sound manner.

The Christmas Vesper Concert will be presented at the auditorium without charge at 4 p.m. and everyone is invited to attend.

The name Clifton Sundberg was inadvertenly omitted from the list of choir personnel last week.

The Christmas Vesper Choir which will present its annual concert this Sunday is an outgrowth of the Baccaluareate choir which has sung at the graduation exercises of the local schools for many years. Members of the choir, many of which have sung together since the first choir was organized, expressed an interest in the organization of a choral group which would meet more often than in the spring and the Christmas vespers is a result of this interest.

The choir has grown steadily since it was first organized although some members have been with the group since the beginning. After the Christmas concert, the choir will not meet again until rehearsals for Baccalaureate service start in the spring. At that time, anyone interested in choral work is invited to join the group.

Churches Announce Christmas Services

the congregations will again be raised in praise of He Whose humble birth is celebrated each Christmas.

The churches of this community have planned special Christmas services during the coming week in observance of this all-important day in the Christian calendar.

Most local churches will conduct special services Sunday in observance of Christmas. St. Mary's Catholic church, Christ Episcopal church, Bethany Lutheran church and the First Congregational church, however will hold traditional Christmas Eve services.

Community Church of God

The Community Church of God will observe the holiday on Sunday when the Rev. George L. Majors will deliver a sermon entitled "If God Was to Fill the Christmas Stocking" at the 11 a.m. worship service. Special Christmas devotions will be offered and the choir will sing special numbers.

At 6 p.m. Sunday evening, the Youth Group of the church will carol and visit Grandvue Hospital near East Jordan.

A Christmas talent hour will be observed at 8 p.m. with special songs, selections, a chalk talk and instrumental numbers.

The Christmas program by the Sunday school will be presented in the church at 8 p.m. Wednesday. A Christmas play, "Christmas Eve and All is Well" will also be presented under the direction of Mrs. Althea Ward, Sunday school superintendent. A special Christ's World Service Birthday offering will be received for missions. The program will be concluded with a treat for the youngsters.

The Methodist Church

Sunday will be observed as Christmas Sunday at the Methodist church with the Rev. Lloyd M. Schloop delivering a sermon entitled "When the Angels Sang" at the 11 a.m. worship service. The sermon will be based on the story of the birth of Jesus Christ as found in the second chapter of the gospel according to St. Luke.

The combined Junior and Senior choirs will sing an anthem "Gloria in Excelsis" and the soloist will be Alan Macdonnel.

At 7:30 Sunday evening, the Sunday school will present its annual Christmas program under the direction of Mrs. Joseph Arville. Each class will contribute a part of the program and a white gift offering for the Methodist Children's Village will be taken. At the close of the program, Santa Clause is expected to visit the children.

On Christmas Day there will be a special service at 3:30 p.m. for the families of the church. Children are to attend with their parents or some adult. After a short service of song and Scripture, each child will be encouraged to display his favorite gift to the minister and the congregation. The service will close with a Prayer of Thanksgiving and dedication of the gifts.

Baptist Church

The Rev. W. Neale Carr will deliver a sermon on "The Unique Man" at the 11 a.m. morning worship service at the Baptist church Sunday morning. The title of the evening message at the evangelistic service will be "Christmas Giving".

The annual Christmas Sunday school program will be presented at 7:30 Wednesday evening. The program will include recitations and various contributions by all classes. A one-act play, "Christmas in Deed" by the Ambassador Youth class will conclude the program. The Rev. Mr. Carr will bring a brief message on the subject "Christmas Truth."

The primary department of the Sunday school will meet at the church at 2 p.m. Saturday for their annual Christmas party. The Baptist Youth Fellowship will hold their Christmas dinner at the church dining room at 6:30 Saturday evening. The exchange of gifts will climax the party.

Assembly of God

The Rev. G. R. Kars has selected "The Shepherds Christmas" as the topic for his sermon at 11 a.m. Sunday morning at the Assembly of God.

The Sunday school which meets regularly at 10 a.m. each Sunday will feature a Family Rally Sunday. All parents, relatives and friends of the members of the school are invited to attend Sunday.

The Sunday school Christmas program will be held at 8 p.m. Monday evening at the church.

Congregational Church

Christmas week celebrations at the Congregational church will begin at 11 a.m. Sunday when joyous Christmas carols will be sung by the congregation. The Senior choir will present Christmas anthems and the Cherub choir will make its usual Christmas appearance. The Rev. Harold Kohn will preach the Christmas sermon, "That Durable Baby".

The Sunday school will meet at 9:45 a.m. and at 7 p.m. will present its annual Christmas program. Recitations and songs will be presented by the children of the Nursery, Beginners and Primary departments.

Featuring in this year's program will be a one act drama, "Christmas in the Country" by Mary S. Hurlburt starring Synthia Curtis and Steven Wells and supported by a cast composed of David Arnold, Eileen Arnold, Charles Bergmann, Lois Bergmann, Geoffrey coleman, Bobbie Hiller, Larry Ingalls, Don Nowland and Douglas Smith.

There will also be the singing of carols and a visit from Santa Claus at the end of the program.

The Christmas celebrations will be climaxed by the beautiful and impressive Candlelight Service at 11 p.m. Christmas Eve in the sanctuary of the church.

At this service of worship the best-loved carols will be sung, the familiar Scriptures read, a brief Christmas Eve message delivered by the Rev. Mr. Kohn and the Service of the Lights observed with only candles lighting the sanctuary.

The church has been attractively spotlighted from without and beautifully decorated within for the holiday season. A focal center of the sanctuary is a large altar screen featuring an illumined scene of the Nativity. Christmas trees decorated the altar and evergreen branches and candles grace the church furnishings.

Bethany Lutheran Church

The annual Christmas program will be presented by the Bethany Lutheran church Sunday school at 8 p.m. Wednesday. This service will include Christmas recitations by the children and carols by the children and the congregation. Beautiful Christmas slides will also be shown.

A Christmas Eve candlelight service will be conducted at the church at 11 p.m. Christmas Eve. Every person in attendance will receive a candle which will be lit for the singing of one of the Christmas carols. The Rev. Raymond A. Essig is the pastor and will tell the Christmas story in his sermon.

Christian Science Society

The Sunday school will meet at 9:30 a.m. Sunday and the weekly church service will be held at 11 a.m. at the Christian Science Society. Music appropriate to the season will be a feature of the service.

Christ Episcopal Church

The Christmas Eve service at Christ Episcopal church will begin at 11:30 p.m. The program will be the traditional Anglican service of Christmas carols and hymns preceding the celebrating of the Holy Communion in honor of the birth of Our Lord. The Rev. Richard James Lintner, vicar of the mission, will be the celebrant.

Of special interest will be the heart-warming procession from the altar to the creche during the singing of the Gradual hymn, "Venite, Adoremus dominum, O Come, Let us Adore Him". At this time the infant Jesus will be placed symbolically in the heretofore empty manger. After this the procession will return to the sanctuary for the reading of the Christmas gospel.

The choir will furnish the special music for the anthem. Anyone wishing to sing with the choir is invited to contact the Vicar or Charles Hamlin, choir director.

The Christmas Eve Communion Service in the Episcopal church is the one open communion of the year, the time when all baptised Christians who have reached the age of discretion and who are ready and desirous may receive the Most Blessed Sacrament.

St. Mary's Church

Three Masses will be celebrated at St. Mary's church on Christmas Day.

The first will be at midnight and others at 8:30 and 10:30 a.m.

Preceding the midnight Mass, the adult choir will sing Christmas carols followed by the Missa Solemnis by Bartholomew. Mrs. Frank Oleksy will be the organist. The children's choir will sing at the second Mass at 8:30 a.m. and the adult choir will again sing carols at the 10:30 Mass.

By the Christmas Masses, the church recalls the threefold birth of Christ: His eternal birth in the bosom of the Father before all ages, His birth in time at Bethlehem and His spiritual birth in the souls of men through grace.

The mystery of the son of God becoming man is called the Mystery of the Incarnation. This great truth is stressed by the church during Christmastide, which extends from the Vigil of Christmas until Jan. 6. Holy Mother the church reminds us of the manifestation of the Incarnation in the Jewish people on December 25 and to the Gentiles on Jan. 6.

Norwood Methodist Church
Barnard Methodist Church

The Rev. Robert Moore of East Jordan will deliver his annual Christmas sermon at the Norwood and Barnard mission church Sunday.

Worship services will be held at the Norwood church at 12 noon, preceded by Sunday schol at 11 a.m.

Services at the Barnard church will follow at 2:30 p.m. with Sunday school at 1:30 p.m.

Music for both services will be by the Children's choirs.

The annual Sunday school Christmas programs will be held early next week. The Barnard Sunday school will present its program at 8 p.m. Monday and at Norwood at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Members of both missions are invited to attend the annual Christmas Eve service at the East Jordan Methodist church at 11:15 p.m.

Barnard Reformed Church

Christmas will be observed at the Barnard Reformed church at worship services at 11 a.m. and 8 p.m. A student minister assigned to the church from the Western Theological Seminary in Holland will deliver the Christmas sermon.

Sunday school will be held at 10 a.m. Sunday.

The annual Christmas program will be presented at the church at 8 p.m. Christmas Eve. At that time the Elementary students will present a program of recitations and songs and the Young People's class will enact the play, "The Best Gift."

Charlevoix Defeats East Jordan In 'See-Saw' Clash

Rally In Last Period Brings 47-39 Victory

In a game that was "touch and go" all the way, the Charlevoix Rayders came through in the last period to outscore East Jordan 15-8 for a 47-39 victory over a traditional rival Friday night.

On Tuesday the Rayders were scheduled to take on another tough opponent, Grayling and on Friday will journey to Mancelona to meet the Ironmen.

Charlevoix got off to a cautious start and took a slim 10-7 first quarter lead on two field goals by White; two free throws by Bennett and one field goal each by LaBlance and Guy Swanson. East Jordan scored seven points on two field goals and a free throw by Bobby Danforth and a field goal by Keith Evans.

The Red Devils outscored the Rayders 10-7 in the second period to tie the score 17-all at half-time. Swanson had scored three points on a field goal and gift shot and Bennett and Dwain Walker each added a field goal.

Alan Sommerville tallied three field goals and Evans two for the Jordanites points.

Each team scored seven field goals in the third quarter but Mol connected with a free throw to give Charlevoix a one-point 32-31 lead as the period ended. Mol scored seven points; LaBlance four and White and Bennett two points each.

Dropping field goals for the Devils were Francis Trojanek, three; Evans, two and Danforth and Bob Darbee one each.

With the pressure on in the last period, the Rayders came through with six field goals and three out of six free throws for the eight-point win. East Jordan scored eight points.

Bennett and LaBlance each scored five points on two field goals and a gift shot each in the last period while Walker and Mol each scored on field goals and White added a single shot.

East Jordan scored eight points on a field goal and two free throws by Danforth; a field goal by Darbee and free throws by Evans and McGeorge.

Charlevoix scored 20 field goals to 17 for East Jordan and connected on seven of 14 free throws while the Jordanites scored only five of 14 gift shots. East Jordan had 12 personal fouls and Charlevoix 7.

Six players took to the air during the Charlevoix-East Jordan game Friday night in an effort to gain possession of an elusive basketball. Charlevoix must have gotten it for they emerged the winner by a score of 47-39 after a hard-fought game to rack up their second win of the season.

Loop Teams Scheduled To Meet Rivals In Friday Night Tilts

After playing mid-week games on Tuesday, Northern Michigan Class C teams will take on loop rivals Friday night.

At that time the Rayders will travel to Mancelona; Harbor Springs will play at Pellston and East Jordan will host Gaylord. Boyne City does not have a game scheduled for Friday.

After meeting a tough non-league opponent, Grayling on Tuesday, the Charlevoix five will take on an equally tough team, the Mancelona Ironmen, on Friday. Though they had played but one loop game until Tuesday, the Ironmen have the material on hand for a well-balanced, hard-fighting team and should be among the top contenders in the league. In addition they will have a slight advantage this week on their home floor which is now the smallest floor in the league. The Rayders, on the other hand, have two loop wins to their credit and should be able to stop the Ironmen.

The Harbor Springs-Pellston game this week will be a battle between two traditional rivals. Pellston has a scrappy team but lacks experience which they are expected to gain as the season develops. To date the Hornets have suffered two losses. Harbor Springs, which looked like a threat before the season started has not found its stride and has been defeated by Gaylord in league play and Grayling and Ellsworth in non-loop games. The loss of Stan Pifer to the line-up since the season opened has been a severe blow to the Rams. However, if he should return this week it is expected to bolster their morale and the game with Pellston could become a tough game.

East Jordan hit the victory trail early in the season and except for a set-back by the Rayders the squad has looked good despite the lack of experience and depth. The Gaylord Blue Devils, on the other hand, looked good on paper but have failed to furnish the punch needed to win. The latter plays an aggressive game with plenty of scoring but until they can throw up a defense to keep their opponent from dumping the baskets in will have to be content with a second-rate standing. If they can utilize their height over the Red Devils this week, the game could be close and perhaps Gaylord could come up with a victory.

Last Week With Class 'C' Teams

There was plenty of action recorded in the Northern Michigan Class C loop Friday night as Boyne City edged Gaylord 65-61, Mancelona trounced Pellston 50-35 and Harbor Springs bowed to a non-loop opponent, Grayling 58-30.

At Boyne City the Ramblers held a 16-13 first quarter lead over Gaylord and managed to keep it 36-34 at the half and 50-45 at the third period as Mert Erber tallied 18 points for the victors and Dick Riddle 17 for Gaylord.

At Mancelona the Ironmen forged ahead 11-8 at the first quarter and 21-9 at the half before Pellston came back to cut the lead to 37-26 as the third period ended.

At Harbor Springs, Viking center Dick Hamilton racked up 28 points for Grayling as his team led the Rams 11-4 at the quarter; 26-14 at the half and 47-22 at the third period. Carlton Seely led the scoring for Harbor Springs with nine points.

Harbor Springs was again without regular forward Stan Pifer who has recovered from pneumonia but was out this week with a sinus infection.

Little Rayders Edge E. Jordan By 38-35 Score

Charlevoix's Little Rayders took a close one Friday night from the East Jordan Reserves by a 38-35 score as the lead changed several times throughout the hard fought game.

The local Reserves will take on the Grayling Reserves Tuesday and the Mancelona Little Ironmen Friday to conclude their pre-holiday schedule.

The game was a battle from the opening whistle to the final blast of the horn as the score was tied 8-8 at the first quarter with Charlevoix going ahead 16-14 at the half and 26-25 at the third period.

After a slow start the Charlevoix five scored eight points on two field goals by Bill Kolker and one each by Putman and Garry Vandenberg. The Jordanites scored the same number of points on three field goals and two charity tries.

In the second quarter the Rayders scored eight points to six for the Jordanites on a field goal and two free throws by Norm Helms and field goals by Ken Balch and Kit Carson. East Jordan scored one field goal and four free throws.

As the third period opened Dennis started to hit and scored three field goals for six points with Kolker adding three points on a field goal and a gift shot and Glen Ikens one from the free throw line. The Jordanites outscored the Rayders by one point in the period to cut Charlevoix's already slim lead to 26-25 points.

The Rayders came back in the last period however to outscore their hosts 12-10 for the game. Ikens scored five points on two field goals and a gift shot; Dennis added three on a field goal and one free throw and Vandenberg and Walt Pouquette added a field goal each to complete the Rayders' scoring.

Woodcock led the scoring with 13 points for East Jordan. Dennis was top scorer for the Rayders with nine points.

Kolker contributed seven points; Ikens six; Helms, and Vandenberg, four each; Putman, Balch, Pouquette and Carson, two each.

By
HAROLD E. KOHN

A Day At A Time

While we do not regard animols as being religious creatures, they nevertheless often fulfill Biblical teaching better than we human beings do. They know no Scripture. Nor could they understand the Bible if il were read to them. Yet they have an ingrained native wisdom somewhat akin to the sound sense of the Bible that enables them to find peace of mind such as we humans seldom attain. Our furred and feathered fellow creatures keep the essence of the fourth commandment without knowing anything of its meaning. "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy" says the Old Testament law, and the Scripture goes on to stress the need of rest. Wild animals go beyond the advice of the Bible and observe dozens of little sabbaths throughout the week, long leisurely rest periods when their strength is renewed. But man works himself into nervous and physical exhaustion.

In warning His followers against anxiety and worry, the Master one time said to them, "Take no thought for the morrow for the morrow shall take thought for the things of itself." He did not imply that intelligent planning for the future is wrong. Indeed, He did His own share of providing for the days to come. But in the context of what else He had to say on this matter, the reader sees that He was warning against fretfulness, worry and anxiety. Modern psychiatry reenforces the teaching of Jesus that we must not let worrying become an habitual way of behaving towards the past or the future. But still we do, and to our own hurt. We were made to carry only the load of today. When we add to that burden the loads of yesterday and tomorrow we overtax our strength and weaken ourselves. Animals are never so foolish.

Those deer that are suffering a scarcity of their choicest food, now that winter has come, do not complicate their problem by fretting about next week's rations, or by conjuring up mouth-watering memories of last summer's lush browsings. They are savoring their "daily bread" without chafing about tomorrow's scant provisions. They solve the immediate problem. Are acorns, maple browsings, bunchberries, and ferns getting few and far between? Are whitecedar, hemlock, yew and dogwood becoming widely scattered? Why sulk about it? Second choices, like Norway pine, balsam, alder, and white spruce will have to do. So they feed on what is available and derive strength for the present day.

This is no argument for stupid complacency or foolish contentment with scarcity. Our brains have been given us to use, and there is some purpose in having a capacity for planning. The deer's innate wisdom is not found in its lack of preparation for the future; but first, in its lack of useless mind-destroying anxiety, and secondly, in its taking fullest advantage of the present situation even though it may not be a choice situation. It lives in the eternal Now, the present moment, without disturbance about yesterdays or tomorrows. And it accepts second choices. If it cannot eat what it most desires, the whitetail will eat what it can.

That is a grand way to live, and the best of mankind have lived that way. Jesus followed his own advice, not being upset about the days to come but taking good care of today's opportunities.

John Wesley, the founder of Methodism, once said, "He who governed the world before I was born shall take care of it likewise when I am dead. My part is to improve the present moment."

One of Harvard University's greatest presidents, Dr. Charles Eliot, disclosed his secret of poised living when he wrote, "I have, for the most part, lived in the work of the passing day, neither regretting the past nor fearing the future."

A young lady whose life was plagued by severe testings and trying temptations told her minister her secret of victorious living was that she knew she could get through the next five minutes of temptation, and she could leave the hours to God.

Some anonymous poet has expressed the importance of living one day at a time in the following unpolished but meaningful verse:

"If we're thoughtful just this minute,
In whate'er we say or do,
If we put a purpose in it
That is honest through and through,
We shall gladden life, and give it
Grace to make it all sublime;
For though life is long, we live it
Just this minute at a time."

The wisdom of wild things will tame our unruly worries and our ungoverned anxieties if we will make it our own. If God has given such peace of mind to the deer of the spruce and balsam woods and the cedar swamp, will he not bestow it upon his human children, too?

Your Indispensable Servant

Six or seven times a day a new unit is added to the American railroads' locomotive fleet.

And every six minutes (as in October) of every hour of the 24 in the day the railroads put a new freight car to work on their tracks.

And yearly they relay enough rail and ties to build an entire trans-continental rail system—a system containing every new technological improvement adaptable to railroad operation.

Why all this?

So that they can continue to be the one and only form of transportation in America that can and does haul anything, for anybody, in any quantity, anywhere, in any season of the year.

The railroads are America's — and your — most nearly indispensable economic servant.

ASC Checking Wheat Acreage Planted In State

All wheat fields in Michigan aro being measured by county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committeemen in order to determine farmers' eligibility for price support on the 1954 crop. The ASC is the successor to the Production Marketing Administration.

Clarence E. Prentice, administrator for the Michigan ASC program, is urging farmers to assist the ASC reporters by designating fields planted to wheat. The measurement determines whether the farmer has to pay a penalty for over,planted under the acreage allotment and marketing quota system set up by the federal government.

After the measurement, farmers will receive marketing cards which they must have in order to sell their wheat after harvest of the 1954 crop.

The ASC committeemen at the same time also are obtaining basic information on all farms that produced corn in any of the past three years. This, says Prentice, is in preparation for the Secretary of Agriculture's expected declaration of corn acreage allotments in 1954. The information is being obtained in 29 commercial corn counties.

Proper Feeds Avoid Rickets In Pig Crop

Watch out for signs of rickets in pigs this time of year. Lack of sunshine and supplementary vitamin D in the ration are the causes, Michigan State college veterinarians say.

Dr. Frank Thorpe suggests including irradiated yeast in the feed. That will take care of the vitamin D need. You can buy it at a feed store and mix it in the feed yourself, or you can have your local elevator do the job. The rate is a half-pound of yeast to the ton of feed.

If your pigs already have rickets, Dr. Thorpe advises, consult your veterinarian.

Un-Foxy Fox

Foxes, noted for their crafty ways, provide good hunting for the group of Michigan hunters who like to pit their wits against cagey Renard. This hunter was returning victorious from the hunt late last winter when the conservation department cameraman happened on the scene in Grand Traverse county. Snow, of course, is a big help in hunting these animals, giving hunters chance to track and find fresh trails, but many hunt the animals year around, when other seasons are closed.

More Profits From Cows Freshening In Fall, Tests Reveal

,Extension Dairyman D. L. Murray of Michigan State college reports that dairy herd improvement records show this: For cows freshening during September, October and November, the income over feed cost averaged $232 per cow. The average for cows freshening during March, April and May was $212.

Murray says the figures showed a slightly higher feed cost for sows freshening in the fall but the increase in production and the higher price for milk and butterfat still gave about $20 more per cow in favor of fall freshening.

Cows freshening during the fall, reminds Murray, make for a more even distribution of labor throughout the year. There's more time to spend with the dairy herd in late fall, winter and early spring. And calves born in the fall usually make good growth since they are in the barn to receive better care. When summer comes they will be the right size and age to make good use of pasture.

Dairymen who feed the best quality roughage can have $40 to $65 greater returns per cow over feed costs than farmers who feed poor roughages. That was shown by a recent feed utilization study conducted by Michigan State college.

Calumet claims to have the first concrete pavement built in Michigan. The roadway was laid in 1906 when the town's name was Red Jacket. The pavement was 30 feet wide and scored to make the surface look like bricks. Incidentally, the pavement is still in good condition.

Notice the new motor oil labels, advises Robert G. White, Michigan State college agricultural engineer. ML, MM and MS stand for light, medium and severe duty oils for spark ignition engines and DG and DS label general and severe service diesel oils.

Farmers Urged To Use Account Book Records

Besides, good records can eliminate the frustrating work of going through a mass of receipts in order to list your tax deductions asserts Everett M. Elwood, extention agricultural economist at Michigan State college.

Elwood points out that mislaying or forgetting a receipt can be costly. If you've had a machinery repair job, for example, that cost you $15 and you forget to enter it on the tax form, you pay about $4 extra in taxes.

That means for about every dollar you fail to enter on your tax report it costs you an extra 25 to 30 cents in taxes.

Elwood urges farmers to start the new year with a Farm Account Book, available at the offices of county agricultural agents, and the agricultural agent will give pointers on using it.

Another advantage of the Farm Account Book, says Elwood, is that you can know where your big costs are in addition to crop yields, livestock production and sale prices of your products. When these facts are analyzed, they will show the strong and weak points in your farming business. That means you can make adjustments that will steer toward more profit in the future.

Serving coffee to a large group? Gladys Knight with Michigan State college's tourist and resort program says you can figure that 1 pound of coffee plus 2½ gallons of water will yield about 40 to 50 cups. In figuring the cream you'll need, remember that 1 quart gives you 64 tablespoons. If all take cream, you'd need about 1¼ quarts; less if fewer take cream.

NOW IS THE TIME

TO PLAN FOR SPRING FERTILIZER REQUIREMENTS

Orders placed now will assure you of the analysis and the tonnage needed at planting time in the spring.

One of the big problems of the fertilizer plant as well as of the dealer, is storage of manufactured materials.

In order for the fertilizer plant to manufacture enough materials to supply the ever increasing demand for high analysis fertilizer, work on spring supplies must be started in December.

Therefore, it is requested that farmers accept delivery on their spring orders during the winter months if they have suitable storage room.

Suggests Ways To Avoid Fire At Christmas

Christmas is a time when joy reigns supreme. In an effort to keep it a happy season and to avoid the dangers of fire and other hazards created by lighted Christmas trees Roy R. Robinson, city superintendent, this week has issued a number of simple but effective precautions.

Choose a small tree; it's just as pretty and is less of a hazard than a large tree. Keep it outdoors until a day before Christmas.

When you set it up, stand it in water . . . or use a liva trea in potted earth. Remembar a Christmas tree dries out readily so kaep it in the coolest part of the house, away from heaters, radiators and fireplacos and don't let it block an exit.

In decorating the tree always use fireproof decorations and never use cotton or paper decorations unless they are flameproof.

Don't set up electric trains under the tree and never allow anyone to smoke or lay a lighted cigarette, pipe or cigar near the tree.

Never, never trim the tree with lighted candles and make sure your electric wiring sets are in perfect working order.

Check the lights often, provida a switch away from the tree, don't let gift wrappings pile up near the tree and when the needles start to fall, take your tree down and discard it.

And if you want to fireproof your tree, place it in a solution made from one pound of commercial ammonium phosphate dissolved in one gallon of water.

Because of the Christmas holiday, the Charlevoix Conrier will go to press or Tuesday next week.

by Gene Alleman

BIGGEST HURDLE so far in the long struggle to build the Mackinac Bridge was successfully completed Dec. 17 when the State Administrative Board unanimously approved sale of bonds to finance the $99,800,000 structure.

The board consists of the governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, treasurer, auditor general, superintendant of public instruction and the highway commissioner.

The board also let contracts for work to begin at the same meeting. One for $44,535,000 went to the American Bridge Co., one for $25,735,000 to Merritt, Chapman and Scott Co. for foundation installations.

One more obstacle remains: approval of the Michigan Supreme court. The board is under order to hold the bonds until the court hears arguments and decides whether or not the transaction is Constitutional.

Hearings were to start Dec. 22; the decision is expected by Feb. 15.

If the court finds the sale constitutional, work can begin; if not, the efforts and dreams of many who worked to secure the bridge will go up in smoke. A new effort will take several years to regain wasted accomplishment.

COMPLICATIONS and confusion arose in the final days before the board meeting. D. Hale Brake, state treasurer and a man respected for his knowledge of state finance criticized the method of raising the money. After making clear his position that he did not oppose the bridge, he pointed out that bonds with only bridge tolls as security commanded a higher rate of interest than those backed by the state and its assets. He figured that the method being used will cost users of the bridge a total of $193,882,000 (interest is now approximately 4.2%); that if the people would vote approval of the bonds, the total cost to taxpayers could be lowered to $129,195,000, a savings of $64 million otherwise to be paid in bridge tolls.

No reason exists why the second course cannot be followed later, and it seemed generally agreed by board members that the bonds would be refinanced at the lower interest rate any time a public referendum permits.

Big question mark now was supplied by Sen. Haskell L. Nichols (R-Jackson) who sought an injunction hours before the bond agreement was made. He sought to prohibit the action. The court would not issue such an injunction but did order a delay in the actual transaction until the question was settled.

"You Never Know" Department

A chance remark about the new Mormon church now under construction in Los Angeles, Calif., last week started a chain of circumstances which may lead to some fine publicity for America's Emerald Isle Beaver Island, scene of an early Mormon colony once ruled by King James Strang, according to James Coleman, Chicago businessman whose family resides here.

It all started last Thursday when Mr. Coleman, enroute home via plane from a business trip to the coast and his dinner partner, making small talk over the dinner table, started discussing the new church. Mr. Coleman asked him if he knew that an early Mormon colony was once located on Beaver Island in northern Lake Michigan and when he said he didn't, the latter, who has become well-versed in the area's history since he decided to make it his permanent home, launched into the story of King Strang, and his Mormon Kingdom, so well known to northern Michigan residents.

About this time another passenger, across the aisle, at the mention of King Strang, perked up his ears and with an "I beg your pardon", asked if Mr. Coleman was talking about the King Strang of Mormon fame on Beaver Island. When told 'yes', he said he knew a little of the history and introduced himself as Albert Widdifield a former Charlevoix resident now living in Chicago. It wasn't until then when introductions were in order, that Mr. Coleman discovered his dinner partner was Quentin Reynolds, world-famous author and reporter.

Always on the lookout for something new and interesting in the way of a story, Mr. Reynolds, until then impatient to retire for the night, started asking questions about King Strang, the Mormon colony, the Irish, and Mr. Coleman and Mr. Widdifield did their best to answer his questions.

As a result, Mr. Reynolds has made tentative arrangements to come to Charlevoix as the guest of Mr. Coleman and to visit Beaver Island for a picture story for either Reader's Digest or Life magazine, with which Mr. Widdifield's brother, Kenneth, is associated . . . all because someone mentioned a Mormon church.

'Sarg' Brings Christmas Early To Local Volunteer Firemen

Christmas came early to the Charlevoix Fire Department this year . . . in the form of a six weeks old Dalmatian puppy.

The dog, which, was one of a litter of ten, was a gift to the department from Mr. and Mrs. Wesley L'Huillier of Hayes Township.

The son of Erbert VonRittenberg and Madame LaBlanc, the dog will be officially registered under the kennel name of DeNorde but to his friends he'll be known as 'Sergeant' . . . Sarg, for short.

When the dog was offered to the department as a gift, a special meeting was called, for Fire Chief Martin Elzinga, assistant chief Earl Crandall and the 15 volunteer firemen did not accept ownership lightly. When they voted to accept Sarg, special plans were made for his welfare. At the present time, he is being financed by the organization's flower fund but other arrangements will be made for his future.

He will live at the fire hall where he will be cared for by Mr. Elzinga and Mr. Crandall with his other 15 co-owners offering a guiding hand when necessary.

Dalmatians first became associated with fire departments late in the 19th century when it was found that the dogs which have a mild, even temperament had a quieting effect on the horses which then pulled the fire-fighting equipment.

When motorized equipment replaced the horse-drawn fire wagons, little was heard of the breed until recently when they started a comeback as pets and show dogs.

Sarg, who now tips the scales at seven pounds, will weigh up to 60 pounds when he reaches maturity at about 18 months.

Adult Education Classes To Start In Mid-January

Enrollment for the annual Continuing Education classes for the adults of the community will be accepted immediately after the holidays so that classes may begin by mid-January, Supt. R. G. Bennett announced this week.

Last year the enrollment reached the 210 mark for the regular courses and 68 students for the shorter courses

An effort will be made to offer classes in any field the prospective students feel is needed. There is some talk of opening a class in the way of filing income taxes and in current problems.

Additional classes will also be available because of the facilities in the manual arts department. Courses will be offered in welding and machine work as well as woodworking, a popular class in the past. Art and commercial courses will also be available.

Mr. Bennett asks that the people of the community make their wants known so that courses can be arranged. You are asked to call the school or stop at the elementary school office after Jan. 4 to enroll for the classes.

Congregational Church To Have Special Service

Christmas celebrations at Charlevoix's Congregational Church will be climaxed with the beautiful and impressive Candlelight Service at 11 o'clock on Christmas Eve. There, with attention focused upon an illumined altar nativity scene, the worshippers will sing the best-loved carols, and the familiar scriptures will be read. The combined Junior and Senior choirs will sing "Beneath the Starry Skies" by Wilson, the Senior choir will render "The Birthday of a King" by Neidlinger, and a trio will present the lovely "Cantique de Noel."

The Rev. Harold Kohn will deliver a brief Christmas Eve sermon, the parts of which will be separated by carol interludes by the congregation. "The Service of Lights" will be observed near the close of worship, with only candles lighting the sanctuary.

Tell Plans For Recreation Here During Holidays

Plans for a vacation recreation program at the Charlevoix high school gymnasium during the Christmas recess were announced this week by Coach Del Terrill who will be in charge of the event.

ODDS 'N ENDS

AN ORCHID ... or [illegible] ... [illegible] ... to the utility ... [illegible] beautifully decorated Christmas tree in East Park and to the overhead Christmas decorations ... [illegible] ... One [illegible] Christmas tree at the corner of Bridge and Mason ... [illegible] ... like that ... when they pass ... they watch ... tumbling down and [illegible] ... The stores ... attractive ... as are many of the homes ... Take a drive around some night before too long and see the decorations while they're at their prettiest ...

But let us warn you ... go out before the big old moon comes up ... Don't know why it looks so big and bright these days ... What with no snow to reflect its brightness but it's sure beautiful ...

We were fascinated Saturday night by the moon and a bright star (or planet or something) ... The clouds were whizzing by so fast that it looked as tho' the man in the moon was chasing the star across the sky ...

WE'RE BACK to Christmas again ... And we'd like to mention the scads of Christmas cards we've received ... If there's one thing that we love about Christmas, it's the cards ... It's the only time of the year we hear from some of our friends so always look forward to them ... And if there's not a note with all the latest news ... like everyone else we're mighty disappointed ... To all of you who have or who sent cards before the BIG DAY come Friday, many thanks ... We love everyone and it's next best to seeing you personally ... And to any of you who were expecting one from me ... just be patient ... we'll make the [illegible] yet ...

DURING the next few days you'll be hearing about a lot of [illegible] wonderful Christmas pr[illegible] ... here's one which ar[illegible] ... and believe us you'll [illegible] long ways to think [illegible] someone who [illegible] ... [illegible] ... Joseph Sr. ... [illegible] 13 year old Joe Jr., Tom and Lois Ann Wagner of Charlevoix, Mich. Ever since Tom was a year old, Lois has looked after him during the Guilbaults' summer stay in Charlevoix. For the holidays She'll be 'Tom's guest' ... And to add to the story, Lois left here last week for Chicago where the family showed her the sights before leaving for the south ... A sophomore in the local high school, she'll return in time for school after the holidays with scads of the most wonderful things to tell, we know ... And who can blame her ... we still say it's a pretty wonderful gift, especially for a 15-year-old ...

PERHAPS you noticed in the news last week a little squib about Mrs. Esther Radle going to Indianapolis for a visit with her daughters and family, the Bill Sniders ... We didn't mention that that with her went Blue Ve[illegible] ... [illegible] the hog from Phil[illegible] State Fair ... but a par[illegible] ... the things you [illegible] ... And if anyone [illegible] ... who knows [illegible] somebody's pet hog ...

LIKE everyone else we make [illegible] ... And we'd like to correct a couple right now ... First we'd like to mention that Mrs. Mattie Jerichow is also [illegible] at Grandview Hospital [illegible] ... We omitted [illegible] from the list last week ... And secondly, it was Jim Haggard and not Bill, as we said, [illegible] all the work on the beautiful Santa Claus which adorns the Haggard abode ... Seems [illegible] too busy to give Jim a hand so the latter was pretty [illegible] when we credited the [illegible] guy ... Can't say as we blame him ...

SOME GUYS have all the luck if it's bad ... Or so M-Sgt. Jerry (Ypma) Ryan figures ... Of the four Christmases he's spent in the army, he's spend every last one of them overseas ... One was spent in Okinawa and the others in England at various times ... That's where he was shipped recently with the air force ... leaving his lovely bride in California ... But such is the way of the services ... But he hopes by next spring to collect that bride and come here to visit his parents, the Ken Forbes ...

WHEN suggesting gifts of home products' last week, we [illegible] missed two of them ... One, our wonderful, scrumptious candies that are made at two local stores and which cannot be surpassed any place ... and that's a broad statement ... And the other, the sporting goods made at our own "Stream-Eze" plant ... we don't know all about them, but if you'll inquire around town you'll find there're bows, arrows, fishing equipment and [illegible] knows what else ... And [illegible] forget the magic Magic [illegible] ... Must remember to make a complete list next time ... We [illegible] don't mean to pass [illegible] up ...

REMEMBER [illegible] ... [illegible] ... Not long ago we [illegible] the sea gulls flying very high over Round Lake and making a big fuss ... Roy Ranger told us the other day that if we'd looked a little more carefully, chances are we would have seen an eagle overhead ... Seems the eagle, a big bird, 'dive-bombs' the gulls ... and if the lighter birds are caught too close to the water or ground, they're just 'dead ducks' (if you'll excuse the pun) ... However, if they stay high they can out-maneuver the larger bird so are safe ... Mother Nature sure has a way of instilling the art of self-preservation in her creatures ...

And if you're wondering where an eagle would come from, there has been a pair of them living out along Lake Michigan south of South Point ... we've mentioned them before ... And Barney Engelhart told us recently that he's seen one out near Camp Charlevoix ... Could have been the same one of course, but there are some round ...

NOT LONG ago everyone got a chuckle out of the story about Detroit Police Commissioner Don Leonard's son who disappeared and who turned up later ... perfectly alright ... he'd been some place or other ... Such actions on the part of kids is not confined to the top men in the police department ... Charlevoix had much the same experience recently when young Joe Smith, a third grade pupil, failed to report for school one morning ... A call to his folks, both of whom were at the job, verified the fact that he was supposed to be in school ... And the search was on ... It was a cold, snowy day not fit for man nor beast, as the saying goes, so they couldn't imagine where he was ... After a hurried search of the house, the activity spread to the neighborhood, through the town, the docks, all the places an eight-year-old might go ... But no success ... Action again centered on the house but still nothing ... Everyone was getting pretty worried by this time, so right after lunch they not only searched, they combed the house ... And there was Joe in the very back of the deepest closet in the house ... where he'd hidden every time he'd heard footsteps ... We said it wasn't a day fit for man nor beast ... and that's what Joe must have thought too ... P.S. He's now attending school regularly ...

DON'T KNOW if you've seen the latest activity at the new building on the Argo property or not ... The weather hasn't been exactly conductive to sitting around and watching ... But it got just too much for us one day last week so we watched the workmen put some of those huge rocks in place for the fireplace in the restaurant ... When we mention of the size we were told that the largest weighed better than five tons ... a little bigger than a pebble ... but that crane operator sure puts them in place as tho' they weren't much larger than that ...

AND IF you have should have struggled through Odds'n ends to this point this week of Christmas ... We'd like to wish you a very special Christmas ... And hope that you will not only receive all the things you wanted but that all your hopes and dreams will come true too ... Not only this Christmas season but all through those 365 days to be known as 1954 which will be on all too soon ...

Kaskey - Ostrum Vows Exchanged In Saturday Wedding

In a quiet ceremony solemnized at the Methodist church chapel Saturday afternoon, Dec. 12, Marcella A. Kaskey became the bride of E. Franklin Ostrum.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Anna Gray and Edward J. Kaskey of Chicago. Mr. and Mrs. D. Eldred Ostrum are the parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. Lloyd M. Schloop officiated at the double ring service in the presence of their immediate families.

Immediately following a wedding dinner at the home of the bridegroom's parents, the couple left on a week's wedding trip to Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin. They have returned here to make their home.

Both attended the Charlevoix high school. The bridegroom is a veteran of six years in the army, five of which were spent in Japan and Okinawa.

Mrs. Thierry Heads Little Flower Guild

Mrs. Herman Thierry was elected president of the Little Flower Guild of St. Mary's church at a regular meeting and Christmas party at the home of the retiring president, Mrs. Charles Cooper, Wednesday evening.

Other officers who will assume their duties at the first meeting in January are: Mrs. James Woodward, vice president; Mrs. George Pethe, secretary and Mrs. Leland Warner, treasurer.

Mrs. Cooper, the retiring president, was presented with a gift from Guild members. At the Christmas party which followed the business session, gifts were exchanged and a social hour and refreshments enjoyed by the group.

[illegible] Haggerty was presented with the doll and wardrobe which the Guild was awarding.

Singing In A Snow Storm

White snowflakes spun about me as I walked among the bare limbed birches and the evergreens. The air was full of feathery snow flakes, as if the angels had engaged in an hilarious pillow fight, tossing the [illegible] upon each other's [illegible] and showering the earth's floor with goose down. The [illegible] fluff spun through the chilled atmosphere driven [illegible] before a [illegible] wind that [illegible] the bare birch branches, [illegible] among the balsams, and [illegible] through the hemlocks. The elements were playing a wintry game, but like roughneck boys who do not know their own strength they were playing it wildly with abandon, and with danger that someone would get hurt.

There was something else in the air, something besides swirling snow and boisterous wind. It was the high-pitched sweet and clear song of a black capped chickadee. First from swaying cedar limb, then from pitching hemlock sprig, and then from tossing birch bough the little chorister sang, blending his voice with other boy soprano chickadees whose cheerful song came from a distance, rising above the sound of storm. "Chickadee-dee-dee-dee," he piped, "Chickadee-dee".

The bright notes came in startling contrast to the gray leaden skies. The light sweet song formed a lively accent against the heaviness of the atmosphere. Confidence was in that voice, and [illegible] too, as if the little black-[illegible] David knew he could slay Goliath Storm with a few smooth round notes. And it seemed that he did. Soon the storm was gone, but the courageous wee warrior was still jumping joyously about, shooting his small music into the snow subsided and quiet air.

There is always something beautiful and deeply moving about singing in a storm, whether the songster is a black-capped chickadee or a balsam bough, or a mother with a houseful of sick children spreading gaiety all around, or a sunshine-minded patient chasing shadows from his hospital ward, or a blind Alec Templeton, whose mirthful fingers coax merriment from the concert piano. Our world would be infinitely poorer if it were not for those intrepid souls whose gallant spirits have rejoiced amidst life's icy blasts.

Are you so fortunate as to own genuine Wedgewood pottery? Then you have some of the world's best! But it was made by a company founded by one of the [illegible] people. Josiah Wedgewood, potter to the world, was compelled to leave school when but nine years of age. At that year he was stricken with smallpox, which crippled him for the remainder of his life. [illegible] could not crush his [illegible] spirit. His soul [illegible] beauty, sang in the [illegible], and the world is richer for his having lived.

Few men have sung so sweetly amidst life's turbulence as did Ludwig von Beethoven. Smitten with deafness when near the peak of a great career, he was for a time prostrated by discouragement and broken by disillusionment. Then, while gusts of misfortune still tore at his spirit, Beethoven began composing again, and there poured from his pen music that has cheered the entire world.

At Christmas we sing "Joy to the world, the Lord is come," one of the most spirited and gladsome of all the Christmas carols. These words sound as if they came from a calm and untroubled life, don't they? But no. Isaac Watts, the author of this hymn that expresses our gladness at Christmas time, was well acquainted with adversity. Sick and puny as a baby he remained frail and delicate all his days. Often so indisposed that he could not serve his congregations, he wrote them pastoral letters that awed his people with their expressions of high courage. Always an enemy of gloom, he wrote an entire book of hymns, most of which are known as "hymns of praise" — paeans of confidence and cheer. In 1748, Isaac Watt's frail health at last gave out. He left behind scores of songs, seventy of which are still in constant use, eloquent memorials to a man whose indomitable spirit sang through the storm.

And what of the millions unknown to fame, whose high spirits rise above low skies and whose grace is stronger than gales? What about you? Frailties of the flesh and mightiness of heart often go together. Tiny plucky black-capped chorister, bravely raising your song at the heart of the storm, you remind me of that"

A very enjoyable time was had at the Reformed church last Thursday when their fellowship group entertained the Atwood ladies and the W.S.C.S.

Mrs. Garret Potter took her Junior Sunday school class caroling on Saturday. They sang for several shut-ins in the community.

Jake and Oscar Boss from Royal Oak and Clawson visited relatives here over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Boss and family were Sunday dinner guests at the Lawrence Boss home.

Inwood News

Jane Fiedler

If you'd like the news of the week, please take it with a poetic streak. For several days all we've heard, is chop, clang and noise, but not a word.

The road men are busy moving the earth and cutting the trees like they had no worth. Chop, klang, shop, klang a hammer goes, the pavement cracks in narrow rows.

They dig a trench, a culvert is made. We have to detour on a road near Spayde. The trees are cut or slashed so rude. The stumps upturned all looks so crude. A bulldozer scrapes and moves the earth in no time at all a new scene has birth.

Right now we travel at great risk, but next year this time we can go brisk. Tho' some days to Barnard a detour we take while the noisy equipment doth make the earth shake. Totten's old barn is being torn down. Farmer's house moved, see her frown.

Sixteen curves in seven miles is too much, they illiminate all with this magic touch.

The Inwood ladies were entertained the day it snowed, could have rained At Ed Swansons home in Charlevoix. We exchanged gifts but not a toy.

Barnard Reformed feted us too, big dinner, tree and fun, tis true. Our folks are coming one by one for the holiday season and its fun, from Porto Rico, Keith Agers family will help to make a worth while tree.

'Sarg' Brings Early Christmas To Firemen

According to Mrs. L'Huillier, who started raising the dogs only as a hobby after one of the animals was given to her daughter as a gift, said the history of the Dalmatian goes back many centuries. Pictures of the dog have been found on the walls of Egyptian tombs and mention of the 'spotted dog' has been found in early writtings. Later they became popular in England as coach or carriage dogs. It was after that they were brought to this country and were first used as 'fire' dogs in the eastern states.

Mr. and Mrs. L'Huillier came to northern Michigan from Dearborn three years ago.

• Mr. and Mrs. John Grupa planned to leave Wednesday for Marne to visit their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Blink and family. They will be joined for the holidays by their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Grupa. They plan to spend several weeks in Marne while the Blinks make a trip to California.

LaClairs To Mark Fifty-Fifth Date Of Wedding Here

Ellsworth — Thursday will mark the fifty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert (Gib) LaClair. No big celebration is planned, but the day will be observed quietly at their home here. They were married Dec. 24, 1898 at Ellsworth and have lived here with exception of 16 years at East Jordan.

After their marriage they lived on a farm east of Ellsworth until their home was destroyed by fire in 1916. They then moved to East Jordan, returning here in 1932. Since then they operated a gasoline station and lunch room until 1948, and are now operating tourist cabins. As such, they have a large acquaintance of friends and customers in many states of the Union.

For many years, "Gib", as he is known to old and young, transported mail between the local postoffice and railway depot.

Mr. LaClair, 86, was born May 13, 1867 at Atwood, six miles west of Ellsworth, the son of Joseph and Mary Moblo LaClair. He is a former treasurer of Miles school district, which disbanded several years ago, when it consolidated with East Jordan schools.

Mrs. LaClair, 76, the former Hattie Willis, was born June 2, 1877, in Charlevoix county, the daughter of Henry and Lucretia Corwin Willis.

The couple has two sons, Henry of Missoula, Mont., and William of [illegible], two daughters, Mrs. Alberta Nowland of East Jordan and Mrs. James Addis of Monroe, nine grandchildren and one great granddaughter.

Merion Bests Are Given Surprise For Anniversary

Ellsworth — Mr. and Mrs. Merion Best were happily surprised [illegible] evening when neighbors and relatives gathered in the Howard Best home to help them celebrate their thirty-third anniversary of their wedding. The anniversary is really Christmas Eve but due to family gatherings at that time the guests decided to do it early.

A lovely lamp was presented to Mr. and Mrs. Best by the guests who included Mr. and Mrs. Howard Best, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Loss, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Hoffman, Mr. W. P. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Best, Mr. and Mrs. Minert Veenstra, Mr. and Mrs. John Burns and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Best.

A lunch of sandwiches, cake and ice cream and coffee was enjoyed at the close of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Best were married in Ellsworth Dec. 24, 1920 and are the parents of five sons, Bernard and Howard of Ellsworth, William of Selfridge A.F.B., Michigan, Robert in the A.F. in Africa; and John in the A.F. in Cloves, N. M. They also have four grandchildren.

Wedding Announced

Sunday, Dec. 20, was the wedding day of John Best of Ellsworth and Jo Ann Burch of Clovis, N. M. They were married in the Church of the Nazarene in Clovis.

They will leave there Dec. 26 for John's new base at Warner Robbins Ga. We hope to have more details later.

Fire Department Called

A chimney fire in the Roy Strange home Thursday evening necessitated calling the Ellsworth Fire Department, who responded promptly.

Carolers Sing

Carolers from the Ebenezer school were out singing to friends and neighbors last Thursday evening. On Saturday evening we also enjoyed some more carolers although we weren't in time to see who they were. We understand others will be about this week, so we'll be listening.

Viola Mae Andersen, James L. Pettis Speak Vows In Church Ceaemony

Viola Mae Andersen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Klaus Andersen, became the bride of James L. Pettis, Airman second class, U. S. Air Force, son of Mrs. Lillian Pettis of Grand Rapids and grandson of Mrs. Elizabeth Scramlin of Petoskey in a candlelight ceremony at the First Methodist church Saturday evening.

Baskets of multi-colored gladioli and mums, lighted tapers in candelabra and Christmas trees formed a setting for the double ring ceremony performed by the Rev. Lloyd M. Schloop and the Rev. Harold J. Evans of Petoskey.

Mrs. Charles Bellinger, organist, played a program of traditional music and the wedding marches and also accompanied the soloist, Mrs. E. D. Hawley, who sang, "O Promise Me" and "I love You Truly" preceding the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer' immediately following the ceremony as the couple knelt before the altar.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride selected a waltz length gown of white Chantilly lace over taffeta. It was styled with a fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, long Queen Elizabeth sleeves ruffled at the wrists and a hoop skirt. A tiara crown of seed pearls and gold beads secured her fingertip veil of illusion net. She also wore a strand of pearls, a family heirloom once worn by her late grandmother, Mrs. Anna Sorenson. She carried a small white Bible topped with a cascade arrangement of red sweetheart and pinocchio roses, white mums and ivy.

Mrs. Donald W. Brown of Detroit was her sisters only attendant. She wore a gown of blossom pink Chantilly lace over taffeta fashioned with a fitted bodice which buttoned to the waist with self-covered buttons, a Peter Pan collar, cap sleeves and a full skirt of nylon marquisette over taffeta. Her floral headdress matched her colonial bouquet of pink and yellow pompoms and trailing ivy.

Mr. Brown, brother-in-law of the bride, assisted the bridegroom as best man. Robert Dennis, Victor Cilke and Donald Kemp, all of Petoskey, and Cpl. Don Gill seated the more than 150 guests.

Mrs. Andersen chose a gown of powder blue nylon lace over taffeta with rhinestone trim, a powder blue hat and black accessories for her daughter's wedding. A corsage of bronze and white mums and coral pompoms complimented her costume. Mrs. Pettis, mother of the bridegroom, wore a winter white faille suit with black accents, black accessories and a corsage of bronze and yellow pompoms. Mrs. Scramlin, maternal grandmother of the bridegroom wore a navy crepe dress, navy accessories and a corsage of yellow mums and white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlor which was decorated in a Christmas motif. Pine branches and cones and lighted tapers and baskets of coral mums and gladioli decorated the room and tables. The bride's table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bridal couple under a wedding bell. Mrs. Melvin Plum, Mrs. C. O. Whitten and Mrs. Ingma Pontius presided at the refreshment table. Mrs. John Norton and Mrs. Robert Pearl assisted at the bride's table. The reception was in charge of the B. P. & M. circle of the Methodist church headed by Mrs. Carlton Ikens.

For traveling on their wedding trip to southern Michigan the bride wore a slate blue suit flecked with brown, a matching blue poodle cloth coat, brown accessories and a corsage of red roses and white pompoms. They will return here for Christmas and leave Dec. 27 for Omaha, Neb., where the bridegroom will be stationed at Offutt Air Force Base.

The bride is a graduate of the Charlevoix high school and has been employed at the Central Drug Store for three years. The bridegroom, a graduate of the Petoskey high school, returned recently from a year's duty in Korea with the U. S. Air Force.

Shirley Cunningham Becomes Bride Of Robert Mathers

The Community Church of God was the scene Saturday evening of the wedding of Shirley Cunningham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orlin V. Cunningham, and Robert Mathers of Flint, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mathers of Boyne City.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of white net and lace over satin. A Peter Pan collar topped the fitted bodice which was buttoned to the waist with self-covered buttons. Her chapel length veil fell from a seed pearl tiara and she carried a bridal bouquet of white pompoms and small Christmas ornaments centered with a red poinsettia.

Bonnie Jean Cunningham, cousin of the bride, as maid of honor wore a gown of turquoise net over taffeta with collar and cuffs of scalloped taffeta. Her bouquet was of yellow and white mums.

Sandra Cunningham, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore a gown of pink net and taffeta styled identically to the honor attendant's and carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations.

Jack Davis of Flint assisted the bridegroom as best man and James Matthews of Boyne City and Nathan Boss seated the more than 100 guests.

Mrs. Cunningham chose a gown of plum velvet and dusty pink accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Mathers wore a gown of lavender crepe and gray accessories. Each had a corsage of yellow and white mums interspersed with tiny Christmas ornaments.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at Fellowship hall with Mr. and Mrs. Alvin D. Cunningham as master and mistress of ceremonies.

Wedding guests attended from Midland, Flint, Boyne City and Petoskey.

The bride is a graduate of the Charlevoix high school and the Edward W. Sparrow Hospital School of Nursing in Lansing. Mr. Mathers, a graduate of the Boyne City high school, is a veteran of two years army service.

When you're shopping for treats for the Christmas snack bowl, remember pecans. They're in record high supply this year. You'll get about 1½ cups of pecan meats from a pound of pecans in the shell, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Three Local Churches Holding Special Watch Night Services

Candlelight watch night services will greet the New Year at three local churches tonight (Thursday).

Baptist Church

Members of the Baptist church and their friends will meet at the church beginning at 8 p.m. for a program of entertainment including games for all age groups followed by a lunch at 10:30 p.m. The program is being arranged by the Young People's class of the church and is planned for the entertainment of everyone.

A candlelight watch night service will be held beginning at 11 p.m. and will be concluded with a prayer service.

Community Church of God

A candlelight watch night service at the Community Church of God beginning at 11 p.m. will be preceded by an informal gathering at Fellowship hall from 9 to 11 p.m. A dessert lunch will be served during the evening.

Members and their friends will then go to the church for the watch night service from 11 p.m. to midnight.

Methodist Church

A candlelight covenant service will be observed on watch night at the Methodist church. The service which was first used in 1755 was written by John Wesley, the great early leader of Methodism. The service will begin at 11:30 p.m. and will conclude in the New Year with a candle lighting service at the altar of the church.

Preceding this service at 9 o'clock, colored slides of Michigan Methodism's special projects in Chile will be shown. These slides were prepared by Dr. Glenn Fry, Bishop Marshall Reed's assistant, who recently visited Chile with his wife. After the showing of the slides, the commission on missions, of which Mrs. Fred Southwood is the chairman, will serve refreshments in the parlor.

It will be possible to come at nine o'clock and spend the evening at the church, or to come at 11:30 p.m. for the worship service which will usher in the New Year.

St. Mary's Church

At St. Mary's Catholic church New Year's Day Masses will be held at 8 a.m. and 7 p.m.

No Contests Develop For Primary Vote

Little interest was shown in city politics this week as the deadline for filing petitions for the Feb. 15 primary election passed at 4 p.m. Monday with only incumbents filing for the various city offices.

Only office holder not filing for nomination was Hugh Mayne, who has served as city clerk for the past six years. However, since Monday he has re-considered and said Wednesday that he will seek re-election to the office in a 'sticker' campaign.

Other incumbents who filed and the offices they are seeking re-election to are: mayor, Dean Davenport; treasurer, Nelle A. Hammond; first ward supervisor, Drew Young; first ward alderman, James Hiller; second ward supervisor, Arthur Bergeon; second ward alderman, Hay L. Kipke; third ward supervisor, Clarence B. Meggison; third ward alderman, Thomas Carey.

The names of the above will appear on the ballot for the Feb. 15 primary election. Any other candidates for these offices and all candidates for the office of city clerk must run on 'slips'.

Adult Education Registration To Start January 4

Beginning Monday, Jan. 4, registration for the adult continuing education program will be accepted at the elementary school office, Supt. R. G. Bennett said this week in announcing plans for the popular winter program.

Persons interested in enrolling in the program are urged to do so at the earliest possible date so that classes may be started by mid-January, he continued.

It is the aim of the Charlevoix public school to offer classes in all subjects in which any group shows an interest. The school is prepared to open all its facilities including the enlarged manual arts department as well as the homemaking, art and commercial departments for any classes requested by the public.

It is important, however, that the residents of the community make their wants known by enrolling at once so the program can be arranged.

Further information can be obtained or registrations made by calling at the elementary school office or telephoning the office.

Dominic Gallagher Dies Following A Long Illness

Dominic Gallagher, 89, retired lighthouse keeper, died Thursday at the U. S. Marine Hospital in Chicago where he had been a patient for a month. He had been in failing health for several years.

The body was returned to Beaver Island where funeral services were held at Holy Cross church Tuesday with the Rev. Joseph Herp O.F.M. officiating. Burial was in Holy Cross cemetery.

A native of Beaver Island, Mr. Gallagher served as a lighthouse keeper at the Beaver Head lighthouse there from 1901 until he was retired about 15 years ago. His wife, the former Catherine Roddy, died in 1939. He had resided in Chicago with his only son, Andrew Gallagher, for the past three years.

Besides his son he is survived by a sister, Mrs. Dan Boyle of St. James, two brothers, Owen of Grand Haven and Peter of Grand Rapids and four grandchildren.

Growth Of Business In County For Past Six Years Is Listed

The business growth of Charlevoix county was underlined this week when the physical count of names of businesses listed in the November 1953 Reference book of Dun and Bradstreet was completed.

The count showed an increase of more than 10 per cent in the past six years, according to F. B. Harrison, Dun and Bradstreet's manager at Grand Rapids which covers this area.

The report revealed that in 1947 there were 234 rated businesses listed in the towns comprising Charlevoix county and the count of these same towns, in 1953 showed 259. Greatest growth was in Charlevoix which showed an 18 per cent increase.

Using the reference book listings as a guide, it is interesting to note the comparative growth of the number of enterprises in the three urban centers of the county. Charlevoix: 114 listings in 1953, 97 in 1947 or 18 per cent increase; East Jordan: 59 listings in 1953, 58 in 1947 or 2 percent increase; Boyne City: 86 listings in 1953, 79 in 1947 or 9 per cent increase.

The reference book lists commercial enterprises, manufacturers, wholesalers, retailers and other businesses, generally those buying regularly on credit. It does not include some services and professional establishments such as real estate brokers, barber and beauty shops, stock brokers, etc. Thus figures for all businesses in the county would be higher than the ones quoted above.

It was estimated that during 1953 about 72 changes would be made in the reference book listings of Charlevoix county con-

Edward N. Moore Dies Of Injuries In Car Accident

Edward N. Moore, 23, of Centerline, son of the late Walter J. Moore, died Monday at Mt. Clemens' St. Joseph Hospital from injuries received Sunday night in an automobile accident when his car left the road and struck a tree.

Funeral services will be held in Centerline Thursday.

Mr. Moore, who lived here for several months with his father in 1948, was discharged from the U. S. Army last spring after serving two years, most of which was spent in Europe.

He is survived by his wife, Velma, his mother and a brother and sister in Detroit and two half brothers and a half-sister of Charlevoix.

Rayders Will Meet Petoskey Here Saturday

The Varsity game will be preceded by a Reserve game at 7:15 p.m.

The series between the Class C Rayders and the Class B Petoskey squad dates back many seasons and has always been marked by close games with both teams 'up' for the traditional battles.

Last season each team won one game with the Rayders losing on the home floor after losing Bill Mosler with an ankle injury. On the return game at Petoskey Mosler came through in the closing seconds to score the winning buckets to even the series.

The same was true the year before when Petoskey won over the Rayders on their floor after Dean Boss suffered a fractured wrist. In the second game here the Rayders again evened the score in a game which saw the lead change numerous times before Charles Krahnke scored the winning basket seconds before the final whistle.

This game promises to be no different than the others in the series. Both teams will go onto the floor Saturday night intent on defeating its rival. The Class B aggregation will be headed by top scorers Bob Ance and Doug Pethl with Jim Donnelly, Tom Behan and Vic Kishigo, a former Harbor Springs player, rounding out the starting line-up. Coach Ace Zagraphos' Northmen have four wins in five starts including a victory over Class A Traverse City. Their one loss was by a one-point margin to Alpena.

Coach Del Terrill is expected to start Mark White and Dave Glassford at the forward positions, Gordon Mol at center and Bobo Bennett and Tom LaBlance in the guard slots.

The Rayders, leading the league with three wins in loop play have one non-loop loss to Grayling.

Board Announces Call For January

The Charlevoix county draft call for January has been increased to three men, Mrs. Cornelia Barber, clerk of the board, has announced.

The name of Neil R. Suomela, former resident now living in Saginaw, has been added to those of Larry D. Waggoner of Boyne City and Don J. Bennett of Ironton to fill the quota. They will leave Jan. 25 for induction into the army at the Detroit Induction center.

On Jan. 11 James L. Peck of East Jordan, Elwin D. Green of Boyne Falls and Merle W. Karlskin of Boyne City will report for transportation to Detroit for pre-induction physical examinations.

Eight men will be called in February for pre-induction physicals, Mrs. Barber said. No one will be called for induction

Recreation Will Be Planned At Meeting Tuesday

Plans for an adult recreation program will be made at a meeting called for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Jan. 5, Leonard Burns who will be in charge of the program has announced.

At this time, men interested in a program of volley or basketball are asked to meet at the high school gymnasium to plan the program.

An earlier meeting failed to bring out enough persons to warrant such a program, Mr. Burns said. If there is to be an adult recreation program this winter, it is imperative that some interest be shown at this time or plans to conduct such a program will be abandoned, he concluded.

Announce Totals In County Junior Red Cross Drive

The Charlevoix county Junior Red Cross drive conducted during the month of November raised $200.79 throughout the schools in the county, it was announced this week.

Of the total $36 was used to finance memberships, $50 was sent to the National Children's Fund and the remainder will be used in the county to pack overseas gift parcels and other Junior Red Cross projects.

The schools and the amounts raised in each follow: Charlevoix public schools, $88.50; St. Mary's school, $3.00, Norwood, $1.00; Murray, $1.20; East Jordan, $30.18; St James, $5.00; Melrose, $9.34, Boyne Falls, $2.35; North Bay, $1.00, Boyne City, $56.00; Chandler, $1.79; Horton's Bay, $1.50.

Quintets Split A Doubleheader

The Charlevoix Independents split a basketball double-header with the Petoskey Independents in the local gym Saturday night with the visitors winning the first game 66-55 and the local five coming back to take the nightcap 68-63.

In both line-ups were many former high school basketball stars who joined with the regular squads for the holiday games.

Hutchmough was top scorer in both games for Petoskey, scoring 15 points in each game. Davenport and Fairbanks shared honors for Charlevoix with the former scoring 15 points and the latter 14 in the two games.

The Independents will play again in the near future but at this time have no scheduled games.

Mrs. C. S. Hipp, 66 Former Resident Dies In Frankfort

News of the death of Mrs. Charles S. Hipp, 66, a former resident, at the Haven Hill Convalescent Home in Frankfort Nov. 6 has been received here.

Funeral services were held at the Bennett Funeral Home in Frankfort and burial was in Sunset Hill cemetery in East Jordan.

Born in Canada April 11, 1887, the former Sarah Dougherty came to Charlevoix as a child. She married to Mr. Hipp at East Jordan in 1900. Five years ago they moved to Frankfort to make their home. Mr Hipp died in 1953.

She is survived by a son, Charles D.; a daughter, Golden E.; a sister, Mrs. Helen Bruce, all of Frankfort and several grandchildren.

City Council Urges Sidewalks Be Clean

All local business places are urged to keep the sidewalks at their places of business cleaned of snow during the winter months, following a discussion of the matter at the regular meeting of the city council Monday night.

The council also approved bills totaling $10,493.04 and ordered them paid.

Annual Dimes March Will Get Underway In Charlevoix This Week

Pledging a 100 per cent support of the 1954 March of Dimes, Mayor Dean Davenport called upon the people of Charlevoix to open their hearts and give give generously to the fund as he proclaimed the month of January March of Dimes month.

In asking the people of the community to support the annual March of Dimes, Mayor Davenport said that 1954 may well be the turning point in the fight against polio. The National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis has embarked on an extensive testing program of the trial vaccine which may someday spare everyone the dread effects of the crippling disease.

The National Foundation is also expanding its program to include mass gamma globulin innoculations in 1954 in order to give every possible protection while awaiting the results of the vaccine tests. All this plus the cost of the care of victims of the disease is very expensive and for this reason it is imperative that everyone support the March of Dimes to the best of his ability.

Mrs. George Wolf has been named local chairman for the campaign in Charlevoix which will open this week with a 'blanket pitch' at the Charlevoix-Petoskey basketball game Saturday night.

Plans are also underway for the annual Mothers' March later this month. Ward chairmen for this event named by Mrs. Wolf include Mrs. Joseph McPhillips and Mrs. Charles Meier, north side; Mrs. Robert Lavingston, valley; Mrs. S. E. Coleman and Mrs. Louis Wallace, south side. Mr. and Mrs. William Hunebauch will again head the campaign outside the city.

There is no quota for this drive. However, Mrs. Wolf said that she hoped the results of the 1954 campaign would equal that of last year's drive when $2,135 including $141 contributed on Beaver Island was raised in the western section of the county. The total for the county was $5,664.93.

Mrs. Walter Davis of East Jordan, county chairman, said that only three cases of polio were reported in the county during 1953. However, the needs of 16 cases from other years which are being financed by the Fund made it necessary to request advances from the National Foundation during the year. An advance of $1,175 was received late last summer and in December an additional $500, only a part of the amount requested was forwarded because the epidemic fund was low and only that amount was available.

In asking the support of the community in the March of Dimes Mrs. Wolf said that "Your dimes and dollars provide the ammunition needed to gain an eventual victory in the fight against polio. I hope there will be no shortage of this ammunition in Charlevoix."

Samuel Marsh Is Given Sentence For Jail Escape

Samuel Marsh, 28, of Williamsburg, one of a trio who escaped from the Charlevoix county jail Nov. 14, was sentenced by Judge Charles L. Brown at a special term of circuit court here Monday.

Marsh, who had pleaded guilty to the charge, was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail in addition to the 40 days he has served to date and ordered to pay $70 costs and a $5.00 fine. In default of the payment, he will have to serve an additional 60 days in the county jail.

Edward Shensky, 18, of St Ignace and Charles North, 17, of Charlevoix, who with Marsh were serving ten day sentences for stealing gasoline at the time of the jail break have been transferred to Grand Traverse county where they were charged with stealing a car. They pleaded guilty to both charges and will be sentenced at a later date.

Remind Aliens About Annual Address List

Every alien in the United States on Jan. 1 must report his residence address to the commissioner of immigration and naturalization during the month of January, 1954, Edward J. Duggan, acting director of the immigration and naturalization service in Detroit, has announced.

Reports of aliens under 14 years of age must be made by parents or legal guardians. Any alien who is temporarily absent from the United States during the month-long reporting period must report his address within 10 days after his return to this country.

This requirement was first provided for by the Internal Security Act of 1950 and has been incorporated in the Immigration and Nationality Act which became effective on Dec. 24, 1952. It requires that the address report be made every year in January and further provides that any alien or his parent or legal guardian in the United States who wilfully or inexcusably fails to report is liable to be taken into custody and deported.

The annual address report card (Form I-53) on which the address must be submitted, may be obtained at any post office or any immigration and naturalization service office.

The card must be completely filled out giving full name, residence address, alien registration number, date and place of birth and the date and port of entry into the U. S. When completed the card must be handed to a clerk in any post office or immigration and naturalization service office. It is not to be placed in the mail.

The only aliens in the U. S. who are exempted from submitting the annual address report form are Canadian citizens who are temporarily visiting the United States for less than six months and citizens of other countries who are temporarily in the country for less than 30 days.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

CHRISTMAS 1953 is now a thing of the past but the memories are still there . . . We hope they're all happy ones for you and that Santa left you all the things you wanted and more too . . . We know we fared better than any one person has a right to in the way of gifts as well as cards (which we dearly love) and we'd like to say a million thanks to everyone who sent a greeting

We heard of a lot of wonderful Christmas gifts over the weekend but the one that heads the list in our book was left at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Clement . . . As you know, Gordon has been a paraplegic since he was injured in an auto accident six years ago last October . . . And because of the seriousness of his injury has been unable to do much of anything and therefore has lost interest in things . . . Last week an anonymous 'Saint' gave him a television set for Christmas . . . Unless you've been confined with nothing to see but four walls you can never, never upnderstand what this gift means . . . We think you will agree that it's just about the nicest thing we heard this holiday season . . . It's one of those things that renews one's faith in his fellowmen . . . And, Gordon, we couldn't think of a nicer guy to have this happen to . . .

WITH THE Rose Bowl game on Friday, everyone's crossing their fingers that TV reception, which isn't always at its best around here, will be extra good so they can see Michigan State and UCLA battle it out late Friday afternoon . . . We've heard of several TV parties and we think that's pretty nice of those people who have sets to share them . . .

And that game . . . never has there been a Rose Bowl game that Charlevoix was as interested in . . . We're sure Coach Biggie Munn and his coaching staff know that they have the good wishes and the backing of all of northern Michigan when the Spartans trot onto the green turf of the Rose Bowl come Friday . . Wouldn't it be fun to be there for the festivities? . . . Well, we can dream, can't we . . .

AND SPEAKING of the Rose Bowl, wasn't it a grand gesture on the part of the people of Cadillac to send Coach Hi Becker and his wife to the big game . . . It must be a great thrill for him to see one of his boys, Bill Zagers, make the grade . . .

HOW ABOUT that Detroit Lions-Cleveland Browns game on Sunday . . . A few more games like that one and we'll have to call a halt . . . The Lions sure pulled that one out of the fire at the last minute . . . Wouldn't have wanted to be in Doak Walker's place when he kicked that extra point . . . There sure was plenty riding on the toe of that football shoe . . . Despite the fact that we're also in the midst of the basketball season, football's still our first love and we'll sure be hearing plenty this week . . .

WE MUST mention one more thing about Christmas before the holiday season is over . . . the carolers. There were a number of groups out singing the familiar carols . . . and there's nothing more beautiful . . . Can't imagine carols being sung where one can't go caroling in the snow, can you? . . . There were Girl Scouts, church groups and just people who liked to sing and they were all wonderful . . . Thanks for singing under our window . . .

ED ALLEN called the other day to ask if robins in December were news . . . It happened to be in the middle of a snow storm and we said yes . . . So he told us about the robin he'd seen hop out of his hedge that morning and fly to the mountain ash tree for something to eat . . . He said he couldn't believe his eyes at first but after watching it awhile, he knew it was really that well-known harbinger of spring which had arrived early or was staying late . . . He decided, however, that the bird had decided to remain for the winter because of a crippled leg and foot which made it hard for him to hold himself to the branch of a tree . . . So, if you see a robin in your neighborhood, give the poor guy a hand-out . . .

AND speaking of birds, reminds us of the bird cage we saw the other day . . . Mrs. Edwin Mann stopped by with the cutest little bird-cage we'd ever seen . . . it was all of three inches high and was held by a little frame . . . In it was a little bird and in the center a round thing that looked a bit like a sun dial . . . imagine our surprise when we found it was a miniature clock which actually told time . . it was sent to her from Japan by her husband who is serving in Korea . . . Gee, what they won't think up next . . .

WE'VE always had a little sympathy for people who have birthdays at Christmas time . . . We'd like to mention two people who have the good fortune or misfortune . . . however you look at it . . . to have anniversaries on Dec. 25 . . . They're Christ 'Pop' Drost and J. C. Marshall . . there are probably others but those are the only ones we know about . . .

HAVE YOU noticed the advertisements in your big newspapers since Christmas . . . Hardly was the holiday over than they started showing bathing suits, sun dresses cruise clothes and anything you'd like to mention that's definitely not for use in this northern clime at this particular time . . . We suppose there are people who buy them and go south to wear them but gee, how many out of all the thousand readers make the trip . . . We have always thought it a little screwy like fur sales in August . . .

OUR LITTLE ole Magic Leaf made at Paul-Reed's here sure does get around . . . Mrs. Maurice Foster stopped in at the office one day last week to say she heard it offered as a prize on "Queen for a Day" and in a recent magazine it is recommended as one of the better silver cleaners . . . Glad we have such a reputable product being made right here . . .

OUR basketball team will go into the last two months of their cage sked this week . . . And it's going to be a toughie against that old rival, Petoskey . . . We'd like to wish the Rayders luck against Ace Zagraphos' outfit as well as the remainder of the season . . . It's going to be a long, tough haul but we think they have what it takes . . .

COACH Gayle Saxton, home from southern Michigan where he spent the Christmas weekend, was telling us about the surprise he received while watching TV . . . He was watching a sportscast when he spotted someone he was sure he knew and sure 'nuff . . . there was Danny Devine, former coach at East Jordan and present freshman coach at Michigan State . . . He was introduced and then went about presenting the other members of the coaching staff with the exception of Mr. Football himself, of course we mean Biggie Munn . . . He then introduced the members of the Spartan squad who will meet UCLA Friday . . . It's quite a thrill to see someone you know on TV . . . 'specially when you aren't expecting to . . .

DO YOU have that long list of New Year's resolutions made out? . . . You'd better hurry . . . you only have a few hours left to think about how good you're going to be next year . . . A whole, new, beautiful year as yet unmarred . . . What are you going to do with yours? . . . You'd better give it some serious thought before you start tossing away those precious days . . . Our wish for you is that you'll find something worthwhile to do with each and everyone of them . . . all 365 of 'em . . . And that in the next 12 months you will find whatever you are seeking . . . what ever you wish for . . . Looking back on '53, it's been quite a year . . . It's brought its joys and sorrows but as years go it's been a pretty good one . . . Let's pray that '54 will be a little better . . . that the world will continue to know peace and that the shadow of war will disappear entirely . . . May you know every joy, success and happiness that you desire is our New Year's wish for you . . .

GREETINGS

In appreciation of your confidence the past year and for the many seasonal greetings received from so many of you, I sincerely thank you. For the year ahead I earnestly wish a most prosperous time for all our citizens.

County Teachers Are Now Elegible For Fellowships

High school teachers in Charlevoix county will be elegible for the first time for fellowships offered by the Fund for the Advancement of Educotion. Charles A. Robinson, Charlevoix county superintendent of schools, said this week in announcing the plans far the fellowships.

The program of fellowships to approximately 300 public secondary school teachers for the academic year of 1954-55 will be made available for the first time following a two-year program conducted on an experimental basis and limited to a selected number of school systems. As a result of the experience achieved during the trial period, the national committee on High School Teacher Fellawships now believes that all teachers in public secondary school systems should have an opportunity to compete for the fellowships.

Properly constituted local committees may nominate from one to six candidates depending upon the population of the area served by the school. From the total number of candidates from throughout the country whose nomes are submitted, the national committee will select the 300 lucky teachers. The types of activities which the teachers may choose to develop a year's activities are almost limitless though there are a few basic regulations. In short, Mr. Robinson said, the teacher should plan the most stimulating year he can conceive in behalf of his personal enrichment as a teacher.

To be elegible each nominee must have taught at least three years and have devoted at least half time to classroom teaching in a public secondary school. He must not have passed 50 years of age at the time of announcement of fellowship awards April 15, 1954. Persons who have been previous recipients of fund fellowships are not eligible.

'Lost Man' Found When Local Scouts Take Up Search

If you had had the misfortune to be lost or disabled while in the woods along Lake Michigan between Carpenter ave. and McGeagh's Creek last week, you stood a nearly sure-fire chance of being found by the Explorer Scouts who were in the area perfecting their 'lost man' technique.

The Scouts lined up at intervals along Carpenter ave., called out their numbers and were off . . . one boy running a compass line and the others guiding on him.

The search was for a certain marked track found after a mile of brush pounding where it was a fox and hounds chase on a rough course laid out by Ted Miller, explorer advisor. The 'lost man' in this case was a stuffed one found propped against a stump near McGeagh's Creek.

Around a camp-fire and over hot food the boys figured they now knew a lot about lost-man hunting.

Cynthia Smith's blond loveliness was even more so, contrasted with a scalloped black velvet bodice over a slimly pleated dusty rose skirt spattered with black sequin butterflies.

Poodle cropped Elaine Poole looked smart in a simple, but sweet, winter white faille . . . and Patsy Hatigan in stunning plaid taffeta, her boisterous skirt unexpectedly trimmed with black fringe.

Charming Gail Krahnke wore a full-skirted silver grey halter dress . . . and Anna Pontious an adorable pencil striped taffeta with the very fullest and perkiest stand-up collar, ever, ever.

Harriet Hooker looked like a fragile paper doll in pink with her tight bodice accenting a bouffante skirt.

Another lovely was Karen Smith in separates consisting of a scoop-necked white cashmere sweater and en honest-to-goodness Christmas skirt, bronse and full, with the hem tucked up into clusters of colored baubles . . . and another, Naomi Drost wearing a stylish greyish coat dress.

"AULD ACQUAINTANCE" ARE NE'ER FORGOT

Mid the cheers that herald the arrival of the New Year — we dwell on the words of the traditional song of the holiday — "Should auld acquaintance be forgot . . ." for they bring to mind the warm friendships of our neighbors and patrons. And as the old year yields to the new, we salute these "auld acquaintances" who ne'er forgot will be. Rather, we shall remember them in the best way we know how: by serving them to the best of our professional capacity in 1954 — and in the years that follow. To them go our sincere wish for a healthy, happy, and prosperous New Year.

How They Stay Alive

What are Lake Charlevoix bass doing, now that winter has come? How do they manage to stay alive? The chilled air has killed many of their favorite insects and has sent others into hiding in sheltered nooks. Aquatic insects are less active than at any other time of the year. Other fishes upon which they feed are semi-dormant and hard to find. Fish, like all other living things, must eat if they are to live. How, then, does the largemouth black bass stay alive in winter?

In the first place, his food requirements are fewer in winter-time. The bass and many other fresh water fish in the northern region pass the winter in torpor, their functions becoming slow and sluggish. They swim more slowly than usual; their breathing is less frequent. All their activities are lessened so that they consume less energy and hence require less food.

But even resting creatures need fuel to keep alive. Plants do. Looking toward winter, they store it [illegible] red radishes in their roots and [illegible] in their stems and branches. Mammals do. The woodchuck grows so fat in early fall that he can hardly waddle to his cozy root-lined bedroom under an old pine stump. All winter long he lives off the pantry of his own flesh. Fishes, too, need fuel for their bodies even when heavy with drowsiness. Before winter comes the largemouth black bass stuffs himself to the gills with minnows, insects, and crayfish so that, when food is scarce he can remain alive by living off his own flesh.

In a somewhat similar manner a wise person prepares for life's wintry experiences, the times of scarcity. When no crises seem near and life is radiant and good, he lays up rich experiences, feeding hungrily on fellowship with friends of earth and the Friend of heaven, devouring great thoughts from books and from the Book of all books, nourishing the spirit by exposure to the beauty in music, in art, in people, in nature, and in worship. Whenever and wherever he can, the thoughtful person fattens his soul with the good things of life so that in lean and sparse days he can stay spiritually alive.

Memories serve as stored nourishment. (If our memories harbor grudges, snubs, hurts, and hatreds, they will store poison too!) When filled with pleasant fare they are handy portable pantries from which on bitter, empty days we draw our sustenance. Admiral Richard Byrd relates how, in the darkness of the long winter night at "Little America" near the South Pole, he found relief and comfort by recalling the lovely greens and reds, the beautiful purples and delicate lavenders on which his eyes had feasted in the fields and gardens of home. Then his mind would project these mental images against the contrasting unbroken miles of monotonous white of the Antarctic. His stored up memories helped keep his soul alive.

When trouble comes like a chill blast and our days are filled with a great bleakness and a gnawing hunger, our spiritual fitness will depend upon the richness of our memories. Is yours well stocked?

Ask Motorists To Buy Their Plates Early

"Purchase your 1954 Water Wonderland license plates early" was the plea issued recently by Secretary of State Owen J. Cleary through Fenton R. Bulow, branch manager of tho license plate bureau here.

All car owners are urged to purchase plates at the earliest possible date in order to prevent a back-log in the Lansing office of the secretary of state which handles not only license plates but auto registrations, motor vehicle operations, registration of driver's licenses, motor fuel collections and other things related to vehicle and vehicle operations.

The local office which Mr. Bulow manages is rarely so busy that applicants must wait in line but the Lansing office must serve all of Michigan's 83 counties so late buyers create a bad situation by overloading the Lansing office by last minute purchases.

With a little thoughtfulness on the part of auto owners this could be avoided, Mr. Cleary said in making the request.

Then, too, if you are planning a winter motor trip, the new plates will give you an opportunity to publicize your state with the new Water Wonderland plates.

In an effort to step up the purchase of plntes, Mr. Bulow said this week that he would be glad to open the branch office at any reasonable time for those persons who are unable to purchase plates during regular offices hours.

Local Police Co-Operate In Safety Drive

Police Chief Clarence Heise today called upon all motorists to make a special effort between Christmas and New Years to co-operate with the holiday traffic safety program aimed at reducing driving accidents.

"It is only natural that our department should make a special effort to apprehend drunk drivers during a time of the year when there are a great many more celebrations than at any other time," the Chief said. "Our department has made every effort to warn persons who drive after drinking that to become drunk and then drive is considered the most heinous traffic offense because of the complete innocense of so many motorists and pedestrians who are run down by drunk drivers. We have used posters, table tents and radio messages. And, the newspapers have given us splendid cooperation, all to warn motorists that 'Drunk Drivers Go To Jail' and that drunk drivers lose their licenses," the Chief added.

Today's traffic has become so rapid and so complex that a point has been reached where making special arrangements to get to and from a holiday celebration is an important traffic safety plan.

Post Office No Longer To Sell Savings Bonds

Effective Jan. 1, the sale of United States Savings bonds will be transferred from the post office to banks serving the community, Peter H. Timmer, local postmaster, has announced.

This is being done so that the treasury department can use established financial institutions in a more intensive bond sales program.

The post office will continue to sell United States savings stamps, however, Mr Timmer said.

Local banks have long made this service available to anyone without charge and will continue to serve the bond-buying needs of the community regardless of whether or not you have an account.

In Charlevoix, the Charlevoix County State Bank and the Charlevoix State Savings Bank will now handle the bond sales.

If your child's feet are particularly sensitive, he may not be able to wear water-proofed shoes. A doctor has said that shoes of this type should be treated as overshoes, that a child should take off water-proofed shoes and change to others when he is indoors. Otherwise, the perspiration is allowed to accumulate and the feet become more and more tender and sensitive, explains Lola Belle Green, extension clothing specialist at Michigan State college.

Resort Owners, Operators To Meet In March

Plans are being laid at Michigan State college to help along one of the Great Lakes' areas biggest industries — the tourist and resort business.

The second annual Resort and Motel Institute, modeled on last year's event, will be at the campus Kellogg Center on March 3-5. Frank Suggitt, head of the M.S.C. department of land and water conservation, has announced that resort, restaurant and motel operators are working with college staff members on the plans.

Guiding the program will be members of the Tourist and Resort service, part of Suggitt's department. They will include Miss Gladys Knight, Clare A. Gunn and Robert W. McIntosh, specialists in food service, resort facilities and resort management, respectively.

New topics as well as those of perennial interest to managers and future operators of resorts, motels, resort restaurants, cabins and cottages will be discussed.

Success of last year's institute was due largely to active resort operators participating in the program, notes Suggitt. This year, again, operators will present their experienced advice in panel discussions. Qualified persons in specialized fields will speak.

Programs of the Institute, and other information, such as housing will be available by writing to Resort and Motel Institute, Kellogg Center, Michigan State college, East Lansing.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

ARE WE glad that New Year's weekend is over . . . Couldn't take many days like those . . . What with Michigan State giving us a scare on Friday and the Rayders not doing any better on Saturday night . . . Wow . . . Wasn't that a game in the Rose Bowl Friday? . . . During that first half we would have denied ever hearing of State but they sure came back in the second to make up for it . . . We'll bet every coach east of Pasadena is wondering what Coach Munn's magic words were . . . We'd sure like to know . . . If Coach Munn is to retire as everyone but the college says and take over the duties of thletic director then this was a truly fitting climax to an illustrious and colorful career . .

AND ON Saturday night the Rayders played a tough one with Petoskey . . . And if you don't think it was close, the lead changed 16 times during the game and the score was tied ten different times . . . It's hard on the blood pressure, believe me, and worse on the nerves . . . Must speak to those lads so the score won't be so close . . . And of course the win over Petoskey carries more than just the 'win' . . . the two schools have been rivals since time immemorial and we can't imagine it being any different . . Wouldn't it be dull if the rivalry should cease . . . Heaven forbid.

The Rayders are about to launch the second part of their schedule . . . or rather the 1954 section of it . . . so lots of luck, fellas . . . and please, let's have a little bigger point spread . . .

And speaking of snow, wasn't it beautiful Sunday with temperatures hovering at the freezing point and the sun shining ever so bright . . . It must have been a grand day at Boyne Mountain . . . With so little snow here, we've been concerned about the ski resort but it seems it's been perfect for skiing and crowds and crowds have been enjoying the super facilities of the lodge . . .

WITH ALL the spanking-new cars on the market, have you been able to select which one you want . . . You notice we didn't say 'buy' . . . But they're all so beautiful and the sales-pitches equally as lovely, that we just don't know how anyone could ever make a choice. We do agree, however, that they're mighty nice to look at . . . all of 'em . . .

WASN'T IT grand seeing all the servicemen around for the holidays . . . just scads of 'em made it home for one of the two major holidays and we hear had themselves quite a time just by being with their families and with friends . . . And having had one or more of our six brothers in the services for seven of the past 11 Christmases, we appreciate too how families feel about having their servicemen home . . Speaking from experience we can only say . . . It's mighty nice . . . Let's just pray that a time will come when those guys of ours won't have to be in the services unless they want to . . .

THERE ARE many calendars around, we'll agree, with everything from rural scenes to pin-up gals . . . take your pick . . . but we received two this year that are very unusual and we like so much . . . One was sent to us by Mrs. Trina Nelson who received it from a relative in Norway . . . Each month has a colored picture taken in or near Bergen and such lovely pictures you"ve never seen . . . We shall enjoy turning the pages of this calendar . . . The second was sent from England by a family our brother knew when he was stationed there with the Air Force during World War II . . . It's a picture of a typical English cottage done in the most unusual manner . . . we won't even attempt to describe it . . . And if we don't know what day in the month it is, it can't be blamed on our friends . . .

LOTS of mail . . . dozens and dozens of Christmas cards which we are enjoying again now that the holiday rush is over and among them a few from around the world including those from Gene Gillispie and Charles Rose in Korea; Vane Smith in Japan; Warren Shadko, Bill Wallace, Jim Roberts, the Bob Vrataninas, and Junior Potter in Germany; Colleen and Byron Wright in England; Marie and Jonesy Webb in French Morocco; the Bob Ashdons in Peurto Rico and from Hong Kong a greeting from an English soldier who my brother Jim knew as a youngster when he was stationed in England during World War II . . . How times have changed . . . Even ten years ago mail from such places would be unheard of and today it's taken for granted . . . This changing world . . .

AND FROM right here in our little ole U.S.A., a note from the gypsies, the Charlie Martinis, who were in southern California when they wrote and were contemplating a trip into Mexico . . . They left early last fall for a trip west and have visited among other places the Pacific states . . . And also from California a card from the Ray Seymours who are visiting their son-in-law and daughter, the Fred Youngs at San Clemento . . . they're having a grand time and the weather has been perfect . . . And from the east coast, a note from Winfield Enirey who sends a greeting to all his friends from Lowell, Mass., and asks that anyone visiting out that way call on him . . .

A NOTE too from our old friend, Dr. P. G. Holden, who now lives in East Lansing . . . You'll remember him as the 'corn man' . . . he told us of his trip to Iowa recently to help celebrate an event in which he played a major role a half century ago . . . the fiftieth anniversary of the Extension service which was observed at Hull where the idea was born . . . It was quite an event with the governor of Iowa, Congressmen and other nobilities from the midwest gathered for the celebration which was televised under the heading of "Today's Story" . . . Enroute home he visited at Ames where he once taught at the college . . . Quite a trip for a man in his mid-eighties . . . but then, Dr. Holden's quite a wonderful person . . . This was truly a fitting recognition for the years he devoted to agriculture . .

IS IT OUR imagination or are the days really getting longer . . you wouldn't think that it would be noticable in such a short time but Sunday was sure a long day . . . And it won't be long before it's spring . . . Now that thought should carry you right through the next two and a half months.

Dear Editor:

Have you ever thought of dogs as tax payers? Statistics prove there are millons of dogs in this country of which 3,000,000 are licensed. Averaging $2 per fee, this totals $6,000,000 contributed yearly to the national wealth by our canine population.

It is estimated that 2,000,000 are registered animals (the AKC registers over 75,000 yearly) of which some become champions worth many hundreds of dollars. This "kennel business", of raising pure bred dogs, helps support the farm program through the dogs eatments to the figure of $75,000,000 and this is not a guess.

Yet any dog in Charlevoix county, yours, mine, mongrel or pedigreed is constantly subject to various forms of cruelty unless he is on a leash or under the control of his master.

In my township there is an established fund from which a farmer may be reimbursed losses suffered by dogs. This fund is raised through "dog taxes" but it in no way protects the dog who run be shot by anyone if he is wondering alone.

I wrote this from experience for I am still advertising for my two valuable AKC registered Dalmatians who broke out of their kennel Dec. 26 and have not been seen since. In spite of a wide-spread gossip that they were shot for killing three chickens, I hope they were not.

Regardless of the fact that the male was a Christmas gift to breed in January and that there will be no "spring puppies" in my kennel, I hold no ill will toward the person who may have destroyed the dogs upon provocation. I do hope that if they are dead someone can soon confirm the fact so I no longer fear they are at large roaming hungry and homeless thoughout the countryside in this bitter cold weather.

My anxiety for the welfare of my own dogs has brought to mind how little there is being done about Charlevoix county's "problem dogs", how little can be done until we begin a Humane Educational Program that will result in establishing a Charlevoix county Humane Society. We need a deputy worden and a shelter badly I ame informed, hy reliable badly I am informed, by reliable this time to enlist your support of such a project and invite any responsible individual interested in protecting our dogs and other animals to call me and discuss the matter.

I would gladly donate unlimited time and energy to further the program, do you agree that now is a good time to begin?

Tax Cuts Will List Economic Theories

The Eisenhower administration's program of tax and appropriation cuts will provide a laboratory test of a point economists have been making for years, according to a Michigan State college monetary authority.

This point is that "tax cuts can be as effective as government spending in maintaining a high level of economic activity," said Dr. Richard W. Lindholm, professor of economics at M.S.C.

Lower income taxes and lower taxes on profits, Dr. Lindholm pointed out, will stimulate investment expenditures in two ways. First, lower income taxes will give consumers a large disposable income (that is, what they have left after taxes) to spend on goods and service. This, he said, will be a consumer push to investment, too.

Secondly, lower income and profit taxes will increase investment expenditures by making practical investments that could not have been undertaken before the tax cut.

The '54 BUICK 's got it –
The BIG CHANGE you've been hoping for!

Exemplar of the 1954 Buick's years-from-now styling is this stunning new Super Riviera

THE instant you see these 1954 Buicks, you'll know that something sensational has happened in automobile styling.

Here is vastly more than the usual model changeover. Here is vastly more than could be done just by warming over what Buick had before. Here is something accomplished by going far beyond artful face-lifting.

But Buick didn't stop with the bolder, fresher, swifter-lined beauty you see in raised and lengthened fender sweep—in the huge and back-swept expanse of windshield—in the lowered roofline—in the host more glamor features of exterior modernity.

They upped all horsepowers to the highest in Buick history.

They engineered a new V8 for the SPECIAL—and in the process came up with new Power-Head Pistons that boost gasoline mileage in every engine.

BUICK

the beautiful buy

They brought to market a sparkling newcomer with a famous name, the Buick CENTURY—a car with phenomenal horsepower for its weight and price—a car with more pure thrill per dollar than any Buick ever built.

And they did all this without change of the price structure which, for years, has made Buick the most popular car at its price in the world.

We invite you to come in and inspect these great beauties, these great performers, these great buys. Then you'll see why the Detroit previewers are already saying, "Buick's the beautiful buy!"

Jack Schantz Is Jailed To Await Action By Court

Jack Schantz, 23, is in the Emmet county jail at Petoskey on $500 bond waiting action in circuit court on a charge of driving away a motor vehicle.

He allegedly hid in the back of a car owned by Basil Thompson, co-owner of the Airport Bar here, rode home from Charlevoix with him early New Year's Day, then entered the Thompson home in Petoskey, took $22 including a new $20 bill from Mrs. Thompson's purse and then drove off with the Thompsons' car.

He deserted the car after stalling it in a snowbank on the Greenwood cemetery road and hitch-hiked to Charlevoix.

He was picked up later in the day when he passed the new $20 bill at the Airport Bar and it was recognized by the serial number. Petoskey police made the arrest after Schantz was questioned by local police.

If you buy beef by grades you'll save on the meat bill, advise home economists at Michigan State college. Beef from the lower grades is wearing attractive price tags right now, and it is plentiful. These lower grades are the ones you'll use in stews, pot roasts and casserole dishes.

The fellow who is never happy unless he's miserable is among the first to climb on the propaganda train of a defeated political party and shout about the hardtimes acomin'.

Thank You

To the persons who gave me the T.V. I wish to express my heartfelt thanks. Words alone can not express my gratitude and pleasure. Gordon Clement. 2c

IT HAPPENED ON ....

BEAVER ISLAND

By Loyola Malloy

Andrew Gallagher and Jack Boyle of Chicago accompanied the body of Dominic Gallagher here for burial. He was buried last Tuesday.

Mrs. Ray Obsorne spent a few hours on the Island Saturday visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gillispie and other relatives.

I would like to correct a mistake in last weeks news. Mrs. John Martin did not return to Holly with her son, Billy, but is spending a little more time on the Island.

Glen McCafferty, a sailor on the Lakes, returned to the Island last Thursday to spend the winter.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams remembered a few of his Island friends with an autographed map of Michigan ash trays for Christmas.

The Island is covered with a nice white blanket of snow. We had hardly any snow up until Christmas but since then we have made up for it.

Checking Bleaches Advisable

When you buy a powdered household bleach these days, be sure to check whether it is a mild bleach or a strong one before you use it. Until recently, the only powdered bleach available was a mild one made of sodium perborate. A newer, dry calcium hypochlorite bleach is now available for heavy-duty work. Don't confuse the two, warn clothing specialists at Michigan State college. While each kind has its place either one will make you unhappy if you use it for the wrong fabrics.

Michigan Mirror

by Gene Alleman

"POSSIBLE financial disaster" is in store for Michigan unless present sales tax diversion provisions are changed, says Rep. Rollo G. Conlin, Lenawee Republican.

He expects to present a proposal to the Legislature, which meets Jan. 13, to remove the risk. It will be an amendment to the Constitution. To become law, it must first be approved by the legislature and ratified in the next election by the people of the state.

Always complicated, state financial problems are difficult to understand; even more difficult to explain to others. People directly effected are likely to oppose change on general principles, unless there is no question that they will benefit.

Many people are effected in the case of sales tax diversion and much is at stake.

Sales tax income is big money. In the fiscal year ending in June, 1953, the sales tax pie amounted to nearly $262 million. It is sliced into several sections. Under present law, one half must be returned to local governments. This is alloted on a per capita basis.

Another half penny of each three goes to school districts. An additional amount is also set aside for schools as computed by an involved formula. The formula requires that 44.77% of sales tax returns go to schools.

TIME could be the villain in this system.

Under present law, legislatures must appropriate the coming year's funds based on last year's returns . . . permiting a two year lag.

"What would happen if a sudden recession caused sales to drop off substantially with a resulting reduction in money collected?" asks Rep. Conlin. "The legislature might be forced by law to pay an amount based on figures from a good year but with income from poor year. It is even possible that the law would require a payment larger than the total amount of the sales tax collected."

Solution is designed by Conlin to forestall the danger rather than change the amounts of money now alotted to local units.

He proposed a flat two cents of every three collected to be earmarked for schools. Local cities and townships would receive (as they do now) one-half of the remaining penny, minus collection costs. The other half cent would go to the state treasury.

This changes the present breakdown only slightly. Schools gain a little percentage wise but things even up when another provision is considered: The legislature now makes a separate appropriation for teacher pensions. Conlin's plan shifts this responsibility to the school systems.

Current returns will be used as a basis for division; not figures from a previous year. This, according to Rep. Conlin, puts the entire program on sounder ground and reduces the possibility of financial havoc brought about by its own laws.

Announce Series Of Meetings To Help Farmers With Ag Conservation Program

Due to the limited attendance at the evening meetings held in December for the purpose of acquainting farmers with the objectives of the 1954 ACP program and to enable them to request cost-sharing for the practices they particularly need on their farms we have scheduled a new series of meetings to be held throughout Charlevoix county this week. Please plan to attend one of these meetings if you have not already signed up under the 1954 ACP program.

DeNise Gas Station, Boyne Falls, Jan. 8, 1:30 to 4:00; Farmer's Union hall, Wilson Township, Jan. 7, 1:30 to 4:00; Hayes Township hall, Jan. 7, 1:30 to 4:00; Norwood Township hall, Jan. 8, 9.30 to 12:00; Barnard Grange hall, Jan. 8, 1:30 to 4:30. East Jordan City hall, Jan. 8, 1:30 to 4:30.

Since the deadline for requesting cost-sharing for practices under the 1954 ACP program is January 10, 1954 it is important that you attend one of these meetings. Community and county committeemen will be present to assist you in filling out the necessary forms.

Persistance Wins For Phyllis Curtis

The pretty 20-year-old farm girl won the top award of the show after [illegible] good but unsuccessful tries in previous years. Her "Little Joe," a sleek jet-black Angus calf was picked by Judge William Van Arsdell as the outstanding beef animal of the show. Hamady Brothers Market of Flint paid $4.50 a pound for the animal, or a total of $5,080. The money will help Miss Curtis realize an ambition to attend Michigan State college.

Time For Change

After the heavy desserts of the holiday season, it is time to make them light and simple. Vary that gelatin dessert by using grape juice instead of water, suggests Dr. Elizabeth Osman of Michigan State college's foods and nutrition department. Ginger ale, used in place of water, is another way of adding zip to molded salads. It is particularly good with pears, peach or apricot combinations.

Fishermen Warned Of Thin Ice Hazard

They advise giving cold weather enough time to harden the ice to a point of safety.

To date, only very limited use of ice has been made in northern areas of the state, generally mild weather continues to make lakes treacherous.

Offer New Bulletin To Assist Farmers With Income Tax

The bulletin, 1953 Farmer's Income Tax, was prepared by agricultural economists from Wisconsin, Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The bulletin, approved by the Internal Revenue Service, may be obtained also from the Bulletin Office Department of Information Services, Michigan State college.

Every person grossing $600 or more annually must file a return, even though no tax may be due.

The bulletin covers how, where and when to file returns and pay income taxes, what forms are needed, reporting for cash and accrual systems of accounting, figuring depreciation, improvements, capital gains and losses, equipment and livestock purchase and sale and refunds.

It carries examples of capital gain and loss computations, timber sales, development costs, farm sales and many special items. These include handling of Commodity Credit corporation loans and losses from storms and casualties.

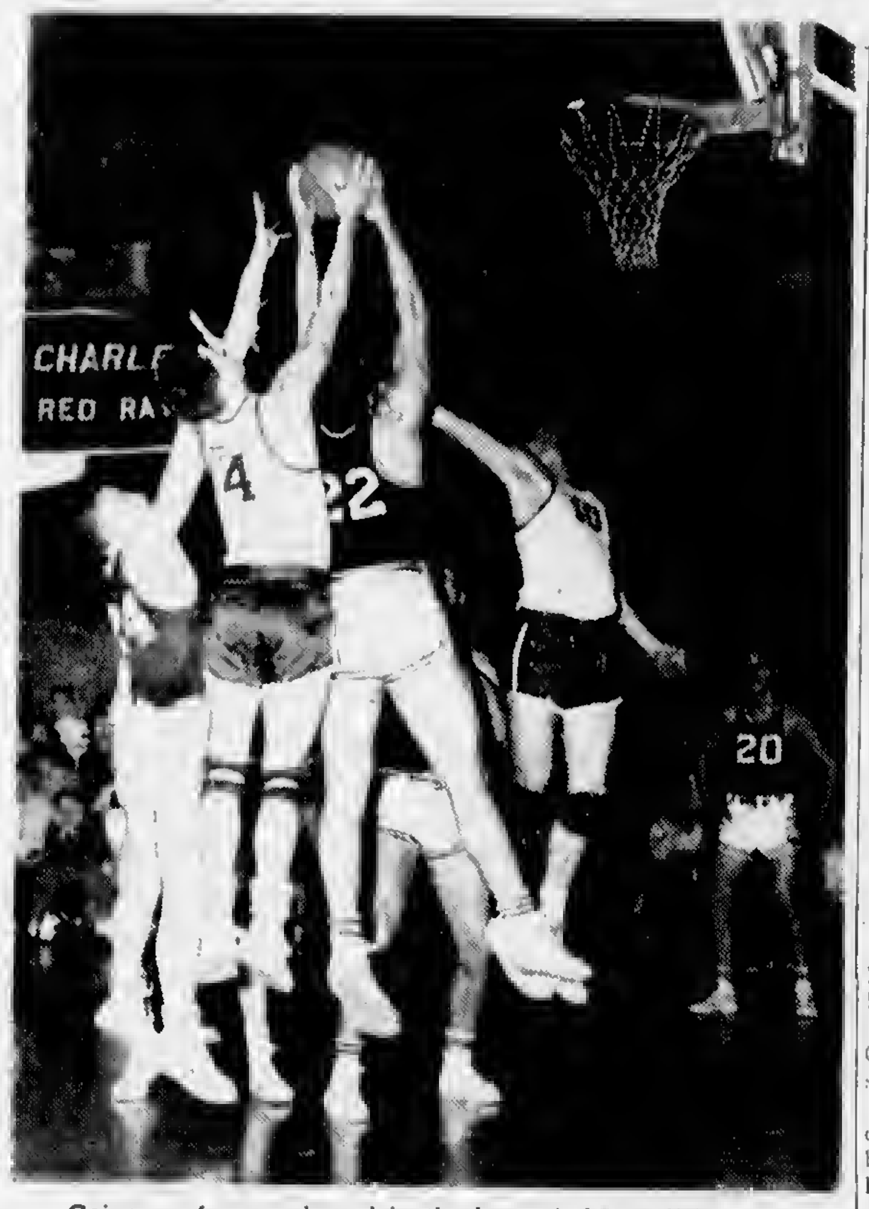
Charlevoix Wins Over Petoskey By A 36-35 Score



Going up for a re-bound in the heat of the traditional battle between Charlevoix and Petoskey Saturday night were Charlevoix's Bill Bennett (No. 4), Petoskey's Doug Peihl (22), with both hands on the ball, Petoskey's Tom Behan (24) and Rayders' Mark White (10). In the background is Petoskey's Vic Kisigo (20).

The Rayders defeated the Northmen 36-35 in a close game which was won in the closing seconds on a free throw by Bennett after a 32-minute see-saw battle which saw the game tied countless times and the lead change as many times.

The two teams will meet in a return game on the Petoskey floor Feb. 5.

Rayders Take Battle In Last Few Seconds

In a traditional battle highlighted by outstanding defensive play by both teams, the Charlevoix Rayders defeated Class B Petoskey 36-35 before a capacity crowd Saturday night.

Because of the tight defense on the part of both squads, fouls were many with each team losing three players via the foul route. Doug Peihl, Northmen forward, left the game with 30 seconds remaining in the third period. His team-mate Tom Behan went out of the line-up with two minutes gone in the last period and was followed closely by Charlevoix's Tom LaBlance, Gordon Mol and Mark White and Petoskey's Jim Donnelly who went to the bench with 2½ minutes remaining.

Both teams scored 12 field goals with the visitors sinking 11 of 23 free throws while the Rayders dropped 12 of 29 charity shots.

Starting for the visitors were Peihl, Vic Kishigo, Bob Ance, Behan, and Donnelly with Tom Rought, Jesse Kauffman, Ron Gibbs and Roscoe Livingston seeing action late in the game.

White scoring a field goal to open the scoring for Charlevoix before Petoskey took the lead and held it 10-6 as the first period ended. White and Mol each added on a free throw and Swanson dumped in a field goal for the Rayders' six points while Petoskey scored three field goals and four charity shots.

Petoskey forged into a 13-6 lead early in the second period before Charlevoix tied the score 15-15 on a free throw by LaBlance seconds before the period ended. Ance dropped a field goal for a 17-15 half-time lead as the quarter ended.

Bennett scored seven points on three field goals and a free throw and LaBlance and Dwain Walker tallied one point each. Ance scored seven points for Petoskey.

Charlevoix again outscored the visitors in the third period 10-7 for a 25-24 lead as the quarter ended. White and Bennett each scored four points, the first on two field goals and the latter on a field goal and two charity shots.

Petoskey scored two field goals and three free throws with Peihl leaving the game with five fouls with 30 seconds remaining in the period.

As the last quarter opened the Rayders held a 25-24 margin which was soon lost when Ance dropped two free throws for Petoskey. Swanson however connected on a long one and Charlevoix went ahead by one point. Bennett gave the Rayders a two point lead by sinking a free throw but Giggs came back to tie the score with a field goal for Petoskey.

Petoskey went ahead with a field goal by Kauffman as Behan left the game via the foul route with two minutes of the period gone. Bennett scored on the free throw to make the score 30-29 in the visitors' favor before adding a field goal to give the Rayders a 31-30 lead. LaBlance went to the bench with five fouls before Ance connected for a field goal to give Petoskey a 32-31 lead. Mol left the game with three minutes of the period gone.

Bennett tied the score with a free throw before Ance put Petoskey ahead by scoring on the second of two free throws. White left the floor with five fouls and his replacement, Glassford, went to the free-throw line in an effort to collect the shot awarded White on a technical foul in the scuffle with Ance.

Walker tied the score again, 33-all, at the free throw line as Donnelly left the game with 2½ minutes remaining. Livingston scored a field goal as Petoskey went ahead 35-33. Bennett broke through for a field goal to knot the score 35-all with 45 seconds to go and added a free throw for the win as the game ended.

Bennett paced the scoring for the game with 19 points for the Rayders on six of the team's 12 field goals and seven of ten free throws.

Ance matched his scoring in the field goal department with six of Petoskey's 12 double pointers and six of nine free throws for 18 points.

Charlevoix To Meet Pellston Here As Loop Play Is Resumed

Northern Michigan Class C league teams will resume their 1953-54 basketball schedules this week after a three weeks holiday recess.

The first league action for six of the seven teams on Friday will see Charlevoix hosting Pellston, Mancelona invading East Jordan and Boyne City playing at Harbor Springs.

Gaylord does not have a game Friday but met the Class B Cheboygan Chiefs Tuesday in a game postponed from last month.

The Charlevoix Rayders, fresh from a 36-35 win over Petoskey, will take on the Pellston Hornets who have a record of two wins and two losses. The Rayders have edged past East Jordan and Mancelona by slim scores and have a 56-42 win over Boyne City to their credit for the league lead but Pellston may threaten that position this week. The Hornets will lack some of their former depth, however, when they play here due to the loss of forward Johnny Schauffler who has alternated with Merlyn Davenport in the starting line-up. He is now recuperating from an attack of pneumonia and will be lost to the team for at least this one game. Chief Shananaquet who alternates at the guard position with Harold Dries and Glenn Aurrand will be ineligible and Aurrand may see only limited action as a result of a severe cold which kept him out of school earlier in the week.

With Pellston short-handed the game may not be as close as expected and Charlevoix should have a definite edge.

At Mancelona Coach Al Van Wie who will take his Ironmen to East Jordan has been informed that veteran forward Pete Derrer may be lost to the team for most of the season. Out of the line-up for two games in December, Derrer was hospitalized over the holidays with a serious virus infection and is still out of school. A scoring threat at all times as well as a fine team man, he will be a hard man to replace. Coach Van Wie has given a junior letterman, Gary Lucas, the assignment and though the Ironmen will not be at full strength, veterans Earl LaDere and Johnny Holstad will take over some of Derrer's former duties and they should still be a strong treat.

East Jordan, back in full strength after the holiday recess, will be out in force to retain its second place position behind Charlevoix in league standings with a record of three wins and one loss. Mancelona is in third place with two wins and one loss. Both teams losses were to Charlevoix. Despite the loss of Derrer, the game between the two teams should be close.

Harbor Springs has yet to win a game after dropping two by slim margins so will be out to take visiting Boyne City this week. The latter is in fourth place with two wins and two losses and will be fighting hard to hang on to the position. With Stan Pifer back in the line-up the Rams are finding thier stride and should show up well this week. Boyne City has improved steadily since its first game and can be expected to be up for this game. The two teams have met but one mutual opponent, Gaylord, which Harbor lost to by four points and Boyne City defeated by the same number of points. However, both met the Blue Devils early in the season and are now stronger than at that time. This game could go either way with the team taking advantage of the breaks coming out on the credit side.

In non league games scheduled for next Tuesday, Grayling will play at Gaylord and Harbor Springs will travel to Ellsworth for a return game with the Lancers.

Little Rayders Score Victory Over Petoskey

In a game which saw the Charlevoix Reserves lead all the way and Coach Del Terrill call 22 players from the bench, the little Rayders defeated the Petoskey Reserves 31-21.

The local five got off to a 6-5 first period lead as Pouquette scored all the points on one field goal and four free throws. Petoskey scored two field goals and one free throw.

Charlevoix forged ahead 19-8 at half-time as they outscored the visitors 13-3. Joe Etienne tallied four points on a field goal and two free throws; Dennis added three on a field goal and a free shot and Vandenberg. Ken Balch and Glenn Ikers each scored two points.

With Coach Terrill substituting freely, the Rayders scored nine points while holding Petoskey to one free throw as the third period ended 28-9.

Vandenberg came through with two field goals and four points; Carson added one field goal and Dennis, Fred Putman and Dick Elzinga scored one point each on free throws.

The visitors outscored Charlevoix 12-3 in the last period to cut the final score to 31-21 as all 22 Charlevoix players went into the line-up.

Balch dropped one field goal and Dennis added a free throw for the points. Petoskey scored five field goals and two free throws in the last period.

Robinson had scoring honors for the game with ten points for Petoskey. Pouquette and Vandenberg shared honors for the Rayders with six points each.

Dennis scored five; Balch and Etienne, four points each; Carson and Ikens two points each and Putman and Elzinga one point each.

Hunters Still Find Plenty Of Shooting In Winter Months

Lansing — Hunters still have plenty of sport waiting for them any time they want to load up the old cannon and venture afield, game workers point out.

Cottontail rabbits and snowshoe hares, for example, are legal game in the upper and northern lower peninsulas through March 1, 1954, and in the southern lower peninsula through January 31.

Woodchucks can be taken at any time in the upper peninsula and are open to hunting in the lower peninsula until February 1.

Several species of furbearers are still on the "open to hunting" list and, of course, foxes, bobcats and wolves are open to both hunters and trappers.

Whooping Cranes Migrate To Texas

Lansing — Twenty one whooping cranes are reported safe on their nesting grounds in Texas after the annual migration flight from the Canadian nesting grounds.

However field reports indicate there may be three more of the majestic white birds still winging south. If true that would mean an increase of these birds over the population of last year.

The U S Fish and Wildlife Service keeps close tab on the cranes, each year noting their numbers and calling on sportsmen to help protect the species that has nearly vanished from the American scene.

BAD NEWS

The human mind is a funny thing. It is apt to get preoccupied with one problem and forget all about another. A good example is a person carrying a bunch of packages and crossing the street. Maybe they are groceries — too many piled into bags that are tall and awkward to carry. Perhaps they are Christmas packages carefully gift wrapped.

Keeping them properly balanced and not dropping them in the street seems important—more important than the fact that you can't see over them and that you are walking in the traffic stream.

When you see a shopper crossing the street keep this in mind. Do that person's traffic thinking for them. Be prepared to make an emergency stop or turn.

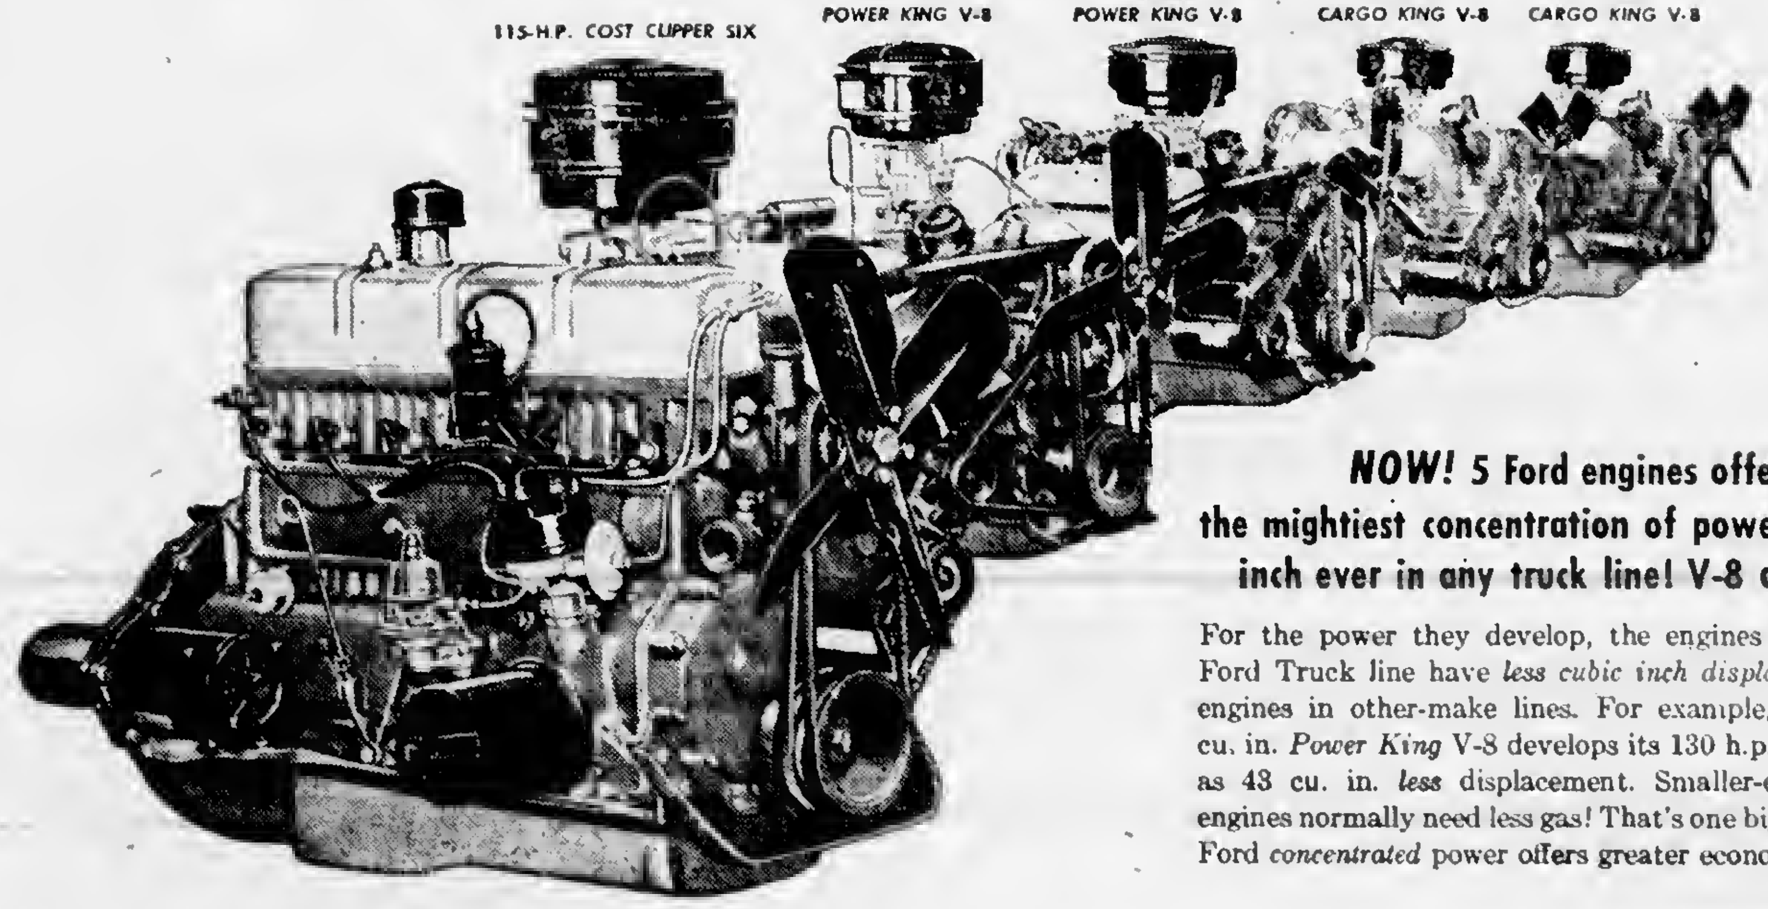
NEW FORD TRUCKS

with TRIPLE ECONOMY!



NOW! 5 Ford engines offer the mightiest concentration of power per cubic inch ever in any truck line! V-8 and SIX!

For the power they develop, the engines in the 1954 Ford Truck line have less cubic inch displacement than engines in other-make lines. For example, Ford's 239 cu. in. Power King V-8 develops its 130 h.p. on as much as 43 cu. in. less displacement. Smaller-displacement engines normally need less gas! That's one big reason why Ford concentrated power offers greater economy!

Ford takes the lead in ALL 3 vital factors that make for lower-cost trucking!

1. Now, only in Ford Trucks—gas-saving, LOW-FRICTION, high-compression, overhead-valve, deep-block engines in all truck models! 115- to 170-h.p.!
2. New Driverized Cabs, Master-Guide Power Steering, Power Brakes, Fordomatic Drive for faster control!
3. New greater capacity! New Factory-Built "6-wheelers," gross up to 48% more!

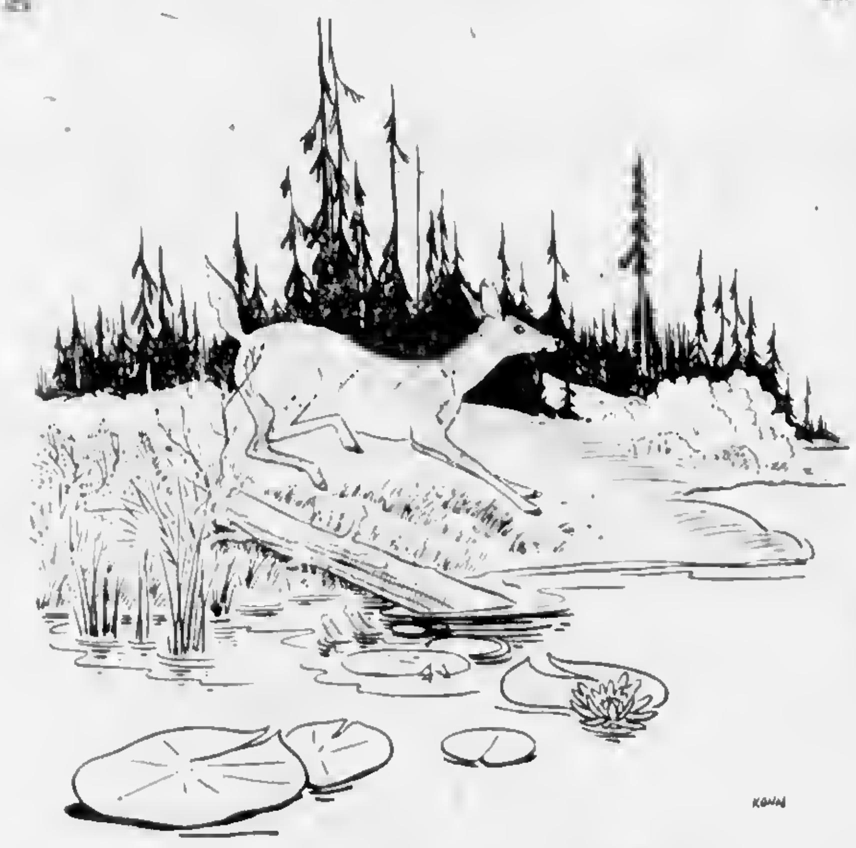
HAROLD E. KOHN



Prepared For Emergencies

We were fishing for bluegills on a small inland lake, my ten year old niece and I. The air was still. The cove where we fished was calm and quiet and sounds carried clearly across the unmoving water. We could hear the rap of hammers as carpenters nailed the roof boaros on a distant lakeside cabin, and the raucous jeers of crows came to us from above the fields that lay beyond the woods which circled the lake like a green velvet collar.

Suddenly Barbara excitedly exclaimed, "Look, Uncle Harold! There's a doe!" Glancing quickly in the direction to which she pointed, I saw the deer gracefully bounding from the water's edge to the protection of a nearby growth of mixed conifers. She had doubtlessly been feeding on the lush browsings of young maple, whitecedar, and ferns that lined the lake, or seeking the choice, succulent yellow water lilies. She may have paused for a draught of the cold, clear water. But when her sensitive twitching ears caught the shrill piping notes of that ten year old fisherwoman, she was off. And at once! There was no need of waiting to generate energies sufficient for those tremendous leaps to safety amidst the evergreens. The power was there, stored at the near-edge of her need, ready for instant use.

No lesson from nature is clearer than this, that a kindly Creator has put within his creatures a capacity to respond to a crisis. Where few, if any, emergencies are anticipated, there may be little preparation — such as with kittens, puppies, and mice. In their wild states cats and dogs (like leopards and wolves) rear their young in well hidden, sheltered dens. So there is no need for the infant animals to be strong on their legs at first. No crises are expected. But by the time they leave the refuge of their nursery, the young are quick and wise and ready for emergency situations. On the other hand, a lamb is a frisky little fellow on the day of his birth, and a colt or a calf can run about with his mother within a few hours of his entrance into the world of living things. Why? Because their ancestors were wild animals, living in flocks and herds, browsing and grazing on open plains and exposed mountain pastures — open to attack from flesh-eating predators. They had to be prepared for emergencies, able to run with the rest of the herd when danger threatened.

Birds hatched in well-hidden nests, high in trees, such as orioles, or in deep holes in dead trees, such as woodpeckers, are likely to be naked and helpless for many days. Their emergencies are few so their preparation for crises is meager. But the ground-nesting partridge, turkey, and duck hatch out babies covered with soft, fluffy down for warmth and quick sturdy legs for escape from danger.

Human beings, too, are by nature ready for emergencies. When we are frightened, adrenalin pours into our bloodstreams, an emergency fuel for crucial situations. (A news magazine some time ago reported how a woman, chased by her angry husband, accomplishea the unlikely feat of hurdling a six-foot fence!)

Dr. Hadfield, noted psychologist, once supported this testimony of nature with a story concerning one of his patients. "One of my patients, suffering from an obstinate neurasthenia, asked for leave one day because his wife, the mother of six little children, had fallen ill with pneumonia — and, owing to the epidemic, could secure no doctor except for the one visit in which her condition had been diagnosed. He had been a most despondent and depressed individual, scarcely ever speaking to anyone else in the ward, still suffering from the tiredness and exhaustion typical of neurasthenia. He returned some days after, looking bright and cheerful and almost his first words to me were, 'I shall never doubt the power of prayer again, sir.' In addition to the worry with the children, he had the great anxiety of nursing his wife through a very serious illness without the aid of a doctor, and had been up day and night in his devoted labors. It is only those who have passed through a strain of that kind who know what it means; but it is equally true that they alone know the mighty resources that come to our aid in time of extremity."

So it is with all of us! We are bigger, mightier, more courageous then we think. Our resources are more plentiful than we have guessed. And in back of all the lesser powers within us there is God, like the rains and the melting snows behind the brooks, renewing us, replenishing us, our real Preparation for any emergency life can throw at us.

Shakespeare Club Has First Meeting

Mrs. Kit Carson gave an interesting review of Joseph Kennedy's book, "Relax and Live."

Food specialists at Michigan State college stress the fact that fruits and vegetables must be specially treated with scalding water before freezing to destroy certain enzymes. These enzymes, if not destroyed, would cause changes in color, flavor and texture during storage.

Humpty Dumpty isn't the egghead he cracked himself up to be, after all!

In some verse or other, someplace he mentions unbirthdays . . those being a practical thing to come to mind this particular time of year, because just about everyone I know is suffering from a yawning case of post-holiday doldrummies . . . the effect being so near fatal that something must be done about it.

Humpty's sage philosophy has helped to pull many people thru' from one holiday to another . . . in one way or another.

It isn't difficult at all to think up a reason every bloomin' day why you should sleep in a little later in the morning . . . or go out and buy yourself a new hat.

For example, outside of the fact that you have 364 unbirthdays a year to celebrate . . . there are also eleven UnAugust Fur Sale Months to choose from . . . and about 55 Unbe Kind To Pedestrian Weeks . . .

Inevitable during the coming year will come along the day that you are never in as much of a mood to acknowledge as everyone else seems to be . . . your own Birthday.

When that day comes, just leave everyone to his own reason for celebrating, I figure . . . and calmly go about all day observing something like Ungroundhog Day.

"So weep no more, my gloomy friends and associates . . . there's something happy to celebrate every day of the New Year!

Arctic Owl Bagged By Ronald Fratrick

The bird has a wing spread of 58 inches and is snowy white except for some black markings on the top of the large wings.

The bird is quite rare in northern Michigan and only comes this far south when food is scarce or the weather is exceptionally cold.

Ron, who shot the bird with one shot from his .22, is planning on having it mounted.

Plan Several Events For March Of Dimes

Residents of the Charlevoix area have been given a choice of eating and dancing, skating or swimming to aid the March of Dimes fund drive now underway, Mrs. George Wolf, local chairman, said this week in announcing plans for the various events.

On next Wednesday the Argonne will donate its facilities, a chicken dinner and an evening's entertainment for the benefit of the March of Dimes. Efforts are being made to obtain the films of the Detroit Lions-Cleveland Browns pro championship football game for showing at that time. Mrs. James Coleman has been named ticket chairman for the event. Reservations must be made in advance. Tickets may also be purchased from Mrs. Wolf, Mrs. Joseph McPhillips and Mrs. Charles Meier.

Initial plans were also made this week for a buffet supper at the Airport Bar Tuesday, Jan. 26. Further plans for the event will be announced next week.

On Sunday a skating party will be held on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix at Ironton for the benefit of the March of Dimes. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Williams, co-chairmen of the drive at Ironton have announced. The party will be held from 2 to 4 and old and young alike are invited to participate in the event. Miss C. Geiken, Former School Nurse, Passes

Miss Caroline Geiken, 74, retired Boyne City school nurse who had served in the Army Nurses Corps during World War I, died unexpectedly Sunday at the Charlevoix Hospital where she had been a patient for two days.

Funeral services were held at the Pontius Chapel Wednesday afternoon with the Rev. Harold E. Kohn officiating. Burial was in Brookside cemetery.

Miss Geiken, who was school nurse at Boyne City for 26 years prior to January, 1951 when she suffered a fractured hip in a fall at the school, was one of the most beloved citizens of the two northern Michigan cities, Boyne City and Charlevoix, which she called home. She had a keen interest in the affairs of both communities even after her retirement kept her close to her home here.

It has been said that she helped see every child who attended the Boyne City schools during the more than a quarter of a century she was associated with the school system. Those who knew her best also knew that her [illegible] of them went even deeper.

Born at St. Joseph, Michigan, Apr. 21, 1879, she came to Charlevoix with her parents at the age of [illegible] years. She was graduated from the Charlevoix high school and later from the Presbyterian Hospital school of nursing in Chicago. During World War I she served in the U. S. Army Nurses Corps.

She was a life member of the Charlevoix chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star which she joined 54 years ago. She was also a member of the Presbyterian church of Boyne City and the Boyne City Post of the American Legion which served as an honor guard at the funeral service. The Charlevoix chapter of the O.E.S. also participated in the service.

She is survived by two brothers and three sisters-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius D. Geiken of Charlevoix, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Geiken of Traverse City and Mrs. Frank Geiken of Petoskey; two nephews, H. Jack Geiken of Grand Rapids and Geik L. Geiken of Charlevoix and a grand-nephew, Brooks Ware, of Grand Rapids.

Ask Car Owners To Buy Licenses Now, Avoid Rush

"Buy your license plates early and avoid the rush" is the plea issued this week by Fenton R. Bulow, branch manager of the local office of driver and vehicle services here, in behalf of Owen J. Cleary, secretary of state.

In issuing the plea, Mr. Cleary went on to say that his department could save the taxpayers $10,000 for extra help if everyone would cooperate to avoid a last minute rush.

He is quoted as saying that "I would be the happiest and most pleased man in Michigan if we had no line-up for license plates Feb. 28".

Plate sales through Jan. 4 totaled 324,177, an increase of 53 per cent over last year, it was reported. The goal Mr. Cleary hopes to achieve by Feb. 15 is 1,500,000 plates sold. There are over 2,000,000 car owners in Michigan.

If you have a car, why not plan to purchase the license plates early. You will be doing yourself a favor for the funds necessary to cover the extra cost of last-minute buyers will come out of your pocket as a taxpayer.

Dickens Club To Meet Monday

"Our Hobbies" will be the lesson presented by Mrs. Ralph S. Hamilton at the regular meeting of the Charles Dickens Study club at the home of Mrs. Ray Hamilton at 2 p.m. Monday.

Local Postal Receipts Are At A New High

Postal receipts for 1953 showed an increase of 20 per cent over the previous year Peter H. Timmer, postmaster of the Charlevoix post office, revealed this week in announcing the receipts for the year.

According to the figures made available by Mr. Timmer, postal receipts reached a new high of $42,369.34 as compared to $34,972.96 in 1952.

In making the announcement he also added that the Charlevoix post office has doubled its receipts in the past ten years. In 1943 the total was $20,201.83.

Mr. Timmer went on to say that the higher parcel post rates which became effective Oct. 1 were only partially responsible for increase of receipts. The greatest increase, he said, was due to the increased mailings of three local companies, Paul-Reed Inc., the Stream-Eze Corp. and Freedman Artcraft, which accounted for approximately $9,500 or nearly a fourth of the total receipts for the year.

It was also revealed that Christmas mails reached a new high this year with cancelations on first class and Christmas card mail reaching the 80,000 mark during the period of Dec. 10 through Dec. 24.

Co-operation of the public in mailing early also set a new record with the result that the outgoing mail was sent out the day it was mailed and all incoming mail delivered the following day.

Set Deadline For Registration In Continuing Education Class

The [illegible] for the Continuing Education classes offered by the Charlevoix public school has been set for Tuesday, Jan. 19, Supt. R. G. Bennett announced this week.

Registrations will be accepted from 7 to 8:30 p.m. Tuesday at room 100 at the high school and anyone who has not enrolled for classes may do so at that time. Registrations may also be made by calling at the elementary school office or by telephoning 6583, Mr. Bennett said.

On Wednesday 55 registrations for a number of different subjects had been received. However, it will be necessary to have more enrollments in all classes if the subjects are to be offered.

The driver training class has ten persons registered and will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday. Larry Tuomela will teach the class and the regular time and day will be selected at the first meeting. Anyone interested in enrolling in the class is urged to do so by Tuesday night.

The adult education classes are open to everyone in the community and a variety of subjects will be offered. Ten persons must register for any one class, however, before it can be taught. Listed below are the classes which have been requested and the number of students enrolled in each. If a group should wish some subject not listed here efforts will be made to provide such a class, Mr. Bennett said.

Classes and enrollments in each include: driver training, 10; bookkeeping, 1; cooking, 1; lectures on national and international affairs, 1; shorthand, 4; typing, 7; income and miscellaneous taxes, 2; ceramics, 6; painting, 2; woodworking, 3; photography, 1; magazine writing, 2; public speaking, 1; welding and machine shop, 4; leather work, 1.

The days the classes will be taught and the hours of the classes will be decided Tuesday night.

F. L. Wallace, 59 Former Resident Dies In Toledo

Forrest L. Wallace, 59, former resident, died Jan. 3 at Toledo, Ohio, where he had resided for the past 14 years.

Funeral services were held at the Abele Funeral Home in Toledo Wednesday. The body was brought to Charlevoix Friday for burial in Brookside cemetery.

Born in Charlevoix Sept. 7, 1891, Mr. Wallace served overseas with the U. S. Army during World War I. He was associated with the Hagenbeck and Wallace Circus for many years. After leaving them he was with the Balfour company in Albany, N. Y., for many years and came to Toledo 14 years ago as district manager of the midwest area. He was a member of the Masonic lodge.

Historical Group Trying To Save Newspaper Plant

Efforts are being made by the Michigan Historical Commission to save the state's oldest newspaper plant on Beaver Island from being razed to make way for a resort development, Commission president Chester W. Ellison of Lansing, said last week.

Plans to purchase the building where King James Strang of Mormon fame first published the Northern Islander more than a century ago were initiated when the present owner, Francis Left, announced plans to tear down the building.

It is estimated that $10,000 would be necessary to purchase and restore the old print shop, Ellison said. If the plan is carried out the funds would be raised by public subscription and the building deeded to the state.

Official Rules That Supervisor May Hold County School Post

Members of the board of supervisors are not disqualified from holding the appointive office of county superintendent of schools Attorney General Frank C. Millard ruled in an opinion last week.

The request for the opinion regarding the matter was made by C. M. Bice, Charlevoix county prosecutor in behalf of the Charlevoix county board of supervisors and Charles E. Robinson, county superintendent of schools. The question regarding the issue arose following Robinson's appointment to the office of county superintendent of schools in September. He represents Bay township on the board of supervisors.

The opinion also stated that "if the position of the county superintendent of schools were a county position or filled by appointment by a county board or other county authority, the above cited statute would expressly prohibit the dual office holding. The county school district, however, is a distinct and separate agency created by the legislature for certain educational purposes so the holding of these two positions by one person at the same time is not prohibited by statute."

The county board of supervisors has discretionary authority over appropriation of the budget for the county school district, except for contractual salary paid the county superintendent of schools from school funds (Opinion No. 1521, Oct. 21, 1952). This office held in Opinion No. 1145, Aug. 20, 1951, that a member of the county board of supervisors is not disqualified from holding office on the county board of education. The county superintendent of schools as an employee of the county board of education has no statutory responsibility or authority [illegible] the [illegible] of the county school district".

It was also stated in the opinion that after appropriations of the county school district have been made by the board of supervisors, such board has no further control over the account of the school district".

The opinion concluded with the statement that "we find no conflict of interest or inconsistency in the position of county superintendent of schools and membership on the county board of supervisors".

Small Arms Use Is Promoted By New Organization

An organization designed to promote interest in the handling and use of small arms is being formed by members of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun club, Glenn Rose, president of the club, announced this week.

The first formal meeting of the new group will be held at the Rod and Gun Club house promptly at 8 p.m. Monday, Jan. 18.

Dr. C. O. Whitten, who has had a wide experience with small arms while working with the F.B.I. and the police departments of larger cities, will instruct the group in range procedure, methods of fire control and the use of the indoor range. At the present time 18 local persons have joined the group.

Membership is not limited to members of the Rod and Gun club, Mr. Rose said. Anyone interested in learning to handle and fire small arms and who has the proper permits to transport such arms is invited to join. Pistol fire will be confined to .22 and 38 calibre guns for the present. No ammunition will be used at the first meeting.

An indoor firing range will be constructed at the Rod and Gun club house and when members become more proficient, matches will be arranged. Later it is hoped that matches with outside teams can be held.

Mr. Rose warned of the importance of attending the meeting promptly at 8 p.m. as the lesson will not be repeated for late comers.

Harbor, Pellston Score Non-Loop Wins On Tuesday

Harbor Springs and Pellston came through with non-league victories over Ellsworth and Cheboygan Catholic Central respectively Tuesday night while Grayling was defeating Gaylord 43-34.

Harbor Springs avenged an [illegible] loss to Class D Ellsworth [illegible] defeating the Lancers 52-50 and Pellston defeated Cheboygan Catholic Central 51-37.

At East Jordan the Ellsworth Lancers went into 19-15 quarter and 25-23 halftime leads over Harbor Springs before the Rams came from behind for a 37-34 third period lead. The game was tied 50-all with 20 seconds to go when Arden Bawkey who had replaced Stan Pifer after the latter had drawn his fifth foul stepped to the free throw line and sank two charity tosses for the victory. Pifer scored 20 points before he left the game in the closing minutes on fouls. Stan Buts led the scoring for the Lancers with 14 points.

Merlyn Davenport tallied 23 points for Pellston as the Hornets went ahead 22-19 at the half and 37-29 at the third period after trailing Cheboygan Catholic Central 16-11 as the first quarter ended. Jack Wangler had 10 points for the Cheboygan squad.

Grayling's Marvin Bielski scored 22 points at Gaylord as the Vikings, who trailed 9-8 at the first period, went ahead 21-12 at the half and 30-20 at the third period. George Middleditch was top scorer for Gaylord with 15 points.

By Fran Martin

WE'LL BET there are some [illegible] nipped noses around these [illegible] what with the temperatures hovering not too far above [illegible] a week ... Take it from [illegible] these wonderful [illegible] weather [illegible] [illegible] been cold and [illegible] [illegible] this keep up [illegible] [illegible] frozen over [illegible] afternoon we noticed [illegible] jammed with ice as [illegible] could see ... A few [illegible] the [illegible] the cars will be [illegible] from the Beavers ... something they haven't done in years and years ...

And with the cold perhaps you've noticed the sweet singing of the skates on ice as the kids, big and small, take to the rink at school to try out those new Christmas skates ... Up until this week most of the youngsters were wishing they'd ordered something besides skates ... but boy, are they happy that they have them now ...

WE UNDERSTAND a lot of work goes into the ice rink built on the tennis courts ... that it's a process of flood and freeze until the proper base is laid and then they try for that beautiful glass smooth finish that makes for wonderful skating ... It takes cold weather, they tell us, so the pond must be perfect ... Ah to be a kid again ...

MIND IF we make a few remarks about those little girls who give them all at each game to spur on Rayders on to victory ... Of course, we mean those trim little cheerleaders ... Charlevoix boasts seven in all and we don't mind saying that we'd put them up against any in the state and bet they'd come out on top ... Where else would you find four cute tricks, one a blonde, a second with auburn tresses and two brunettes leading those in-[illegible] cheers ... No wonder the [illegible] Rayders for whom they [illegible] yells are coming through with such a good record to date ... [illegible] might add that the Var[illegible] aren't doing too badly behind the cheers of the 'big' girls ... But all kidding aside, they're definitely a credit to the school and the community ... And if you don't believe us take a look for yourself ...

IF YOU'VE been reading the [illegible] stories the Courier's been [illegible] on continuing education [illegible] wondered what they were all about ... Why not call 6583 and ask ... Actually it's adult education ... anything that will make people enjoy their life more ... and believe us, the school is prepared to offer it this year ... Lots of people have been skeptical about the classes and after they signed up, wouldn't miss 'em for the world ... It has been proven in the past that old dogs can learn new tricks ... have lots of fun doing it ... There's art [illegible] sewing, woodwork, [illegible] driver training, photography [illegible] it's more interesting [illegible] that you've never had time for before ... And if you think you're too old to learn, just [illegible] and you'll find [illegible] a lot of other people who had the same idea [illegible] can't say what you [illegible] enjoy doing it, so why not give some thought to it and sign up for the 'something' you've always wanted to know something about ... And we might and you meet and get to know the nicest people ...

DON'T KNOW if you remember it or not but last year we mentioned the Bob Miles' Christmas card ... since young Bob who is now a senior in high school was a baby, they've had the cleverest card ... always with Bob and later with Dave's pictures on them ... Last year, Bob decided he was getting just too old for that sort of thing but at the last minute did relent and so the Mileses added one more picture to the list, making 16 in all ... So, this year we wondered what they'd use for Bob had served his last ultimatum, the gist of which was 'no more pictures', so when the 1953 card arrived we were most pleasantly surprised to find a picture of all past pictures, if you get what we mean ... the 16 pictures from other years made into one ... It's darling and just about the cleverest idea we've ever seen ... But wouldn't you know they'd come up with something like that ...

IN THE mail this week a card from the Franklin Noonans who once lived here when he was with the Coast Guard ... Mrs. N. writes that he was retired from the service last fall and that they are now living at Marblehead, Ohio ... It's always nice to hear from old friends ... And from Florida a card from Mrs. Raymond Nowland who with Mrs. Helen Plum, Mrs. George Jardine and Mrs. Eugene Lewis left for the south right after Christmas ... They're all settled now in an apartment only two blocks from the beach at Daytona Beach ... And from Biloxi, Miss., a card from Mrs. Anna Eccleston and son, Bill Schwab, who spent the holidays with another son, Johnny Eccleston and his family ... The pair arrived back in the land of snow and ice at almost the same time as their card but report a wonderful time in the land of sunshine ... Wish someone would bring a little tan back for us ... we've lost all that color we worked so hard on last summer ... From Paris, France, a Christmas greeting from Ann Heard, who taught on Beaver Island last year and who is now studying abroad on a scholarship ... Her Beaver Island friends will be happy to hear about her for she was, and is, a very charming and talented girl ...

WE'VE been hearing a lot about Arctic owls this winter for the first time in many years as the big birds have made their way farther south than usual in search of food ... But like all wild things, they've had their difficulties as they've met up with the hazards of civilization ... Many of the big cumbersome birds have met death by hunters guns but early Tuesday one was found tangled in telephone wires about three miles south of town on US 31 ... A call reporting trouble on the line sent "Mac" McPherson to the scene and was he surprised to find the bird enmeshed in the wires ... The wings were frozen and it had to be put away but he did bring it to the Courier office first ... They may be a bird that does a lot of damage to small game but we still say they're beautiful ...

1954 IS GOING to be an important year politically speaking ... Later this year you're going to the polls to elect state and county officers and it's important that you cast your vote ... How else can we have a representative government ... The first of these important elections will come up next month when the voters of Charlevoix will nominate city officials in the Feb. 15 primary ... If you want to vote in next month's election, you must register no later than Monday, Jan. 18 ... So why not start the year right by registering for all the elections in '54 ...

By
HAROLD E. KOHN

Life Can Be Too Good

Life can be too good. Too much comfort and ease make for softness and rob us of gaminess and zest. The rock bass lives a comparatively easy and tranquil life. Among the rocks or on the gravel shoals of clear lakes this small pan fish, travelling in schools, seeks an effortless existence. He eats the slowly moving crayfish and the insects and minnows that do not get out of his way. While he has a rather exciting name, "rock bass", reminding us of the thrilling tustles we've had with his racy cousins, the smallmouth and largemouth bass, he has little of their peppery nature or relish for hearty living. (In fact, he is a bass in neither character or spirit. His name is a misnomer, for the rock bass is really a member of the sunfish group!) He is no game fish. There is little fight in him. He gives up the battle with line and reel after only a few flips of the tail and a half hearted shake of his head. When found in rivers or streams this lazy member of the finny tribe makes certain that he stays out of the main current. Seeking a quiet pool close to the bank he looks only for comfort. If there is any earnestness or eagerness in him, it is all aimed at finding ease. Small wonder that the rock bass is commonly called a "pan fish," but seldom a "game fish."

What is commonly regarded as the sportiest fishing in North America" Trout fishing in streams and rivers. From the tundra of central Alaska to the uplifted mountains of northern Mexico and from the tumbling streams of the Pacific coast to the rushing rivers of the Atlantic sea-board, the cutthroat, the rainbow, and the brook trout make the tapered fly-lines whistle and sing through the air as fish match wit and wisdom, sinew and strength with men.

The stream fish is likely to be a gamy fellow. More spirited and pluckier than his brother of lake or pond because he has the current to buck, he develops dash, gameness of character, and firmness of flesh. He must thread his sinuous body through wild tangles of fallen brush and logs and the mysterious mazes of roots and tumbled rocks. His sharp senses must be quick to detect the diving kingfisher, the silently stalking heron, the plummeting osprey or eagle, the omnipresent danger of attack by otter or mink, and the quiet, cunning, deceptive approach of man with his lifelike lures of artificial flies or the tantalizing temptation of a proffered worm. Strength of body and sagacity of mind are developed where life is not too comfortable. When life is too good to us our spirits are weakened. We are robbed of zip and zeal. We lose the racy, gamy quality that gives us flavour.

While building a millrace for a sawmill near Sacramento, California in 1849, James Marshall saw a fleck of gold in the stream. This discovery led to the California gold rush and to Jim's moral downfall. He got a fortune from his findings, quit work and died dirty, drunk, and without enough money to feed a fly. He had been able to withstand poverty and hardship but he could not hold up under success.

The Dillon brothers were founders of the Little Chief Mine, which had a vein of silver reported to be fifty feet thick. They might better have remained poor. One brother died an alcoholic. The other became the keeper of a rooming house when his money was foolishly squandered.

A junk dealer of Chelsea, Mass. found $4500 in an old mattress he had bought. He spent the money on a protracted drunken spree and died from the effects. Many economists and psychologists believe there is sound reason behind economic cycles of boom and bust. The good times bring on the depressions. Prosperity injures initiative and cripples incentive. Effort is stifled. Creativity and production are suffocated in an atmosphere heavy with ease, and a depression follows. Life can be too good, too easy.

When we pray, would it not be wise to thank our all-wise Creator for putting in the main stream of life a strong current of discomfort, a capacity for pain, the resistance of handicaps, so that in breasting the sweep of adversity, we develop characters that are seasoned with valour and pluck?

Van Wormer-Novotny Marriage Vows Exchanged In Double Ring Service

Carole Van Wormer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James S. Van Wormer of Grand Rapids, became the bride of William H. Novotny, Airman first class U. S. Air Force, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Novotny of this city, at a ceremony solemnized in Grand Rapids Saturday evening.

The Rev. Bert Helm of St. John's Evangelical and Reformed church officiated at the double ring service at the home of the bridegroom's cousins, Mr. and Mrs. James Schols Jr. White mums, huckleberry and schferia and lighted tapers in candelabra decorated the mantle which formed the background for the ceremony.

Mrs. Van Wormer chose a navy crepe dress, white satin hat and matching accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Novotny, mother of the bridegroom, wore an orchid faille dress and matching accessories. Both had corsages of pink camellias.

Masters and mistresses of ceremonies at the reception for 60 guests which followed the ceremony, were Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Van Wormer, brother and sister-in-law of the bride and Mr. and Mrs. A. Edward Novotny of Muskegon, brother and sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

The bride is a graduate of Lee high school in Grand Rapids. Mr. Novotny attended the Charlevoix high school and is a veteran of three years duty in the U. S. Air Force, 2½ years of which were spent in Japan.

Make Plans For Rural-Urban Tea And Conference

Tentative plans for a Rural Urban conference and return tea at which urban women will be asked to speak were made at a recent meeting of the Charlevoix county Farm Bureau Women's committee at the home of Mrs. Clayton Healey.

Early this fall the Farm Bureau organization entertained the urban group at a luncheon at which the farm women presented their problems. At the proposed tea, the city women will be asked to present their views and problems.

The county committee also approved appropriations to the following state projects which they support: Sister Kinny Fund, Nurse Recruitment program, Associated Country Women of the World and Pennies for Friendship.

C. A. Odmark, Local Students Attend Conference, Reunion At Ann Arbor

C. A. Odmack returned home Sunday from Ann Arbor where he attenden the annual Midwestern Conference of Music Directors held there Friday and Saturday.

The event which attracted more than 1,300 music directors from throughout the state was sponsored by the Michigan Band and Orchestra Association, the Michigan Vocal Association, the Michigan Music Educators Association and the University of Michigan School of Music and brought to Ann Arbor outstanding men in the music field from throughout the country to address the group.

Another attraction was the appearance of the All-State band organized at the National Music Camp at Interlochen last summer which meets annually for a winter reunion and to play at the conference meeting.

Three young Charlevoix high school musicians who attended the music camp last year on scholarships provided by the Interlochen Scholarship committee with funds contributed by local organizations were in southern Michigan to play with the 168 piece band. They were Barbara Smith, flutist, Henry Ponhous, trombonist, and James Bearss, clarinetist, who were taken to Ann Arbor by Mrs. Ignatz Ponhous for the weekend reunion and the appearance of the band at Hill auditorium. Included in the program played by the band were the numbers selected later by the directors for required numbers for music festivals throughout the state as well as a program of prepared material played at Interlochen last summer.

Initial plans were also made for the annual district band festival and solo and ensemble festivals. The northern Michigan district band and orchestra festival will be held at Petoskey March 13 and the solo and ensemble festival in Charlevoix on March 27, Mr. Odmark said.

Band Parents To Hold Activities To Raise Funds

Plans for a cafeteria dinner to be held later this month and the second annual Northland Minstrel show scheduled for April were formulated at a meeting of the Charlevoix high school Band Parents Association held last week at the high school music room, Mrs. John Stebe, president of the association, has announced.

The cafeteria dinner will be held at the high school auditorium beginning at 5 p.m. Friday, Jan. 29, to raise funds to finance six new band uniforms which have been ordered for delivery this month.

Tentative dates for the Northland Minstrel show were set for April 22 and 23. C. A. Odmark, band director, was appointed general chairman of the event.

He was also appointed to head a committee to select the style of uniform for the band majorettes. Appointed to serve on the committee were Mrs. Alfred Gill, Mrs. Carl Schultz, Mrs. Leo Berg and Mrs. Carlton Ikens.

Mrs. Sam Baker has been appointed general chairman of the dinner scheduled for Jan. 29 and will name her committees later this week.

by Gene Alleman

LEGISLATORS convene in Lansing this week to consider Michigan's business for the coming year.

As always there are problems to solve, decisions to reach, policies to determine. Public needs, being many and varied, can never be completely satisfied. In preparing to deal with problems of this session lawmakers have good reason to be encouraged over progress made during 1953.

Tax[illegible] can [illegible] this year [illegible] in many months, without worrying whether they will be affected by a new tax.

"Financial conditions of the state is good," said Auditor General John B. Martin. "During the previous 12 months, Michigan has dug itself out of its monetary mess and now expects to pay all its bills on time . . . including those due schools and other local governments."

SCHOOLS were swamped with increased enrollment resulting from babies born in the post war period. There were problems to find high schools for students in rural areas, elementary students in most areas, teacher payrolls generally.

Enrollment went from 1,190,000 to 1,250,000 an increase of 60,000. These additional children required 2,000 additional teachers and 2,000 additional classrooms.

Older teachers were brought back, special teaching certificates were issued, the need partly satisfied. Pay scales were increased to an average of $4000 per year to encourage teachers to remain in the profession.

[illegible] enrollment in 1953 increased about 12% to 100,000, a total demanding more building by educational institutions.

An all time low was realized in deaths, less than nine per 1,000 people. Maternity deaths dropped to the lowest ever, less than 5% per 1,000 live births. There was virtually no change in the infant death rate.

About 180,000 babies were born in Michigan during 1953, some 2,165 more than 1952 record high of 177,835.

The marriage rate declined somewhat, but the divorce frequency also fell off.

A $28 MILLION building program saw 26 buildings completed and work started on 10 more.

The Lewis Cass building, which was ruined by fire and water in 1951, was ready to accomodate many of the state offices forced to seek temporary quarters at that time. A second state building [illegible] in honor of Steven T. Mason, was also completed and immediately occupied.

Hospitals and schools make up the majority of other structures on the list. Fifteen are already in use as addition to mental institutions. Wayne University has a new $4 million medical science building in Detroit. Michigan College of Mines at Houghton and Northern Michigan College of Education at Marquette have additions to the campuses.

Highway construction, a field that dropped behind during the war and was never able to catch up, totaled $37,655,000. Contracts for this amount were let in 1954. Sixty seven new bridges and 51 railroad crossing flashers were built, and 24 crossings reconstructed.

PEOPLES' pocketbooks as well as that of the state, showed promising bulges on Jan. 1. Part of the balances were accumulated during 1953.

Busiest year in the last 10 was experienced by the state banking department. Some 114 state banks were authorized to complete capital increases totaling $9,113,200. Six new banks were chartered; 17 branch offices established; 28 new small loan offices licensed.

Total resources of Michigan's 354 bank and trust companies, including their 191 branches, amounted to an estimated $3,650,000,000, about $27 million more per month over 1952.

An increase of $850,000 in earnings from state investments was reported by Treasurer D. Hale Brake. These funds earned about $5,800,000 last year alone. By rearranging certain methods of depositing monies from auto licenses and liquor transactions, the treasurer was able to help establish this record.

ABOUT 390,000 winter visitors are expected to leave some $30 million at northern Michigan winter resorts this season according to Robert J. Furlong, executive secretary of the Michigan Tourist Council.

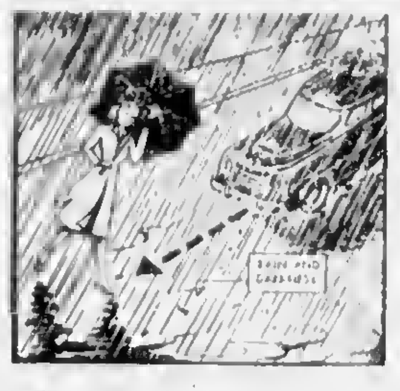
Owners spent an estimated $215,000 last summer alone in improving the area's 38 ski centers. About $3,250,000 of resort owners capital is invested in winter recreational facilities, says Furlong. Thousands more are invested in municipal and community skating rinks or toboggan slides.

Among more spectacular attractions, is the 100,000 gallon, heated, outdoor swimming pool at Boyne Mountain Lodge. A completely new ski resort was built in the Missaukee mountain's winter park near Lake City.

More tourist events are scheduled for February than in June says Furlong, "a situation brought about by the many people who visit northern Michigan for skiing, fishing, hunting, sliding and skating."

Attends Furniture Show

Reginald Greenway of Hess Furniture, accompanied by Mrs. Greenway, was in Chicago last week, to attend the Furniture Show. They were gone about ten days.



Motorists riding around in nice comfortable waterproof cars sometimes fail to appreciate what it's like to be a pedestrian walking on a wet street with the rain coming down. Holding an umbrella in the position where it will do the most good seems the most important thing to do at the time.

The fact that the umbrella makes it impossible for the pedestrian to see oncoming traffic is lost sight of in the urge to keep out of the rain. And if there is a high wind, keeping the umbrella from turning inside out is a full time job.

So on rainy days motorists can hardly expect pedestrians to do as good a job of looking out for themselves.

Charlevoix Scores 50-38 Victory Over Pellston

Hornets Never Take Lead But Fight Hard

The Charlevoix Rayders racked up their fourth conference win of the season Friday night with a 50-38 victory over Pellston.

On Friday the Rayders will invade Harbor Springs in the first meeting of the two teams this season.

The Pellston Hornets were never in the lead and never threatened as the Rayders went into 14-8 first quarter and 31-14 half-time leads. Frequent substitutions throughout the last half cut down the Rayders scoring threat as the game progressed. Despite the fact that Pellston trailed throughout the game, the scrappy Hornets played a hard game and in the last period outscored the Rayders 17-11.

In the starting line-up for Charlevoix were Mark White and Bill Bennett, forwards; Gordon Mol, center; Tom LaBlance and Guy Swanson, guards.

LaBlance opened the scoring for Charlevoix from the free throw line and Mol added e field gola before Herold Drier added three points to tie the score 3-all before the Rayders forged into the lead they were to hold throughout the geme.

Charlevoix scored 14 points in the first quarter for a 14-8 first period lead on three field goals by Swanson; a field goal and a free throw by Dwain Walker; field goals by Bennett and Mol and a free throw by LaBlance.

Pellston's eight points were scored on two field goals and four free throws.

The Rayders racked up their best quarter of the game in the second for 17 points. Dwain Walker and Quint Walker each scored two field goals; Swanson added three points on a field goal and a free throw and LaBlance, Mol and Bennett scored one field goal apiece.

Pellston scored three field goels as the Rayders held a 31-14 half-time lead.

As Coach Del Terrill substituted frequently in tha third period, tha Rayders' scoring was confined to one field goal each by Mol, LeBlenca, Swanson and Joe McDermott. Pellston scored two field goals and three free throws as the Rayders held a 39-21 third period lead.

Though behind by 18 points when the last period opened, the scrappy Hornets came back fighting and scored 17 points on seven field goals and three field goals for the best quarter of the game.

Charlevoix, on the other hand, scored 11 points on two field goals by Bennett, a field goal and a free throw by Swanson and one field goal each by White and Dwain Walker.

Rayders Invade Harbor Springs Friday As NMCC Play Continues

Action in the Northern Michigan Class C league this week will find six of the seven teams participating in traditional battles.

Charlevoix will invade Harbor Springs; East Jordan will travel to Boyne City and Gaylord will host Mencelona. All games will be played Friday night. Pellston will not play this week.

On Tuesday East Jordan will travel to Reed City for a non-loop meeting with the downstate team.

In the game at Harbor Springs, the Rayders will find tough going against the Rams who won thair first geme last week, a 53-42 victory over Boyra City. Herbor Springs, which has depended on Stan Pifar for their scoring punch until now, ceme up with a new threat last week in Tom Clarke who came through with 24 points egainst the Ramblers. This should give tha Rams e little more depth and make a threat to ell comers, especially on their home floor.

Charlevoix, on the other hand, is leading the league with four wins in league play including victories over East Jordan and Pellston, both of which also defeated Harbor Springs, although the latter was playing without Pifer at the time. The Rayder-Ram games in the past have always been marked by the renewal of the rivalry and this one will probably follow the same pattern. On the basis of records, however, the Rayders should have an edge.

Another traditional battle will shape up at Boyne City where the Ramblers will host the second place East Jordan Red Devils. Boyne City has been improving as the season progresses and on their home floor could give any team a good game.

Combined with this and the rivalry that has existed between the two Charlevoix county teams, the game is bound to be good.

Boyne City has a little more height than the Jordanites but less experiencо. However, East Jordan has a scrappy outfit, which was demonstrated by the way the Devils came from behind to defeet Mancelona Friday night, and will be out for the Ramblers' scalps this week to retain their second plece standing. The game could develop into a close one but East Jordan must be given an edge over their bosts.

Another old rivalry will be rekindled when Gaylord and Mancelona meet this week. Gaylord has one win in four games and will be eager to take thu Ironmen, whose power has been weakened by the loss of veteran Dick Derrer. Mancelona, however, has a record of two wins in four games and so should have a decisive edge in the meeting.

Little Rayders Score Victory Over Pellston

The Charlevoix Reserves scored win No. 6 for a perfect record to date as they defeated the visiting Pellston five 55-31 Friday night.

Twenty-four local players saw action in the game as the little Rayders took a 13-9 first period lead, increased it to 34-17 at the half and 49-22 at the third period.

In the starting line-up for Charlevoix were Joe Etienne, Dick Elzinga, Gary Smith, Ron Coleman and Fred Putman.

Putman led the scoring with five points as the local five went into a 13-9 first quarter lead. Two field goals and a free throw eccounted for bis scoring while Coleman connected for three in the free throw circle. Elzinga and Kit Carson each scored a tield goal and Cbarlie Dennis tallied a charity sbot.

Pellston scored three field goals and three free throws.

Charlevoix started to find the bucket in the second period and scored ten field goals and one free throw to outscore the visitors 21-8. Gary Vandenberg scored four field goals, Bill Kolker added two field goals and a free throw; Dennis tallied two field goals and Walt Pouquette and Carson one. Pellston's scoring was limited to three field goals and two free throws.

The Rayders continued their scoring splurge in the third period with 15 points to five for Pellston as Glenn Ikens scored five on two field goals and one gift shot, Joel Arvilla added two field goals and Terry Davis, Charles Pierce and Norm Helms added one field goal each. Pellston had two field goals and one free throw.

With the remainder of the bencb seeing action, Charlevoix's scoring was limited to six points on a field goal and a free throw by Dick Boltan, a field goal by Tracy Curtis and a gift shot by Bill Geor. Pellston scored three field goals and three free thorws.

Other Charlevoix playerss and the points they scored follow: Kolker, Dennis, Ikens, and Putman, five; Carson and Arvilla, four; Coleman and Bolten, three; Pouquette, Davis, Elzinga, Pierce, Helms and Curtis, two and Geer, one.

Netional Wildlife Week

National Wildlife Week for 1954 has been slated March 21-27, according to an announcement by the National Wildlife Federation, the conservation department reports.

Water pollution control will be the theme for the week-long observance of conservation activity, sponsored annually since 1938 by the Federation.

Pollution control was chosen because of its recent pressing importance in every state along with attendant droughts and water shortages.

"Trouble is that where the weather is wonderful, the snakes, ticks, mospuitoes, flies, ants and scorpions are abundant," comments the editor of the Imperial Magazine, but they don't sound so horible on some of these cold winter morns.

Farmers have their choice, suggest Michigan State college safety specialists: Spend a few dollars now on dustproofing haymows or grain bins . . . or cash in their insurance policies after the fires.

Everyone in the county, whether he is a rural or urban resident, is invited to attend the sixth annual meeting of the Charlevoix county Soil Conservation district at the Charlevoix high school auditorium at 8 p.m. Thursday, Jan. 28.

Thousands of Michigan farm folks are expected at the 39th annual Farmers' Week, Michigan's biggest rural life event, at Michigan State college, Feb. 1-5. Many farm organizations will have their annual meetings in connection with Farmers' Week.

All those government handouts looked nice until the tax collector says we'll have to give back so much more than we got.

Scrub Oak Meet Plans Told For February 26-28

Plans for the annual Scrub Oak conference to be held at the Higgins Lake Conservation Department [illegible] school Feb. 26, 27 and 28 have been announced by [illegible] Robinson, Charlevoix county superintendent of schools, following a [illegible] meeting of [illegible] superintendents at [illegible] Thursday when the plans were formulated.

William Burt and Ed Ray of the Michigan Conservation Department met with the school administrators of Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet counties to complete the program for the three-day conservation workshop which will be open to teachers, administrators and directors of boards of education from the three counties.

An interesting and useful workshop has been planned this year Mr. Robinson said. The program has been arranged so that those attending for a second time will not be repeating earlier classes, he continued.

In announcing the initial plans for the event, Mr. Robinson said that the workshop will open Friday with a lesson on forest management by the use of wood technology. A demonstration class will be taught Saturday morning with a field trip scheduled for Saturday afternoon. Ways to teach conservation in the classroom will be discussed during an evening meeting. The workshop will be concluded Sunday morning with an authorities on the subjects included in the program, Mr. Robinson said.

Accomodations for 100 teachers and administrators from the three northern Michigan counties will be available during the conference, Mr. Robinson added.

Sweets For Bossie Prove Profitable

Judging from the number of inquiries by telephone and letters to the Michigan State college dairy department on the feeding of molasses to cows, there's a lot of interest in the subject.

Here's the story on molasses feeding from M.S.C. extension Dairyman J. G. Hays: Molasses is heavy, weighing about 12 pounds to the gallon. It's a carbohydrate, more similar to corn than any other cow feed in feeding value. Six and a half gallons of molasses is equal to one bushel of ground shelled corn.

That would mean that a ton of molasses, or 171 gallons, is equal to about 1,500 pounds of ground shelled corn. Beet molasses is quoted at about 40 a ton in ton lots. And corn is quoted at about $55 a ton.

Hays suggests that molasses is somewhat of a nuisance to feed. It's added to grain when grinding or mixing, that's the easiest way to feed it. Molasses should not be over 20 per cent of the total mix. Or it can be poured on grain in the manger, a cupful twice a day is equal to about two pounds of corn.

Molasses also can be spread on roughage to induce cows to eat low quality hay. This may not be a good idea, Hays noted, but if good roughage is not available, molasses may be a big help. Many cattlemen believe molasses to be good for a cow's health. It makes the animal's coat shine.

Dried molasses is easier to feed than the wet kind, Hays says, but has no more feeding value, pound for pound, than liquid.

As for self-feeding molasses, the dairyman believes, it's of doubtful value for dairy cattle [illegible] the amount they eat must be controlled. If it is self-fed, the cows should be exposed to it gradually. And the amount placed before the cows at one time should be no more than that recommended.

Farmers who think they are going into the hole financially should take an inventory of their farm business to see just where they stand. An inventory is a good remedy for a touch of the blues, says John Doneth, farm management specialist at Michigan State college.

ACP Reports Must Be Filed By Friday

The absolute deadline for the reporting of all 1953 ACP performance is Jan. 15, 1954, says LeRoy Hardy, chairman of the Charlevoix county ASC Committee (formerly PMA). All reports must be in the office by that date since the tabulating of finished reports must be completed shortly after and the totals reported to the State Office.

It is absolutely the farmer's responsibility to report performance on these practices and unless these reports are received there is no way of knowing whether or not the work was completed. No payment will be received by those [illegible] who cannot complete and report their performance of ACP practices in time to be included in the report totals to the state office.

We will be more than glad to [illegible] necessary assistance in completing his report, says Mr. Hardy, if he will only come in to the office. There are more than 100 reports still outstanding and any farmer who is not certain he has made his report will do well to check with the office immediately.

'Fighting Parson' Headline Speaker At Farmers Week

Ex-amateur boxing champion and ex-war correspondent, the Rev. W. H. "Bill" Alexander will be headline speaker for the first general session of the 39th annual Farmers' Week at Michigan State college.

The dynamic 38-year-old 215-pound pastor of First Christian church of Oklahoma City, which insured his life for $100,000, will present "Life's Quiz Program" at 3:15 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 2, at the college auditorium.

Described by Time magazine . . . what Florenz Ziegfeld brought to Broadway and tabasco sauce to the raw oyster, the Rev. William Alexander brought to religion in Oklahoma City," he is one of the nation's most sought-after speakers. Sandwiched in between his Wednesday and Sunday sermons in his home church, he talked to about 1,000 groups from coast-to-coast in five years.

Durward B. Varner, director of M.S.C.'s Cooperative Extension Service, will be program chairman. He will introduce outstanding guests, including Geo. S. McIntyre, new director of Michigan Department of Agriculture, Gerald E. Eddy, director of Michigan Department of Conservation; G. Elwood Bonine, state director for Farmers Home Administration

Sisters Visit In A Cross-Country Phone Hook-Up

It was 11 a.m. one morning last week when Mrs. Carl McBride of Norwood received a telephone call from a Bloomington, Ind. operator advising her to be at her telephone at 8 p.m. that evening for a 'conference call'.

She spent the remainder of the day wondering what it was all about and long before 8 p.m. was at the phone anxiously awaiting its ring.

When the telephone rang promptly at 8 p.m. she lifted the receiver from the cradle and was greeted with a cheery "hello' from her four sisters, Mrs. Frank Selack of Selina, Utah, Mrs. Albert Ardinger of Miami, Fla., Mrs. Warner Rankin of Dayton, Ohio, and Mrs. Thomas Moore of Bloomington, Ind. Each was in her own home awaiting the call as was Mrs. McBride. The latter's daughter, Phyllis Moore, a telephone company employee in Bloomington had arranged the call as a surprise for her mother and aunts who were together 'via long distance telephone for the first time in 21 years, although they had seen each other during the years.

For the next 15 minutes they literally 'burned up' the long distance lines around the country. The hardest part, Mrs. McBride said, was to keep everyone from talking at the same time.

Mrs. McBride will be very happy to explain a 'conference call' to anyone . . . now that she has the information first hand.

Two Conventions Planned For Here

Charlevoix will be host to two more conventions during the summer of 1954 it was revealed this week in a letter from Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Kramer, owner-managers of the Beach Hotel, who are spending the winter months in Bay City.

The Michigan Veterinary Medical Association will hold its annual convention at the Beach Hotel June 18 and 19. An attendance of from 300 to 350 members and guests is expected for the event.

The Michigan Judges Association will come to the hotel later in season for a three-day meeting Sept. 1, 2 and 3. This convention is expected to bring from 150 to 200 members and guests here.

Development Group Has Annual Election

The annual stockholders meeting of the Charlevoix Development Corporation was held at the City Hall Tuesday evening with 45 of approximately 200 stockholders in attendance.

At the election of new directors which opened the meeting, S. E. Coleman and Clarence Rabach, whose terms expired at this time were re-elected for three year terms to succeed themselves. Charles Pontius, was elected for three years, replacing Mrs. J. W. Gordon, the former Mrs. John Knight, who had been appointed to fill out the term of John Schroeder.

Frank Oleksy, who had been appointed to the board to succeed the late Mr. Knight, was elected for a two-year term.

The $15,000 mortgage on the new factory building now under construction for I. T. Quarnstrom was presented and approved by the directors. The mortgage is a 10 year note bearing 1½ per cent interest to be repaid at the rate of $1,500 a year plus accrued interest. The amount was raised locally by the Development Corporation as a first mortgage on a new $50,000 fireproof factory building located on M-66 which will house a new industry for the community.

Mayor Dear Davenport reported on a meeting of the newly-organized Great Lakes Industrial Council which includes five Great Lakes states, held in Lansing recently, which he and Roy R. Robinson, city superintendent, attended.

Mr. Robinson and Mr. Coleman, secretary of the board of commerce, reported on several inquiries they have received from industrial plants seeking new locations.

William Van Raaphorst, representing the American Mold Engineering Co., gave a brief resume of his company's activities since coming to Charlevoix and answered questions put to him by stockholders

At a brief meeting of the board of directors following the general meeting, Ralph V. Hess was re-elected president of the Corporation; Mr. Coleman was renamed vice president; Joseph R. Williams, secretary and A. L. Livingston, treasurer.

In his report, Mr. Livingston revealed that the cost of operating the Charlevoix Development Corporation since it was organized three years ago was $246.00.

Goldman Fund Committee Has New Members

Plans for a rotating committee to serve on the Lenore Goldman Meyer Fund were made at a recent meeting of the present operating committee at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Ranger.

In an effort to enlarge the number of local people interested in the Fund and to relieve a small group from hearing the entire responsibility through the years, it was decided to name a local couple to the committee to serve for a period of two years. At the end of that time, they will be succeeded by another two people who will be asked to serve.

At this meeting, Mr. and Mrs. William Supernaw were named to the committee. They will succeed the Robert Miles when they complete their term of service in the fall.

It is the work of the local operating committee to investigate all requests for assistance and, if found worthy, to arrange for the assistance whether it is in the form of clothing, food, fuel or other items needed during an emergency.

A report on the work accomplished by the committee since the annual meeting in August was made. It revealed that the demands on the Fund have been small to date as compared with other years. The increase in year-round employment and the unseasonable weather during the fall months were given as the chief reasons for fewer requests.

Among the permanent projects sponsored by the Fund is milk for needy children who might not otherwise receive the health-giving food regularly. Since school opened in September, a total of $44.62 has been spent to purchase milk for these children who receive it daily, along with other children whose families can afford it.

The Lenore Goldman Meyer Fund was established by the family of the late Mrs. Meyer following her untimely death in 1941.

Purpose of the fund is to provide assistance to residents of the immediate Charlevoix area who are in need of emergency aid. The recipient must not be receiving assistance from any other source. Medical aid is not provided by the Fund.

Present members of the local operating committee are Mr. and Mrs. Ranger Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bridge and Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Meyer, who have served on the committee since the Fund was established, and Mr and Mrs. Miles.

Open Drive To Clothe Needy Children Here

A clothing drive to collect usable clothing for children in the elementary school age group, kindergarten through the sixth grade, opened this week.

Purpose of the drive is to secure usable articles of clothing which can be given to less fortunate children who need, perhaps, a pair of socks, mittens, underwear or boots.

Many people have such articles stored away, awaiting a chance to give them to someone who needs them. They have that opportunity now, for a committee headed by Kay Fitch has arranged to collect the clothing and prepare it for immediate use by sorting and marking it for size before giving it to the school, where it will be given out as it is needed.

Persons wishing to contribute used clothing are asked to leave it at Mailhot's or at the Courier office, where Miss Fitch and her committee can pick it up.

A storage place has been provided at school where the clothing will be stored until Mrs. Jeanne Miles, school nurse or the elementary school teachers need some small item to keep some child warm or clean.

At the present time the great need is for underwear, mittens, socks, shirts, boots, snowpants and dresses although any and all items of clothing will be accepted.

Explorer Scouts Enjoy Swimming In Boyne's Pool

The Charlevoix Explorer Scouts and their advisor, Ted Miller, last week became the first troop of the Northern District to take advantage of the facilities of the Boyne Mountain swimming pool made available to all scouts of the district on Wednesday evening. The opportunity was made possible through the efforts of John Murchie, district Scout executive and the courtesy of Charles Loll, of the Boyne Mountain resort.

Bruce Bergmann, troop scribe, has written the following account of the trip:

The Scouts went to Boyne Mountain swimming Wednesday and enjoyed it very much. The pool was an outdoor pool and had glass walls to keep the wind off the swimmers.

The Scouts left at 6:15 p.m. in cars driven by Lloyd Arnold, Paul Allers and Mr. Miller, scout master. We drove to Boyne Mountain and arrived at 7:10 p.m.

We went to the shower room and dressed and then went to the pool. The cement and ice were cold on our bare feet. The manager said we had to take off the zeolite blocks used to hold the heat in the water so Doug Reynolds jumped in, followed by everyone and we soon had the blocks off the water.

We swam around and then got out and ran around in the snow banks and jumped in again. The temperature outside the pool was 10 degrees above zero. The cloud of steam rising from the water made it seem warm but the hair on wet heads soon froze if we didn't duck often enough

We left for home at 8 15, stopping in Boyne Falls for hamburgers. We arrived home at 9 15 p.m.

The Formula for Accomplishment

Rev. W. N. Carr, Pastor
First Baptist Church

TEXT Philippians 4:13 "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

In the Epistle to the church at Philippi, which the Apostle Paul had established, we find the Apostle dealing with Christian experience. According to the teaching of Paul, Christian experience is not something that is going on around the believer, but something that is going on within him. Notice the assertion made in this brief statement of verse thirteen of chapter four. This familiar verse has within it three distinct thoughts that every thinking person should be interested in considering.

The first thought consists of the first two words of the verse. The Apostle Paul declares, I CAN! There is an old saying that I believe is [illegible] which [illegible] that, "Can't never did anything." Most people have enough initiative to want to do things, and enjoy doing them and seeing them done. A good desire is commendable but a great determination to make that good desire an actuality is far more worthwhile and profitable. Paul did not say, "I'll try," or "I hope to do it," or, "I'd like to do it, but I can't." He didn't need to make any excuses, for his was a positive declaration. So many folk are like a tramp who was asked how he determined which direction to travel. His answer was that he noted the direction of the wind and always traveled with it at his back. He and many people like him are going the way of least resistance. The way of accomplishment in any realm, and in particular the realm of real Christian experience and service is not found in the way of least resistance.

Observe now what the great Apostle Paul states in the second thought of this verse. He asserts I can DO ALL THINGS! The first two words of the verse showed us the determination of the Apostle, and the next three point out the extent of Paul's determined claim. Was Paul boasting in making such a statement? It was indeed a broad and inclusive claim to put in writing. "All things" does cover a great deal of ground. The answer as to whether the Apostle was boasting depends upon the way the question is considered. Very definitely Paul was not boasting of his own achievement, for in the third thought of the verse we see that he adds this qualifying truth. I can do all things THROUGH CHRIST WHICH STRENGTHENETH ME. This puts a different light upon the claim of Paul. It shows that not only the Apostle, but each one who is willing to put his trust in Christ is in a very real way capable of doing whatever God may require of him. Sometimes it seems that what we are asked to do is utterly impossible, but we have the promise that "All things are possible to him that believeth." When the Lord is our capability we will never be incapable. In the book of Isaiah this promise is given, "He giveth power to the faint, and to them that have no might he increaseth strength." Through Christ all things can be done!

Here in this short, but dynamic statement found in the Word of God is the formula for accomplishment in the calendar year that is ahead of us. Will you with heart-felt determination say, "I CAN DO ALL THINGS THROUGH CHRIST WHICH STRENGTHENETH ME."

Courier for Sales Work Fast

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

ALL OF you know that the March of Dimes is now underway . . . after all, you're adults and you're expected to knew those things. But here's a story told to us by Willard Bodley, Hayes township chairman, which proves that the kids are pretty conscious of the need of dimes and dollars . . . Two little boys at Bay Shore whose ages are six and eight respectively wanted to do something to help and after casting around for an idea came up with a good one . . . If their mother, Mrs. Dick Zipp, would make some good cookies they'd sell them and make some money for the March of Dimes . . . So, she baked cookies, the kids peddled them and the March of Dimes got a sizeable donation . . . Let's see all of you back the March of Dimes in such a whole-hearted manner . . . You don't need to be sold on the idea . . . you've heard it all a million times . . . so dig down deep and give . . . There's hope in the new vaccine that's being tried out this winter . . . Let's make the experiment possible and maybe, in years to come, the March of Dimes will become just a memory . . .

WE DON'T know to whom we're indebted but we did enjoy the special Orange Bowl issue sent to us recently from Miami . . . The game was an upset but the festivities were simply out of this world . . . Wouldn't it be fun to take them in some year?

AWRIGHT, so we were wrong and Lake Michigan wasn't skimmed with ice last week . . . But a lot of people, like us, thought it was . . . But if this cold weather continues it won't be long . . .

WE SAW our neighbor plowing around in the knee-deep snow in his yard Sunday and asked him what he was doing . . . He explained that he thought winter was really here to stay so he was putting on the last storm window . . . Now that should give you out-of-towners an idea just what the weather has been here . . .

NOTE to Bob Sanford: We certainly enjoyed your cute little poem about Charlevoix but it's not the policy of the Courier to print such contributions . . . Sorry . . .

IN THE MAIL this week a card from Mrs. Jessie Short who is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Lt. and Mrs Bill Garrison at Fort Belvoir, Va. . . . FROM DETROIT a clipping of a column written by William T. Noble, entitled 'State's last visible sign of King Strang faces ax' . . . It's about the Northern Islander Print Shop on Beaver Island which the Michigan Historical Association is trying to salvage . . . We sure hope they are successful for it's a shame that one of the very few real historical shrines in the state should be razed . . . Another building on the island, whose history dated back to about 1830 was lost last year in a fire . . . It was the old trading post, a log cabin building where the early traders sold their wares for furs and fish and other products of the north . . .

WHAT is news? . . . It's a question with a million answers, depending on the reader's likes and dislikes, interests and what have you . . . Not long ago we got into quite a discussion in the drug store with the town's oldest merchant, Art Hergeon, who always has the interest of the community at heart and Gene Gibelyon, who knows what he wants in his news and who was making his views known . . . We all agreed on one thing . . . that it was the little everyday things that are of interest in a small-town newspaper . . . The discussion brought to mind one of our favorite definitions of a small town credited to Abe Lincoln . . . "A small town is a place where everyone knows what everyone else is doing . . . But they want to read the local newspaper to see if they have been caught at it . . ."

REMEMBER we mentioned last week that the public ice rink at the school property was being prepared for skating . . . Since then it's been used every day and night with every kid in town and a lot of grown-ups enjoying it, for the weather's been perfect for skating . . . But we heard about one little boy who rushed home, when the rink was being flooded, and asked his mother for two coats 'cause he wanted to go skating . . . Since he had on a nice warm snowsuit his mother didn't get the idea 'til he explained that the man at the rink said that it would be ready for skating as soon as it had two more coats . . . And if that was all it needed to ready it for skating, he was going to furnish 'em . . .

UNLESS YOU were above the clouds Monday night, you missed the show of the week . . . the total eclipse of the moon . . . We had so looked forward to it and then low hanging clouds and an overcast had to obscure it from view . . . But be patient, there'll be a similar eclipse in Nov., 1956 . . . and next June there'll be an eclipse of the sun that will be visible here . . .

HOW would you like to gladden the heart of a child by giving him some warm clothes in this cold, cold weather? . . . You're being given that opportunity by a committee headed by Kay Fitch, which is collecting all sorts of wearable clothes to be given to children who come to school without the proper clothing . . . You can't believe it's true . . . that there are kids who don't have all sorts of warm clothes? . . . Then you talk with Mrs. Jeanne Miles, the school nurse, and the teachers of the children in the lower grades . . . Everyone has something around that no longer fits your Susie or Joe . . . Here's a chance to put it to work . . . The committee asks only that the clothing be clean, mended and is ready to wear . . . There is a crying need for underwear, socks, mittens, boys' shirts, snow pants and boots . . . but any other garments will be acceptable . . . If you've ever been cold, you'll realize what it will mean to these kids . . . most of them in the lower grades . . . and if you haven't, just be grateful that you've always had someone who could care for you and help some child who needs a hand at the moment . . .

By
HAROLD E. KOHN

When All Is Still

Every outdoor person knows there are advantages in quietness that noisiness never brings. The sound of steps crunching newly fallen snow will frighten noise-conscious deer. But if a person stands downwind of the white-tail's favorite browse with his form melting into the bole of a tree and is quiet as a pine trunk, he may watch at length the graceful movements of the unfrightened deer.

The fall forest may be alive with woodsy sounds — the rustle of leaves as squirrels brush them aside to bury their nuts, the faint stir of innumerable feathered and furred folk as they bustle about, foraging for food and building snug winter homes, and the gay chirps and whistles of the [illegible] chorus of birds. Then a rifle cracks. At once radiant gaiety is covered by a leaden cloud of fear. A chill quiet descends heavily upon the forest. The loveliness of nature, its jubilant joy, its exulting, bubbling, rippling cheer are banished by man's noisiness.

When we are still, we see what we could not otherwise see and hear what we could not otherwise hear. When all else is hushed, we hear the still small voice of God. God deals with us quietly. He sounds no trumpet. He rings no gongs, no bells. He does not shout. The communion He holds with us is as soundless as the growth of grain, as soft as falling snow, as still as the rising moon. How has the Heavenly Father told us of His care? Not by life's noisiness, but through its quietness. His might is declared by the slowly changing constellations of heavenly bodies which dwarf the size of our solar system. His dependability is witnessed to by the sure, unvarying change of the seasons from winter to spring, spring to summer, summer to fall, and fall to winter. His kindly, almost extravagant, Providence is bespoken by the lush growth of the plants and animals that congregate on [illegible]. But swinging stars, ebbing and flowing seasons, and the growth of rooted and footed things make no sound. The big things, the most significant ones of nature, are quietest. It is the little waves that are noisy; the great tides are hushed and still.

How often we abhor and detest enforced silence! Hours of loneliness, the departure of loved ones for distant places, days of inactivity caused by illness — all manner of involuntary quietness we are prone to shun. Yet, when all is still and the fever of life's rush subsides, the best opportunities for spiritual growth and creativity are afforded us. Then we think more deeply. We feel more intensely. We hear more, see more, understand more. Perhaps we have here a clue to why much of the world's most creative work has been done by people who experienced long periods of enforced quietness.

A Scottish lad, crippled with infantile paralysis and forced to live a life of limited physical activity, became one of the world's best-loved authors — Sir Walter Scott

Dr. Lewis Moorman has written a book on "Tuberculosis and Genius" which briefly reviews the lives of the many writers that have suffered from this disease. Much of their productiveness stemmed from their enforced quietness.

How does roiled, muddy water become clear? By standing quiet and still it changes from mud puddle to crystal pool. So do we.

TRUST YOUR DOCTOR'S DIAGNOSIS NOT YOURS!

Self diagnosis is dangerous in that it often tends to magnify symptoms of a minor disorder into those of a serious illness thereby inducing health-shattering worry. And just as often, self-diagnosis tends to belittle symptoms of serious illness as "something that will pass", thereby giving the trouble a chance to develop dangerously. When you feel ill — see your doctor at once and trust his diagnosis. It is based upon medical knowledge and experience. Follow his prescribed treatment to the letter of his instructions for speedier recovery.

Basketball

The Harbor Springs Rams do not feel that it is good for a team to go through the season undefeated and went ahead and demonstrated how it should be done Tuesday night of last week on the East Jordan floor before a packed house and squeezed out a 52-50 win after Art Klonster had tied the score at 50-all with two charity shots.

With just 13 seconds to go Arden Bawkey also dropped in two gift shots to spell defeat for the mighty Ellsworth Lancers. It was the Rams who turned the trick on the Lancers last year for their only defeat in regular season play.

On both occasions Ellsworth had won over the Harbor boys. The second team of Ellsworth also lost out to the Harbor seconds.

On Friday night the Lancers took a breather at the expense of the Central Lake Trojans and fattened their scoring average with a 93-29 win. It was an Ellsworth night all the way as the second team also won by a good margin.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Open Even When He's Closed

Must have been daydreaming on my way to a meeting down in Centerville the other night. My car ran dry before I thought to look at the gas gauge, but I managed to coast into a gas station—and found it closed!

Well, I thought my plans were ruined for sure until I noticed a gasoline can with a sign: "This is emergency gas. Just help yourself and leave the can with $1.00. Thanks."

Got started, made the meeting on time, and had enough gas to get back home again—thanks to a trusting friend.

From where I sit, folks who trust their neighbors make the world a better place to live in. For instance, letting a friend express his personal preferences, is one way of trusting your neighbor. Sometimes I prefer a temperate glass of beer in the evening but I'll always ask what you'd like before I pour yours.

Handouts Will Help Pheasants Survive The Winter Months

Ring-necked pheasant released last spring by the Norwood-Banks Hunting association are now facing their first test for survival in this territory. A little hand-out from farmers and sportsmen during the winter months will help them pull through.

Floyd Wagner, president of the association, has established a number of feeding stations in the Norwood area where birds are known to be wintering. He feels that he is making headway with the birds and urges others to assist by putting out feed in their localities.

Must Apply For Price Supports Before January 31 Deadline

LeRoy Hardy, Charlevoix county ASC Committee chairman urges all farmers interested in obtaining price support to contact the Charlevoix county ASC office immediately, since the deadline for such support is Jan. 31, 1954.

Requests for price support for the following crops will be accepted at the county office: oats, barley, rye, bean and wheat. Since all documents must be signed and completed before Jan. 31, it is important to request samples to be taken at once so that the testing laboratory will have time to complete the test and return the report to the county office. Requests for purchase agreements will be accepted in the county office through Jan. 31 since no samples need to be submitted to the testing laboratory for this form of price support.

Mr. Hardy states that, to date, loans have been issued on approximately 8,000 bushels of wheat and purchase agreements signed for more than 2,000 bushels This is a considerable increase over the same period in 1952-1953 since the take-over on both loans and purchase agreements was in the neighborhood of 1,600 bushels.

IT'S A DATE!

Every farmer in Charlevoix county is urged to attend the Sixth Annual meeting of the Charlevoix County Soil Conservation District at the Charlevoix High School auditorium, Thursday, January 28, at 8 p.m.

This Is A Very Important Meeting For Farmers

An outstanding program has been arranged, with B. C. Mellencamp, former Charlevoix Agricultural agent, as the main speaker.

A highlight of the program will be the recognition of farmers who, in the opinion of the judges, have done the most outstanding jobs in soil conservation practices in Charlevoix county.

Because of today's farm problems and production goals, it is vitally important that farmers utilize the latest information, designed to aid them in solving these problems and producing sufficient food and fiber for our nation.

Fertilizer Storage In State Is Large

Fertilizer storage facilities in Michigan are crowded with well-cured plant foods, advises Paul J. Rood, Michigan State college soil scientist.

Now is the time to get fertilizer of the kind and amount needed for successful 1954 operations. Fertilizer prices have not increased and no price increase is expected, he reports, but fertilizer will mean extra yields that can put extra dollars in farmers pockets.

Early Chicks Prove Profitable With Good Management

January-hatched chicks are beat only as money-makers by those hatched earlier. But they require special management.

Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent, pasess along these tips on raising chicks in winter months.

A stationary brooder house is an important part of the equipment. It should be large enough to give a square foot of floor space per chick up to 12 weeks and 2½ square feet of space per pullet up to time of laying. A house 20x20 feet will accommodate 400 chicks, if a farmer buys straight-run chicks the 12 week-old pullets would have more than two square feet when cockerels are marketed.

Minimum requirements for the brooder house are: Feeding space, an inch per chick the first two weeks; two inches from two to six weeks and three inches after seven weeks Waterers, two one-gallon fountains per 100 chicks up to three weeks and two three-gallon fountains from then on. Feed and water will be saved if feeders and waterers are raised as birds grow so they do not need to bend down.

Wet spots on the floor are ideal for coccidiosis germs; moisture and heat develop the infection. Waterers should be on wire stands and kept from dripping.

Craig Oats Yield Is Good In Most State Farm Tests

Southern Michigan farmers are being encouraged by Michigan State college farm crops specialists to seed Craig oats next spring. Craig is a new variety that was developed in New York and has been tested in most parts of Michigan for the past four years.

Craig oats have not as yet been tried in Charlevoix county on a farm production scale, according to Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, but results of test oat plots in the county during the last two years indicate the variety is suitable to the soils and climate of this area of the state. Results of the test plots of the past season have not been completed. As soon as the results are available Rebman says he will have a more complete summary of what may be expected from Craig in this territory.

Crops researcher John Grafius reports the new variety has yielded as well or better than other recommended varieties in the southern half of the state. The white oat also shows considerable disease resistance and better standing ability.

One of the biggest advantages of Craig oats, classed as a mid-season to late variety, is that it matures a little later than the wheat crop. That means a farmer wouldn't hava two harvests on his hands at one time, as often happens with other earlier oat varieties. Grafius recommends Craig for the southern half of the Lower Peninsula, including the Thumb. He predicts the variety will do well except on extremely rich soils and where lodging usually is a problem.

Extension Crops Specialist Leyton V. Nelson cautions farmers not to be discouraged by the poor showing of Craig in county test plots last year. He attributes the poor performance to seed of low germination.

Another extension specialist, S. C. Hildebrand, estimates that there are about 40,000 bushels of certified seed of Craig oats available now from 40 growers. The growers are scattered well over the state but most of the supply is in the Thumb area and the Saginaw Valley section. Names of growers are included in the Certified Seed Directory, available at the offices of county agricultural agents.

Week-end Date Set For Charlevoix Fair

Dates for the 1954 Charlevoix county fair have been tentatively set for the first weekend in September. Registration day will be Friday, Sept. 3 with the fair running through to Labor Day night.

The decision to try a weekend fair was made at a recent meeting of the directors of the Charlevoix County Agricultural society who felt these dates would be more attractive to fair goers.

Arranging a program that will have public appeal appears to be the big job facing the directors this year. Hot-rod auto racing is being considered as one of the feature attractions along with vaudeville acts, baseball, horse pulling and a horse show.

Dick Schroeder, East Jordan agricultural teacher who was elected secretary of the organization at the annual meeting has tendered his resignation because of conflicts with his school activities. Charles Murphy, veteran fair director, also resigned from the board following the decision of the directors to hold a Sunday fair. The two vacancies will be filled by the directors at a later meeting.

Good Ventilation Needed By Laying Flocks In Winter

Even in the coldest weather, your layers need ventilation, cautions Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent.

This also means, he says, that the birds should not get chilling drafts. Air intakes and outlets should be well above the birds.

Michigan State college poultrymen advise, however, that rear end walls should be closed tightly. They suggest keeping front windows open from the top until the chickens' water starts to freeze, but never closing all windows regardless of the outside temperature. Otherwise colds will hit the flock.

To keep water from freezing in cold weather, the poultrymen think automatic water warmers are the answer. They point out that many successful poultrymen have found out that the heater pay for themselves in increased egg production.

If water is too cold or frozen even for a short time, there will be a drop in egg production.

Charlevoix Loses Tight Game To Harbor Rams

Charlevoix's Dwain Walker (11) was joined by Harbor Springs' Stan Pifer (43) and Cart Seeley (54) as he went up for the ball in the close game between the Rayders and the Rams on tho latter's floor Friday night. The regular game ended in a 44-44 tie after Harbor Springs had led throughout the game. The Rams outscored the Rayders in the overtime for a 49-47 victory.

Announce List Of Teams For Year's District Meeting

The Charlevoix Rayders will be one of 16 teams entered in this year's district tournament at Petoskey it was announced this week by T. A. Treloar, tournament manager at Petoskey

Petoskey is one of three tournament centers in the state to have the large entry list which includes Class B, C and D teams. This marks the second year the B teams have played at Petoskey.

Class B teams assigned to the tournament are Petoskey, Alpena Catholic Central, Cheboygan and Rogers City.

Rayders To Play Gaylord Here Friday, Boyne There On Tuesday

This week will find the teams of the Northern Michigan Class C league concluding the first half of their 12-game loop schedules before starting the second series of games next Tuesday.

On Friday Charlevoix will host Gaylord; Harbor Springs will Journey to Mancelona and Pellston will entertain Boyne City in loop meetings. East Jordan, which completed its first round of league play Friday, will meet Traverse City St. Francis on the Jordanites floor in a non-league game.

On Tuesday the loop teams will open the second round of league play which will be packed into the next five weeks. Charlevoix will travel to Boyne City; East Jordan will host Pellston and Gaylord will play at Harbor Springs. Mancelona will not play.

This week will find the Charlevoix Rayders, who dropped to second place in league standings following their overtime loss to Harbor Springs, will be hosting Gaylord, which at this time is sharing the cellar position with Boyne City with a record of one win in five games.

The Rayders are being put through their paces this week by Coach Del Terrill in an effort to get them in shape for their meeting with the Blue Devils following their loss to the Rams in an overtime game Friday night. Gaylord showed promise Friday night as they led the Mancelona Ironmen for better than two quarters, although they lacked the punch to put them into the victory column. Like all league teams, however, they will be pointing for the Rayders who might find them hard to beat despite their last place standing. On the basis of records, which often times mean little, the Charlevoix five should have an edge in this meeting. The Rayders will have to win the game to go into a first place tie with East Jordan which took over the league lead last week with five wins in six games as they completed the first half of the season a week early.

The Harbor Springs Rams, riding high after their upset of the Rayders last week, will invade Mancelona this Friday in the hopes of continuing their victory march. The Ironmen, however, have shown strength along the way with losses only to the two teams that top them in league standings, Charlevoix and East Jordan. This, added to the fact that they playing in home territory, should give tha Ironmen an advantage which the Rams will find difficult to overcome. A win by Harbor Springs would throw tham into a tie with Mancelona for either second or third placa, depanding on the outcome of the Charlevoix-Gaylord game.

Pellston, sharing fourth place with Harbor Springs, will entertain the Boyne City Rambers who are tied with Gaylord for fifth place.

The Ramblers looked good Friday as they headed East Jordan briefly before losing to the new loop leaders, 55-47. They will havo to be at their best to take tho scrappy Hornets, who have racked up wins over Gaylord and Harbor Springs. The game could go either way but the team that can take advantage of the breaks will come through with the victory.

On Tuesday the second round of league play will get underway. The Charlavoix Rayders, who defeated the Ramblers 52-42 to open the saason, will play a return game at Boyne City and will find tough going in the return game. East Jordan, who defeated Pellston 43-28 in their initial meeting will host the Hornets in a game which will find the northern team much more polished. Gaylord, who upset tha Rams 41-37 in December will play a return game at Harbor Springs.

Jan. 29 will find Charlevoix hosting East Jordan; Boyne City traveling to Gaylord; Mancelona playing at Pellston and Harbor Springs invading Grayling.

Rayder Defeat Gives E. Jordan First Spot

In an overtime game played at Harbor Springs Friday night the Charlevoix Rayders went down to defeat at the hands of an inspired Rams squad by a score of 49-47. The regular game ended in a 44-44 tie.

The loss dropped the Rayders, who had led the league all season, into second place behind the East Jordan Red Devils who took over the league lead by virtue of five wins in six games as the team completed the first half of its league schedule. All other league teams have one game to play to complete the first round of the 12 game loop schedule.

The game was speeded up in the last period as each team tried for the basket that would spell victory but the score remained close and with less than a minuta to go was 43-42 as Harbor's Stan Pifer stapped to the free throw line to sink the sacond of two frea throw

It Takes A HEAP OF HAULING ...to make a Home!

IF YOU'VE BUILT a new home recently—or are in the midst of doing so now—you know how dependent building is on motor transport.

From the moment the big exacavating shovel arrives at the vacant lot astride a low-bed truck-trailer to dig the hole for your basement, it's a steady procession of trucks of one kind or another until the house is ready for occupancy.

Cement blocks, sand, steel, lumber, roofing, brick, plumbing, hardware, paint—everything that goes into the building of your home has to get to the site in motor trucks.

Then, when you arrive at the point where you're ready to move in, you call on motor transport again to transport your household furnishings for you.

Friday Games Promise High NMCCC Action

Action in the Northern Michigan Class C league will reach a new high Friday as East Jordan invades Charlevoix; Boyne City travels to Gaylord and Pellston hosts Mancelona in loop games and Harbor Springs journeys to [illegible] for a non-league meeting.

The Charlevoix-East Jordan [illegible] but the game will [illegible] top the list for this week. The meeting between the two teams is always a traditional battle and this one will be no exception, particularly after the Red Devils upset [illegible]. In their first meeting the Rayders won 47-39. Since then East Jordan has been pointing for this game in an effort to avenge the loss. The best the visitors can hope for in a victory is a first place tie with the Rayders while the latter will be out to keep possession of the league lead. Anything can happen and probably will in the meeting, with the outcome a toss-up.

The Boyne City Ramblers who threatened to upset the Rayders Tuesday will travel to Gaylord to meet the last place Blue Devils. In their first meeting the Rambers won 65-61 and should do even better this time.

Mancelona was tagged the hard-luck team of the league with the loss of veteran Johnny Holstad with an ankle injury Tuesday and will be short-handed when they journey to Pellston to take on the Hornets who are riding high following their upset of East Jordan. Bill Dalton who was out of the line-up for two weeks after suffering a head in-

The council adopted a resolution and forwarded a copy to Senator Charles Potter urging that a new federal building be constructed here. At the present time the postoffice is located at the corner of Bridge and Antrim streets in a building leased from H. O. Krahnke.

The council also authorized the city attorney, Norman Ance, and the city surveyor, Mrs. Lawrence Feindt, to go ahead with preliminary right of way proceedings to secure property for a railroad spur to replace the present one now owned by the Medusa Cement company, which crosses the municipal airport.

Bills totaling $15,632.44 were also approved and ordered paid.

In the game at Boyne City Tuesday, the Rayders took a 13-7 first quarter lead; held it 23-19 at the half and a 30-23 third period lead before the Ramblers' Club Rothenberger dumped in 11 points in the last period to cut the Rayder lead to one point as the game ended.

An error by the official timekeeper had the game ending in a 46-46 tie and the officials and the crowd prepared for an overtime battle before scorekeepers corrected the mistake and the crowd dispersed.

Four points each by LaBlance and Bennett, three by Swanson and one by Walker gave the Rayders a 13-7 first period lead. The Ramblers scored three field goals and a free throw.

Gordon Mol added four, Bennett three, Walker two and Joe McDermott one in the second period for a 23-19 halftime lead after Boyne City had tallied five field goals and two free throws.

The Unfinished Gospel

Rev. Lloyd M. Schloop, Pastor
The Methodist Church

"Daddy, read me this story", one of my boys said, picking up a comic book which some one had left in the parlor. We looked at the pictures, and I told him the story until we reached the part where Donald Duck went over a big falls in a boat. "Tell me the rest", my boy begged. But the rest of the paper was torn off and lost. I had to make up a [illegible] to the story, quite sure that Donald Duck had not been killed.

[illegible] Gospel [illegible] Mark [illegible] an unfinished story. No [illegible] chapter 16. Some old manuscripts [illegible] long [illegible]. Some end in the middle of [illegible]. What happened? No one knows. Perhaps Mark was [illegible] Peter [illegible] he was writing and rushed off to jail. We do not know. [illegible] the idea of an unfinished Gospel [illegible] that way, wanted [illegible] the Gospel [illegible] Christ the Son of God is unfinished [illegible]. We are Christian are still [illegible] next Sunday celebrate [illegible] as much as Easter itself.

[illegible] the early Christians felt the Gospel was unfinished business. Just as soon as Luke, the Christian physician, finished his Gospel he went on to write the Acts of the Apostles. Nor did the unfinished Gospel stop with the pages of the New Testament. Years later in half-pagan Rome, Telemachus, a Christian, put an end to the gladitorial fights, where men fought until death in the arena. One day he leaped over the stone parapet onto the bloody sands holding aloft a cross and shouting, "Stop! Stop this killing! In the name of Christ! Stop!" They ran him through with a spear and went on with the games. But the public conscience was stirred. In a few days a decree was issued that never again would there be such an affair. The senseless brutal killing stopped. A page in the unfinished Gospel was written.

The Gospel is still the first item of unfinished business. It is carried over from the last meeting. As long as there are hard hearts and cruel ways among us, it will remain unfinished business.

And it is business which we can not handle by ourselves. It is too much for us. But it is not too much for God-in-Christ. He specializes in the impossible. He can change our hearts and the world. But he does not compel us. It is up to us to accept his help and join with others in writing more pages in the unfinished Gospel.

THE BOY Scouts will observe Boy Scout week beginning Feb. 7 . . . On Sunday night we listened to a dramatization of the story of scouting and how it was first started in England, the brain child of a retired English general, Robert Baden-Powell . . . Like so many things new and progressive, scouting had to fight for recognition, but thanks to an old soldier who had faith in the movement, the Boy Scouts of America will celebrate their forty-fourth birthday anniversary next month . . . Later his wife, Lady Baden-Powell, organized the Girl Guides, which we know as the Girl Scouts in this country . . . We would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge the work of Boy Scout and Girl Scout leaders of our community who give so generously of their time and talents so that the youngsters of Charlevoix may become good citizens of tomorrow by being good Scouts today . . .

AND speaking of birthdays, one of our favorite people will enjoy a birthday anniversary Sunday . . . We know that at his home in St. Louis he will be surrounded by his family and friends who will gather for the occasion . . . We would like him to know that though his many friends will not be with him in person, they will be in spirit . . . Through the years his name has become synonymous with all things good in the minds and hearts of his friends here . . . So from all of us in your part-time home, Charlevoix, our best birthday wishes, Alvin D. Goldman . . . May you know many more with each better than the last . . .

PEOPLE who live along Round Lake couldn't believe their eyes one day recently when they saw two swans swimming along the southern shore line . . . where they came from, where they have gone, remains a mystery . . . Mrs. George Wolf, who was visiting on the south side of the lake, saw them and said there was no doubt but what they were swans . . . The only swans we know about are at East Jordan . . . and surely they wouldn't fly that far . . . or would they? . . . Lake Charlevoix is frozen over they would have to come via air (At least we doubt that they would walk that far) . . . They haven't been seen since, as far as we could find out, so if you know the answer let us know . . .

COULDN'T believe our eyes the other day when we saw a red fur cap coming down the south side hill . . . And were we amazed when we found that none other than William 'Jock' Gibson was wearing it . . . Gee, it made you just warm and happy to see him and it . . .

ANOTHER of our good friends and yours went home from the hospital Saturday . . . None other than Colin McKenzie . . . He gave us quite a scare a while back . . . We hope now that he's better he'll straighten up and follow the doctor's orders . . . You better take care of yourself, Colin . . . it just wouldn't be the same without you . . .

SAW another one of those Arctic owls the other day that we've been hearing so much about this winter . . . This one met its end when it collided with a C&O diesel engine . . . We didn't get all the details from Lawrence Supernaw who had gotten it from the engineer on the train but somewhere along the way it had met up with the engine . . . and that was all . . .

AN ORCHID, long over-due we might add, to the crew at the Charlevoix postoffice . . . It comes from Mrs. L. E. Grate who told us the reason for her praises . . . Seems she'd gone to the bank last week and withdrawn quite a sum of money . . . In a hurry she stuffed it in her purse while doing errands, among them mailing several letters at the postoffice . . . She was hardly home when the phone rang . . . It was Dan Genett, assistant postmaster, asking if he could borrow a certain amount . . . She thought he'd lost his mind until he told her that the men in the office had found the money between the letters she'd mailed . . . And she hadn't even realized she'd lost it . . . We added our own favorite stories to the one she told . . . about their kindnesses to people on their routes, all the little favors they do for people to spoil all of us, for we know that no place else would it happen . . . The ones we like the best tho' are the countless ones we heard during World War II and during the Korean conflict from families who hadn't heard from their loved ones . . . And when a letter came in, someone would always find time to call the family or deliver the letter in person to the families . . . Just one of the little things that makes us think our postal workers are pretty special . . . But then, everything about Charlevoix is pretty special . . . And where else could you pick up your mail and hear some of the cleverest jokes of the day . . . we ask you . . .

WE'VE heard of some lovely presents sent from overseas, but one of the loveliest was a set of china sent from Japan to the newly-weds, the Dick Southwoods . . . it's in the thistle pattern, we're told and very special . . . They came as a wedding gift from Mrs. S step-father, Thurman Corbin, who is there with the Navy.

THERE'S only one private home in Charlevoix where the American flag is displayed regularly . . . regardless of the weather, a grand little lady puts the flag out every morning and each evening brings it in . . . Last week when it was so cold, the routine went on as always . . . You've guessed it . . . It's at the Flanders home across from the school and it's Mrs. Judith Robson who displays it faithfully . . .

WE'RE always saying 'Never thought I'd live to see' . . . this or that or what have you . . . the latest thing to come under this is the new Mackinac bridge . . . Since we can remember there's been talk about the bridge . . . In the days when debates were more popular than now . . . (in high school we mean, not Congress) . . . we used to argue the subject . . . Was it practical, feasible or what have you . . . And now they tell us the project will start in about 30 days . . . Everyone has his own idea what it will mean to northern Michigan . . . We just know it will mean a lot of things . . . most of them good . . . And it's going to be something to see . . . Last summer everyone drove to the Straits area to see the pipeline which will be nothing by comparison . . . We're sure glad we live close enough to it that we'll be able to watch its progress . . . But can you imagine it? . . . Don't feel badly . . . neither can we . . .

Feeling Low?

By
HAROLD E. KOHN

Fears Often Fool Us

"Hoo-hoo, hoo-hoo, hoo-hoo, hoo, hoo-aaww." The cry haunts the evergreen forest, hovering among hemlock boughs, then sweeping across a moonlit glade. Camping wide-eyed boys with prickling scalps and tingling spines burrow deep into the warm shelter of their sleeping bags. Another ghostly call, and the sleepy voice of the scout-master speaks reassuringly: "Go to sleep. Nothing will hurt you. That's only a barred owl, telling the world he's about to set out on his nightly hunt."

Our fears often fool us. They make innocent voices sound so evil and little things look so big. In India, several native women travelling for the first time through the hill country had tigers and leopards on their minds. They had been told hair-raising stories of these prowling, hungry, ferocious beasts. When they retired to their beds at night their imaginations reviewed all the terrifying incidents that had been related to them. In the middle of that night a woman's scream pierced the darkness, followed by other frightened shrieks—as all the women learned what had happened. One of their number had seen eyes glowing under the bed! Tigers! Then it was discovered that the tigers' eyes were but glow-worms, casting their pale light. Fears have a way of doing that, interpreting glow-worms as tigers.

One of the real dangers of fear is that there is just enough value in it to give it respectability. Like a half-lie, which gets itself accepted far more readily than a deep-dyed, black falsehood, fear has enough sense in it to be of good repute. Some fears are wholesome. Fear of disease motivates progress in sanitation and medical research and prompts vaccination and obedience to doctors' orders. Fear of ignorance helps build educational systems. Fear of war establishes a United Nations organization and fosters every noble experiment in co-operative efforts for world peace. Fear of being maimed or killed makes for safety on the streets and highways. To be absolutely fearless is to be utterly foolish.

Other fears are ruinous. Fear of making a mistake may prevent a person's doing anything of consequence. Fear of opposition, of being misinterpreted and misunderstood, may so sicken one's courage that he cannot accept leadership in a worthy community project. Fear of appearing sentimental may kill good impulses within us so that our souls are actually "scared to death." Fear of the future, the unforeseen, the unknown may weaken hope until our love of living dies of heart failure.

Most fears are practical jokers, loving to go about making fools of the easily excited and the readily deceived. Fear hoots from trees, ruining our outings, hangs ghostly sheets amidst life's adventures, raps and shuffles weirdly in the empty rooms of our loneliness. But when investigated, the hoots come from harmless owls, the ghostly sheets are a drying wash, and the raps and shuffles but the swinging of the shutters and playful winds scattering age-yellowed newspapers around the room.

How is it possible to be rid of unwholesome fears so that we are left with only those that can be constructively and wisely used?

First, lead a clean life. Then guilt at least cannot haunt us, or the fear of being found out hound and harry us.

Secondly tap adequate, everlasting resources. Then we need not be afraid of running out of courage, spirit, and strength to face life's testings. Much of our fearfulness is due to our souls being but shallow cisterns about to run dry. We don't know where to turn for the water of life. But if we are more than cisterns—artesian wells linked to the Inexhaustible Suppy — we shall be unafraid. The Psalmist knew the answer to the problem of handling fear: "The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The Lord is the strength of my life; of whom (or of what) shall I be afraid?"

There's a delightful fashion report from the women's world that just in case you didn't happen to come thru' the recent holiday season in such good shape, it won't really have to matter much.

And if your fruit cake happened to settle into a hippy vicinity, you can accentuate your bulgy positive with a fashionable bustle.

The glitter of rhinestones and sequins has dolled down to the polish of a bone button . . . and smart things are strictly shirtwaist.

Southern resorts are flaming with a new shade of pink called Pacific Sun Red . . . and the popular long shorts are fancied-up with cut-out embroidery on imported linen.

All this I can understand . . . but. WHY the long sleeved bathing suit? Goodness, who wants to cover up the only two of her four arms and legs that might not be pigeon-toed or bow-legged!

Sportsmen Hear Rev. Kohn

The Ellsworth Sportsmens club and guests enjoyed a rare treat at their annual game supper held Wednesday evening of last week when Rev. Harold Kohn of the Charlevoix Congregational church spoke to the group, using as his theme "Can You Take A Hint?" Throughout his talk, he emphasized the wonder and awe of the realm of nature and God's plan for every living creature. Also how sportsmen even though not successful in bagging game or catching their fish, can still come home with a sense of well being for having been out in God's world of nature with it's infinite, intricate, well balanced plan.

The delicious game was furnished and prepared by the members and cooked by Mrs Fred Denny, Mrs Earl Denny and Mrs Ed Denny.

In spite of bad weather a large group attended, but it was regretted that guests from the conservation department in Gaylord were unable to come because of the storm.

Cooper-Arnold Wedding Vows Are Spoken In Double Ring Service

Ellsworth — Miss Kaye Cooper became the bride of Robert Arnold in a lovely ceremony held in the Ellsworth Christian Reformed church Friday evening, Jan 22. Kaye is the daughter of Mr and Mrs Harry Cooper and Robert is the son of Mr and Mrs. Spencer Arnold of Central Lake.

Rev E. Boeve, pastor of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends. The church was decorated with large wedding baskets of white pom poms and snapdragons, palms and candelabra.

Music for the service was provided by Mrs Thelma Addington, organist of Detroit and an aunt of the groom. She played the traditional wedding music and served as accompanist for the soloist, Marvin Shooks, who sang "Hold Thou My Hand" and "Because" before the entrance of the bride and "The Lord's Prayer" as the young couple knelt at the altar, following the speaking of their vows.

Kaye, given in marriage by her father, made a lovely bride in her wedding dress of lace over satin. The dress featured a net yoke trimmed in seed pearls, a Peter Pan collar and long sleeves coming to a point over the wrists. The full gathered skirt ended in a long train. Her net veil was held in place by a poke bonnet bride cap and she wore a pearl necklace, gift from the groom. She also carried a white Bible topped with a white rosebud [illegible].

Mildred Cooper, sister of the bride, [illegible] as maid of honor and Cheryl Hall of Berkley, niece of the [illegible] was the junior bridesmaid. They wore identically fashioned formals of net and lace with matching lace jackets, Mildred's in maize and Cheryl's in blue. They wore matching flower wreath headbands. Their colonial bouquets were fashioned of matching pom poms.

Melvin Arnold, of Detroit and brother of the groom, and Herman Cooper, brother of the bride served as groomsmen and Wilfred Jansen cousin of the bride and Kenneth Watson, brother-in-law of the groom seated the guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception for approximately 200 guests was held in the church parlors with Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jansen as master and mistress of ceremonies. Mrs John Klooster supervised the serving of the guests, assisted by Joyce Wassenaar, Thelma Goeman and Eleanor VanderArk who also took charge of the gift room.

The four tiered wedding cake was iced in white and topped with a miniature bride and groom and wedding bell arrangements. White pom poms graced the serving table and white wedding bells and pink and white decorations throughout the dining room provided an appropriate setting.

Musical numbers on the reception program were given by Mrs H. E. VanderArk and Mrs. James Vandenberg and Mrs. Gerrit George Drenth and Mr and Mrs Kenneth Watson. Mrs. John Klooster and Mrs Gerrit George Drenth gave a song and skit and Mr and Mrs Willard VanderArk and Mr and Mrs Fred Van Ste[illegible] presented a humorous skit, original poems written by Mrs John Fripett and George Drenth [illegible] and Don VanderArk [illegible] gave a reading to complete the program. Rev E. Boeve spoke briefly and closed the program with prayer.

Little Rayders Edge Gaylord Reserves 35-32

The Charlevoix Reserves edged past the visiting Gaylord Reserves Friday for a three-point 35-32 victory in a game which saw the Gaylord five overcome 18-5 first period and 24-14 halftime leads to head the little Rayders 27-26 at the third quarter mark.

The victory gave the local squad their eighth win of the current season.

With Pouquette scoring six points on two field goals and two free throws, Kolker adding two field goals, Dennis and Joe Etienne each scoring three points on a field goal and a free throw and Fred Putman a field goal, the Rayders went into an 18-5 first period lead.

Gaylord's scoring was confined to two field goals and a free throw.

The visitors outscored the local five 9-6 in the second period to cut the halftime lead to 24-14. Kolker and Dennis scored one field goal each and Ken Balch added two free throws as Gaylord scored on two field goals and five charity shots.

Charlevoix scored only two points, a field goal by Glenn Ikens in the third quarter as Gaylord went ahead 27-26 at the end of the period. The visitors had scored 13 points on five field goals and three free throws.

With the lead changing often, the last period was the liveliest of the game with each team battling for the ball and attempting to score. Field goals by Etienne, Ikens and Vandenberg and free throws by Kolker and Dennis gave the Rayders their eighth win of the season.

Kolker of Charlevoix and Campbell and Blashill of Gaylord shared scoring honors with eight points each.

Last Week With Class 'C' Teams

Northern Michigan Class C standings were re-shuffled as the first half of the 1953-54 season drew to a close Friday night with Charlevoix moving into a first place tie with East Jordan following the Rayders' victory over Gaylord by a 58-37 score; Harbor Springs edged into a second place tie with Mancelona after defeating the Ironmen 54-52 and Boyne City moved out of the cellar position it had shared with Gaylord into a third place tie with Pellston with a 47-40 win over the Hornets.

The East Jordan Red Devils, who had moved into the league lead last week when it completed its league schedule, defeated Traverse City St. Francis 53-34 in a non-loop game.

At Mancelona, where the Ironmen were playing without regular Bill Dalton, who was injured in the Mancelona-Grayling game Tuesday, held an 18-9 first period lead which Harbor Springs whittled down to 25-20 at halftime and 42-36 at the third period before taking the game in the closing seconds. The Rams' Stan Pifer paced the game with 28 points; Johnny Halstad had 19 for the Ironmen.

At Pellston the Ramblers took an early lead and held it 8-6 at the quarter; 22-14 at the half and 32-30 at the third period before forging ahead for a seven-point win. Don Milbrandt paced the scoring with 16 for Boyne City while Glenn Aurrand had 14 for the Hornets.

East Jordan had no trouble with the visiting Traverse City St. Francis squad as the Devils went ahead 19-4 at the quarter, 31-15 at the half and 41-26 at the third period. Allan Sommerville had 19 points for the victors and J. Wolf had 10 for the parochials.

No person would be foolhardy enough to stand within two feet of a railroad track as a streamliner roars by. But some motorists take far greater risks when they change a tire on the shoulder of a high speed highway with cars whizzing by at 60 miles an hour.

The stage is set for disaster—especially at night when a motorist can't see the emergency repair situation until he is almost upon it.

All it takes to produce an accident is for the tire changer to slip back a foot or two or for the oncoming motorist to move over a little due to a puff of crosswind, a car coming toward him, a car passing him or headlight glare.

C., or from any Coast Guard District Office or Marine Inspection Office.

Winter Is Best Time To Remove Decayed Trees

Winter is the best season for removing those dead, dying, severely decayed or crowded shade trees around the home or in the community.

William B. Love, extension specialist in municipal forestry at Michigan State college, explains the reason this way: When the ground is frozen or protected by snow, there is less danger of damaging lawns and flower beds with falling trees or the skidding or moving of logs. And many tree service concerns are not so busy this season of the year. Winter also is a safe time to dispose of brush and wood by burning.

Home Demonstration Leaders Study Methods Of Hammering Copper

Charlevoix Home Demonstration leaders met Friday at the K. P. hall for a lesson in Hammered copper given by K. C. Festerling, 4-H club director and Mrs. Emma Reinbold, Home Demonstration agent.

During the afternoon each leader was taught to change a piece of roofing copper into such things as hammered copper dishes, ash-trays and letter holders.

Leaders will then return to their respective clubs to teach members the interesting and useful skill.

Women of the community are invited to join a Home Demonstration group.

by Gene Alleman

SHARPENED political axes were hacking away, even before Gov. Williams completed his recent address to the 67th session of Michigan's legislature.

Some people considered the speech itself a rather keen weapon. The governor dealt, he said, with only the most pressing problems including "prosperity" in 1954 for Michigan citizens. Other needs, among them education, would be called to the lawmakers' attention in subsequent addresses.

Immediate objections were voiced by Republicans to the governor implying credit for the balanced budget. They recalled that he permitted the business receipts tax, which brought in the required revenue to attain financial balance, to become law. But he did so without signing the bill and with plain spoken misgivings.

MAJOR fields and proposals in the governor's address.

Agriculture: A $500,000 marketing program; better promotion of Michigan products.

Industry: Increase unemployment insurance to 50% of prevailing average wage ($82.30 at current figures), plus $2 per week for each child; lengthen payment period from 20 to 26 weeks. Increase workmen's compensation and disability insurance payments. Set minimum wage at $1 per hour.

Small Business: Legislation to permit the formation of a privately financed company to supply venture capital and aid to small enterprises.

Tourist Industry: Set aside income from mineral, oil and gravel deposits on state land to help support parks. Improvement of conservation programs.

St. Lawrence Waterway: Michigan needs it; urge Congress to provide it.

Old battles can be renewed over the governor's remarks about the highway program. He charged, as he did months ago, that the highway commission has not made use of all federal money it had available.

On that occasion Highway Commissioner Ziegler produced letters from Washington and numerous auditors to show that Michigan had allocated all such funds.

Ziegler was more than mildly irritated with the governor's remarks. Labeling the charge "political chicanery", Ziegler indicated that Williams knew he was misrepresenting the facts.

ONE MILLION dollars a day is required to operate the state of Michigan during the coming year, according to the budget message of Gov. Williams.

Study of this proposal is the key problem of lawmakers during the session which opened Jan. 13. Exact amount outlined by the governor is $365,541,568.

"No deficit financing is needed," predicts the governor, "unless unforeseen situations arise." This is one point agreed upon by leaders of both parties. It is extremely unlikely that the appropriation measures passed by legislators will show red ink. Neither side would relish the blame for planning a deficit.

Last year's budget message proposed expenditures of $348,401,700. The legislature worked this sum down to $338,593,602 before final approval. The new proposal is eight per cent higher. (About $27 million more than was requested in the previous message.)

About 40% of this increase is required by law under the sales tax diversion amendment and will be allocated as increase aid to local school districts.

"Other major factors responsible for increased appropriation recommendations include: higher college enrollments, additional beds in mental hospitals, inescapable improvements in our correctional system, and additional efforts in respect to tuberculosis," said Governor Williams.

"Four functions account for $25.1 millions or 93% of the increase in the General Budget. Education 69%, Mental Hygiene 10%, Corrections 8%; Public Health 6%."

First session is usually brief, informal. A little like opening day of school after summer vacation. Legal requirements of the legislature's start are conformed to, organization gets underway. Its "house" in order, the governor is "called in" for his address. This speech bears the same relationship to state government as the United State President's "State of the Nation" address does to federal government.

Special chairs are crowded into the House of Representative chamber so that Senators, members of the Supreme Court in their official robes, and other high officials can be present to hear the governor speak his opinions on what laws and appropriations should be made.

In following sessions, the legislature is expected to consider subjects set forth in the governor's message and propose measures to deal with the problems he outlined.

Before the session begins certain key rules are agreed upon. These include the closing date, final date for submitting bills and a day by which committees must recommend action on bills [illegible] its jurisdiction or permit them to "die".

Closing date of this session is set for April 9.

Legislators have until Feb 10 to introduce bills. After that date whatever business is submitted will go through the legislative machinery.

There was talk at one time that this would be a short session. But now predections are that 1,000 bills will be submitted. This is more than can be properly considered in the time alotted. The more important ones will be acted upon, many must drop from sight, not to become issues this year.

Start New Paper 'The Grape Vine'

The first issue of the Grape Vine, a publication for and about the Michigan Home Demonstration Council was received by members last week.

of Boyne's 21 points were scored by Rothenberger who connected for five field goals and a free throw to become top scorer for his team.

Bennett came through with seven points, LaBlance with six, Walker with two and White with one to keep the Rayders in the lead as the game ended.

Boyne City outscored the Rayders in the field goal department, scoring 19 to Charlevoix's 16. Charlevoix won the game on free throws, scoring 14 out of a possible 20 while committing 12 personal fouls. Boyne scored 7 of 18 free throws and committed 17 personal fouls.

Bennett paced the scoring with 16 points for Charlevoix; LaBlance had 13; Walker seven; Mol, four; Swanson three; White two and McDermott one. Others who entered the line-up were Dave Glassford, Bob Mathews and Quint Walker.

Friday Games Will Provide NMCC Action

jury to the Grayling game will add some depth to the Ironmen's offense but cannot be expected to replace Holstad who is top scorer in the league. The game could be close but with Mancelona weakened by the loss of their main scorer, Pellston may have a chance to replace the Ironmen in league standings.

The Harbor Springs Rams who have racked up three league and one non-loop wins in recent weeks to move into third place in league standings will travel to Grayling to take on the Vikings who have an even more impressive record. In an earlier meeting Grayling won over the Rams 58-30 and Harbor will be attempting to even the score. They will find tough going, however, against the strong Viking squad.

As the teams go into this weeks games, Charlevoix is in first place with six wins and one loss, East Jordan in second with five wins and two losses; Harbor Springs in third with a record of four wins in seven games; Mancelona in fourth with three and three record; Pellston in fifth with three wins and four losses; Boyne City in sixth with two wins in seven starts and Gaylord in the cellar spot with one win in seven games.

Keeping Life Simple

George L. Majors, Pastor
Community Church of God

With all of the many conveniences of our day, the various devices, services, and automatic time savers — life for the average person seems none the less to be getting more and more complicated. It takes an awful lot of time and energy to say nothing of the money needed just to keep things going. Everywhere we hear the lamentable cry of the March Hare, "O my fur and whiskers — I am late, I am late, and for a good many life is mostly a mad rush to get there. With all of our accomplishments we need one thing more; and that is a workable plan to keep life simple.

There would be a good deal more real happiness and a great deal less headache and heart [illegible] — to say nothing of the saving of lives on our highways [illegible] our growing population [illegible] if we could just keep things simple.

But [illegible] the problem [illegible] than this — it is [illegible]. We are all [illegible] spiritual beings, and that the peace of soul and happiness [illegible] so many can only be found in a right relationship with God, our Creator. Jesus Christ the Messiah, the Saviour of the world is God's appointed way of reconciliation. Sin today as always separates man from his Maker. Only a humble acceptance of Jesus Christ as Lord and Master will remove this barrier and restore the soul to it's intended place of fellowship with God. Apart from this there can never be true happiness on earth, nor entrance into heaven, only eternal separation in the dark regions beyond.

Even the Christian Message has become overly complicated. When Christ was asked the question concerning life in the future state He simply referred to the Scriptures and said "how readest thou?" Luke 10:26 And again He said, "Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they which testify of me" John 5:39 If you wish to know the true way of life on earth and have the hope and joy that Christ came to bring take your Bible in hand and with an open and prayerful heart read the simple Gospel therein and simply accept it.

By Fran Martin

MANCELONA, over last weekend, did its part in furthering better international relationships when the city entertained some 30 German exchange students. The young people, all here to study in our state's colleges and universities, enjoyed a full weekend of good American entertainment . . . skiing, skating, dancing, a big community dinner on Sunday and lots of old-fashioned visiting. We understand that Mancelona had as much fun entertaining the visitors as the latter had just plain enjoying themselves . . . We don't know how you feel about it but to us, that's the real way to build a peaceful world . . .

YOU probably noticed on last week's sports pages that several [illegible] Michigan and State football players were drafted by [illegible] teams in the player [illegible] during the AFL [illegible]. Among them was [illegible] Kents[illegible], Michigan [illegible] who [illegible] that [illegible] had been [illegible] . . . In fact Mr. and Mrs. B[illegible] and the two boys were [illegible] to the sportscast when Gene heard the news . . . They all got quite a thrill out of the occasion . . . Many of you saw Gene play with the Michigan All Stars in the March of Dimes basketball game last week . . .

AN ORCHID this week to Kay Fitch and her committee which was instrumental in collecting much needed clothing for needy youngsters . . . They have already collected, sorted and delivered to the school just scads of nice warm clothing to be given out as it's needed by Mrs. Jeanne Miles, the school nurse, and the elementary school teachers . . . There's still a need for shoes, warm winter clothing, jackets, snow-pants, etc., so it's still not too late to turn your articles in . . . And you'll enjoy a warm feeling around the heart for your kindness . . .

AND THE Harry Powerses are home too . . . from a visit in L. A. with their son and daughter-in-law, the Gilbert Powers and their two sons . . . We haven't seen Mrs. Powers but we'll bet that Harry spent all his time in the sun . . . or haven't you noticed that beautiful tan he's sporting . . .

In the mail this week a card from Mrs. Nina Ouderkirk who with Mrs. Sarah McClanaghan is in Florida . . . They were spending some time at Clearwater when she wrote and were enjoying every minute of their trip.

HAD A nice chat the other day with Mrs. Ray Seymour . . . She and Mr. S returned recently from a month's visit at San Clemente, Calif., with their son-in-law and daughter, the Fred Youngs and their two sons . . . They enjoyed the trip so much and while there saw the Charles Martins (more about them later) who came to call one day with another former Charlevoix couple, the Frank Newmans, who now live in the west . . . And just before leaving they called the Arthur Edwards who live near L. A. . . . All wanted to be remembered to friends back here.

LITTLE eight year old Douglas Johnson has been having some difficulties with a bone disorder and is now at home after being hospitalized following the holidays . . . Doug is a cub scout and his fellow den members felt pretty sorry for him 'cause he wasn't able to come to meetings or do all the things that Cub Scouts feel are mighty important to living . . . So last week Den No. 1, accompanied by their Den Mother, Mrs. John Kroken gathered at the home of Doug's folks, the Carl Johnsons, for their regular meeting . . . On hand to present Doug with his awards was Glenn Snider . . . All of which made Doug happy and proud that he was a part of such a grand group . . .

EVEN THE smallest of wild animals are pretty shrewd operators . . . and the Keith Wagners who now live in their new home near North Point have proof of it . . . Not long ago a little chipmunk paid a visit to the Wagner home and found a few things that had been left outside . . . The Wagners took to leaving nuts and other things out for him to eat and he took to coming regularly for why hunt for something when it's waiting for you, thinks he . . . Last week there was a lot of snow so Mr. W. built him a little feeding station so now he eats his daily handout in the shelter of a little lean-to [illegible] the life of Riley . . .

WE UNDERSTAND that Sarg, the [illegible] ment's mascot and [illegible], went on his [illegible] one day last week [illegible] took him along [illegible] a call at the [illegible] . . . And do you know [illegible] Sarg sat [illegible] like a big baby . . .

IF YOU B[illegible] ground hog [illegible] this [illegible] animal saw his shadow but briefly on Tuesday . . . it was only a dim shadow for a few minutes . . . But we'll be lucky if we have only six weeks more of winter in this north country . . .

What Is There To Object To In Life Insurance?

Do you object to the fact that . . .

1. Life insurance is an ideal method of saving money?
2. Life insurance is an absolutely safe investment?
3. Life insurance provides the most perfect emergency fund available under any and all conditions?
4. Life insurance provides protection for your family and at the same time it creates a reserve for your old age needs?
5. The future income values of life insurance are guaranteed to the day and to the dollar?
6. Life insurance is the only investment a man can buy which under no conceivable conditions can be worth less but must always be worth more every day that you hold it?
7. The income from the life insurance estate can be made absolutely free from income tax?
8. When the life insurance estate goes directly to the family, it is free from all probate costs?
9. The proper use of the beneficiary clauses enables you to be the administrator of your own estate even as far down as the second generation?
10. Life insurance is fool-proof, loss-proof, creditor-proof, "in-law" proof, depression-proof, and even proof against your own weakness in the field of effective thrift, safe investment, life-long and even after-death conservation?

How The Spirit Prospers

[illegible] community [illegible] school [illegible] busy [illegible] high [illegible] should prowl [illegible] predacious beast come [illegible] a warning alert is sounded by the [illegible] and the flock beats hasty retreat.

[illegible] and scuttled in [illegible] Then as the sun [illegible] sky with a few parting, disparaging caws the crows flapped their leisurely way into the cool green shadows of the nearby forests.

The [illegible] set me to thinking [illegible] among the lily pads. How have the crows managed to survive the inroads of civilization in such large numbers? Though persecuted relentlessly [illegible] and poisoned, crows are [illegible] plentiful in America [illegible] when the Pilgrim fathers [illegible]

Another reason why crows have enjoyed prosperity, though persecuted, is that they readily adapt themselves to changing conditions. When America was younger and but a vast wilderness spreading from sea to sea, crows made a good living here. Then as pioneers pushed back the forests and planted the plains with [illegible], the versatile crows [illegible] a livelihood still following the sower over the fresh [illegible] soil, stealing the seeds before they could sprout or pulling up the tender shoots of corn and raiding the orchard. As America settled into a vast agricultural economy the [illegible] crows adjusted to that, too. With the development of an agricultural economy [illegible] of insects feeding upon the farmer's crops [illegible] his fields and [illegible] the carrion [illegible] Thus the crow found easy [illegible] Again he prospered. [illegible] that America [illegible] crow talk and [illegible] North America [illegible] that wilderness, the crow [illegible] prosperous.

[illegible] others and above all Another to whom [illegible] and without whom the enjoyment of life would be impossible. The prosperous soul recognizes how much others mean to him and tries daily to be of significant help to them in return.

The spiritually prosperous person is one, too, who adjusts smoothly to inevitable changing circumstances. He seeks some good in every situation and finds it. He acquires food for thought and nourishment for spirit from success and failure, from happiness and heartache, from health and sickness, from friendship and solitude. By an ingenious alchemy he makes every experience into moral enrichment.

Let black and saucy [illegible] victoriously.

Charlevoix's Little Rayders racked up their eighth straight victory with a 48-45 win over the East Jordan Reserves Friday night in a game which saw the local five overcome an 18 point lead for the three-point victory.

FARMERS WEEK EDITION

Thursday, February 4, 1954

CHARLEVOIX COURIER, CHARLEVOIX, MICHIGAN

Now Is Time To Start Controls On Cattle Grubs, Advises Janes

January to June is the time to control cattle grubs in Charlevoix county, advises Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

The reason for the long control season for the grub is because of two different species, according to Ray Janes, extension entomologist at Michigan State college.

The common cattle grub usually gets into the backs of animals from January to mid-March. The bomb fly comes later, mid-March to June. The bomb fly's buzzing around the legs of animals causes cattle to become frightened and run.

Rotenone is the insecticide for control. For rotenone dusts, use a minimum of 1½ per cent strength. You can use a hand duster or the dust may be applied over the area of the warble or lump and then worked down through the hair with a brush or by hand to the opening of the swelling. The rotenone must enter the grub opening to be effective.

For sprays, use 7½ pounds of the four per cent rotenone concentrate in 100 gallons of water. A wetting agent, such as a detergent, should be used. Pressures of 250 to 400 pounds usually give the best control. If cattle are to be sprayed in winter, select a warm day.

Or you can use rotenone salves containing 1½ per cent rotenone. Petroleum jelly and like materials can be used as a base for the salve. The salves are applied directly at the top of the lump. But, cautions Janes, don't make more salve than you can use for one or two treatments.

Dear Mrs. Farmer:

Just a personal invitation to you to this coming Little Farmers Week in Charlevoix. Don't let that big, handsome farmer 'boss' of yours talk you out of coming along with him.

There must be loads of things you need right now and our stores are having bargain specials next week just for you.

On Wednesday afternoon there will be a women's program at the Courthouse, which you are cordially invited to attend.

So put your foot down — and say, "Farmer 'boss', dear, I'm going too. There are some terrific sales going on in Charlevoix right now and I'm going to make use of them."

We'll be seeing you.

Janes Will Discuss Use Of Chemical In Controlling Insects

How toxic are insect control chemicals and how can we use them without harm to ourselves or livestock?

Answers to that question will be presented during Little Farmers' Week, next Wednesday at Charlevoix. Ray Janes, extension entomologist at Michigan State college, will demonstrate the subject with a display that shows the amounts of many chemicals at which they can be toxic.

Dr. Janes, the author of many articles on insect control, was employed by a commercial firm in Wisconsin before joining the M.S.C. staff. He earned his bachelor of science and master's degrees from Utah State college and his doctoral from the University of Wisconsin and has served on the entomology staff of both institutions.

Best Time To Market Livestock Is Topic For Stark's Message

D. H. STARK

What's the best time to send your beef cattle, hogs or sheep to market for the most profit? Time or marketing different grades of livestock is important. How can you tell what grade you are marketing? Where are your best markets?

These and other questions will be answered during the Little Farmers' Week program Feb. 8-12, at the Charlevoix high school auditorium. Donald H. Stark, extension livestock marketing specialist at Michigan State college, will be the speaker on these subjects. He will discuss the questions at 1:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 8.

Before joining the Extension Service, Mr. Stark was general livestock agent for the New York Central railroad. He also has been a salesman for the Michigan Livestock Exchange and assistant manager of the St. Johns stockyards.

Texas, Montana and Kansas lead the nation in number of acres farmed, says the National Geographic Society. Texas also ranks first in number of individual farms, followed by North Carolina and Mississippi.

Swine Disease On Increase In State Causing Heavy Losses

The dread swine disease, infectious atrophic rhinitis, is on the increase in Michigan and the malady apparently is causing farmers to take a substantial loss.

That is the report of Dr. Frank Thorp, Michigan State college veterinary researcher. Judging from the number of post-mortem examinations requested from the School of Veterinary Medicine, Dr. Thorp says, the disease has been on the increase for the past five years.

The malady starts in young pigs with a bleeding of the nose, coughing and sneezing, and there is apt to be pneumonia. Later, the nasal bones deteriorate and the pig's face has a dished-in appearance or the snout curves over to one side.

Dr. Thorp emphasizes there is no control for the disease except to sell all hogs from the infected farm. The farmer should wait at least a year before starting into the hog business again, according to the veterinarian. The disease is spread chiefly by taking new hogs into the herd, but it can be transmitted by neighbors who visit the hog lot.

Dr. Thorp advises calling a veterinarian for a definite diagnosis of the disease before getting rid of all the swine on the farm. Atrophic rhinitis can be confused with other diseases.

Congratulations

Corn Needs Extra Nitrogen To Produce High Protein Content

Although the protein content of corn grain has decreased about 1 per cent during the past 20 years in most of the corn belt, there has been no general decrease in Michigan.

That's the word from E. C. Rossman, farm crops researcher, who spoke during the annual Farmers' Week program at Michigan State college on Wednesday. Rossman told the crowd that thicker planting of corn, which is being recommended in most areas, leads to a lower protein content in the grain unless more nitrogen fertilizer is used.

Pointing out the importance of corn protein, Rossman said that each 1 per cent increase in the content of the grain would be worth about $4,500,000 annually. That's in terms of replacing soybean oil meal which averages about 45 per cent protein and costs $97 per ton. And he suggests an increase of 1 per cent in protein would make a bushel of corn worth 6 cents more to livestock feeders in terms of protein supplements.

[illegible] high protein corn [illegible] [illegible] protein [illegible] because the [illegible] protein has to be supplemented with other protein for feeding swine and chickens. Recent feeding tests have shown, however, that high protein corn, when properly supplemented, can be fed to pigs with less supplement than average for low protein corn.

Plant breeders, Rossman reported, have developed new corn hybrids that have as much as 20 per cent protein in the grain. He believes that more animal feeding tests are needed to provide a complete answer whether it is desirable to increase the protein content of corn.

Market Value Of Lumber Is Cut By Poor Sawing

Poor sawing can spoil lumber for home use or cut its sale value, cautions William G. Stump, forest products extension specialist at Michigan State college. It also adds to the waste.

Well-manufactured lumber for farm or commercial use should be of uniform thickness, width and length, and square-edged and trimmed, reminds Stump.

Some objections to native lumber for farm or commercial use come from poor processing or use of species not suited to the job, the MSC wood specialist notes. Varying and inadequate thicknesses greatly reduce commercial market appeal, he explains. Allowances should be made for shrinkage in drying; lumber should be sawn thicker than desired when used.

Lumber grades usually are disregarded in sawing for home use, when the primary consideration is to saw out the material needed. But it's different with lumber to be sold on commercial markets.

For commercial sales, lumber should be sawn to produce the largest quantity of higher grade material. Poor sawing results in excessive waste, hard-to-move low grade lumber, he stresses.

Stump offers these suggestions in selecting a mill to custom cut your logs. Look at the slab pile to see if good lumber is wasted. Look at the finished lumber to see if it is properly manufactured. Try to pick a mill man who can [illegible] and who knows how to [illegible] commercial markets.

Tractors Need Care To Work Efficiently

Remember that your modern work horse, like old Dobbin, needs daily grooming if you want to avoid grief from a stalled machine. That's the word from agricultural engineers at Michigan State college. Here are some hints they give to avoid tractor complaints.

Wipe off ignition cables, coil, distributor and spark plug insulators every day or two. Grease attracts dust, and damp dust becomes a moist wick causing the high voltage to leak or short circuit and engines to miss, stall or fail to start. To do a good cleaning job, moisten a rag with solvent. It works with the truck and family car, too.

Keep tabs on hours you operate the tractor. Spark plugs should be cleaned, adjusted and checked every 100 hours . . . that's equal to 4,000 to 5,000 miles on your car. Dirt or fouled plugs mean wasted fuel, power loss and frequent overheating.

Keep up the water level in the battery and make sure the holes in the vent plugs are not clogged with dirt. Pent up gas [illegible]

Besides checking the oil level and lubrication daily, [illegible] every 10 hours of operation there are some points, king pins, [illegible] etc. that need two strokes of the grease gun.

Overheating, which can result in an expensive job, has many causes, but first check the fan belt. It may be loose and slipping. An insect clogged radiator core is another cause. Also make sure you're not overloading the engine with too heavy a task too long.

Plants Respond To Fertilizer Used In Liquid Concentrate

Treating tomato, cauliflower and celery plants with concentrated fertilizer solution at the time of setting out pays big dividends in yields from early varieties, according to tests at Michigan State college.

The early variety of tomato, Caliant, increased its yield considerably when one-half of a fertilizer solution was applied per plant at the time of setting out. The solution contained one ounce of 10-52-17 fertilizer per gallon of water. Yields of Valiant also were increased when the fertilizer was applied to the flats 48 hours before setting the plants. The treatment reduced the total yield of a midseason variety, Long Red, however.

Cauliflower matured earlier and more evenly when each plant was treated at the time of setting with one-fourth pint of a solution containing 20-52-0 per gallon of water. Weight per head was increased about 10 per cent by the treatment.

Green celery plants produced 30 to 40 per cent more weight from an application of one-fourth pint of a solution containing two ounces of 10-52-17 fertilizer per gallon. Check plants received only a water treatment. A white variety of celery increased its yield only 20 per cent from the fertilizer solution treatment.

Remember way back when going to the hospital was a last resort?

How times change! Look how great our confidence in hospitals is today! What a tremendous contribution they make to better health for everyone. Yet, this is only the beginning . . .

Today, you can expect to live longer! And, when you do get sick, you can expect to recover faster, with less suffering . . . thanks to tremendous advancements in modern medical science. And with these advancements has come a dramatic change in the way people feel about going to the hospital.

Today, they go to the hospital before it is too late. This practice helps public health, but it also creates a problem: how to pay for medical care.

The new way to pay hospital and doctor bills

It began in 1938 when the hospitals and doctors organized Michigan's Blue Cross - Blue Shield, which offer a kind of protection against hospital and medical bills that you can get in no other way. What is the Blue Cross - Blue Shield idea?

1. First, it is protection for everyone in Michigan, at a cost so low that no one can afford to be without it, no matter how modest his income.
2. Second, it is adequate protection. When you can't predict the cost of sickness or accident, what is adequate protection? Not necessarily protection that gives you a certain amount of money (it might not be enough). But protection is adequate if it pays off in services (sometimes unlimited) rather than in dollars.

Adequate protection at low cost

Blue Cross - Blue Shield alone can offer adequate protection at low cost because of the unique way in which they operate. First, by operating more like a public service than as a commercial enterprise . . . and second, by operating on a non-profit basis. Every penny received from members is set aside for member benefits, after nominal business expenses are deducted. Last year, these were only about 5 cents on the dollar.

Safeguarding low cost

Another way Blue Cross - Blue Shield can maintain adequate protection at low cost, is by being extremely liberal on necessary hospital expenses, but extremely "hard-nosed" about personal and non-sickness expenses.

Necessary expenses concern hospital bed and board, and necessary "extras" like operating room, drugs, laboratory fees, etc.

Personal expenses, such as phone calls, reading materials, etc., are simply not covered. Nor are non-sickness expenses, like medical checkups which could just as well be performed without confining the patient to a hospital bed. Paying for these non-essential expenses would force costs and rates so high that too many people could not then afford Blue Cross - Blue Shield.

How Blue Cross - Blue Shield protect you

Blue Cross Comprehensive Group Plan covers a wide range of necessary hospital services in full . . . for as many as 120 days of hospital care at over 200 Michigan Blue Cross participating hospitals.

One Blue Shield Plan covers medical surgical care in full for families earning less than $5,000 a year ($3,750 for individuals), when enrolled members are treated by a Blue Shield-participating physician. Another plan covers families earning less than $2,500 a year ($2,000 for individuals). But regardless of income, Blue Shield helps pay your doctor bill on over 5,000 medical-surgical procedures when your doctor has to visit you in the hospital.

How to get Blue Cross - Blue Shield

The cost is low . . . mere pennies per day! Ask your employer or union representative. Check your Farm Bureau. Contact your nearest Blue Cross - Blue Shield office. Remember, chances are 1 in 3 that your family will need this protection within the year.

Factors Controlling Milk Price Program To Be Explained By MSC Economist

DALE BUTZ

Farmers on hand for the Little Farmers' Week program at the Charlevoix high school auditorium next week will hear explanations on the advantages and disadvantages of the different price plans for milk in Michigan.

Dale Butz, Michigan State college agricultural economist, will speak on that subject on Monday. The economist will also explain what factors determine the price of milk and how the federal milk marketing orders work.

Mr. Butz received his bachelor of science degree from Purdue University; his master's from Cornell University and his doctor's degree from the University of Minnesota. He has written a number of bulletins and articles on the milk industry.

Time For Maple Syrup Producers To Make Ready For Annual Sap Run

Now is the time to tidy up the "sugar bush" for the maple tapping season just around the corner, suggests P. W. Robbins, maple syrup specialist in the Michigan State college forestry department.

Other farm work is not so pressing now, he explains, and some improvement cuttings can be made in the woodlot. It's a good time to get out some logs to be buzzed up for wood . . . to keep the maple sugar boilers fired up, but not this coming season, in 1955. Wood must be cut at least six months ahead of time to be dry enough to use, Robbins explains. It's a practical fuel and cutting it out will improve the stand.

Dead, diseased and defective trees should be cut for wood, with the butt logs used for lumber if suitable. A cord of wood for each 60 pails to be hung in the "sugar bush" is a good measure, the M.S.C. forester suggests.

While in the woods, take a look at the evaporator in the sugar house, Robbins adds, to see if it is rusted through; then check over buckets to see if they are musty from storage and inventory spouts, packaging containers, thermometers, felt filters and labels. The first maple sap run often is the best, he cautions, and the college radio station, WKAR, will carry sap weather reports from the U. S. weather station at East Lansing.

Maple syrup producers will have a special program Wednesday morning, Feb. 3, during Farmer's Week at the college.

There are 43 peaks in the Canadian Rockies 11,000 feet or over, says the National Geographic Society. Mount Robson, 12,972 feet, is the highest.

Planting Certified Seed Produces Better Table Stock Says MSC Crops Specialist

Use of certified seed has boosted Michigan potato yields and put better potatoes on the table, reminds Henry C. Moore, Michigan State college farm crops specialist. In 1920, there was a disease tolerance of 10 per cent and a yield of 138 bushels per acre in certified fields, notes Moore. In 1953, the disease tolerance was cut to 1 per cent and the yield increased to 315 bushels.

Twelve varities were grown under certification in 1953 with Russet Rurals and Sebagos accounting for 72 per cent of the crop; other important varieties include Katahdin, Green Mountain, Chippewa, Irish Cobbler, Sequoia and Pontiac. Russet Rurals have been a leading variety in northern areas for 40 years, have a high dry-matter content and keep well; they are a favorite of shippers. Sebagos are the most important potatoes in central and southern Michigan, have good cooking quality and looks, and yield well and resist scab on both muck and unland soils.

The M.S.C. farm crops department and county agricultural agents can aid farmers in locating certified seed sources.

Using Eggs In Menus Gives Delicious Results Advises Dr. Pauline Paul

You can get some delicious results by using eggs in your menus. And now is the time to use lots of them . . . they're plentiful and they're wearing attractive price tags these days.

They are rich in high-quality protein and make an excellent replacement for meat in the diet. The yolks are high in iron, one of the minerals that is apt to be low in our diet.

Eggs are one of the most versatile foods we have, says Dr. Paul. Even prepared "as eggs," you have a choice of fried, boiled, scrambled, poached or baked.

Used as a thickening agent, they appear in sauces, soups, puddings and custards.

Beaten fluffy for a leavening agent, you'll use them in cakes, souffles, angel food, sponge cakes and omelets.

As meat extenders or substitutes, you can serve them as curried eggs, creamed eggs on toast, baked eggs in tomato sauce or eggs Benedict, to name only a few possibilities.

And homemakers use them often as the emulsifying agent in mayonnaise and cream puffs, as the binder for meat loaf and croquette mixtures, as the protective coating for fried foods and as a clarifying agent for soups and coffee.

However, when you plan to make something which calls for beaten eggs, such as angel food cake, you'll want to take the eggs out of the refrigerator an hour early. They'll beat up more easily if not too cold.

In cooking eggs the main thing to remember is to cook them slowly at a low temperature. High temperatures will make the whites tough and rubbery.

REAR TIRE MOUNT GIVES LONGER, LOWER LOOK TO HUDSON JET

FOREIGN ACCENT . . . The compact, economical Hudson Jet has a lower and longer appearance with the addition of a continental rear tire mount, now available for the entire Jet series. With spare wheel removed from the trunk, usable luggage space is substantially increased. The spare is attached to a counterbalanced hinge bracket which tilts backward with fingertip control, permitting tire changes without troublesome unloading of luggage. A "floating" latch locks the unit securely in position and provides flexibility to counteract road bumps.

Relugged Tractor Tires Cuts Expense

Your worn but sound tractor tires can be relugged. At least that's one saving in the farm cost-price squeeze, suggests Robert G. White, extension agricultural engineer at Michigan State college. Relugging consists of rubber welding a new set of cold rubber lugs on those of a worn tire.

If your old tire is sound, White says, the relugging process will give you a revitalized tire at less cost than a new one. The U. S. Department of Agriculture's tillage laboratory estimates the process will cost about half the price of a new tire. The laboratory insists that the tire will give good service if the relugging job is done properly.

The relugged tire will be comparable to new or recapped tires for drawbar pull, White predicts, but in his opinion the relugged tires may wear faster.

Dr. Grigsby To Explain New Methods Of Pasture Improvement By Weed Control

Dr. B. H. Grigsby

Dr. B. H. Grigsby, Michigan State college botanist, will present the latest information on pasture improvement by control of weeds during Little Farmers' Week at the Charlevoix high school auditorium.

The weed control specialist will discuss weed and brush control with chemicals at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Feb. 10. He also will talk on the control of weeds by chemical means in strawberries and raspberries.

Dr. Grigsby is one of Michigans outstanding authorities on chemical weed control. He started experiments in 1944 and was successful in controlling ragweed to alleviate the suffering of hay fever victims. One of his latest accomplishments is finding that CMU is effective in the control of weeds in asparagus. And he has conducted many experiments in brush and weed control in pastures.

The [illegible] gardener, who is now spending many an evening with the new seed catalogs, will find a useful addition to the flower and garden library in Farmers' Bulletin 1711 "Growing Annual Flowering Plants." The 26-page illustrated bulletin is free on request to the Office of Information, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C.

Poultry's needs for minerals go beyond calcium and phosphorus for bone formation, advise Dr. Philip J. Schaible of the Michigan State college poultry department. Body fluids and digestive juices need common salt and blood needs iron and copper in order to carry oxygen. Some iodine is needed for goiter protection and manganese prevents bone perosis.

Little Farmers Week Meetings End Friday

The third annual Little Farmers week will be concluded with special programs devoted to poultry and dairy problems scheduled for today and Friday, Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent, said Wednesday.

At the two remaining meetings, the farmers of Charlevoix county and the adjacent areas will hear J. M. Moore, extension poultryman, speak on more profits from the laying flock and 25 items important to flock management and George Amundson, agricultural engineer, present several ideas on more efficient poultry buildings and poultry labor-saving devices on Thursday.

Friday will be concentrated on the interest of the dairy farmer with George Parsons, extension dairyman, speaking on good breeding and management and increasing the dairy herd profits and Dr. R. L. Alkire, federal veterinarian, discussing the present and future programs for the control of Bangs' disease.

A resume of the week's programs will also be made Friday afternoon with Mr. Rebman serving as moderator.

An increase in the winter employment of farmers in the industrial plants located throughout the county and not a lack of interest in Little Farmers week was given by Mr. Rebman as the reason for decrease in the attendance of the meeting over other years.

On Monday the farmers heard Dale Butz, agricultural economist, speak on the marketing of milk and milk price plans; E. D. Longacre, soil specialist, discuss the need of soil tests and soil formations on Tuesday and on Wednesday D. B. H. Grigsby

City Arranges To Furnish Fire Protection For Five In Hayes

Hayes and Marion townships have been without fire protection since mid-December when township officials turned down the offer made by the city to furnish fire protection (See pg 6 for story).

Under the agreement made Monday, the five property owners will pay 3½ mills on the assessed valuation of their property until April when the issue will appear on the ballot in the general election. The delegation seeking protection represented Birchwood Ranch, Camp Charlevoix, the Argonne, Camp Ta-Wa-Ma-Na and the Charlevoix Rod and Gun club.

ODDS 'N ENDS

WITH high winds exactly like those usually scheduled for March and the first report of a robin ... can spring be far behind" Or is that wishful thinking on our part ... Art Kruzlik stopped by Sunday to tell us about the robin ... and he swears he has a witness in his neighbor Hal Forberg ... Either we're in for an early spring or robins just aren't as smart as we always tho't ... we'll wait and see ...

AND THERE was ice between the points ... North and South ... Sunday ... Of course it didn't just freeze there ... the water hasn't gotten that cold yet despite the frigid weather but it was there ... in the form of drift ice from somewhere or other ... Guess there's been plenty of that up near the Straits but we've missed it til now.

ANOTHER sign of spring has made its appearance ... the beautiful, gorgeous seed catalogs ... Haven't you gazed at the pretty pictures and imagined your own yard or garden looking just like the ones in the book ... and then invested in all the seeds and what have you needed to have your flowers come up ... that's it, just come up and look just like everyone else's flowers ... Personally we think you have to be an optimist or an [illegible] just to think you can raise either flowers or vegetables like the pictures ... but it's fun lookin'

IF YOU'RE a Golden Gloves fan you no doubt missed a familiar face in the ring this year ... We have in mind our local boy, Ted Rowe, who did right well for himself in the light weight division ... But the fact that he wasn't fighting here doesn't mean he was really missing from the ring 'cause he was boxing with a Golden Gloves team from Hunter Airforce Base near Atlanta, Ga. ... And he did alright too ... According to the accounts he won the first matches with his "straight, inside punching" ... and went on to the district finals where he and his opponent provided the biggest thrill in the Atlanta district ... [illegible] "count" although Ted lost the decision ...

AND IN case you're interested, it was the DeWitt Peters and their son, Armand, who sent us the Orange Bowl Special newspaper we mentioned a few weeks back ... Mr P reports a grand trip and we saw some of his colored pictures the other day which bore out his statement ...

COULDN'T believe our ears when we heard the 'peep peep' of baby chicks at the postoffice the other day ... But sure 'nuff it was ... And that's not all, they had a trip to Beaver Island via air after that ... Wonder what remedy Joe McPhillips had for airsick chicks ... the feathered kind, of course ...

DON'T forget that Sunday is Valentine's Day ... the day set aside for that someone 'special' ... It's also a good time to remember all those people we love a lot ... for some reason or other ... So why not do something special for someone ... just because it's Valentine's Day and because it will give you a 'good' feeling for having remembered someone who might not otherwise receive a greeting ...

OUR KIDS did it again Friday night ... Beat Petoskey, we mean ... And this time by more than a one-point margin ... Of course, it had no bearing on league standings but it was great fun anyway ... With only four games to go, may we wish the Rayders and Coach Terrill lots of luck ... You've got some toughies but we're sure you can come through with flying colors if you give each game your best as it comes along ...

OUR OFFICE gal Friday (Dorothy Southwood, to you) received a letter from the Charlie Martins last week ... They're at Capistrano Beach and from the tone of their letter are having one grand time ... The Herb Wilsons had been to see them and they were planning to visit Lottie Fraser Boswell, a former resident, and her husband at Hemet, Calif., and Ed Trombley another former Michigander ... It must be old home week out there most of the time ... And from Cat Cay off Miami, Fla., a note from the Clint Palmers who are down there for the winter ... Left Chicago in zero weather and less than 12 hours later were enjoying 72 degree temperatures ... watta life

CHARLEVOIX will be host to the farmers in the county next week when they come to town for Little Farmers week ... We think this is quite a thing this week-long series of lectures and things that farmers are interested in ... So let's roll out the red carpet and make them welcome in our community ... After all, they're pretty important people, especially if you like to eat and we do ... And on Wednesday there'll be a special program for the farmers' wives ... which sounds like a real good deal that we're sure they'll enjoy ... But why limit your trip to town to that one day ... This will be a good time to visit the stores and pick up all those little things you don't have time to do when you come with your hurrying husband ... Or why not plan to spend the time with friends here ...

ISN'T there anyone in town who has a yen to be the great American author ... or who will settle for something a little less trying ... short story writing ... There's a course in that to be offered if a couple more people will enroll so why not sign up now. We think it will be great fun (plus some hard work, of course) but there's a couple more budding writers needed to fill the enrollment ...

HOW ABOUT those games Friday night ... We don't mind admitting that for a while we had our doubts about the little Rayders when they were tagging like nobody's business but they sure came back to win a thriller that had everybody in the gym (and it was packed ... sardine canners could take a lesson) was cheering like mad ... And the Varsity game was almost as bad altho' the big boys weren't trailing ... As we said before, we'd appreciate it if they'd only settle for a bigger point spread ... This is hard on the nerves ... one of their most avid fans was back in the balcony ... none other than Klaus Andersen who's been gone for several weeks ...

HAD A little chat with Mrs. Howard Stephens the other day ... She and Mr. S. returned home recently from a month's vacation trip to California where they saw the Parade of Roses and scads of other wonderful things ... They motored out but returned by train ... In the Santa Fe railroad station in San Diego, Calif. she was selecting some magazines for the trip back and received the shock of her life when she gave her choices to the clerk at the magazine counter ... It was none other than Lali Novotny ... Both were speechless for a few seconds but soon were jabbing about Charlevoix ... Lali has been in the west several years and told Gerry this was the first time she'd ever seen anyone from home ... A small world to say the least CHARLEVOIX is mourning the death this week of one of its best loved residents, Art Fagan ... Though a quiet person who never made a great name for himself, his friends were countless and his absence will be missed ... No one loved the boys ... and those too who later became young men than did Art ... They in turn did much to make his last days happy ones by their thoughtfulness and kindness ... If the love of one's fellowman is the mark of greatness, and we think it is, then Art, in his own quiet way, was exactly that.

Sermonette

Rev. G. R. Kars, Pastor
Assembly of God

The world is shrouded with the foreboding cloud of confusion, fear, and possible annihilation. Even the hyperoptimist is forced to such an admission.

One cannot help but notice the apparent uncertainty in Korea; the appalling hopelessness in Indo-China; the festering ill-feeling between the Arab and the Jew; the approaching suicide of freedom in Italy. Neither can one close his eyes to the mounting tentions between the East and West and the general suspicion and unrest which pervades the world. With all these unfortunate realities before us it is pretty hard to believe that the world is getting better. And that through human agents a new age of peace will be ushered in.

The Bible clearly teaches that this gentile age will grow worse and worse instead of better. Jesus, Himself said in Matthew 24: that there will be "wars, and rumours of wars", and that "Nations shall rise against nation and kingdom against kingdom, and there shall be famines, pestilences, and earthquakes in divers places". Then He goes on to say in verse 8-that "All these are the BEGINNING OF SORROWS". Jesus is saying here that there is more trouble, sorrow, tribulation, heartache, suffering, grief and anguish ahead. Our own military leaders, news analysts, and radio commentators have predicted the same. Furthermore, there will be no lasting peace until the Prince of Peace — the Lord Jesus Christ Himself, brings peace. The return of Christ is the only hope of the world.

The individual picture is the same. What is reflected in the national and international picture is also reflected in the human heart. The Bible clearly teaches that we are all sinners in God's sight "For all have sinned and come short of God's Glory". We are not sinners because we sin but sin because we are sinners. The one who quarrels and fights does so because it is in his heart. A murder is a murder not because he kills but because he has murder in his heart. Fixing the hands on the clock will not solve the problem of the broken main spring inside. One can stop this sin and that sin, this habit and the other habit but that doesn't solve the main problem. Like the clock we must be [illegible] in the inside before we can be right on the outside.

Nearly two thousand years ago, God sent His only begotten Son into the world to save the world. He took upon Himself the form of sinful flesh, He lived a sinless life for 33½ years. Healed the sick, forgave people their sins. Cast out demons by the word of His power. He went about doing good, and then came the fateful hour. Jesus was betrayed into evil hands. He was nailed to a cross and in ignominious shame and agony He died for the sins of the world. The just dying for the unjust that He might bring us to God.The cross is the answer to the sin question.

We are admonished in the word of God to repent of our sin and to believe and receive the Lord Jesus Christ into our heart and life as our sin bearing saviour.

By his miraculous power He takes away our sin and places within the heart the peace that passeth all understanding. Jesus said peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you. In the midst of a wartorn turbulent world, the Christian can enjoy peace — His peace, in our hearts

Local Scouts Take Winter Swim At Boyne Ski Lodge

It proved to be a lot of fun since the temperature in the pool was 92 degrees and the air temperature was 14 degrees. The boys took the sterefoam blocks from the surface of the pool, piled them on the side and jumped into the water. Clouds of steam came from the water as the Scouts splashed around. Frank Case Jr., scout leader and Larry Burns, assistant leader, were in the pool to enjoy it and served as life guards. The boys had to replace the blocks after the swim.

Light-Emmons Speak Vows In Church Ceremony

In a quiet ceremony solemnized at the Norwood Methodist church Saturday afternoon, Helen Jean Light, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George D. Light Sr., became the bride of Arthur E. Emmons, son of Mrs. Lewis Emmons.

The Rev. Robert H. Moore of East Jordan, pastor of the church, read the double ring service in the presence of their immediate families. Baskets of white gladioli, pompoms and daffodils formed a background for the service.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of dusty rose satin and wool jersey. The sheath dress was styled with a strapless bodice over which she wore a bolero jacket of wool jersey trimmed with satin. A white hat with a rose veil and matching accessories completed her wedding costume which was complimented by a corsage of white roses.

Mrs. George Light Jr. of Detroit, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a blue and white checked taffeta dress, matching accessories and a corsage of red roses.

Immediately following the ceremony, a small reception was held at the home of the bride's parents. A tiered wedding cake centered the refreshment table which was decorated with yellow and white pompons and lighted tapers in crystal candelabra.

The couple left on a two-weeks wedding trip to Miami, Fla., and will be at home at 104 West Garfield ave. after March 1. While in Miami they will be the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Belltager of Cincinnati.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Wish I'd Said That

You know Miss Perkins. Well, she's been driving her own car around our town for a little more than 30 years.

The other day she had a bit of trouble parking down on Main Street. Didn't quite make it the first try, so she pulled out to start over when a fellow waiting to pass started tooting his horn impatiently.

On the second try, she was still having a little difficulty and so this smart aleck hollered, "Lady, do you know how to drive?" "Yes, young man," Miss Perkins answered, "I do. But I don't have time to teach you now."

From where I sit, it's not always easy to have a good answer ready when you need it. But when somebody insists that I vote for his candidate, for instance, or choose tea instead of a temperate glass of beer with dinner, I know the answer. It's all a matter of personal preference . . . and none of us like "backseat driving" from anybody.

Charlevoix city officials have shown great concern recently for two neighboring townships which are without fire protection of any kind at the time.

They are Hayes township located to the north of the city and Marion township to the south and southeast of Charlevoix which have been without fire protection since mid-December.

In discussing the subject, Roy R. Robinson said it was doubtful if the majority of the residents of these two townships were aware of the fact that if a fire should break out in their property the Charlevoix fire department would not be obligated to answer the call.

The present situation arose when the city of Charlevoix asked that the townships pay a regular rate, a percentage of the assessed valuation of the township, for fire protection instead of the small fee they had paid in the past based on a certain amount per fire. In the last year the Charlevoix fire department had derived only $74 from the entire five townships.

In establishing the new contracts the city asked 7 1/2 mills based on the assessed valuation of the township for the year that will end in April and one mill annually henceforth. The townships plan to place the issue on the ballot in the spring election to let the people decide what they want to do in the matter.

Following a meeting of township and city officials last fall, Norwood and Charlevoix townships and the section of Eveline township served by the Charlevoix fire department agreed to accept the contract and thus be assured of fire protection.

The new contract would give the local fire department approximately $2,500 annually from all five townships combined if they decide to accept it in the April election. The new contract became imperative with the increased cost of operating the local fire department, and the need for new and additional equipment, including a new fire truck which will cost an estimated $14,000.

In bringing the issue to the attention of the residents of Hayes and Marion townships, it is emphasized that the lack of fire protection will mean an increase in fire insurance rates for policy holders who are already paying a high premium because they live in the country.

Inspiring Lessons Learned from Nature

Bowed But Not Broken

The snow and ice-laden branches of the balsam tree just outside the cabin window have bowed deeply, as if, in homage to King Winter. They know he reigns. His will and his power, like his royal ermine robes, are spread everywhere. He insists on being sovereign as long as his reign shall last and until he, in grouchy abdication, surrenders his sceptre to smiling, radiant Princess Spring. Now with icy blasts he bullies the snowshoe rabbits and the squirrels. They skulk away to safe shelter until his wrath is spent. In a quieter mood he commands the heavens to open and release their store of flaky edicts, tiny, jewel-like decrees that sometimes seem to be sent for no other reason than that Winter wants to make it plain to all his subjects that he is still in command. The hungry deer in the orchard scratch through the fluffy white litter to the apples that lie below. The round-eyed mice run nervously everywhere, leaving a delicate stitching of tracks to mark their hurried flight. Ruffed grouse in search for sustenance among the birches make an informal and wandering pattern upon the fresh whiteness. All the creatures leave their imprint upon the winter scene, and winter leaves its marks of gnawing hunger and penetrating chill upon them.

But that balsam by the cabin does more than endure Winter. With a natural grace it accepts the harsh season and adjusts to it. When heavy snow and icy armor form upon its branches, the balsam bows in acquiescence to the inevitable. When the hardwood maple and oak suffer an assault by the same elements, they resist. Their branches will not humbly bow. Instead they break. Thus, after a sleet storm, one finds the floor of the hardwood forest covered with destruction, while the evergreen woods remain clean and whole.

There are times, of course, when bowing in acquiescence is unintelligent, cowardly, and wrong. Whenever a person compromises himself morally, whenever he is obedient to popular clamor rather than to his well-taught conscience, whenever he quits a task merely because it is difficult, he bows needlessly and he bows too low.

But when that has been said, the truth the evergreen teaches still stands. In a storm of sleet and heavy snow the balsam branch bows and is not broken. The rigid hardwood limb will not humbly bend and therefore breaks.

We too need to know how to accept the inevitable, the unavoidable heartache, the inexorable handicap, the uninvited and unwanted disappointment. Stubborn resistance, insisting, "It isn't so! It couldn't be!," will only mean breaking our minds and hearts under the load of life's stern, cold facts. Accept the inevitable. Humbly adjust to it as the evergreen branch does to its load of wintry burden. Warm days will come again. The burden will lighten. The limbs will straighten, because at our best we possess an amazing resiliency, the power to snap back.

Thomas Carlyle possessed a measure of the balsam's grace, although one time it took him some days to find it. When Carlyle had at last completed the writing of his classic "The French Revolution", he delivered the bulky manuscript to his esteemed neighbor, John Stuart Mill. Some days later, Mill appeared one morning at Carlyle's door, dejected, pale, and shaking. He came with unnerving news. Mill's maid had thoughtlessly used Carlyle's manuscripts to start the fire.

At least two years of exhausting research and painstaking writing had gone up in smoke. For days Thomas Carlyle growled and raged over his loss, feeling he could never write again. Then one morning while gloomily gazing over London rooftops, he saw a stone mason slowly, patiently building a wall, performing a huge task by doing it bit by bit. In that moment Carlyle's inspiration and native grace were uncovered again. He would not spend his days in mournful frustration crying to high heaven "It can't be so! It couldn't happen to me!" It had happened. His monumental work had been burned. He would accept the fact, acknowledge it, bow to it. Like the stone mason, he would build another monumental work bit by bit, page by page. In that fashion Carlyle rewrote the story of the French Revolution, one of the world's greatest literary achievements. Carlyle was not broken by the unavoidable because he had the spiritual flexibility to bow to it.

Why complain about the weather? You cannot change it. Why call it names — "foul weather," "a nasty day." There is no nasty weather but only different kinds of weather. Not just the sunshine, but the rains, the storms, the sleet, the ice belong to God! The flexible person can enjoy any sort of a day.

Why grumble about handicaps? They too are part of living. Bow low in the recognition that they are there, then snap back with the confidence that life can be rich and full in spite of them, perhaps because of them. History's beggars and benefactors alike have been handicapped persons. The brittle beggars broke under their load. The benefactors bowed. Then with a springy grace they snapped back to usefulness again.

If God so favored the balsam branch with the power to bow and not be broken under its wintry burden, will he not give to those souls who seek it a similar springiness of spirit?

Teen-ager Poses Theme For Play By Guidance Group

Charlevoix will be host to the Tri-county Mental Health chapter for the first time next Monday at a meeting scheduled for 8 p.m. at Friendship hall of the Congregational church.

The problems of rearing a teen-ager will be featured in an American Theater Wing Community play, "The Case of the Missing Handshake" by Nora Sterling which will have a local cast composed of Mrs. E. P. Vance and H. B. Schofield as Sara and Frank Jessop, parents of a teen-age daughter, Valerie, played by Vicky McClure. Mrs. Harry Stewart will play the role of Miss Crosby, camp director, and Mrs. Charles Blcha will be the stage director.

The play is designed to provide a background for a discussion of teen-age behavior to be led by Robert Gillespie, psychiatric social worker of the Child Guidance Clinic in Petoskey.

Mrs. H. V. Lilga of Petoskey, chapter director, will speak briefly on the work of the clinic, its purpose and need.

A brief business session for chapter directors will follow the regular meeting and refreshment period.

The meeting is open to the public and parents are urged to attend.

Farmers Slow Signing For 1954 ACP Benefits

Participation of Michigan farmers under the 1954 Agricultural Conservation Program, up to the present date, is lower than at the same time last year, according to the State ASC committee. The State committee, however, anticipated a lower enrollment due to changes in the program and the method of operation at county level. The conservation practices for which farmers can obtain cost-sharing under the 1954 program are of a more enduring nature than the practices offered in previous years. A number of former practices which were of an annual or re-occurring nature have been eliminated under the present program. It was felt that such practices were usually carried out by farmers in their normal routine of farming operations and therefore, financial assistance was not necessary to encourage farmers to carry out these practices.

The operation of the program at the county level was also materially changed. In past years farmers have been personally contacted by Community Committeemen in each county to enroll in the program, whereas for 1954 the enrollment was conducted through educational and sign-up meetings held in various places throughout the county during a two or three week period. Farmers were also permitted to enroll by visiting the local ASC office. Since this was the first year that farmers were required to use their own initiative in signing up for the program, fewer participants resulted.

The concept of the Agricultural Conservation Program includes the idea that the nation has an interest in conserving the natural resources of the soil. The nation, therefore, has an interest in sharing the cost of such conservation practices that farmers will not or cannot normally afford to perform, but which would be in the interest of the nation. The conservation practices available under the 1954 program, and the method of operation, were therefore geared to carry out this concept. The methods used in the educational campaign for the enrollment of farmers urged only those farmers to sign up where additional conservation could be purchased with the available funds and where conservation practices would be performed in the national interest.

The Charlevoix County ASC committee has decided, that due to the limited sign-up in this county by Jan. 11, an additional period will be granted to farmers to enable them to sign up for practices to be started this spring. The farmers in Charlevoix county who have already signed up in the program will have their applications reviewed and approvals granted as rapidly as the county committee can make the examination. Those farmers who sign up between Jan 11 and March 1 will have their applications reviewed immediately after March 1 and approvals will be granted shortly thereafter. Farmers may sign up at any later period, however, and they may receive approval with the understanding that cost-sharing will depend upon the money available later in the year. In all counties such applications will be reviewed immediately after August 1 and farmers will receive approvals as of that date, the cost-sharing depending upon the money then available.

Administrative and financial control of this type of program is necessary. Therefore, farmers who enrolled during the initial period may receive more financial assistance than those who sign up after Jan. 11, 1954. All late signers, however, will receive equitable consideration together and not on a first-come, first-served basis.

Funds available in all counties for the 1954 Agricultural Conservation Program are approximately 23% less than the previous year due to the decreased appropriation voted by Congress for this purpose however, it is expected that the program for 1954 will have a higher percentage of completion than in former years. This is due to the fact that the most interested farmers will be participating in the program and that they have personally requested cost-sharing assistance.

Charlevoix Milk Producers Purchase Truck For Hauling

The Charlevoix local of the Michigan Milk Producers association recently purchased a truck and entered into the milk hauling business for its members, according to John Weiland, secretary of the group.

Maxbauer's Creamery is the primary market for the milk produced by the local organization and in the past the producers have paid the creamery for transporting from farm to market. This arrangement shouldered the responsibility of disposing of surplus milk upon the creamery.

Under the new plan the producers will haul and market their surpluses through the Michigan Milk Producers association.

Good Forage Cuts Protein Grain Need

Farmers who do a better than average job of harvesting, storing and feeding high quality forage can cut their grain and protein feeding by 25 per cent, declares a Michigan State college agricultural economist.

C. R. Hoglund asserts that the average Michigan farmer can add $30 to $40 per cow to his profits by improving the quality of his forage. Improving forage quality, he admits, may often add $10 to $15 to the cost of producing one acre of forage. Extra fertilizer, lime, a better job of seed pay off in increased yields and lower costs per ton of forage produced.

2, 4-D Big Help As Corn Weeder

The weedicide, 2, 4-D, now is cheap enough in price to spray on corn ground before the corn plants emerge, according to Boyd Churchill of Michigan State college's farm crops department.

The 2, 4-D at the rate of one pound per acre will keep fields clean for two or three weeks after planting. That's a big advantage, notes Churchill, if wet weather prevents early and timely cultivation.

Pre-emergence spraying may occasionally result in injury to [illegible], he admits, and [illegible] be more or less ineffective [illegible] the soil is dry. The ester form of 2, 4-D is recommended [illegible] spraying. The [illegible] or amine form is [illegible] post-emergence spraying.

New Variety May Conquer Potato Wilt

The two [illegible] wilt diseases of potatoes that caused considerable loss last year may be stymied in the future with a variety that is resistant to their attack.

Michigan State college has a breeding project under way that's designed to develop such a hybrid potato. J. H. Muncie of the botany and plant pathology department says that more than a thousand seedlings have been tested in the field and about 50 have shown considerable resistance to the disease.

Both of the diseases are carried in the seed tuber and also live from year to year in the soil. That means they are immue to attack by seed treatment or spraying.

Muncie also reported that the results of two years' tests in spraying for potato blight show that concentrated spray dosages can be used to an advantage. That means using the fungicide at three times the normal concentration at low pressure.

In the areas where water supply and distance are handicaps, the use of concentraed sprays at low pressure helps the potato grower to cover three times more acreage at one filling of the sprayer tank.

Special Bulletin 386, "Inheritance of Farm Property in Michigan," from Michigan State college Agricultural Experiment Station, describes Michigan laws on inheritance of farm property. It gives suggestions to help farm families avoid difficulties in the inheritance process.

Strong Defence Forces Rayders To Long Shots

The Charlevoix Rayders racked up their second win of the season over the Petoskey Northmen Friday night by a score of 48-41 after leading the Class B team throughout the game.

In an earlier meeting the Rayders nosed out Petoskey by a 36-35 score.

In the game Friday, the Rayders took a 13-8 first period lead which Petoskey narrowed to 18-17 at the half before Charlevoix went ahead 35-27 as the third period ended.

Both teams played a pressing game all the way. Finding the Northmen defense difficult to penetrate, Charlevoix started hitting from outside and collected most of their 15 field goals in this manner.

Trying out this week with the Varsity have been three players up from the Reserves where they have played good ball all season. Bill Kolker and Gary Vandenberg, sophomores, and Glenn Ikens, a freshman, are among several who may see action in the forthcoming tournaments.

In the starting line-up for Charlevoix in the game against Petoskey Friday were Bill Bennett, Dwain Walker, Gordon Mol, Guy Swanson and Tom LaBlance with Mark White going into the game in the first period and Joe McDermott in the second period.

Charlevoix scored first on a field goal by Swanson for a 2-0 lead before Doug Pethl collected [illegible] for Petoskey to [illegible] the score. The Rayders soon pulled away, however, to go into a 13-8 first period lead on five points [illegible] by LaBlance, two field [illegible] Swanson, three points by Bennett and one by Mol.

Petoskey [illegible] on three field [illegible] free throws in the first quarter.

[illegible] in the second [illegible] they came back to [illegible] the score [illegible] briefly before [illegible] but Walker broke the [illegible] from the free throw line as [illegible]. The Rayders had [illegible] points on a field [illegible] two free throws by Mol and [illegible] by Walker. [illegible] field goal and three free throws.

Charlevoix [illegible] Petoskey 17-10 in the third period as Swanson [illegible] long shots from [illegible] side. Mol [illegible] and McDermott [illegible] three points [illegible] and [illegible] shot each and Walker scored on two free throws.

Petoskey's scoring was limited to four field goals and two free throws.

[illegible] strong in [illegible] period [illegible] the [illegible] 14-[illegible] but this was not [illegible] to overcome the Rayder [illegible] 48-41.

Petoskey outscored Charlevoix 16-15 in the field goal department but Charlevoix collected [illegible] of 31 free throws that the Northmen made good on nine of 21 attempts. The Rayders had 16 personal fouls called on them while Petoskey collected 26.

Contestants Shoot First Matches At Rod And Gun Club

Fifteen members of the Charlevoix Rod and Gun club registered Monday night for the first round of matched small arms shooting on the new indoor range. The small arms group was recently organized under the direction of Dr. C. O. Whitten and Bud Fisher for the purpose of conducting a 12 weeks indoor tournament.

Whitten marked up high score in the first match with a 76 out of a possible 100 in 10 shots at slow fire. E. Gibelyou was second with a 71 and O. Richardson third with 65.

Other scores were as follows: H. Totten 64, G. Rose 58, J. Marshall 54, R. Nett 51, G. Pemberton 49, R. Fochtman 36, E. Miller 24, Kit Carson 24, B. Fisher 24, J. Grubaugh 21, E. Bowman 8, and C. Hampton 5.

Previous experience of the contestants accounts for the wide range of scores shot in the first round. The low score men are likely to show amazing improvement as the tournament progresses and they get the feel of their guns.

The matches are being conducted under National Rifle Association rules with [illegible]. [illegible] group. Trophies will be awarded to high contestant in each group.

All members of the club are eligible to enter the tournament and any adult desiring to compete may become eligible by joining the club.

Basques on the French-Spanish border have netted wood pigeons commercially for generations. Each fall thousands of birds fly through a narrow Pyrenees pass enroute to the warm Mediterranean. Hunters hurl wooden disks in the air to imitate hawks in flight; frightened pigeons fly low for fear of falcon attacks from above and are trapped in nets. For every bird snared, 50,000 evade the ambush.

Little Farmers Week Is Most Successful

The third annual Little Farmers week program which was concluded Friday at the Charlevoix high school auditorium was voted one of the most successful in the series, Ed. Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent, said Monday

In reporting the results of the week-long series, Mr. Rebman said that a total of 617 persons including farmers from throughout Charlevoix county and the surrounding area attended the meeting for an average attendance of 106 persons per day.

The special ladies day program held at the courthouse Wednesday under the direction of Mrs. Emme Reinbold, home demonstration agent, was equally well attended. A total of 89 women were present for the panel discussion in which Charlevoix county school and community nurses participated and answered questions submitted by those attending.

The Little Farmers week is held each year under the cooperation of Mr. Rebman and the Michigan State College Extension Service and is designed to bring to the farmers of northern Michigan specialists in various phases of farming practiced in the area.

Mr. Rebman also reported that Charlevoix county's Little Farmers' program was the most successful held in northern Michigan this year and recorded a larger daily attendance. Winter employment in the small industrial plants located throughout the area and not lack of interest in the program cut down on this year's attendance, he said.

The Charlevoix merchants endorsed the program by contributing prizes which were awarded at the close of each meeting during the week. More than 250 prizes were awarded during the week.

AGRICULTURAL MARKETING

Dale Butz, extension agriculture economist, the first speaker to appear on the program, discussed the milk marketing situation. Mr. Butz stated that the outlook for dairy milk prices will not be as favorable in '54 as it was in '53. The supply of dairy products will be up about 12% while the demand for milk products will be about the same.

On the other hand, there is a stronger indication that government support prices will reduce. Several items make the marketing of milk more difficult than other products. Milk is bulky, it is subject to health and other regulations, it is perishable, it must be marketed every day and producers are large in number but small in size. Several price plans have been tried. First there was a one-price plan for all milk sold for the same price, next came a two-price plan and at the present time there is a classified price plan where milk is paid a certain price depending on how it is used.

There was some discussion on

Remodeling Of Methodist Church Basement Nearing Completion

The complete remodeling and redecorating of the Methodist church basement which houses its dining room, kitchen and storage room is nearing completion and plans are being made to open the dining room for the first time for the Father and Son banquet Monday.

The project has been underway for the past seven weeks with members of the church donating their labor.

The kitchen has been enlarged and modernized and features the installation of a new gas-heated dish washing sink, commercial size gas stove, a new built-in cupboards and counters, two smaller sinks as well as a steam-table under the serving counter which opens into the dining room. The floor has been covered with gray marbelized tile which also covers the counters and the wells painted a light dusty rose. The cupboards have natural wood finish. The counter also serves as a shutter so the opening can be closed following the serving of a meal.

The dining room was also enlarged and the walls finished in sunbeam yellow with a gray floor. A scenic wallpaper has been used around the serving counter.

The former furnace room which was utilized after an oil burner was installed has been remodeled into storage space and the former storage room used to enlarge the dining room. New restrooms have also been installed.

Tells Reasons For Survey Of Water Meters

Why should the city want to know the age of the water meters now being used in Charlevoix?

This question has created a lot of comment since the city conducted a survey recently to determine the 'age' of the meters.

According to City superintendent Roy R. Robinson the survey was made when the city considered the possibility of recovering ownership of the meters which are now owned by the property owners, a fact of which few people are aware. Charlevoix, it seems, is one of the very few cities which operates a water department but does not own the water meters used in the system.

Mr. Robinson went on to say that it has been the practice in the past to sell the water meter to the customer who then has it installed and kept in repair. This practice, however, is not always successful for at the present time almost 50 per cent of the water pumped by the city is 'lost' or 'unaccounted for' To put the water department on a paying basis, the loss must be cut to 15 percent which means that all water meters must be in working order at all times.

Water used in parks, drinking fountains, during a fire or for cleaning a street is listed as lost or unaccounted for. This amount, however, should not be more than 15 per cent of the total amount pumped.

The water department feels that if the city owned the meters they would be kept in repair and operation at all times and thus give a truer accounting of water pumped.

To complicate the issue, there was no record kept of the sale of meters and for this reason there is no way to determine even the approximate age of the meters which the city hopes to acquire in a mass purchase, the details of which have not yet been worked out.

Several merchants in Charlevoix have been bug-eyed this week in receiving so many singular monetary greenbacks subscribed to the tune of two dollars. The answer is that Morweld Steel Products, of Ellsworth, hit on the idea of meeting their entire payroll in two dollar bills.

Chest Agencies Receive Full '53 Quota Requests

Agencies for which the Charlevoix Community Chest solicited funds last fall have received their requests in full, Mrs. Herbert Campbell, Community Chest chairman, has announced.

During the 1053 fund campaign the Community Chest succeeded in reaching its goal of $5,665 thus making it possible to fulfill its obligations to the nine participating agencies.

The agencies and the amounts each requested for their budgets: Boy Scouts, $900; Girl Scouts, $800; Community nurse, $850; Charlevoix Service Organization, $500; City Recreation Council, $300; United Health and Welfare, $1,125; Michigan Children's Aid Society, $275; Emergency fund, $450; Campaign Expenses, $140.

Only agency which did not receive its request in full was the Boy Scout Council, for which a budget of $900 was submitted when it failed to enter a request at the budget meeting. Later a request for $950 was entered, which the Community Chest could not accept since its 1953 budget had been adopted.

The 1953 Community Chest Drive was for $5,665 or $1,000 more than in 1952.

More than sixty representatives from northern Michigan communities serviced by the airport attended the meeting and later wired the CAA office asking that they re-consider their decision.

Tentative plans were also made to send a delegation to a hearing in Kansas City if that move should become necessary.

Michigan Bell Pays 7 Million To State School Fund Tax

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company again last year was the largest single contributor to the state Primary School Fund with a payment totaling $7,086,904.

According to figures released today by C. L. Johnson, area manager for Michigan Bell, $4,010 of the total was allocated to the public school system of Charlevoix.

Schools throughout Charlevoix County, including the city of Charlevoix, received a total of $17,300 from the company's tax payment.

Johnson said the payments were based on a school census of 899 in Charlevoix and 3,879 in Charlevoix County, as compiled by the State Department of Public Instruction.

The company's tax payment last year amounted to $4.46 for each of the 1,589,923 youngsters in the state between the ages of 5 and 19 who are on the census rolls.

Michigan Bell, in common with railroads, Pullman, railway express, telegraph, and other telephone companies, pays a state property tax earmarked for the Primary Fund in lieu of otber property taxes.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

ON ROBINS: we understand that Mrs. Charles Reinhart has been feeding a big fat robin all winter . . . And he's a curious bird too, taking every opportunity to peer into their kitchen . . . Could be he's lonesome . . .

And have you noticed how much longer the days are? . . . What with robins and sunshine, can Spring be far away . . . And the night sky has been ever so much clearer . . . The stars look as tho' you could almost touch them, the Big Dipper is torned upside down so we can expect lots of snow, for nary a drop could remain in the dipper in its present position and the sky doesn't have that cold look about it . . . And if you don't believe us, take a look-see some clear night . . .

WHO HAS more fun than kids on Valentine's Day . . . It's the little ones' favorite holiday . . . almost more fun than Christmas for there's not the hustle and bustle of holiday-time and there's always a treat at school . . . and a gift for mother . . . The little felt hearts trimmed with sequins that the second grade made this year were just about the cutest things we've ever seen . . . and the mothers who received them think they're pretty nice too . . .

WOULD you believe it if we told you that more than 150 adults in the community are back in school . . . learning all kinds of interesting things . . . Why the art classes might even produce another Grandma Moses . . or a Grandpa Moses, for that matter . . . the upholstering class is wonderful, so we hear . . . And don't be a bit surprised if a few people put out shingles and go into bosiness at the end of the ten-week course . . . There are others but the one we enrolled in is going to be the best . . . and if you don't think so ask my classmates . . . It's magazine and short story writing . . . the teacher is Mrs. Bill Ratigan and it's going to be lots of fun although she has promised us lots of hard work . . . just think, maybe the next great American novel will be written right here in Charlevoix by someone in the class and then you lucky people can say . . 'why, we knew him (or her) when' . . . We just know one thing, we won't be the one to write it . . . But all kidding aside, it's one of the many grand classes that the school is offering . . . And you'd better make your plans right now to attend some of the interesting classes being scheduled for next year . . .

SPEAKING of writing, we had an interesting visit with Luther Hannah one day last week . . . He's a man who loves to write and though he's never had much of anything printed, he enjoys writing some pretty nice poems, short stories and essays that we enjoyed ever so much . . . When you can't rhyme June with moon, you certaily admire that talent in someone else . . .

AFTER THE sad experience Charlevoix had with construction of the new highway north of town, it certainly was something to hear of the progress being made on US 31 south . . . The company hopes to have it completed by July 4 . . . with an original Aug. 31 completion date . . . How's that for progress . . . Elsewhere in the Courier you'll find a story about it but we just had to mention it . . .

IN A LETTER from California last week we received a complaint . . . we think it was justified but we won't take full responsibility for it so we're passing it along to you . . . This person said there weren't enough local items in the paper . . . We will go along with that up to a certain point . . often times you know some local items and think they should be printed . . . but for some reason or other the people ask that we omit them . . . and, which is more often the case, we just don't know about them . . . We want the local items for it's names that make the paper . . . But we can't call each of you every week as much as we might like to . . . So why don't you make a habit of sharing your news with us . . . and your friends . . . Maybe Aunt Jessica has arrived from someplace for her first visit here in umpteen years . . . We know you're happy to see her but did you ever stop to think that others are interested too . . . We don't mean to neglect you but we just can't know what's going on without being told . . . So how about it . . .

OUR unseasonable weather Monday sure convinced us of one thing . . . we never want to live where there's a lot of fog . . . A clash of warm air and cold water cut visibility to almost nothing and during the afternoon you couldn't see 500 feet in any direction . . . Both Round Lake and Lake Michigan disappeared but what was more eerie was the fact that you couldn't see the downtown district from the north side hill . . . Temperatures in the middle 40's are fine but not in the middle of February . . .

And speaking of the middle of February, the 15th of March will soon be here so you'd better start thinking about filing that income tax deal . . . We like you all very much and we'd hate to see you behind bars . . . especially for something like that . . .

THAT OLD basketball season is drawing to a close . . . two more games and then the tournaments . . . is it possible? . . . There's a real important game coming up this week . . . important in a lot of ways . . . If we win we will clinch our fourth straight title . . . something few teams can boast of . . . But equally important is a matter of sportsmanship . . . Don't forget that the school is judged not only on the performance of its team but on the actions of its fans . . . We expect the best from our team and that same team has the right to expect the best from you . . . So see you Friday night . . . And to Coach Terrill and the Rayders . . . luck by the bushel from all of us . . .

Girligigs

Lately, I woke up to the fact that I am a droopy eyed victim of insomnia . . . and as this column is considered a pretty authentic product of intensive technical research coupled with practical application, I made a study of this particular subject and consequently arrived at the conclusion that there are as many cures for insomniousness as there are for hiccups.

First they say try taking a warm bath . . . but I personally, don't enjoy getting wet in the middle of the night. Or try swallowing slowly a glass of warm milk . . . but I hate warm milk.

The latest is the empty gunny sack approach, which to me sounded like the method of least resistance, so I tried it out last night.

Why anyone would, or could suggest that in your sleeplessness you should try imagining yourself as unbeautifully limp as an empty gunny sack, I don't know . . . but I decided that after all, there are worse things than lying awake and making believe you are an empty old bag of potatoes.

So I struggled unsuccessfully with this apparition for several hours and then . . . aw, I gave up and turned over and went to sleep.

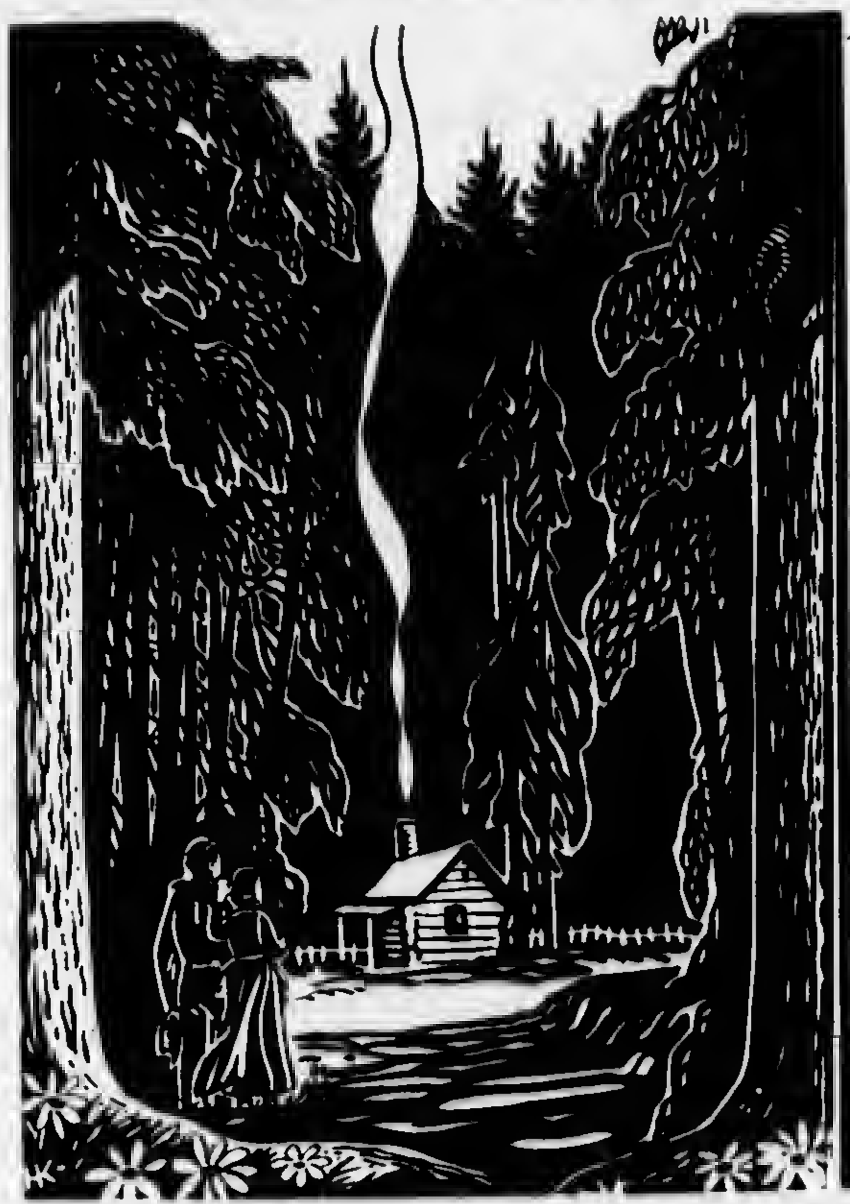
When the Outlook Is Dark



Deep in the Canadian forest stood the cabin of the young pioneers. A tiny opening had been cut amidst the tall timber to accommodate the modest cubicle of logs and hand-hewn furnishings. There was room too for a wee garden patch, but that was all. The giant pines and firs and the forest undergrowth stood poised around the opening, watchful for an occasion when they could march in and reclaim this momentarily lost segment of their vast domain.

At the break of each work day the young husband would bid his bride good bye, jerk the axe from its resting place in the stump by the woodpile, and swing off at a brisk walk along the forest trail to the lumber camp a mile away. From the time of his departure until his return at dusk the girlish pioneer busied herself, making the couple's clothes, mending, cooking, baking, hoeing and weeding the garden patch and performing the innumerable other duties of frontier women-folk. But it was a lonely existence. There were no neighbor women with whom she could exchange the latest news. As yet she had no children to tug upon her affections and her interests and to afford her delightful and entertaining company. Always, nearby, towering above the cabin stood the green giants, the firs, the pines shutting out the world, isolating her from distant loved ones, throwing their dark shadows like barbed wire entanglements around her. She felt like a prisoner, walled in by a firm, substantial darkness.

One night when her weary husband returned from the logging camp he found her in an unusually low mood. The day had not gone well. In addition to the usual immediate hardships of frontier folk she had dredged up memories of the past — her happy childhood in a large and companionable family, joyous and carefree days on the open, sweeping prairies, where one could see for many a mile. What was there here worth living for? What good could come of this solitude? What future was there for her and her dear one in this wilderness? There stood the forest, symbol of her murky mood and a gloomy future. When he had greeted her and found but a dim response, her husband leaned his axe against a nearby tree, drew her to him and with concern and deep tenderness asked her the reason for her downcast spirits. Pointing to the forest which symbolized her feelings, she said, "The outlook is so dark." With that he looked to the circle of light in the midst of the evergreen crowns and replied, "But the uplook is bright!"

So it is. When the outlook is dark the uplook is bright!

It is the uplook which distinguishes man from his furred and feathered fellow creatures. They look down. They look out. But man also looks up with an ease and naturalness that his animal brothers do not possess. The ancient Greeks, recognizing this, called man "O anthropos", "the creature that looks up."

When life is depressing, offering problems too big for human solution we all need to resort to the God above us, the Power that towers over us with kindly concern and outstretched helping hand.

When darkness encircles our minds, imprisoning hope amidst crowding unfavorable circumstances, our cheer and courage will come from the Light that is above every event, every contingency, every crisis.

Second Annual Resort And Motel Institute To Be Held March 3-5

Representatives from sister Great Lakes states are expectde to join Michigan tourist and resort folks in the second annual Resort and Motel Institute, March 3 to 5, at Michigan State college.

Action on the new Mackinac Straits bridge linking Michigan's two peninsulas will increase traffic also in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana and Ohio, leaders predict. More tourist facilities will result also in these states and in Canada, which is looking to another northern link via a new bridge or tunnel at the St. Mary's river crossing at Sault Ste Marie.

Resort, restaurant and motel operators are cooperating with the college in the institute, according to Frank Suggitt, head of the land and water conservation department. The college tourist and resort service is a part of his department.

Future operators as well as present managers will be considered in the program, set up to offer aid to resorts, motels, resort restaurants, cabin and cottage enterprises and other tourist businesses. The first institute, last year, was made successful, points out Suggitt, by active resort operators taking part and offering advice from experience.

Reservations and details on the conference are available, notes Suggitt, by writing to Resort and Motel Institute, Kellogg Center for Continuing Education, Michigan State college, East Lansing.

Conferences will make use of Kellogg Center, which is used for student hotel and restaurant training. Site location, advertising, laundry, large-scale short-time feeding, sanitation and many other subjects will be covered.

Ellsworth Wins From Alba 88-47

Ellsworth Lancers hung scalp number 14 on their belt Friday night by an 88-47 victory over a determined Alba quintet.

Ellsworth went into an early lead and held a 29-7 lead at quarter time. In the second quarter Alba outscored the Lancers 15-14 but were trailing 43-22 at half time. Ellsworth had a big third quarter and dumped in 31 points and led at the third quarter 74-31. In the fourth quarter Alba again outscored the lanky boys from Ellsworth 16-14.

As the game ended Rod DeYoung and an Alba player came together and both ended up as casualties. Rod lost one of his front teeth and the Alba boy ended up with four stitches in the top of his head. Rod DeYoung and Bob Doctor had 29 and 20 points for Ellsworth, Morris and Miller had 6 and 13 for Alba.

The Ellsworth seconds lost to the Alba seconds 30-28. The first quarter found Ellsworth in front 10-4 while the second quarter was a complete reversal with Alba coming up with ten points while the little Lancers had three, Alba leading at half time 14-13. Michigan Mirror

by Gene Alleman

A BATTLE against Michigan's geography can begin now that other battles have been won in the fields of engineering, finance and law.

The way was cleared late last month for the construction of a bridge across the Straits of Mackinac. Last year lawmakers approved a bond issue to finance submitted plans. In December investors agreed to provide the required money. Then legality of the bond issue was questioned. Supreme Justices heard the arguments; ruled the proposition Constitutional.

Much more than a convenient means for southern Michigan deer hunters to travel to Michigan's Upper Peninsula, the gigantic structure which will join the state's two great land areas holds new hope for north Michigan people.

"Immediate economic boom" was predicted by Cheboygan's Mayor John Werner. "As the number of tourists increases, the amount of gas tax will climb," predicts Arthur Michelin, vice president of the Eastern Michigan Tourist Association. "Visitors will spend more money on vacation trips and northern Michigan counties will get a larger return from sales and gas taxes which will benefit our schools and roads."

CONSTRUCTION operations, in themselves, will create a boom.

About 1,000 engineers, divers, riggers and other workers will be required to move into the Straits area for an estimated three year building period. Wives and families of workers will swell the total still more. Their housing, school and living needs will tax available facilities. The dimes and dollars they spend will make pleasant additions to the area's cash registers.

Work is planned for eight months each year. December through March are considered unsuitable for most construction operations because of weather conditions. "Mountains" of materials are needed to complete the task. Designer David B. Steiman expects to use 85,000 cubic yards of concrete (enough to build 26 miles of two lane pavement, nine inches thick) to construct each of four massive cable anchorages. Total pull at each anchorage of the two cables supporting the main span is computed at 30,000 tons. Work should be complete by Nov. 1, 1957.

Design of the bridge was tested in the wind tunnel at Virginia Polytechnic Institute.

It is planned to withstand a wind speed of 120 miles per hour, far more than the highest record wind of 78 mph., to carry a load equal to a continual line of heavy trucks about 50 feet apart on each of its four lanes; to resist an ice pressure of 65,000 pounds per lineal foot.

WHEN the longest bridge in the world spans Mackinac Straits it will stretch over a distance of some five miles. Height of suspension anchorages is 552 feet, higher than Detroit's Fisher building. Road level of the bridge is 148 feet above the water. Anchorages are bedded on solid rock, about 85 feet below the water's surface.

The 3,800 foot suspension portion of the bridge is second only to the 4,200 foot distance over San Francisco Bay. Adding the length of the approaches, the Straits bridge will exceed by one half mile the four and one half structure in California. It should last more than 100 years, according to its designers.

Cost of the bridge will reach nearly $160 million including interest, according to present arrangements.

Construction cost at today's prices is $80 million. The legislature approved a bond issue of $99,800,00, which includes money to handle the bonds and pay interest until revenue from toll charges can be collected. The balance represents interest until the bond issue is redeemed.

TOLL RATES will remain equal to present ferry costs for private automobiles, according to present plans of the bridge authority. This averages $2.78 per vehicle including passengers.

If there are increases, they will apply against commercial users. Reasoning is that truck operators will still save money because drivers will not have to wait for ferries as they do at present.

If crossings equal the expected number, toll revenue will meet the terms of the bonds and provide a balance to pay them off before the expiration date.

The present bridge authority consists of seven Michigan men who serve without pay. Chairman is Prentiss M. Brown, former U.S. senator and chairman of the board of the Detroit Edison company.

Other members are Mead L. Bricker of Detroit, former vice president of Ford Motor; William J. Cochran Jr., Iron Mountain, a General Motors distributor; Charles T. Fisher, Jr., president of the National Bank of Detroit; George A. Osborn, publisher of the Sault Ste. Marie Evening News; Murray D. Van Wagoner, Birmingham former highway commissioner; Charles M. Ziegler, Lansing, present highway commissioner.

THEIR SUCCESS represents the culmination of many efforts by many men over a long period of time.

Back in 1884, long before automobiles were invented, the Grand Traverse Herald became convinced that ferry service across the Straits would not satisfy U. P. needs. "Shall it be a bridge or a tunnel?" it asked editorially.

Since then there have been many attempts to join Michigan's peninsulas, including a PWA application in post depression days of 1935.

Farmers Week Is Most Successful

the federal milk marketing order. Last fall a meeting was held at Traverse City by the United States Department of Agricultural relative to federal order. This order would make milk prices uniform in the areas that it covered, but it will not raise the price of milk, nor make a market for the milk that is produced.

The last part of Mondays Program was on the marketing of livestock. Beef cattle follow roughly a 15-year cycle. The industry has been going through an increase of numbers and the peek has been reached. The prices received by the farmers for beef animals depend on the income of the consumers, the supplies of beef and the supplies of competing meats.

Several suggestions were given by Butz relative to improving the cattle market. One was to ship the cattle to the best market available. Farmers must realize that most of the shrinkage due to transportation occurs in the first ten to twenty-five miles. Farmers should also know the grades of their livestock and feed out the cattle to reach that particular grade.

SOILS AND GARDENS

The formation of the soil in Charlevoix county was discussed by Ed Longnecker, soil speciaist on Tuesday afternoon. He stated that the surface is continously changing and that erosion is one step in soil formation. Charlevoix county was first under water, next shale and limestone was formed until it built up, warm climate made lush vegetation and this was covered up by an ice sheet. When the ice sheet receded it left the present land formation. The highest point in Charlevoix county is on the southeast corner of Hudson township where the elevation is about 1400 feet.

Mr. Longnecker stressed the importance of soil testing. This won't give all the answers but it is very important in the determination of lime, phosphorus and potash needs of the soil. Therefore, a representative test of the area should be taken. Farmers can take their own samples by using clean equipment and taking 6 to 8 samples, putting them together, mixing thoroughly, and then take one cup full of this mixture for their sample. Most Charlevoix county soil does not need lime, however, many do and those that need lime should be treated before fertilizer is added. It is desirable to have a pH of 6.5 to 7.5 and a high reading of phosphorus would indicate 50 pounds per acre and a high reading of potash would indicate 150 pounds per acre.

Clarence Mullett, district horticulturist, covered the subject of the home vegetable garden. Mullett stressed that the garden should be on good soil covered with barnyard manure to which a bag of phosphate has been added. Another suggestion was to plant crops as early as possible. Peas, spinach, onions, potatoes, lettuce, should be planted in April and sweet corn should be every 10 days to have a crop in late summer and fall. Anyone interested in knowing the latest recommended varieties and those that are especially adapted for freezing, should contact the County Extension Office at Boyne City for a list of these varieties.

WEEDS AND INSECTS

Ray Janes, extension specialist in entomology, discussed the latest insect control methods. For fly control in barns he recommended Malathion. This material works better than DDT for fly control and there is less danger of livestock poisoning then with other materials. For the control of cattle grubbs and lice a 1½ per cent rotenone dust was recommended. Rotenone is a good material to have on hand because it can be used for other insects, particularly all garden insects.

Lindena was a material recommended for the control of mange on cattle and hogs. It is also a material that is to be used for the control of seed corn maggot, wire worm and red worm. Cut worms are controlled by Toxiphane,Chloradare, or DDT, depending on what crop they are bothering. Spittle bug control on alfalfa depends entirely on the population that is present and the season of the year. If there is one insect to each three stems and the soil is dry, you can increase the yield by one ton per area by spraying.

Dr. Brigsby, specialist in botany, discussed weed control. First he emphasized that weed seeds cannot be killed. Several materials were discussed and recommended for various weeds. 2,4-D will control broad leaf herbaseous weeds, 2,4,5-T will control woody plants. Brush killer is the name of the compound which is the mixture of the above two chemicals and is cheaper to use to control brush. MCP will also control broad leafed weeds, but it is safer to use in peas and other legume crops.

Other chemicals include TCA, which will completely control quack grass, but it is costly. CMU is the new chemical that will control annual grasses and weeds in asparagus. Crag is used in strawberries, MH-40 will stop seed formation in such crops as milkweeks.

Anyone desiring more complete information regarding the above insect and weed control chemicals and measures, are asked to contact the Extension office at Boyne City.

POULTRY AND BUILDINGS

Mac Moore, extension poultryman discussed the latest methods of increasing profits in the poultry flock. These include using labor-savers such as water pressure, arranging feeders and waterers, use built-up litters, using dropping pits and community nests. Other ways to cut cost include culling regularly, get rid of rats, lice and mites, filling feeding hoppers only one-half full and having an adequate size flock.

The poultry house should be as square as possible, probably ventilated and insulated, and having an adequate amount of light and windows. A straw loft is recommended up to 500 birds. To maintain egg quality, eggs should be gathered often from nests with dry nesting material, cooled promptly, and marketed often.

George Amundson, agricultural extension engineer, spent most of the time with the trench or horizantal silo. Location of these silos is very important and should be well drained from the bottom of the silo. The walls should be smooth, it should be 15 feet wide at least to make it easier to pack. The width will depend on the size of herd that is to be fed. The reasons for using a trench silo is that they cost less and are labor saving.

DAIRY

George Parsons, extension dairyman, discussed what a bull proof means to the average producers. A dairyman should know several things when looking at a bull proof. First how well did the owner take care of the cows and daughters and second, are all of the daughters included in the proof. Mr. Parsons showed in one case where when 100% of daughters were included the production was 440 pounds of butterfat per year, but when only the top one-half of the daughters were included the average production was 498 pounds of butterfat. Parsons stated that the average cow in Michigan is producing 240 pound of butterfat and that it would take 260 pounds for the dairyman to break even.

A chart was shown which indicated what could be done when the management and feeding method were held the same but only good proven sires were used. It is possible to raise the production of the herd with this. Another chart was used to show the difference between bad production practices and good production practices. Good practices include at least 8-week dry period, good condition of the cow at calfing time, a 10% protein ration, and a liberal rate of feeding.

Dr. Alkire, federal veteranarian discussed the present bangs program in Charlevoix county, was tested slaughter methods. Several years ago the program whereby every third year county-wide blood tests were made. Today they are using a milk ring test every six months. They blood test those cattle that show positive. In the blood test not all cattle that show positive in the ring test are reactors. Dr. Alkire stated that for every 100 positive ring tests one-third will be negative on the blood test and one-third will be susceptible on the blood test and the other one-third will be a positive reactor on the blood test.

Several suggestions were made in regards to how to control the disease. The most important was management. Watch the animal at calfing time, put the cow in a different stanchion so that other cows cannot be around since infection on the animal must come through either the nose or the mouth. Watch the people coming on your farm don't let them walk in the feed alleys. Raise all your own calves that you can. If all else fails, get your calf vaccinated at the age of 6 to 8 months, but let the state veterinarian know if you are going to vaccinate the valves.

Officer at Work

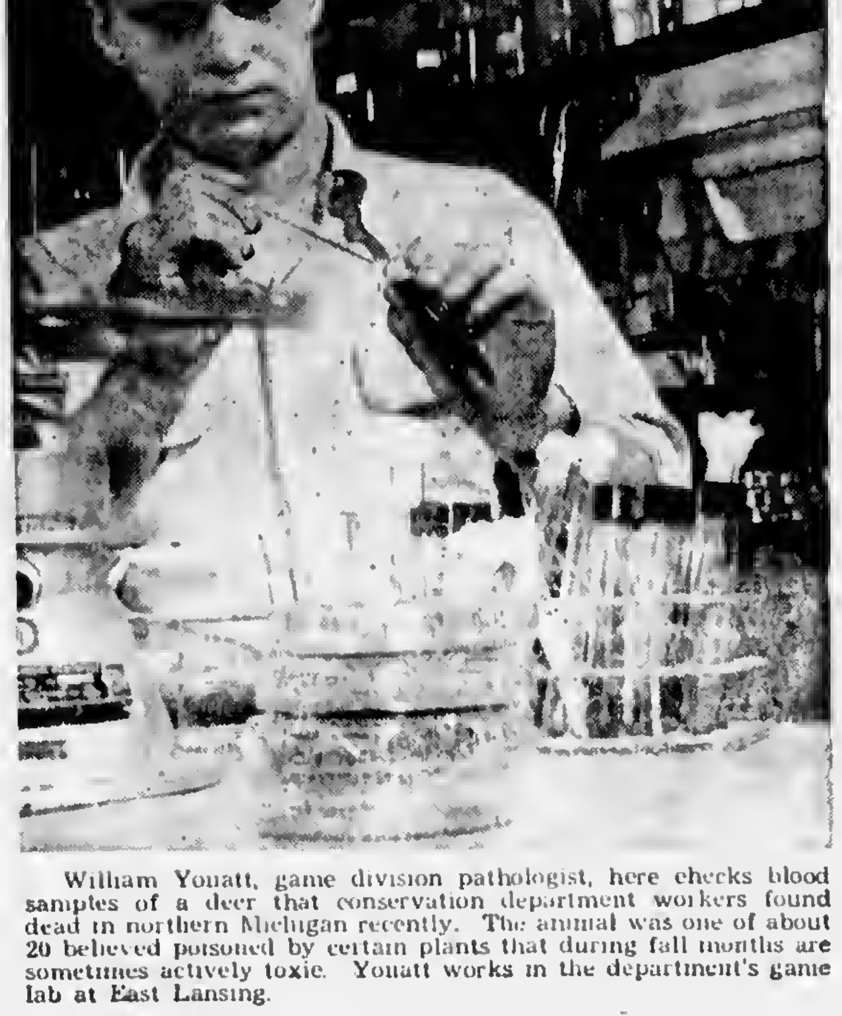
Game Laboratory



William Youatt, game division pathologist, here checks blood samples of a deer that conservation department workers found dead in northern Michigan recently. The animal was one of about 20 believed poisoned by certain plants that during fall months are sometimes actively toxic. Youatt works in the department's game lab at East Lansing.

Alderman Hiller offered the following resolution and moved its' adoption, supported by Alderman Bellinger.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS the periodic expansion of the City's Electric Utility necessitated by the continual growth of the demand for electrical energy makes it absolutely necessary that this City be able to issue revenue bonds periodically to finance such expansion; and

WHEREAS under the Michigan Revenue Bond Act municipalities are denied the right to issue Revenue Bonds to finance improvements of their Electric Utilities although they are allowed to issue such bonds to finance any other utility or improvement, all of which are less sound financially than municipal electric utilites; and

WHEREAS there is no sound reason for not allowing the issuance of said bonds to finance the improvement of electrical utilities and the omission of such from said Act is purely discriminatory and intended only to serve special private interests; and

WHEREAS the enactment of Senate Bill No. S-1102 introduced by Senator Creighton R. Coleman in the current session of the Michigan State Legislature will correct this situation and its' enactment is absolutely necessary for the preservation of municipal electric utilities;

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED by the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix that they most vigorously express to the Michigan State Legislature their unqualified support for the enactment of said Senate Bill S-1102 at the earliest possible moment, and that a copy of this resolution be sent to Senator Frank Andrews and Representative Louis E. Anderson, together with the City's respectful but most urgent request that they devote the utmost of their capabilities to secure the enactment of said bill in its' present form.

Resolution adopted by the following Yea and Nay vote. YEAS: Aldermen Hamilton, Hiller, Kipke, Pontius, Bellinger, and Carey. NAYS: None. ABSENT: None.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totalling $10,388.91 find them correct and recommend they be allowed.

Moved by Alderman Hiller and seconded by Alderman Hamilton that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts.

Motion carried by the following Yea and Nay vote. YEAS: Aldermen Hamilton, Hiller, Kipke, Pontius, Bellinger, and Carey. NAYS: None. ABSENT: None.

On motion the Council adjourned.

1954 Pig Losses To State Farmers May Be 9 Thousand

Michigan farmers will lose between 700,000 and 900,000 pigs in 1954.

With this prediction Sumner Griffin of the animal husbandry department at Michigan State college warned farmers to practice sound sanitation and management to cut this loss.

The loss of a pig at farrowing time may be considered by many as something that "just happened." But Griffin contends that every pig lost at birth represents an investment of $3.50. At four weeks of age this investment increases to $7.75 and an 8 week old pig represents a cost of $10.50 at present day feed prices.

With hog prices as they are now, saving one extra pig in each litter will greatly influence the profits from a swine enterprise. Griffin advises that sound production practices are the basis of success.

Postoffice Requests Customers To Use Street, Rural Numbers

If your name is Smith, Gallogher, Novotny, Boss, Klooster or some other name equally common in Charlevoix, would you please start using a street or rural box and route number on your mail, is the plea issued this week by Charlevoix post office employees.

With some 25 Smiths plus a dozen or so families by the other names listed, it's getting a bit confusing for mail clerks when letters arrive for people who have the same first names and there is no address or the wrong address on the envelope, according to Postmaster Peter H. Timmer.

Many of the older clerks know the majority of families but new sub-carriers are not acquainted with the assorted names so your aid is being enlisted.

To give you an idea of the problem facing the local postal employees, approximately 25 per cent of all incoming mail arrives without any address other than the city.

Then there is the problem of people who travel about with no thought of notifying their friends of a new address or the newspaper and other publications of a change of address. The clerks do the best they can but can hardly be expected to know where everyone goes and when.

So, in an effort to aid the local postal clerks and insure rapid delivery of all mail, you are being asked to start using middle initials when you know someone else has the same name and local street and rural route addresses and to change your address at the proper places if you are on the move.

State Soil Survey Program Lagging

Dean C. M. Hardin of the School of Agriculture at Michigan State college sees a need to step up the basic soil survey now being made in Michigan. At the present rate of progress, it will require 30 years to complete the program.

This program is being carried on jointly by the State Department of Conservation, the Soil Conservation Service and Michigan State college. Sufficient financing should be obtained at an early date to finish the task in a period of not to exceed 10 years, Dean Hardin believes.

A more complete and accurate servey of our basic research, soil, is imperative to continued progress in agriculture, he contends.

Charlevoix Defeats Pellston By A 49-35 Score

Little Rayders Lose First Of Season, 48-46

Charlevoix's Little Rayders suffered their first defeat of the current season Friday night, a 48-46 upset by the Pellston Reserves on the latter's floor.

Until Friday the local Reserves had a record of 13 straight victories.

Charlevoix led the Little Hornets 10-6 at the quarter, 24-19 at the half and 36-29 before being outscored 19-10 in the last period.

In the starting lina-up for the Rayders were Charlie Dennis, Walt Pouquette, Joe Etienne, Ken Balch and Joel Arvilla. Missing from the Reserves rostar were Gary Vandenberg, Bill Kolker and Glenn Ikens, who have been moved up to the Varsity spuad.

In the first quarter Dennis connected for six points on two field goals and two free throws, Arvilla tallied a field goal and Pouquette and Etienne each added a free throw for a 10-6 first period lead.

Pouquette added two field goals and three free throws for seven points, Dennis scored two field goals and a gift shot for five and Arvilla connected for a two-pointer as the half ended 24-19.

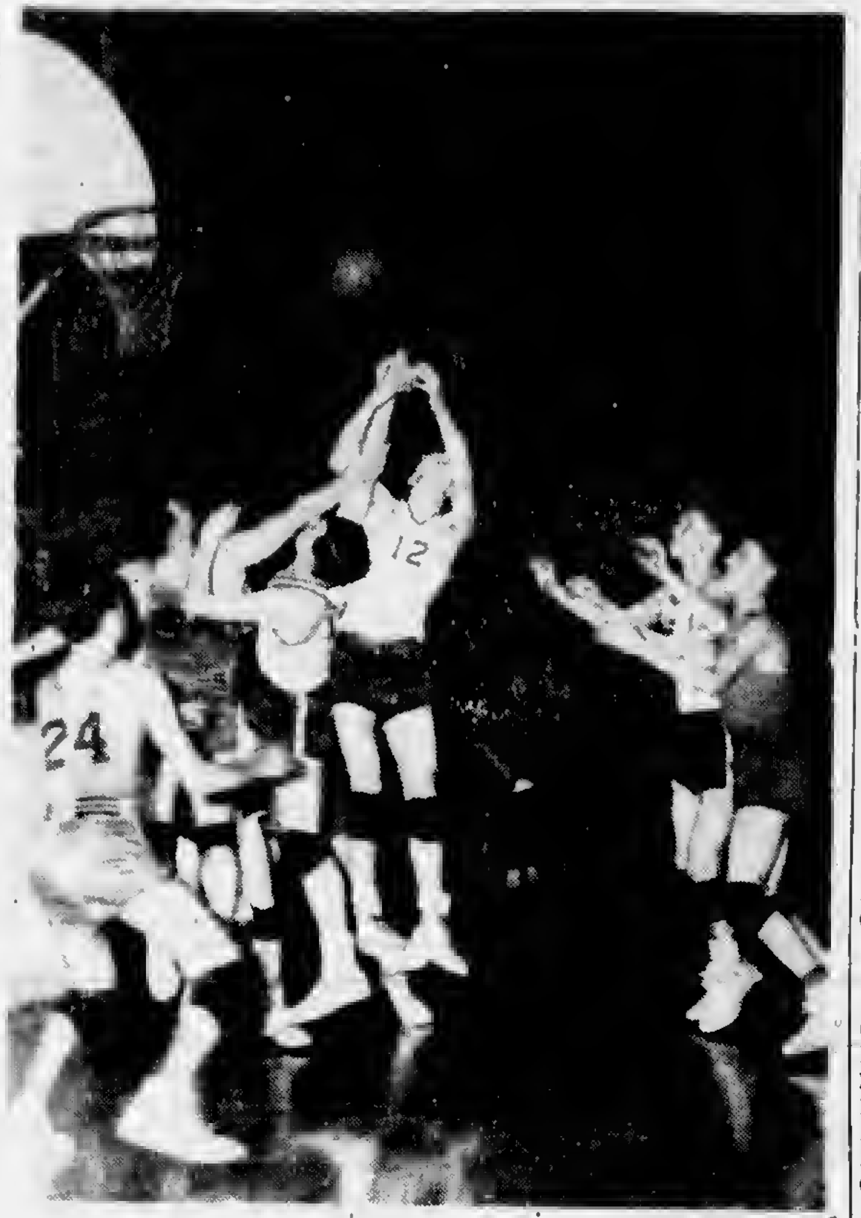
Dennis came through with five points in the third period, Dick Elzinga dropped two field goals and Pouquette tallied three points as Charlevoix continued to lead their hosts 36-29.

The Pellston five started to hit in the last quarter and outscored Charlevoix 19-10 for the victory. Charlevoix's ten points were scored by Dennis, Kit Carson, Balch and Elzinga who scored two points each and Etienne and Arvilla who added one point each.

Dennis paced the scoring with 18 points on seven field goals and four of six free throws. Pouquette followed with 11; Elzinga with six; Arvilla with five; and Carson, Etienne and Balch with two points each. Others in the line-up were Fred Putman and Ron Coleman.

H. Ball led the scoring for Pellston with 12 points.

Pellston outscored Charlevoix 20-15 in the field goal department while making eight of 18 free throw attempts and committing 26 fouls. Charlevoix was successful in 16 of 37 free throw attempts and had nnly 14 personal fouls.



Charlevoix's Varsity substitutes, who see only limited action during most games, got into the spirit of the game recently when Coach Terrill sent all 14 players into the Rayder-Mancelona meeting which the Rayders won 55-39.

Three Loop Games This Week May Determine League Title

With only two weeks remaining in the current basketball season, three important games will be played this week as Charlevoix hosts Harbor Springs, Boyne City invades East Jordan and Gaylord plays at Mancelona in traditional battles. Pellston will journey to Rogers City for a non-loop game.

Harbor Springs, the only league team to defeat the Rayders this season, will play here this week and try to make it two in a row over the first place Charlevoix five. In the first game Harbor Springs won 49-47 in overtime. Although the Rams have nothing to gain in loop standings by another victory, it would mean a great deal to the team to have the distinction of having defeated Charlevoix twice in a season. The Rayders, however, have other ideas and will be out to avenge the earlier loss and in doing so annexing their second league title in as many years.

Charlevoix is now in first place with nine wins in ten games and must win one of their two remaining games to be assured of the league championship. Stan Pifer scored 35 points against Boyne City although his team lost 59-56 but is not expected to have an opportunity for such a scoring spree here this week. On the basis of records the Rayders should have an edge since the Rams are in third place with a five win-five loss record. The Rayders will also have the advantage of playing on their home floor, so should come out on the credit end of the final score if the boys play ball.

East Jordan racked up a comparatively easy 54-47 win over Boyne City earlier in the season but may find tougher going against the Ramblers this week. Boyne City, in fifth place with four wins in ten games, will be out to defeat a traditional rival and move into a fourth place tie with Pellston as the season ends. After coming from behind to defeat Harbor Springs by a three-point margin Friday night, anything can happen and probably will in this meeting. East Jordan will conclude its league schedule this week. With a record of eight wins in 11 games, the Jordanites are assured of a second place berth as the season ends. If Charlevoix should drop their two remaining games, the Red Devils could come in for a share of the title.

Gaylord gained a non loop overtime victory over Cheboygan Friday after trailing the Chiefs for most of the game and will be out to take Mancelona this week in an effort to move out of the league cellar. The teams are traditional rivals and there is much local interest in this game, although a win by either team would do little to change the league picture at this late date.

Pellston bowed to Class B Rogers City 44-32 earlier in the season but the Hurons will be meeting a much improved team this week and the game should be more of a contest although Rogers City, with an impressive record, is expected to win.

Win Places Rayders Nearer League Title

The Charlevoix Rayders moved one game closer to another Northern Michigan Class C league title Friday night with a 49-35 win over Pellston on the latter's floor.

The victory assured the Rayders at least a share of the loop title should they lose their two remaining games with Harbor Springs and Gaylord.

On Friday Charlevoix will host the Harbor Springs Rams who were defeated by Boyne City 59-56. Harbor Springs is the only league team to defeat the Rayders this season, a feat they accomplished in an overtime game on their home floor in mid-January. The score was 49-47.

In the game at Pellston Friday, Charlevoix went into an early lead and held it 12-5 at the quarter, 22-11 at the half and 37-25 at the third period before racking up their ninth win in 10 games in league play. Pellston is now in fourth place with a record of five wins in 11 games.

Missing from the line-up was Dwain Walker, who has a sprained ankle.

Bennett, who racked up 23 points for the game, started his scoring spree in the first period with three field goals, Swanson added two and White one to give Charlevoix a 12-5 first period lead. Pellston scored two field goals and a free throw.

Last Week With Class 'C' Teams

Close scores in all but the Charlevoix-Pellston game, which the Rayders won 49-35, highlighted Northern Michigan Class C games Friday night.

In a game in which Harbor Springs' Stan Pifer scored 35 points, the Rams bowed to an inspired Boyne City team 59-56; East Jordan edged past Mancelona 57-55 and Gaylord nosed out Class B Cheboygan 51-49 in an overtime game.

At Boyne City, the Rams got off to a 23-10 first period lead after Pifer had scored 11 field goals. The Ramblers came back, however, to cut Harbor Springs' lead 31-29 at the half and 46-45 at the third quarter before going ahead for the first time late in the period. Pifer tied the score 56-all with 20 seconds to go but Chub Rothenberger connected on a long high shot with five seconds to go to put Boyne City in the lead. A free throw by Mert Erber gave them a win by a three-point margin. Erber scored 23 points for the victors.

At Mancelona, East Jordan trailed the Ironmen 18-12 at the quarter and 24-18 at the half before taking a four-point lead, 40-36 as the final quarter started. Bobby Danforth paced the scoring for the Jordanites with 23 points. Johnny Holstad had 18 points for Mancelona.

Playing at Cheboygan, Gaylord was behind 13-8 at the quarter, 30-17 at the half and 37-24 at the third period before outscoring the Chiefs 19-6 in the last quarter to tie the game 43-all as the final whistle sounded. Gaylord scored three field goals and two free throws for the overtime victory as Dick Riddle scored 19 points for the Blue Devils and George Geyer tallied 14 points for Cheboygan.

State Farmers Cite Problems In Marketing

Marketing farm products seemed to be the prime problem Michigan farmers brought with them to Farmers' Week at Michigan State college this year.

At most departmental meetings, questions centered around the problem of getting better markets for the products farmers grow.

Duane Baldwin, 28-year-old Michigan Onion king from Stockbridge, was one who called attention to the problem. Referring to his all-time high yield of 1,381 bushels of onions an acre, which he produced in 1953, he told of low prices and the marketing problem.

"We're going into a new era of high production and we will have to learn to live with it." Baldwin contended. "We can't have 50 per cent higher yields with the same consumption unless we limit our production of find new markets.

Potato growers, wheat growers, milk producers and even livestock raisers talked similar problems.

Farmers credited modern science and research with making possible expanded production on the same amount of acreage. At the same time farmers asked questions about marketing problems for which there seemed no logical answer.

M.S.C. agricultural economists stressed the fact that there's "nothing magic about government farm programs." Dr. T. K. Cowden summed it up by saying "price fixing won't work without controls of some kind."

Angel food cake is in season now, as are other dishes calling for generous amounts of eggs. Homemakers of 20 years ago were careful how they used eggs in the winter time. But thanks to the "modern" hen who lays more and more eggs each week during the winter, today's homemakers needn't exercise economy in the use of eggs during this season.

Electric pig brooders are a good investment for cold weather farrowing. Michigan State College agricultural economists say that with high early fall hog prices in prospect, farmers should get their equipment in shape to save every possible pig farrowed.

Pays Tribute To School, Merchants

Ed. Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent, pays high tribute to the Charlevoix business men and the Charlevoix schools for their co-operation which contributed materially to the interest and success of Charlevoix County Farmers Week. Rebman, with the co-operation of the extension department of Michigan State college, has been responsible for arranging the program in the county the last three years.

Weed Killers Get Results When Used At Proper Time

New weed killers work best when weeds are very small, or in some cases, before the weeds emerge from the ground, according to R. F. Carlson of the Michigan State college horticulture department.

For the best weed control, Carlson advises the soil should be moist, but not wet, when the chemicals are applied. Air temperature needs to be warm, around 75 degrees.

Carlson points out the importance of timing the spray when irrigation is used. "Don't irrigate immediately after applying weed sprays," he cautions. "If the soil is dry, irrigate and then spray six to eight days later."

Carlsen also offers these pointers on grass control in crops: "By looking ahead and starting a grass control program a year or so in advance, the grass can be eliminated at planting time. Chemicals such as TCA used with cultivation prior to planting is one way of having a grass-free planting."

Cherries Provide Many Appetizing Dessert Varieties

Cherry pie is certainly a fine traditional way of using cherries The trouble is, it is pretty traditional the year around. So perhaps February is a good month to vary the pattern by thinking of other ways to use this fruit in your menus, suggests Paulino Paul of Michigan State College's food and nutrition department.

The two kinds of cherries, sweet and tart red, are available now as canned, or fresh frozen.

When you use sweet cherries, you can eat them just as they come from the package, plain, or with cream, or as a topping for ice cream. You'll find that sweet cherries usually are not pitted before canning or freezing.

They can also be used in fruit salad and in fruit gelatin mixtures. To obtain more flavor, color and food value, use any cherry juice left in the container as part of the liquid for dissolving the gelatin.

Tart red cherries usually are pitted before canning or freezing. They require the addition of sugar or some other sweetener. And most people prefer them cooked.

In addition to being used for the traditional cherry pie, tart red cherries may be used for making fruit dumplings. Or they can be thickened and used as a topping for ice cream, cake or pudding.

They'll also transform that simple, water-base tapioca pudding into a very special dish. Or you might like them as a base for your next sherbet dessert.

Deer-Food Study

Conservation department game biologists are busy these days checking winter deer-food conditions. With less to eat in the wintertime, deer often find pickings rather slim, and this field worker is laying out a sample study plot to watch developments through the winter.

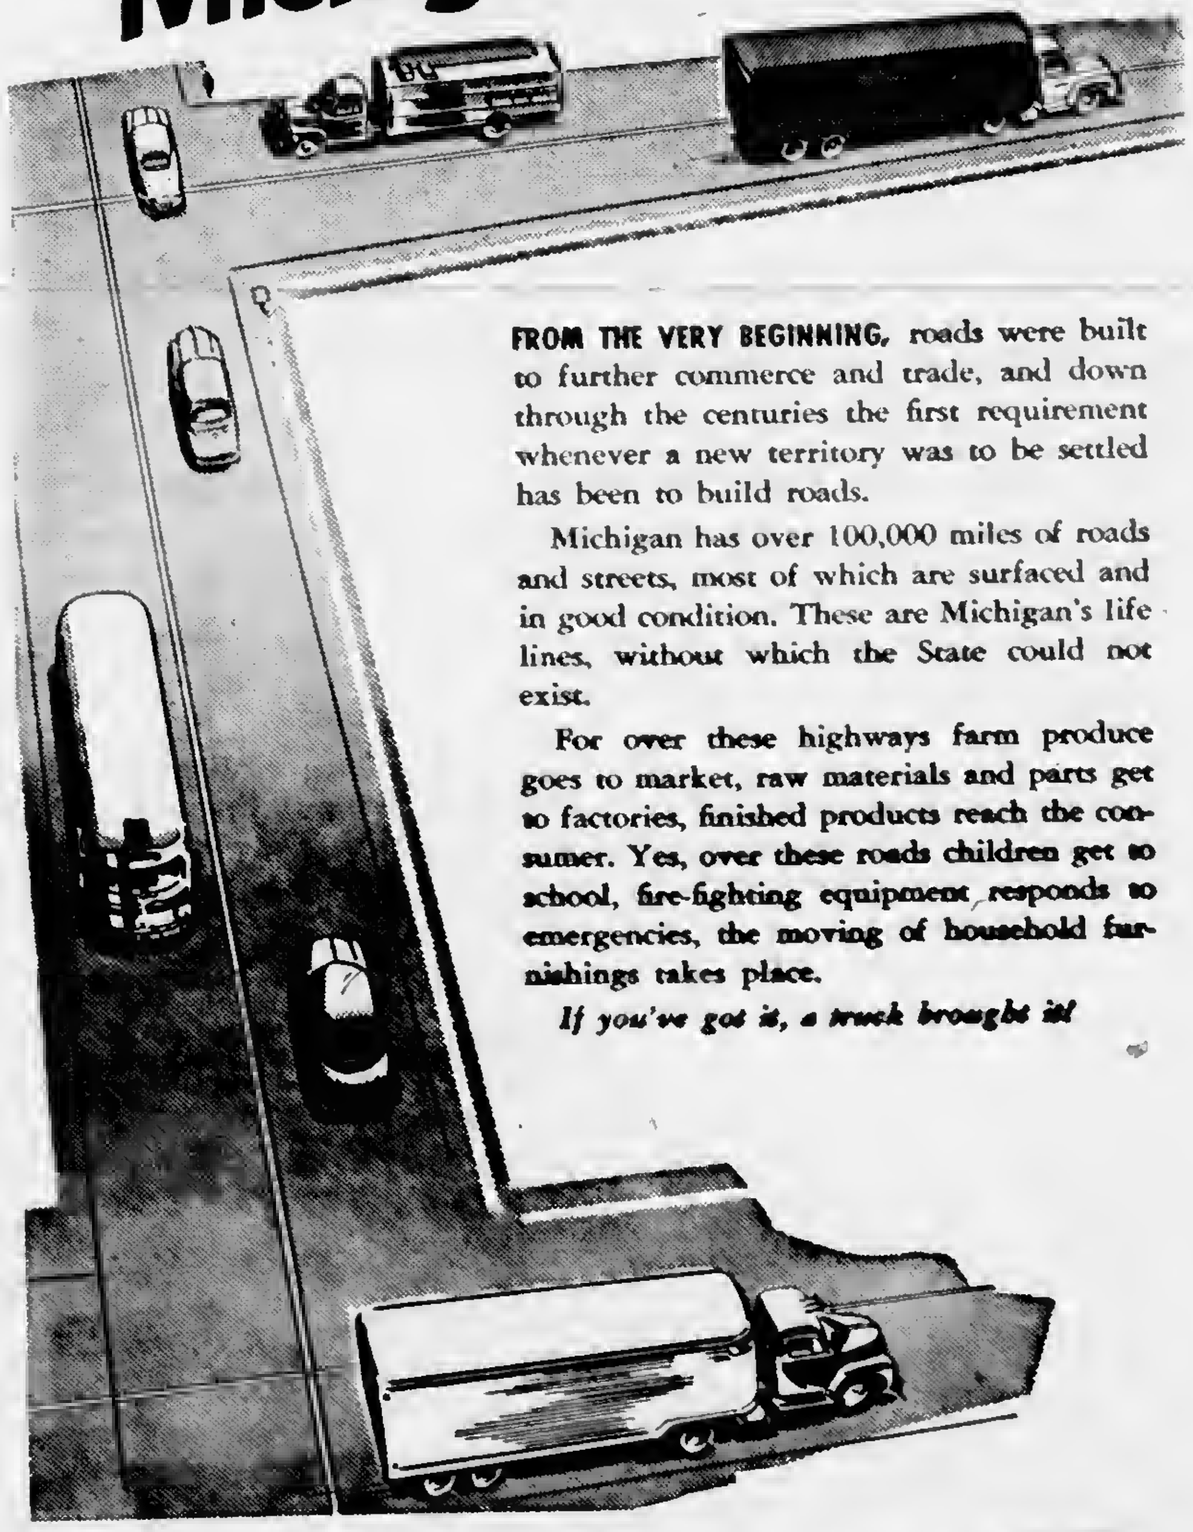
Michigan Life Lines!



FROM THE VERY BEGINNING, roads were built to further commerce and trade, and down through the centuries the first requirement whenever a new territory was to be settled has been to build roads.

Michigan has over 100,000 miles of roads and streets, most of which are surfaced and in good condition. These are Michigan's life lines, without which the State could not exist.

For over these highways farm produce goes to market, raw materials and parts get to factories, finished products reach the consumer. Yes, over these roads children get to school, fire-fighting equipment responds to emergencies, the moving of household furnishings takes place.

Charlevoix's Gail Krahnke, 17, brought the Michigan Winter Sports Queen title to her hometown for the second successive year Saturday night when she was named to the honor over six other candidates in one of the closest competition in the 28-year history of the event.

She was named to succeed another Charlevoix girl, Joan Hess, 1953 Michigan Winter Sports Queen.

The blue-eyed brunet was crowned by Dr. Raymond Kong of Honolulu, T.H., before a capacity crowd at the annual Winter Sports Ball. She won only after the judges were polled a second time after the first vote had ended in a tie. Runner-up for the title was Patricia Ann Dean, 16, of Traverse City.

Queen Gail will begin her official duties as Michigan Winter Sports Queen this weekend when she leaves for Chicago where she will make several television and radio appearances. She will leave the Pellston Airport at 2:25 p.m. Sunday enroute to Chicago via Capital Airlines for appearance on two television and two radio shows including the Don MacNeill Breakfast Club. The dates and times of the appearances are not available at this time. Jeff Bodette, secretary of the Petoskey Chamber of Commerce will return today with the details of her Chicago visit.

The new Queen was wearing a white tulle ballerina length gown, silver accessories and a corsage of pink camellias when she was crowned Saturday night. Her escort was Keith Evans of East Jordan.

Mr. and Mrs. Delbert R. Terrill, representing the sponsoring organization, the Charlevoix Kiwanis Club, accompanied her to Petoskey for the afternoon and evening festivities.

She is the daughter of Mrs. Florine Krahnke and H. O. Krahnke.

After graduation she plans to enroll at the University of Michigan for the fall term.

Two County Men Named For March Draft Induction

The names of the two Charlevoix county draft registrants who will be called for induction into the armed forces March 30 were released this week by the draft board.

They are Walter H. McCauley of St. James and William J. Shaw of East Jordan.

On Tuesday, March 2, Douglas J. Burke of St. James, Richard Freeman of East Jordan and Douglas A. Hausler of Boyne Falls will leave for Detroit for pre-induction physical examinations.

The draft board was notified early this week that no Charlevoix county men will be called for pre-induction physical examinations in April. The draft call for that month has not been received.

Work On US 31 Is Progressing Ahead Of Time

Work on the 6.88 miles of new highway south of Charlevoix on US 31 is progressing far ahead of schedule, William P. Collon of the Michigan Highway Department office here said this week.

The removal of all trees, clearing and grubbing has been completed, winter grading is continuing and approximately 5,000 yards of dirt is being moved daily, Mr. Collon reported.

The project, which starts at the intersection of US 31 and the Barnard road and ends near the intersection of US 31 and the Norwood road will include the re-routing of a part of the 6.88 miles of highway to eliminate sharp curves and the construction of an entire new roadbed topped with a new 22 ft. concrete highway.

In addition to this three large box culverts will be built by a sub-contractor. These have been ordered completed by May 1.

If the culverts are completed and the weather continues to be on the side of the contractor, as it has thus far, the new highway will be opened early in July instead of Aug. 31, the completion date on the contract.

The contract was awarded to Sargent Construction Co. of Saginaw for $636,674.

The Saginaw company was recently awarded a part of the contract for the new Toledo-Chicago Expressway. For this reason, the company is rushing the completion of the local project. The workmen are now putting in 12 consecutive days work with two days off.

Patsy Ratigan Selected For D.A.R. Award

Patsy Ratigan, 17, Charlevoix high school senior, has been selected to receive the D.A.R. Good Citizenship award for 1954, Mrs. Earl A. Young, local member of the sponsoring organization, the Pe-to-se-ga chapter of Petoskey, announced this week.

The award is made annually on the basis of service, leadership, dependability and patriotism to a student selected by teachers and classmates.

It carries with it the presentation of the D.A.R. Good Citizenship pin and the privilege of becoming a candidate for the state award, $100 U. S. Savings bond. The state choice will be made at Battle Creek in mid-March.

A good student who has been popular with her teachers and classmates alike, Patsy has participated in a variety of activities during her high school career. She has been a cheerleader for four years; secretary of her class

Red Cross Drive To Raise $3,250.00 Will Be Launched Monday

The annual Red Cross fund drive to raise a quota of $3,250 in Charlevoix county will be launched Monday, March 1, William H. Granel of East Jordan, county fund chairman, announced this week.

In making the announcement, Mr. Granel said that this will be a campaign for both members and funds. "We hope to make every resident of the county feel that through his membership in the Red Cross he is participating in the services offered by this organization just as surely as if he extended a helping hand to persons in need himself", he continued.

Mrs. J. C. Marshall will serve as local fund chairman.

An accounting of the services offered daily by the Charlevoix county chapter reveals that services to servicemen and veterans, a blood procurement program, water safety, first aid and a new nursing service was carried on in the county during 1953.

Last year the chapter had a record of 242 cases including 166 involving servicemen and their families, 20 involving veterans and their families and 56 civilian families. This service included problems connected with military service through counseling, communications and reporting service, financial assistance and assistance with government benefits. Civilians listed as cases included those needing clothing, counseling, financial aid and other assistance.

The reports also showed that the chapter received 113 requests not listed as cases, that is, did not demand the attention the cases did, including 42 servicemen, 11 veterans and 60 civilians.

Financial assistance totaling $329.65 including $113 in grants was given to 10 servicemen, two veterans and two civilians.

The chapter's water safety program included financing two Charlevoix county residents at the aquatic school last June where they were trained in water safety and first aid. Both returned to

Blue And Gold Dinner Honors Scout Month

More than 200 Cub Scouts, Den Mothers, Den Chiefs and their families joined with Cub Scout officials for the annual Blue and Gold dinner at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club Tuesday night.

The dinner is held annually in observance of Boy Scout month.

Highlight of the brief program which followed was the presentation of an American flag to the pack by the Leslie T. Shapton Post No. 226, American Legion. R. G. Bennett made the presentation of the pack's first flag in the absence of C. B. Meggison.

Don Berg of Traverse City, Scenic Trails Boy Scout Council Executive, spoke briefly and told the group that the parents were the most important people in the Cub Scouting and that it was up to them to help the boys if they were to become good Scouts. He then presented We-Be-Lo badges to Donald Moore and Perry Smith of Den 2 and Jimmy Sneathen of Den 1. This is the last badge the Cub is awarded before becoming a Boy Scout.

Den Mothers were also honored and presented with Den Mother pins. Those receiving this honor were Mrs. John Kroken of Den 1, Mrs. Ralph Hamilton of Den 2, Mrs. Edward Heise Jr. of Den 3, Mrs. Harry Stewart of Den 4 and Mrs. James Coleman of Den 6.

More than 60 awards were presented to other Cub Scouts during the program in recognition for work they had completed.

The group enjoyed a potluck supper served at tables decorated by the five dens.

Copies of the resolution with personal letters were forwarded to the above mentioned law makers who, in their replies, could give no definite information but said they would give the issue every consideration

Sermonette

Rev. Raymond A. Essig, Pastor
Bethany Lutheran Church

A train was going west one time during the winter. On this train was a lady with a baby in her arms who wanted to leave the train at a certain station. It was customary for the conductor to call the name of the station as they came near it. The woman told him, "Don't forget me." He promised to call the name of the station where she wanted to get off. There was a man nearby who also assured the lady: "I will see to it that the conductor doesn't forget you — don't you worry."

A little later when the train stopped the man said, "Lady, this is your station." The woman hurried off the train into the storm. The train had gone on about three-quarters of a mile when the conductor came in and asked, "Where's the lady?" The man said; "She got off at the last stop." "Then she went to her death," said the conductor, 'we stopped the train because we had engine trouble.'

Volunteers looked for the lady. After many hours they found her with the baby folded to her breast, covered with a shroud of snow and ice. She had followed the man's directions, but they were wrong. He had been sincere, but mistaken, and two lives were lost.

Dear Friends, be sure that you are on the right way to heaven. Your soul is at stake. The way to heaven is not so easily found. Jesus said, "Broad is the way that leadeth to destruction and many there be which go in thereat, but narrow is the way which leadeth unto life and few there be that find it."

Every person by nature—as he is born—is on the wrong way, on the road to hell. "All have sinned and come short of the glory of God."

Are you on the right way to heaven? There are many who think that they are on the road to heaven but really are not. They think because they try to lead a decent life, because they do not steal or commit other crimes, because they try to do the best they can, that they will inherit everlasting life.

Let me tell you that respectibility saves no one. A man may be a good husband and father, a kind neighbor, a patriotic citizen, a church member in good standing — and yet on the way to hell. God's way to heaven is this: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved." (Acts 16, 31.) There is nothing we can do to earn salvation. Jesus has done it all. When He cried out on the cross, "It is finished," He meant that the work of salvation was completed. The work of salvation is finished for us to accept and to enjoy. Jesus said: "I am the Way, the Truth, and the Life, no man cometh unto the Father, but by Me." Jesus is the only way to heaven. Therefore, cast yourself into the arms of the Savior for salvation. You must take Jesus as your Savior and Redeemer. If you do not know Jesus as your Savior, the Holy Spirit is talking to you now as you read these lines, pleading with you not to delay but to surrender your heart to Jesus.

Heavenly Father, send Thy Holy Spirit now into the hearts of those who do not know Jesus, that they might cry out, "God, be merciful to me a sinner," for Jesus' sake. Amen.

By Fran Martin

IT WAS a big weekend for Charlevoix and no wonder . . . On Friday night the Rayders wrapped up their fourth Northern Michigan Class C basketball title to set a new record . . . And on Saturday night our Gail Krahnko was named Michigan's Winter Sports Queen at Petoskey, which was also a record, for it marked the second time that honor had come to our little old town . . . Last year it was Joan Hess who walked off with the crown . . . Is it any wonder that the people of Charlevoix are so proud of their town . . .

AND speaking of the Rayders and the 1953-54 title . . . Congratulations to Coach Del Terrill and his Rayders . . . They've given us a good season of grand basketball . . . a few games too close for comfort, we'll admit, but good never-the-less . . . And now they will go into the district tournament at Petoskey after their final league game Friday . . . We wish them all the luck in the world and we know we convey not only our own good wishes but those of their myriad of fans . . . But again we repeat, as we do every year at this time . . . please remember that these kids who represent Charlevoix are the best in the world and they will be giving their all to win . . . actually it means more to them than it does to us . . . But remember too that they are only high school kids . . . they play the best they know how and the best their coach, Del Terrill, has been able to teach them . . . It's awfully easy to sit in the stands and tell a player how a game should be played . . . But when there's a guy on your neck who wants to win as badly as you do, it's pretty hard to give a decision much thought . . . so you just do what you think is right and hope for the best . . . We hope this team goes a long way in the next two weeks . . . And if they don't it won't be for lack of trying . . . And if the cards aren't stacked right and come tumblin'down . . . we'll love you just the same . . . for to be honest. You've done more already than most people expected you to . . .

AS FANS we expect certain things of our team . . . In fact, we'd be ashamed of them if they put on shows like we have seen by some players . . . It isn't good sportsmanship, we say . . . We think as a team, the Rayders have a right to expect a few things from the fans and heading the list is, you've guessed it, sportsmanship . . . We have no special group in mind when we say that it isn't helping the team, your town or yourself when you display poor sportsmanship . . . Sure you don't always agree with the guy in the striped shirt with the whistle . . . but he's the boy who calls the plays and you'd better go along with him or else . . . We have all seen many games won or lost by one point . . . which ever end of the score your team is on . . . A technical foul on a team for a display of poor sportsmanship by the crowd could mean the difference between a victory and a loss . . . So . . . as long as you are expecting things of the team . . you'd better come through with a few things in return if you're a real fan . . . As we expect good things of the Rayders next week, so we expect equally good things of you as fans.

SPRING . . . beautiful Spring . . . but for our money it's coming all too early . . . warm weather, rain, thunder and lightning Saturday night, then sunshine . . . All that in mid-February . . . As someone said Monday, it's fine but I'm afraid we're going to have a late winter . . .

All this warm weather has brought out more and more signs of Spring . . . last week Mrs. Emma Sutton called to tell us that she had found pansies pushing their pretty faces through the leaves on the south side of her house . . . most unseasonable, to say the least . . . We understand that Paul Kullander also brought several pansies from his garden to the city hall the other day . . . to prove his story, no doubt . . .

BUT THE thing that surprised us most was the 'little' sign of Spring that Mrs. Clarence Smith in Hayes township called us about . . . As you might not know, the Smiths make maple syrup which is quite an operation . . . Last week the sap started to run which necessitated the tapping of some 3,000 trees . . . if you can imagine that . . . the warm days and cold nights made it ideal weather for sap . . . but she told us that in the ten years they've had a sugar bush, this is the earliest they've ever started . . . They weren't the only ones to start early either . . . Floyd Ayres on the Danley farm and others also went to work . . .

BUT LAST week, before all this weather got such a toe hold, there sure was a lot of ice in Lake Michigan . . . with some of it drifting into Round Lake . . . It certainly was a good chance to study icebergs for the big lake sure produced its share of floating bergs along with floes this year . . . Mrs. James Coleman was telling us about one big one off the end of Dixon ave she and her family saw . . . and we hear that others saw it . . . Too bad those things don't have little signs on them so we'd know where they were formed . . . Or aren't you that curious?

ONE OF the most familiar voices in the community was silenced this week with the unexpected death of Addie Glossengen . . . As a Michigan Bell operator here for most of the 25 years she spent with the company, everyone enjoyed her cheery 'number, please' and the other little quips she'd get in on occasion . . . That was one of the things the whole community missed most with the passing of the local office . . . those friendly voices that were always there if you needed them . . .

BEAVER Island hit the newsstand last week . . . in the pages of the Collier's with a picture story entitled "Harvesting the ice" . . . It's a clever little story written about the ice harvest a'la Beaver Island . . . the likes of which you'll find no place else . . . And what we liked the best were the pictures of so many island residents . . . Among them our good friend and the personification of what an Irishman should look like . . . none other than James H. Himself Gallagher.

AND HOW about all the excitment on Round Lake Friday morning . . . No one could believe it but there it was . . a doe gingerly picking her way across the ice floes jammed into Round Lake . . . (We like to compare it to Liza on the ice but those cakes were floating downstream, weren't they?) . . . Anyway, the deer which came onto the ice near the Chicago Club, was heading across the widest spot in the lake and had reached the three-quarter mark when it broke through . . . Floundering in an effort to get back on the ice, it proceeded to break the thin ice that was holding the floes together and was making little headway when the U. S. Coast Guard arrived on the scene . . . They broke a path and guided the deer which was trying to return over the route it had come until it again reached the north shore . . . In nothing flat the deer disappeared across the Chicago club property . . . No doubt to return to the herd and relate the strange antics of men who made a fuss about a deer on the ice . . .

MRS. CARL KOHLER came up with an idea at the basketball game last week that would be super if it could be carried out . . a cheerleaders' festival where all cheering groups would have an opportunity to show their 'stuff' . . . It would be great fun and we're mighty sure our little pep gals would come out on top . . . And in case you're worried about future cheerleaders . . . your worries are over . . . half the little girls in town want to grow up to be cheerleaders and the other half band majorettes . . . And if the little gal who has been entertaining the crowd at ball games is any example of future products our worries are over . . . Of course we mean Alice Ance . . . who entertains regularly . . . and a few others who are only part-time cheerleaders, to date . . .

Fred E. Cartiers Will Observe Their Fifty-Fifth Wedding Anniversary Today

Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Cartier, residents of this community for more than half a century, will observe their fifty-fifth wedding anniversary at their home at 110 Belvedere ave. today (Thursday).

No formal observance of the occasion has been planned.

The couple, who resided in Chatham, Ont., at the time of their wedding, were married at Adrian, Michigan, Feb. 25, 1899 and returned to Chatham where they lived until coming to Charlevoix two years later.

Mr. Cartier, who retired from business last fall after 54 years, came to northern Michigan in June, 1901, and was employed in a local tailor shop. That fall he opened his own shop at 308 Bridge st., a location he occupied until the building was razed in the late 1930's to make way for East Park. In January, 1902, Mrs. Cartier and their two sons, Harold and Claire, arrived from Chatham to join him.

As a business man here during the first half of the twentieth century, Mr. Cartier has watched Charlevoix change from a rough fishing and lumbering village with muddy streets and wooden sidewalks to a modern community which has grown into northern Michigan's finest summer resort and the site for several industries.

Serving as an alderman from the third ward for several terms and as a member of the Charlevoix Hospital board of directors, the Park Commission and the Board of Commerce, he played a major role in guiding the community along its new path. As a director of the West Michigan Resort and Tourist Association for many years and as local correspondent for the Grand Rapids Press from 1922 until 1945, he did much to sell Charlevoix as a summer resort.

Despite the fact that he has retired, he visits the business district daily to keep a finger on the pulse of the community.

He is a member of St. Mary's church and the Holy Name Society.

Mrs. Cartier, besides playing the role of mother and homemaker for her four children, has been a member of the Congregational church and its Margaret Parker circle and the Garden Club.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Cartier were born in Chatham, Ont. Mr. Cartier was born there Dec. 7, 1872, Mrs. Cartier, the former Hannah Scafe, was born Sept. 1, 1880.

The couple has three sons, Harold, an engineer of New York and Dover, N.J., Dr. W. Claire, a Grand Rapids dentist and Stanley of Charlotte, N. C., and a daughter, Mrs. Willis A. Cross Jr. of Petoskey. They also have 12 grandchildren.

Girligigs

Not daring to mention the flowers that bloom in the Spring, tra la . . . let's talk about something else that goes to our heads . . . hats.

Good news to us here is that the small sailor type is still in style, narrow-brimmed and eye-revealing, so we can still tell which way the wind blows.

The trimmings the thing . . . take a simple skimmer and deck it with a feather, a strawberry or a rose, or a velvet curl to be worn right in the middle of the forhead.

Next to white, the most popular shade for Spring bonnets is pink . . . ranging in panoramic shades of Pink Poppy to Turkish Cranberry.

Not being a sailor, we can't tell you whether this season you should tilt your hat aft or portside, but just a little bit straight forward from the direction of your nose is the preferred angle. You might possibly have to get out your compass.

Veils, this Spring, are entirely up to whether you want to see or not. There's a choice of them studded with everything from tiny ceramic apples to embroidered bees.

On second thought, let's use the compass here, shall we? . . . just in case we chose the embroidered bees?

Americanism Tea Well Attended By Women's Clubs

Approximately 75 members of the combined memberships of the Garden Club, Tuesday Study club, the Charles Dickens and Shakespeare Study clubs, and their friends, attended a benefit Americanism Tea on the event of George Washington's birthday, Monday at the home of Mrs. E. D. Hawley, 300 Dixon ave.

Guests who gathered between the hours of 2:30 and 4:30 for the patriotic event were greeted by Mrs. H. E. Sessions and Mrs. James Coleman, dressed in the traditional early American costume of George and Martha Washington.

Proceeds from the event were donated to the Federated Women's Club project for the restoration of Independence Hall, and to provide cash awards to the two prizewinning essays on Americanism in a contest now being conducted in the Charlevoix grade school and high school, sponsored by members of the Shakespeare Club.

Hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Charles Bellinger, Mrs. G. H. Saltonstall, Mrs. Charles Pontius, Mrs. Ted Miller, Mrs. Coleman and Mrs. Hawley.

Play Presented At Tri-County Mental Health Group Meet

An interesting program rewarded those who attended the meeting of the Tri-County Chapter of the Michigan Society of Mental Health at the Congregational church here Monday.

Highlight of the meeting was the one-act play, "The Case of the Missing Hand-shake" produced under the direction of Mrs. Charles Bleha with a cast composed of Mrs. E. P. Vanre, Herbert Schofield, Vicky McClure, Mrs. Harry Stewart and Mrs. Bleha.

The play was well presented and evoked a stimulating discussion period which was led by Robert Gillispie of the Child Guidance Clinic in Petoskey.

The necessity for parents to substitute nagging with a firm consistent attitude on disciplinary measures was brought out in the discussion. It was felt that sympathetic understanding talks between parent and child would eliminate many problems in the home.

Following the discussion period refreshments were served by the women of the Congregational church.

Norman Sanders, newly-elected president of the Tri-county chapter, held a business meeting with the Board of Directors at which general plans for the ensuing year were discussed.

Boy Scouts Will Hold Round Table

The monthly Boy Scout Round Table meeting for February will be held at the Methodist church in Mancelona at 7 p.m. tonight (Thursday).

The special program for cubbers to be discussed at the meeting will be "Cub Scouts in the Land of Oz" and making camp gear will be the topic for discussion by scouters.

Scouters are urged to bring their woodcarving and also their home-made camping gear to the meeting tonight.

The first announcement regarding two wilderness trips planned by the Scenic Trails Council will be discussed. One is a Minnesota and Canadian canoe trip and the second is a Tahquamenon Falls and river trip.

Bob Peel from Saugatuck bought Mike Culls fishboat "La-Fand" last week. The men were quite busy for three or four days sawing the ice to get her to the Coast Guard Station. Finally Saturday afternoon they made it and now Mr. Peel is just waiting for good sailing weather before he leaves for Frankfort.

Last week the snow really went down with all the soft weather we were having.

Living to Serve

There is something gloriously unselfish about a brook. Unlike a lake, which gathers to itself and for itself streams and run-off waters from adjacent hills, a brook lives to serve, not to be served, to give, not to receive. It gathers ground water and springs to itself but not for itself . . . only to offer them again to the larger streams and the lakes and the seas. Wherever it goes, among the gracefully uplifted hills or the sad and somber swamps, the brook exists to spend itself and to be [illegible] giving its waters freely asking nothing in return.

One might almost think that it is this unselfish character of the brook that makes it such a happy thing. It lopes laughingly through low-lying swamps, by the side of a deeply rutted road, then through a culvert and out among groves of cedars and past delicate birches. It dashes gleefully under fences, past the spire-like sentinels of balsam and spruce and the miscellany of poplar, black ash, beech and maple. Other companionable little creeks join the brook as it skips and runs toward the patiently waiting lake.

A brook is going somewhere. It is water-on-a-mission. About to present itself to other waters at its destination, it never neglects little wayside opportunities. On its way to make its final offering it gaily gives itself all along the way. Deer drink of its refreshing coolness with a deep content. Boys of seven years and of seventy probe its pools and eddies with their lures and return home at day's end with the brook's gift of speckled trout. Fish, crustaceans, mollusks, and water insects are given a home in its swirling currents and tranquil pools. From its birth in bubbling springs to its arrival at its final goal the brook is selfless and a happy appearing thing.

Service and happiness belong together. We feel lowest when we are most self-centered, when we are most self-pitying. We are happiest when we are so busy doing for others that we forget ourselves.

One of the reasons why physical pain suspends happiness for awhile is that it confines our consciousness to ourselves, imprisons our attentions within the limits of our bodies. We can think of little else but of that pain and its location. Happiness returns when the mind is freed and ranges from self to others.

A person's circumstances may be ever so favorable and he will be unhappy if he is self-centered. His troubles may be many and he may still achieve happiness if he lives by the service motive. In the shadow of the cross, on the eve of his crucifixion, the Master said to his disciples, "These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full." His joy? What reason did He have to be joyful with suffering confronting Him on the morrow? Christ's joyousness came from giving Himself for others.

Like the brook, we are here not to get, but to give.

Christ Church To Hold A Pancake Supper Tuesday

Plans for a Shrove Tuesday pancake supper at Christ Episcopal church, March 2 were announced this week by Thomas Carey, general chairman of the event.

Mr. Carey will be assisted by the men of the parish in the event, which will be held in the church dining room next Tuesday. Serving will begin at 5:30 p.m. and continue through 8 p.m. The menu will include pancakes, sausage, maple syrup, apple sauce and coffee.

Shrove Tuesday festivities of some kind are almost universal in countries of traditional historic Chrisendom as it is the last day before the rigos of Lent start.

Not the least of these festivities is the old Anglo-Saxon custom of pancakes on Shrove Tuesday. On first observation it would appear that this is purely a secular activity, upon closer examination it is found that the motives are religious for the Lenten season in the days of yore, as now means fasting for spiritual growth and fasting means no meats, dairy products or fats of any kind during the 40 days preceding Easter.

Since it is a fine English and American custom to make a bit of a turn of life's more trying situations and because of the innate Anglo-Saxor sense of frugality, these commodities could not be discarded but must be used; hence, Shrove Tuesday pancakes.

In many English country villages such as Virginia hamlet, it is possible to see the good folk return from church, after having been 'shriven', flipping a pancake in one hand and balancing eggs in the other with a prize to one proving the most adept in this art.

Grayling Defeats Gaylord 61-31 In A Tuesday Game

In the only game played Tuesday night the Gaylord Blue Devils bowed to Grayling 61-31 to give the Vikings a record of 16 straight wins without a loss.

Gaylord trailed the Vikings 10-11; 29-15 and 42-24 before going down to defeat.

Rayders Win Fourth Straight Conference Title

Defeat Harbor Springs Rams By 75-37 Score

The Charlevoix Rayders set another Northern Michigan Class C record Friday night when they captured the league title for the fourth straight time with a 75-37 victory over Harbor Springs, the only team to defeat the Rayders in league play this season.

Until now, the present Rayders, coached by Del Terrill, had only tied the record of three consecutive titles set earlier by Coach Ray Kipke's Rayders during the 1945-48 seasons.

In racking up the 75 points for a decisive win over the Rams, Rayders forward Bobo Bennett scored 35 points to become the second league player this season to tie the league record set by Keith Emerson of Pellston in 1950. Earlier this month Stan Pifer of Harbor Springs scored 35 points in the Harbor Springs-Boyne City game.

In scoring his 35 points, Bennett hit for nine field goals and scored an impressive 17 of 18 free throw attempts.

The Rayders clinched the title with a record of 10 wins and one loss in league play although they have one game remaining, a meeting with Gaylord on the Blue Devils' floor tomorrow night.

If the Rayders defeat Gaylord, whom they downed by a 56-37 score in an earlier game, they will have the record with which they won the title in the past . . . 11 wins and one loss in league play plus one loss in a non-loop meeting. This year the Rayders non-league loss was to the strong Grayling five by a score of 54-47 early in the season. In other years the one loss was to Class B Petoskey.

The encounter, an important one for the Rayders, who were out to avenge an earlier 49-47 overtime loss to the Rams, started with Harbor Springs well in control of the game in the opening minutes.

After several tries, Cart Seeley found the basket and the Rams took a 2-0 lead but Guy Swanson retaliated with a long shot and the battle was on. A free throw by Pifer and a field goal by Rod Pontius put Harbor ahead for the second time before Bennett collected two points on free throws and White scored a field goal to push the Rayders into a one-point lead. Mol scored three points on a field goal and a charity shot and Bennett collected his third gift shot after Tom Clarke scored on a free throw and Pontius sank a field goal as Charlevoix went into an 10-8 first period lead.

Pifer tied the score with a field goal to open the second period but Bennett and Swanson each connected for two-pointers to give the Rayders a lead they never lost throughout the game.

Immediately after scoring the field goal, Pifer collapsed and was carried from the floor by his team-mates. After some delay he was carried to the locker room and the game was resumed with Tor Larson replacing him in the line-up.

Two field goals and three free throws by Bennett and two long shots by McDermott gave Charlevoix a 27-15 lead as the half ended. A field goal by Larson and a free throw by Seeley ended the Rams scoring for the period.

LaBlance opened the Rayders' third period scoring spree with a field goal before Pifer, now fully recovered from his second-period collapse, returned to the game.

As the period ended Charlevoix went into a 45-21 lead after Bennett had scored ten points on two field goals and six out of seven free throw attempts; Swanson had scored three points on a field goal and a free shot; McDermott and LaBlance had scored one field goal apiece and White had added one point on a free throw. The Rams had to be content with six points on two field goals and two of 10 free throw attempts.

In the last period the Rayders set a team scoring record for one period during the current season with 30 points as Bennett dumped in 13 points on four field goals and five of five free throws; Mol connected for seven points on three long shots, a gift shot; Glassford scored two field goals and White, LaBlance and McDermott scored a field goal apiece.

With their offensive attack working, the Rayders relaxed their defense and Pifer scored six field goals and Larson and Swiss one each for 16 points for Harbor Springs.

It was not until the game was over that anyone realized that Bennett had tied the scoring record.

Behind Bennett in the scoring department were Mol with 10 points; McDermott with eight; Swanson with seven, LaBlance with six, White with five and Glassford with four.

The Rayders pumped in 27 field goals and scored 21 of 32 free throws, with Bennett accounting for 17 of them, to run up their biggest score this season. Fourteen personal fouls were called on the Rayders.

Harbor Springs had 15 field goals, seven of 21 free throws and committed 25 personal fouls.

Rayders To Meet Gaylord There Friday To End Regular Season

Six of the seven teams in the Northern Michigan Class C league will end their current schedules Friday with Mancelona traveling to Harbor Springs, Pellston invading Boyne City and Gaylord hosting Charlevoix. East Jordan, the seventh team in the loop, completed its schedule last week.

Harbor Springs, stinging from a 75-37 beating at the hands of the 1053-54 league champions, the Charlevoix Rayders, will be defending their third place league standing when they entertain the Mancelona Ironmen, fresh from a 58-54 win over Gaylord.

Strengthend by the return of Dick Derrer to the line-up, Mancelona with a record of four wins in 11 games, will be out to close in on the Rams and drop them out of third place which they now share with Pellston. The Rams' record of five wins in 11 starts will give them little advantage over the visitors who are also used to playing on a small floor, so the game is expected to be close. In their first meeting, Harbor Springs won 54-52.

When Pellston meets Boyne City this week, the Hornets will also be battling to hang on to the third place standing they now share with the Rams. In their first encounter, the Ramblers won 47-40 but will find tougher going this time against the Hornets, who have a record of five wins and six losses. If both teams are 'up' for the meeting, the game could be close.

The Charlevoix Rayders wrapped up the league title with their 75-37 win over Harbor Springs Friday so their game with Gaylord will have no bearing on league standings. The Blue Devils however, will be out to trip the Rayders in their victory march, a feat which would add prestige and confidence to the Gaylord squad as they go into the tournaments next week. Charlevoix with its record of one loss in 11 games will have a definite edge in the meeting although Gaylord could make it a tough game if they should try.

Last Week With Class 'C' Teams

While the Charlevoix Rayders were annexing their fourth straight Northern Michigan Class C title with a 75-37 win over Harbor Springs, East Jordan was completing its current basketball schedule with a 78-50 victory over Boyne City; Mancelona was taking a close game from Gaylord by a 58-54 score and Pellston was giving Class B Roger City a battle before the Hurons won 52-40.

The Jordanites facked up the highest number of points scored in one game in league play this season and they finished the season in second place with their 78-50 win over Boyne City.

Keith Evans tallied 26 points as the Red Devils led 20-11 at the quarter, 35-22 at the half and 53-32 at the third period. Nels Northrup had 16 points and Chub Rothenberger 15 points for Boyne City.

East Jordan ended the season with a record of nine wins and three losses in loop play.

At Mancelona the Ironmen trailed Gaylord 16-15 at the quarter and tied the score 31-all at half-time before moving into a 44-42 third period lead. Johnny Holstad of Mancelona and Dale Tolman of Gaylord shared scoring honors with 16 points each.

Dick Derrer, Mancelona regular, who has been out of the line-up since early in the season when he suffered a serious virus infection, saw action for the first time since mid-December when he played for little more than a quarter during the Ironmen-Blue Devil game.

Merlyn Davenport and Glenn Aurrand of Pellston and Tony Fuhrman of Rogers City each scored 13 points as the Hurons led the Class C Hornets 14-6 at the quarter, 23-15 at the half and 33-23 at the third period.

Little Rayders Defeat Harbor Springs 61-34

Charlevoix's Little Rayders made their way back to the victory trail Friday night with a 61-34 win over the Harbor Springs Reserves.

The victory gave the local Reserves a 13 win-one loss record with one game to be played at Gaylord Friday.

In the game here last week, the Little Rayders went into a 16-12 first period lead before forging ahead 32-16 at the half and 48-27 lead as the third period ended.

The game got off to a well played first period with Charlevoix outscoring the Harbor Reserves 16-12 with Ken Balch scoring eight points on three field goals and two free throws; Pouquette adding three on a field goal and a gift shot, Dennis and Etienne accounting for two points each on free throws and field goals respectively and Carson a free throw. Harbor Springs scored four field goals and four free throws.

In the second quarter Charlevoxi scored 16 points while allowing the visitors to score only four points on a field goal and two free throws. Pouquette tallied six for the Rayders on two field goals and two free throws; Davis added four on a field goal and two gift shots; Balch and Arvilla scored two each on field goals and Dennis and Etienne added one point each from the free throw line.

In the third period the Rayders' scoring was confined to seven field goals including three by Kolker, two by Etienne and one each by Dennis and Balch. Harbor Springs had four field goals and three free throws.

Charlevoix again outscored the visitors in the last period 15-7 as Carson scored on a field goal and a free throw; Pierce, Timmer, Putman, Pouquette and Balch scored one field goal each and Dennis added two points on free throws. The little Rams scored seven points on three field goals and one free throw.

Balch paced the scoring for the game with 14 points and Seeley and Kruskie shared honors for Harbor Springs with eight points each.

Behind Balch with 11 points was Pouquette followed by Dennis and Etienne with seven each; Kolker with six; Carson and Davis with four; Arvilla, Putman, Timmer and Pierce with two points each.

The local five scored 23 field goals compared to 12 for the Rams and connected on 15 of 30 free throw attempts while committing 17 personal fouls. Harbor Springs scored 10 of 22 free throw attempts and had 24 personal fouls called on them.

Charlevoix County Farm News

Legumes Selected To Fit Land Assures Better Seeding Stand

The soil is the thing that makes or breaks the farmer when it comes to the adaptation of legumes, reminds Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent.

Fitting the crop to the land, not fitting the land for the crop, is the best way to get profitable legume seedlings.

Alfalfa and the clovers make up the bulk of the forage legumes and every one of the varities requires a different set of soil characteristics.

Alfalfa requires a well-drained soil of neutral acidity, of light or heavy texture. Alsike will tolerate much more acidity and wetter conditions. Between the two extremes are red clover requirements.

High value crops, especially those with high plant food requirements, should be put on the best land, relegating the sod crops to the hillsides to prevent erosion.

Matching the small grains and grass crops to the heavier classes of soils, corn to the silt loams and truck crops to the sandy loams is the best arrangement. It is good business to put the cultivated crops on the coarser soils.

It is costly to modify soils for crops not adapted to them, it is expensive to change plant food content, and drainage and irrigation cost money. All in all, the best deal is to choose the right crops for the soil at hand.

Small Orchardists Should Plan Now To Do Spring Pruning

Back yard orchardists should be following the example of commercial fruit growers this month to start the annual pruning job.

Dr. C. A. Langer of Michigan State college's horticulture department advises that apple trees can be pruned anytime now. The idea of pruning is to take out the weak wood which would make small, ugly fruit. And taking out the old, dead wood and broken branches will keep down diseases. Another reason is to open the tops of trees so more spray can enter through the summer foliage.

If you have some peach trees, it's Langer's advice to prune after March 1 because buds are tender and can be injured by cold weather. Here, the wood that bore peaches the year before should be taken out. This makes possible for new sucker branches to grow that will produce more succulent peaches.

Prune red raspberry bushes after Mid-March. The job is easy, trim the bushes like you would a hedge, 36 to 40 inches high. For black raspberries, prune to leave the laterals 6 to 12 inches long. Do it after mid-March, too.

Do your pruning on grapes anytime before April 1, Langer suggests. Pruning after the grape sap begins to flow will hurt grape vines and cut yield

National Wildlife Week Dedicated To Pollution Control

Lansing -- National Wildlife Week is slated March 21-27, the National Wildlife Federation notes.

The week when the attention of the nation is annually turned toward problems of conservation is this year devoted to water pollution control.

The Boy Scouts of America have pledged the President to undertake as a major project for the year "a national conservation good turn." Many sportsmen and outdoor clubs are making plans to unite conservation efforts with the Scouts during the coming year.

Handy and Easy "Sign Up"

Last month's safety drive was a big success—almost. Every one helped—the schools ran movies on safe driving, Rotary put up posters, and Handy and Easy Peters went out on their own.

The boys put up a big sign by the side of the highway. It said, "Slow down—the life you save may be your own." It was a good idea—after the police moved the sign back twelve feet.

In their enthusiasm Handy and Easy put it too close to the road —in fact, right on the sharpest curve on the highway. They made driving unsafe by cutting off the view around the curve.

From where I sit, lots of people—even though they mean well —suffer from short-sightedness now and again. For instance, some can never see any further than their own preferences. They even go so far as to object to my choice of a glass of beer with supper. Shouldn't we always take the "long view"... and respect our neighbors' rights?

Poacher's Predicament

Conservation officer Robert Ball, Roscommon, uses a comparison microscope to check ballistics of two shell casings involved in a recent deer poaching case. In this case, the two shells were alike and the evidence was used in court to help law officers end illegal activities of the poacher. The microscope also helps the innocent; the suspect could have been cleared had the two shells not compared.

Improved Crop Yields Can Lower Costs Without Creating Market Surpluses

Why show farmers how to improve crop yields and boost milk production when we have such a surplus of food already?

That's a question some city folks are asking Michigan State college. This is the answer they get from C. R. Hoglund, M.S.C. agricultural economist:

In the first place, better production per acre doesn't necessarily mean greater total production from improved practices. If a farmer uses recommended rotations, he will have less acres in cash crops and more acres in grass and legumes. Since he will be producing more per acre, his costs will be cut and total income will be higher than if he were producing the same amount of crop on more acres.

As for adding to the total milk production by improved practices . . . it isn't necessarily so, Hoglund maintains.

"Greater use of high quality roughage lets the farmer feed less grain and protein to his cows without changing milk production," the economist explains. But the greater use of roughage will mean more dollars left at the end of the year because the farmer will be spending less for feed."

Complete fertilizers and mulches pay off in fruit orchards, report M.S.C. horticulturists and growers.

Soil Fertility Is Means To Better Farm Production

More and more farmers are going after top yields by correcting soil fertility—putting soil nutrients back in balance, advises Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent.

Loss of balance may depend on orginal soil conditions, cultural practices or the fertilizer program, he explains.

A soil sample information sheet should accompany the soil samples to be tested. Sample information sheets may be obtained from Mr. Rebman

He emphasizes that though soil may be in a well-balanced condition to start with, the good fertility may be impaired by faulty soil management practices, overcultivation and use of fertilizer not adapted to the soil.

The testing practice for nitrogen is the examination of tissues of plants. For phosphorous, the deficiency can be noted by the farmer by the stunting of the crops, for this element depresses cell division. It is estimated that good soil should contain 50 pounds of potassium per acre.

Oil, Gas Production Drops In Michigan

Lansing — Petroleum producers took 12,284,511 barrels of oil and 7,084,626,000 cubic feet of gas from Michigan wells during 1953, the conservation department reports.

This was a slight drop from the previous year. The oil total last year was 93 percent of the 1952 production of 13,251,464 barrels and the gas total was 82 percent of the 8,677,737,000 cubic feet produced in 1952.

Farmers who want to be sure to have seedlings to grow Christmas trees can grow them from seed, suggests Lester Bell, M.S.C. forester.

Fit the crop to the land, not the land to the crop, advises Dennie Clanahan, M.S.C. farm cropsman.

It's hard to beat an alfalfa-bromegrass-ladino mixture for pasture and forage, claim M.S.C. farm cropsmen and animal specialists.

ONE SPECK of RUST can stall your car

Even one speck of rust or corrosion can stall your motor by clogging one of the tiny carburetor jets.

Rust and corrosion form throughout your fuel system when you use ordinary gasoline. That's because your gasoline—and everybody else's—contains minute quantities of water, formed by moisture condensation.

Protect your car against rust and corrosion. Use new Anti-Rust Sinclair Gasolines regularly. They contain the miracle Anti-Rust Chemical, RD-119.

Spring has come to Fay's! Quite independent of the weatherman, Spring arrived in boxes and cartons. We've been unpacking all week and hardly know what to tell you about first.

Perhaps we should pick something extra special — like a wonderful beautiful white coat by Donnybrook — styled, in the simplest of cardigan lines. — of a fabric that's blended wool and white mink! Lot's of short coats too — some with jewel trimmed collars!

For more practical every day wear, you'll want one of our "All-weather" coats with a pert matching cap. There's such a wide range of colors and fabrics to choose from! — Printed faille, satin-striped taffeta, gay plaid gabardine and men's wear gray flannel. They're all water repellent, you know, to keep you smartly coated and capped — rain or shine!

Our skirt rack is taking on a gay and colorful look — like a display in an interior decorator's studio. Why? Because this year the skirt manufacturers have gone right to the drapery department to get the fabrics for their new Spring and Summer skirts. — Full whirling circles of splashy modern geometric designs or amusing picture prints. — Full gathered dirndls of linen-like fabric, covered all over with embroidered butterflies! — And slim straight skirts in something that looks like wool tweed — but washes!

This is really getting ahead of the season but, our swim suits arrived this week! If you are rushing the season too, taking a southern vacation or just a quick trip for a dip in Boyne Mountain's outdoor pool, we'd love to show you our new suits. They're different and we think you'll like their special "differentness."

We told you we didn't know where to begin. We're also having trouble knowing where to stop! You'll just have to come in and see for yourself what's new at Pellston advanced to the semi-finals tonight after edging past Cheboygan Catholic Central 39-37 in a 'sudden death' double overtime in the first Class C game of the current tournament.

In the Class D opener Tuesday, Mackinaw City trounced Alanson 56-31.

Mackinaw City will meet Ellsworth, which drew a first round bye in the Class D semi-finals at 6 p.m. Friday while Boyne Falls, also with a first round bye, will meet the winner of the Central Lake-Petoskey St. Francis game at 7:40 p.m. Friday.

The Class B final will be played off at 9:10 Friday night between the winners of the Rogers City-Cheboygan game and the Alpena Catholic Central-Petoskey game played last night.

In the Pellston-Catholic Central game Tuesday, the Hornets held a 6-5 first period lead but only scored two points in the second period to trail 11-8 at the half and 25-18 at the third period. They came back strong in the last quarter, however, to outscore the parochial five and tie the score 32-32 as the regular game ended. Each team scored five points in the first overtime and the score was tied 37-37 but in the 'sudden death' second overtime Merlyn Davenport came in to score a field goal and take the game. Glenn Aurrand was top scorer for the victors with 11 points. Tom Enos had 16 for Cheboygan Catholic.

Harbor Springs held only an 8-7 first quarter lead over Onaway but in the second period found their stride and forged ahead 28-15 at the half and 47-24 third period lead. Harbor's Stan Piler was well on his way to setting a new tournament scoring record when he collected his fifth foul and left the game with 38 points. Tom Back of Onaway was top scorer for his team with 10 points.

In the Class D game Mackinaw City led Alanson 17-7, 32-12 and 42-24 before taking the game. Howers had 15 points for the victors and Engle 13 for Alanson.

Announce Plans For Michigan Week Next May

The week of May 1 through 8 has been designated as Michigan Week.

The role Charlevoix county will play in the state-wide observance at that time was discussed at a meeting Monday afternoon attended by four key county committee members who will act as a clearing point for plans coming out of the state committee.

Serving on this key committee are Charles A. Robinson, County Superintendent of Schools, S. E. Coleman, secretary of the Charlevoix Board of Commerce, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent and J. Clark Dolliver, editor-publisher of the Charlevoix Courier.

This committee named county committee members who will represent their respective communities at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the office of the County Superintendent of Schools in the library building here where further plans will be formulated and community committee members named.

Appointed to serve on the county committee which will meet here next Tuesday are the following: Mayor Sam Arbuckle, Rev. Forrest Mohr, James Davidson, A. G. Smith, Mrs. Louis Tucker and Mr. Rebman of Boyne City.

Mayor Dean Davenport, Rev. Harold E. Kohn, Cmdr. K. K. Shanahan, Leonard Burns, Mr. Coleman, Mr. Robinson and Mr. Dolliver of Charlevoix.

The names of the community committee will be forwarded to the state office in Lansing. Henceforth all plans for the observance on a community scale will be forwarded to the last-formed committees, which will in turn put the plans in operation.

The purpose of Michigan Week, according to Mr. Robinson, is to provide a state-wide opportunity for Michigan people to become more conscious and appreciative of the state's economic factors; its resources, industry and commerce; its problems and opportunities.

Michigan is the second state to adopt the idea of a special week. Pennsylvania has conducted a similar week for eight years.

Mailhot's Store To Mark Changes With Clearance

The side walls of the store, which form the open display shelves and racks, are smartly panelled in soft-toned cedar that creates an attractive background for the beautiful new merchandise recently purchased by Jack Mailhot during his Spring buying trip in Detroit.

Arriving every day now are new spring jackets styled by the eminent fashion stylist for men, Lou Foster. There are natty checked corduroy vests, and beautiful Lamb Knit sweaters in smart new shades of moss green, sun orange, azure blue, and the popular beige. Also being featured are newly styled Van Heusen sport shirts and wool and orlon slacks by Seven Seas.

The eighth annual District Band and Orchestra Qualifying Festival will be held at Petoskey Saturday March 13, C A. Odmark, local band director has announced.

Charlevoix's 66-piece high school band has been working hard in preparation for the annual event, hoping to earn a first division rating and thus qualify for the state festival to be held in Ann Arbor April 10, Mr. Odmark said.

Up to 15 northern Michigan high schools will be represented at the district festival in Petoskey next week.

Each band entered in the festival will play three numbers, a warm-up march, the required number for its particular class and a selected number chosen by the individual band. In addition each band will be judged on two sight-reading selections which it has never seen.

Charlevoix will play the march, "A Santa Cecelia" by Raedelli, the Class C required number, "Green Meadows" and the overture, "Crusaders" by Buchtel.

The local band will be trying for a comeback this year after failing to qualify last year for the first time in seven years. The band has been working hard this year to qualify for the trip to the state festival in April.

State Senate Holds Hearing On Municipal Utility Bond Issue

Roy R. Robinson, city superintendent, and Norman D. Ance, city attorney, were in Lansing last week to attend a hearing on Municipal power plant bonds in Senator Frank Andrews committee on municipalities.

The proposed amendment, SB bill No. 1102, which would allow cities to issue revenue bonds to finance improvements for electric utilities, was voted down recently in the Senate Committee. Senator Andrews, however, obtained a rehearing of the bill by the Committee last Wednesday following which the Committee voted the bill out for the consideration of the Senate where it was to be presented for debate Tuesday.

Charlevoix is one of approximately 40 municipalities in Michigan which owns its own electric utility plant and for this reason is vitally interested in the amendment which would allow the city to issue the revenue bonds to finance improvements and expansion of the plant. The bonds would be payable solely from revenue of the utility and not from taxes.

In explaining the bill further, Mr. Ance said the legislation is designed primarily to eliminate marked discrimination against municipally-owned electric utilities which are now prohibited from issuing revenue bonds to finance improvements whereas such bonds are permitted to finance practically every other kind of municipal enterprise from sewage disposal plants to marine railways.

He went on to say that the only reason attributed to eliminating electric utilities from this act is because of the large power corporations' lobby which was actively opposed to the present amendment, as was revealed following the recent hearing.

The city council earlier adopted a resolution urging the enactment of this legislation. A copy of the resolution was forwarded to Senator Andrews.

Both Mr. Robinson and Mr. Ance, on their return from Lansing praised the fine efforts of Senator Andrews in assisting the cities in this matter.

Among the other northern Michigan communities interested in the adoption of the amendment are Petoskey, Harbor Springs, Grayling, Manton and Traverse City.

Girl Scouts Will Observe Annual Week

The Girl Scouts of Charlevoix will join with more than two million members of the organization in the country in celebrating Girl Scout Week, March 7-13, and the forty-second anniversary of Girl Scouting in the United States on March 12, Mrs. Lester Smith president of the Local Girl Scout Council said this week.

At a meeting of the Council at the city hall Monday night, plans for the celebration here were completed.

Girl Scout Sunday, March 7, will be observed with all Girl Scouts attending the 11 a.m. service at the Assembly of God Scouts are asked to meet at the church shortly before the service which they will attend in a body.

A Brownie birthday party for the younger members will be held at the [illegible] Thursday, March 11.

Tentative plans for the annual Father and Daughter banquet at the high school gymnasium April 3 were also made.

Mrs. Kit Carson, who is in charge of the Girl Scout cookie sale, said the response to the sale had been good, the orders had been placed and the cookies would arrive in the near future.

Plans were made to form a Senior Girl Scout planning board in order to make the program for the older age group more interesting and adaptable to the group.

Mrs O. V. Cunningham, training chairman, announced that a Leader Training Course would be opened in the near future for anyone interested in becoming a leader and for leaders who want to learn more about scouting.

Issues Call For Minstrel Singers

Plans for the minstrel show will be discussed, rehearsal times for the chorus set and some singing will be done.

Mr. Odmark asks that everyone interested consider this announcement as an invitation to join the festivities.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

IF THERE'S anything of major importance going on any place you can bet that a Charlevioxian will be in on it if it's possible . . This held true recently when President and Mrs. Eisenhower visited Palm Springs, for who was there to greet them but our own Mrs. Mont Withers and Bettie . . . But we'll let Bettie tell you about it as she did the Courier in a note: "I am sending some newspapers about the arrival and departure of the President which I thought would interest you . . . to see how this town reacted to such an important visitor as our president.

"It was thrilling to be one of the spectators in this event . . . to watch the procedure of the secret service men in preparation for the arrival and departure hours ahead of schedule time. I was one of the lucky ones to shake hands with Gov. Knight of California (I have never seen our own governor in person!)

"MOTHER and I were standing right where "Ike" and Mamie came down the ramp from the big plane, the "Columbine", shimmering silver in the rays of the many floodlights. TV and Newreel cameramen were busy, busy taking pictures and we also had ours taken with the crowd waving and yelling "Hi, Ike" (This all happened about an hour before he arrived).

"The Airforce police were standing at attention at their various stations surrounding the big plane on departure and stopped each and everyone who approached within yards of the President's personal plane. I never saw so many police, on motorcycle and afoot, so much security.

"A UNITED airliner was standing alongside with all his press men from Washington and as soon as the Columbine started its motors they all rushed to the airliner and boarded it so they would arrive in Washington simultaneously.

"All in all it was a memorable occasion and I only wish that everyone I know could have experienced the thrill."

AND IN the Desert Sun and Palm Springs News that Bettie airmailed to the Courier were more accounts of the President's visit . . . in fact about everything but what he ate for breakfast . . . and perhaps if we'd read it more carefully we would have found that . . . Everyone at the office got a bang out of the paper for it was like reading the latest Hollywood gossip columns . . . And the clubs . . . ooohhh What a place to see some time . . . If it was like that in Palm Springs where they cater to celebrities . . I hate to think what it would be like if he came here . . . Maybe it's a good thing Adlai Stevenson didn't get to be president and accept Charlevoix's invitation to make Charlevoix his summer White House . . Anyway, thanks, Bettie, for the account and the newspaper . . . Incidently, natives of Palm Springs, we noticed in the newspaper, speak of themselves as "villagers" and the city as the "village" . . . quaint don't you think?

ARE YOU a collector? . . . Neither are we but we heard of a new hobby one of our young fry, Bob Marshall, has started . . . collecting pennies . . . Now in our book a penny is a penny but it seems that to the collector it's more than that . . . Why there are pennies so rare that they're worth a lot more than one cent . . I don't know who is having more fun . . . Bob or his mother, but we understand they're getting a lot of people interested in their project . . . Another numismatist who has a beautiful collection of fine old coins, we're told, is Mrs. John Cross . . . Money, besides being a medium of exchange, can be mighty interesting from what we hear from these people . . .

IF THE snow that arrived over the weekend stays for a while, don't forget to feed the birds . . . It's a wet sticky snow which covered most everything . . . bushes, shrubs and even the trees so the birds will have slim pickin's if it stays . . . And speaking of birds, we haven't seen as many around this winter as in past years . . . Don't know whether they've deserted our neighborhood or what but there hasn't been the variety . . . maybe they didn't have to move in flocks to secure food for we have had an open winter . . . Oh yes . . . Mrs. Ray Faulkner reported that one of her regular boarders is back from the south already . . . a robin who arrived with the 'spring' weather last week . . .

WE VISITED one of our favorite places in town last week . . . the Coast Guard station . . . Mr. Etienne and his men sure know how to roll out the red carpet in a big way and it's always a pleasure to visit them . . . We had a grand dinner, enjoyed a game of 'crib' although I lost (and why not with four extra cards in the deck), saw a movie "Operation Crossroads" which had some beautiful photography (and why not, they were official films) and then got down to the business of learning about northern Lake Michigan's lighthouses . . Thanks to Mr. E. we came home loaded with books on the subject and in the not too distant future will do a little story on them, we hope . . . While at the station we met a lot of new men who have arrived in the past few weeks for duty in the area . . . And when you get to know them you'll like 'em as much as we did . . they're a good bunch of joes . . .

WE KNOW this sounds incredible but Arthur Welch, a Marion township farmer, plowed his field on Washington's birthday, Feb. 22 . . . Bob Dougherty called us this week to tell us about it and if it had been anyone but him we would have been tempted to disbelieve the story . . . Who says the winters aren't getting warmer and shorter . . .

LOTS OF MAIL this week and some of it we'd like to share with you . . . First from the east, a card from Polly Haggard who's on a buying trip for the Polly Kay shop and who was lucky enough to spend a weekend at West Point where her son, George is stationed with an M.P. outfit . . . She reported a good time and we can believe it . . . And from the Angus Fochtmans a card from Africa . . . U.S.A., that is . . . . Seems the name of the place is really Africa and it's equipped with genuine natives, grass huts and the works . . . and is located near Boca Raton, Fla. . . . Later they visited in St. Augustine and sent a picture of the narrowest street in the U. S., Treasury st. which is all of seven feet wide . . And from Mrs. Henry Jacobs who is spending the winter at Ocala, Fla., a note saying she'd be returning about April 1 and that she's seen the Bill Heerings recently, the first people from home that she'd seen all winter . .

AND FROM what Sue Webster Starnes calls the "end of the world" a card from Key West where Sue, her husband, a Navy man and their young son live . . And if you can imagine this, Sue wrote that she found herself speechless recently when the Don Swintons, the George Smiths and the Tom Coxes and son, Terry, walked in on her . . . It must have been old home week and we can just see Sue showing off her young son to someone from home . . . She added that they hope to come to Michigan to make their home when her husband is discharged later this year for, according to her, she's still a damnyankee . . .

TO THE Rayders, lots of luck in the forthcoming tournament . . we know you've got what it takes so you just go out and prove it to the rest of the world . . .

Mary Gallagher, John Bradley Wed In Double Ring Church Ceremony

St. Mary's church was the scene of the wedding ceremony of Mary Gallagher, daughter of Mrs. Lester A Gallagher and the late Captain Gallagher, and John C. Bradley Saturday morning.

The bridegroom is the son of Cmdr. and Mrs. Lawrence N. Ditlefson.

The Rev. E F Denny officiated at the double ring ceremony at the Nuptial Mass before an altar decorated with spring bouquets of pink and white snapdragons, daffodils and purple stock. Music for the Mass was sung by the Children's Choir accompanied by Sister M. Leona at the organ. As the Mass was concluded the bride placed a bouquet of pink snapdragons and yellow daisy mums at the altar of the Blessed Virgin.

Escorted to the altar by her uncle, Capt. Peter O. Gallagher, the bride chose a ballerina length gown of white lace net and satin for her wedding. The bodice of Venice lace featured a jeweled collar and long sleeves and the full skirt was of net over satin. A matching Juliet cap of satin lace and seedpearls secured her fingertip veil. Her only jewelry was a double strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom. She carried a white prayer book topped with a cascade arrangement of red rosebuds.

Mrs. Thomas Sutherland of Detroit attended her sister as matron of honor and Mrs. Lester J. Gallagher, sister-in-law of the bride, was bridesmaid.

Mrs. Sutherland wore a floor-length gown of powder blue nylon net over taffeta styled with a strapless bodice and matching taffeta jacket. She wore a matching headdress of powder blue taffeta with a nose veil and carried a colonial bouquet of yellow daisy mums.

Mrs. Gallagher wore a gown of jonquil yellow net over taffeta designed with a shawl collar, a matching taffeta headdress and veil and carried a colonial bouquet of blue mums.

Lester J. Gallagher, brother of the bride, was best man and ushers were Danforth Gallagher, Robert Gillispie and Ray Cull of St. James.

Immediately following the ceremony a wedding breakfast for the bridal party and 60 guests was served at the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Clubhouse where an afternoon reception was held later in the day.

For traveling on their wedding trip to Florida, the bride wore a beige silk shantung dress with print trim and matching jacket, a yellow topper, navy accessories and a corsage of red roses. They will be at home at 501 Petoskey ave., Charlevoix after April 1.

Among those from away who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gengle, Mrs. Richard Gorman, Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Belfy of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Stanton, Mrs. James Driggett, and George Richardson of Grand Rapids; Roseann Thompson and Victor Jablanski of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sawall and Clarence Sawall of Saline; Mr. and Mrs. Don Thompson of Hammond, Ind.; Anne Hiller and Helena Isaksen of Ann Arbor; Carol Cross of East Lansing; Mrs. O. C. Boynton of Petoskey; Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Smith of Boyne City; Lt. and Mrs. Warren Wilmott of Cheboygan; Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cull, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Cull, Robert Gillispie, Don Burke, Mrs. Raymond Cole, Donald Cole, Mr. and Mrs. William Belfy and Mrs. Andrew Gallagher of St. James.

School Officers To Meet March 11 At Boyne City

The biennial meeting of Charlevoix county school officers will be held at the Boyne City high school Thursday, March 11, Charles A. Robinson, county superintendent of schools, announced this week.

Purpose of the meeting is to acquaint school boards with new legislation, current trends and to help them solve their individual problems.

Two members of the Department of Public Instruction, George Schutt and Henry Ponitz, will be present to address the group on transportation and school organization and adult education. A question and answer period to which school officers are urged to bring their questions will follow the brief talks.

The dinner meeting will open in the school cafeteria promptly at 6:45 p.m. and will be followed by the business session which will be attended by school officers from throughout the country, the county board of education and school superintendents. The latter have been invited as guests.

Mr. Robinson will open the meeting and serve as chairman of the business session.

Temporary Officers Are Elected For New County Humane Society

Mrs. Wesley L'Huillier of Hayes township was elected president of the newly-organized Charlevoix county Humane Society at the first meeting of the group held Thursday evening at the city hall here.

Other temporary officers who were named to serve with Mrs. L'Huillier until legal incorporation proceedings can be completed include: vice-president, Frank Oleksy; second vice-president, Keith V. Stinchcomb of East Jordan; third vice-president, Earl Crandall, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. Jay Baysinger of Walloon Lake.

Named to the board of directors from a voluntaary advisory panel were the Rev R. J. Lintner, Fred W. Willis, Mrs. Amandus Evers, Mrs. Earl Gardner, Kit Carson, Clifford Struthers, Lee Sneathen Jr., Robert Erickson, Bonnie N. Nickerson, Mrs. Earl Crandall, Lawrence Supernaw, Clarence Heise, Mr. L'Huillier, Dr. H. J. Heaton, DVM and Herb Schneider of Boyne City; Mr. Baysinger of Walloon Lake; Andy Anderson of East Jordan.

Guest speakers at the organizational meeting, which was attended by more than 60 Charlevoix county residents, were Douglas E. Culmer, president of the Michigan Federation of Humane Societies who outlined the progressive steps in organizing the non-profit charitable society; Wayne B. Tenent, assistant district supervisor of the Michigan Conservation Department, who spoke on the distruction of wild-life by stray and unwanted domestic animals and Marrell Abbey, Emmet county deputy warden and Humane officer who conducted a question and answer period which proved to be very educational.

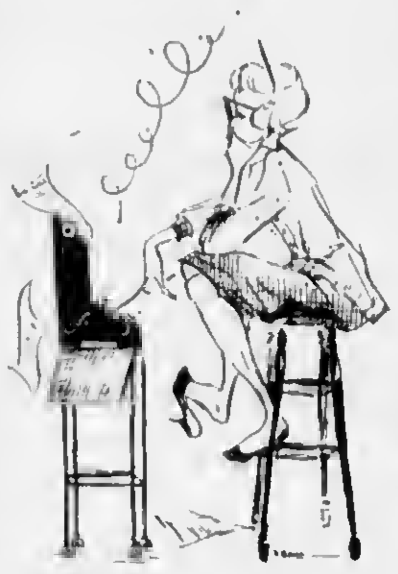
The funds for the basic humane work will be derived from membership dues set at $1.00 per year making it possible for everyone to participate in the needed humane work to prevent cruelty to animals, fowl, wild-life and birds. Protection of the aged and children also come within the scope of their aims.

The magazines, "Our Dumb Animals", and "The National Humane Review" were introduced. A small portion of the subscription fees for both are retained by the local society to help build up its funds.

Plans were also made to include elementary school students in a Junior Membership plan.

Contributions were accepted to establish the $1,000.00 incorporation fund and memberships were accepted. Mrs Charles Svoboda and Lawrence Supernaw were named to head two committees which will report at the next meeting to be held in Boyne City next month.

Girligigs



Remember several years ago when everyone was trying to figure out what THE THING was? . . .Well, I figure I found out recently when I was rallied one press day to catch papers. Which, incidently, isn't the back-breaking job it sounds like. All you have to do is sit on a high stool and gingerly sweep one sheet at a time out of the iron jaws of THE THING!

All week long this grasshopper-like looking monster lies forbiddingly in wait for press-time to roll around. And then, at the slight flick of a button, she whooshes three times . . . whoo! whoo! whoo! . . . yawns, wheezes and snorts to a take-off you think is headed straight through the window and out toward the general direction of the harbor.

She doesn't like me . . . and I'm scared to death of her. In grasping the pages from her mouth, which charges toward you at a regular one mile a minute . . I'd rather yank a bloody bone from the mouth of a starving lion!

If I may say so, she's no lady, either. For if you miss calculate by a fraction of a second, she yanks the sheet back and devours it into a sticky mess that brings the whole shop running to save her . . . SAVE HER, mind you . . . before she gags and passes out.

And it isn't being a lady, either . . . to make you feel like you have to tuck in all your fingers, toes and noses to get near her . . besides that, she takes inky swipes at you when your back is turned. And she (excuse the expression) . . . spits inky stuff that's worse than tobacco juice!

Innocent until proven guilty . . .THE THING feeds on the scissors, rulers and pencils off my desk during the week. Once in awhile she may chew up a column . . . but it's always my column. Between you and me, THE THING'S the thing!

ONE SPECK of RUST can stall your car

Even one speck of rust or corrosion can stall your motor by clogging one of the tiny carburetor jets.

Rust and corrosion form throughout your fuel system when you use ordinary gasoline. That's because your gasoline—and everybody else's — contains minute quantities of water, formed by moisture condensation.

Protect your car against rust and corrosion. Use new Anti-Rust Sinclair Gasolines regularly. They contain the miracle Anti-Rust Chemical, RD-119.

Variety Show Is Definite Success

Ellsworth — A full house enjoyed the Banks P.T.A. Variety Program held Tuesday evening, February 23 in the Community Hall. The Ways and Means Committee report a neat sum added to the treasury to help on paying the cost of the new duplicating machine at the school.

A clever Pantomine by the Atwood group, one act play by Banks Faculty and a TV Interview program by the Ellsworth group provided plenty of fun.

Mr. Wood, Mr. Lather and some of the high school pupils put on a demonstration of ping pong using the table from the school.

So all in all it was a variety program in the truest sense of the word!

Ellsworth Lions Receive Charter

Ellsworth Lions Club received their charter at Charter Night banquet held last Thursday night in Ellsworth Community Hall. E. C. Eddy, governor of district 11-E presented the charter with well chosen remarks and Rex Wood, Lion president, accepted it and gave a short talk.

Mayor James Elzinga extended a welcome to the Lions and guests and Rev. Donald Schleicher, president of Central Lake Club, who sponsored the Ellsworth Club, extended greetings. Musical numbers were provided by Walker and Marvin Shooks of Central Lake with Mrs. Marvin Shooks as the accompanist.

Mr. Thomas Mitchell of Petoskey, speaker for the evening gave a very good talk on what the Lions Club is and what it does.

The Central Lake Lions presented the local club with gong and gavel. Other gifts included checks from the Alpena club and Edmore club, of which Mr. Wood had been a member; a speakers stand from the Traverse City Lions and the Tailtwisters "Kitty" from the Bellaire club.

Extension Club Notice

Representatives Of County Soils District Attend National Meet

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Healey, chairman of the Charlevoix Soil Conservation District along with Mr. and Mrs. Ray Loomis, attended the 8th Annual Convention of National Association of Soil Conservation Districts in New Orleans, La., Feb. 23-24. Healey stated there are 2570 Soil Conservation Districts and around 2000 directors were in attendance at the convention. Clayton and Ray attended many different programs and heard Secretary of Agriculture E. T. Benson give an address of great importance on the Soil Conservation activities in the United States.

Clayton also stated that they witnessed a lot of the preparations, decorations, and etc. for the coming Mardi Gras celebration. On the way home Clayton said that he collected soil samples from every state they went through except Indiana, and one striking thing about these samples was the fact that the further South one goes the redder the soil gets due to the different climatic factors and inherent characteristics of the soil. As one progresses further North the color of the soil seems to get a blacker color.

Clayton also mentioned that we've got a long way to go in conserving our soil as evidenced when they were going through Tennessee. It seems that the dust from the dust storms in the plain and western states has followed the upper air currents and it rained mud. When they hit Detroit there was also some evidence of the same sort of muddy rain.

Dry, clean draft-free winter housing and other care of brood sows during the winter is the key offered by J. A. Hoefer, Michigan State college animal husbandman, to profitable spring pigs.

Beaver Trapping Time

The time of beaver trapping draws nigh. The season this year opens March 20 in the lower peninsula and April 1 in the upper. Conservation department game men say the season is somewhat less liberal this year than last, with beaver about at normal population levels. Last year, trappers took a record 17,500 beaver; this year, game men say they expect a somewhat smaller take.

Officers Elected By Soils Directors

Clayton Healey was re-elected chairman of the Charlevoix Soil Conservation District board of directors at the February board meeting. Other officers who were elected include: Harold Goebel, vice-chairman; Robert Straw, treasurer; and Ed Rebman, secretary.

This board of directors is working a very intensive program in their Educational program. The first event will be planning and presenting a program for the East Jordan Parent Teachers club for Wednesday evening, March 17. One of the highlights of this program will be a report by Chairman Healey on his recent trip to the annual meeting of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts at New Orleans

Some of the other programs that might be inaugurated will include an air tour. Those of you who think that you might like to see your farms from the air should contact either one of the directors, Bill Grimm or Ed Rebman. The directors took this air tour last summer and all believe everyone would enjoy it.

Better Sales Plans Could Offset Lower Dairy Product Price

Farmers facing sharp cuts in milk prices could use aid of marketing agencies and consumers in reducing dairy surpluses, points out a Michigan State college agricultural economist.

Dairy surpluses in government storage brought a decision to cut support prices on April 1 from 90 per cent down to 75 per cent of parity. Parity is a ratio based on what farm products will buy.

An increase in dairy products being used could help relieve farmers from a serious cost-price squeeze.

"A plea can be made to marketing agencies . . . processors, wholesalers, and retailers . . . to pass the entire drop in farm prices on to the consumers," suggests Dr. Gerald G. Quackenbush. "Then, consumers will be given an opportunity to buy the increased milk supplies that are available."

"This didn't happen in the 1952-53 period," explains the MSC farm economist. "Farm prices of milk dropped 13 to 15 per cent from 1952 to 1953, but retail prices of dairy products dropped only 1 or 2 per cent. Practically all of the decrease in farm prices went into increased marketing margins. Consumers received no benefit, and instead of the increased milk supplies going to consumers, they went to the government under the price support program."

Look For Increase In Pasture Seeding

Last year's drought and this year's diversion of land from wheat, cotton and corn are expected by U. S. Department of Agriculture observers to cause more spring seeding for pasture and hay crops.

The U. S. D. A. crop reporting board economists estimate grass and legume seed supplies will run 9 per cent behind last year but 4 per cent ahead of the average. Supplies of alfalfa, red clover, alsike, ladino, and smooth bromegrass are expected to be abundant. Sudangrass supplies are below average but 50 per cent ahead of 1953.

New Lawn Bluegrass Variety Promising

Merion bluegrass is a very promising new lawn variety, but James Tyson, turf specialist at Michigan State college, does not recommend using it for re-seeding bald spots in old lawns. The seed is expensive and should be used only if the lawn is to be broken up, fitted, fertilized and re-seeded, he explains.

Bald spots in old sod indicate unfavorable conditions and the struggling old grasses would not give new seedings much cooperation. Extension Bulletin 224, "Growing Beautiful Lawns," is available from county agricultural agents and the Bulletin Office, Department of Information Services, Michigan State college.

MSC Economists To Aid County Farmers With Account Books

There will be representatives of the Agricultural Economics Department of Michigan State college in Charlevoix county on Wednesday afternoon, March 17 to check Farm Account books, Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, announced today. The purpose of the college in checking these Farm Account books is to aid the individual farmer in making a study of his farm operations and to obtain some figures regarding income and expenses for this area.

The service is free except for the cost of the Farm Account book. Farmers at the present time can use Jan. 1 as the starting date for their accounting period. They agree to have the record checked each year by a representative of the Agricultural Economics Department. The figures are confidential and only totals and averages are used.

Anyone who is interested in having the college check his book in this project is asked to contact the Extension Office in Boyne City.

Legume Cover Crop Good Soil Builder

A good crop of alfalfa, sweet clover or red clover can put 500 pounds per acre of ammonium sulfate on your land, reminds M. B. Tesar, Michigan State college farm crops researcher.

These three legumes are the best for supplying nitrogen, 100 pounds per acre, worth from $15 to $20. Legumes have to be inoculated and fertilized, Tesar warns, but they don't have to be in the soil for years. One year is enough to supply nitrogen and make the land easier to till.

"Which Federal excise tax do you personally object to most?"

That question was asked recently in a public poll conducted by Opinion Research Corporation. They wanted to learn how people personally felt about Federal excise taxes. These were their findings: THE EXCISE TAX THAT INCURRED THE MOST RESENTMENT AND IRRITATION WAS THE TAX ON TELEPHONE SERVICE.

Of the people interviewed, 59% objected most to this tax. It was more objectionable than the Federal excise taxes on gasoline, automobiles, tires, railroad tickets, cigarettes, movie tickets, and many other things.

This high percentage of objection to telephone excise taxes is understandable. Each month they add 15% to your telephone bill for local service, and 25% to your bill for long distance calls costing 25 cents or more. For excise tax purposes, it's as though your telephone were a luxury, like jewelry or furs.

We recognize the Government's need for adequate income and for balancing the budget. But if Congress is to consider any excise tax reductions, we believe the excise taxes on telephone service should be among the first to get attention.

All the savings from a reduction or repeal of these taxes would go to telephone users—not to the telephone company.

Rayders End Season With Victory Over Gaylord

The Charlevoix Rayders wrapped up their 1953-54 schedule Friday night with a 61-43 victory over Gaylord.

The win gave the Rayders a record of 11 wins and one loss, an overtime 49-47 loss to Harbor Springs, for the season, plus two wins over Petoskey and one loss to Grayling in non-loop competition.

The Rayder captured their fourth league title last week when they defeated Harbor Springs 75-37.

In the game at Gaylord Friday, the Rayders and the Blue Devils played to a 14-14 first quarter tie before Charlevoix started to find the basket and forged ahead 33-24 at half-time and 45-32 as the third period ended.

Starting for the Rayders against Gaylord were Mark White, Bill Bennett, Gordon Mol, Guy Swanson and Tom LaBlance with Dwain Walker, Quint Walker, Joe McDermott, Bob Mathews, Dave Glassford, Glenn Ikens and Gary Vandenberg joining the line-up.

Charlevoix racked up 14 points against the Blue Devils in the first quarter with Bennett connecting for eight points including three field goals and two free throws, Mol and McDermott tallying field goals and White and LaBlance free throws.

Gaylord matched the 14 points with five field goals and four free throws.

The Rayders came through in the next quarter for 19 points with Bennett finding the basket five times, D. Walker adding two more, LaBlance scoring a field goal and free throw, and Mol a field goal.

Gaylord was held to four field goals and scored two free throws.

Bennett added two field goals and a free throw; LaBlance two free throws; White and McDermott one field goal each and D. Walker a free throw to tally 12 points and give the Rayders a 45-32 third period lead.

Bennett and Glassford hit for three field goals apiece; Swanson added one and Mathews scored two free throws to add another 16 points to the Rayders growing advantage as the game ended 61-43. Gaylord had scored 11 points on four field goals and three free throws.

Bennett had his second best night of the season with a total of 29 points on 13 field goals and three of four free throw attempts. Paul Ziegler, a newcomer at Gaylord, was top scorer for his squad with 14 points.

Little Rayders Defeat Gaylord Reserves 60-36

The victory gave them a 14 win one loss record for the season. The only blot on the impressive record was a 48-46 loss to Pellston. Counted in their wins are two victories over all league opponents except Pellston, plus two wins over the Petoskey Reserves and one over Grayling's Little Vikings.

The Little Rayders, composed entirely of freshmen and sophomore players, have furnished sports fans with many thrilling games this season, several of which they pulled out of the fire in the closing minutes by hard fast playing. The team, coached by Del Terrill, serves as a feeder group for the Varsity squad.

In the starting line-up for the Charlevoix five Friday night were Charlie Dennis, Walt Pouquette, Joe Etienne, Bill Kolker and Kit Carson, all sophomores. Others who saw action were Dick Elzinga, Ron Coleman, Fred Putman, Gary Smith, also sophomores and Ken Balch, Joel Arvilla, Norm Helms, Paul Foster, Terry Davis and Charles Pierce, Freshmen.

Others who have played on the Reserve team but who did not make the trip to Gaylord Friday are: Bill Geer, Bill McClanaghan, Norm Cook, Barry Pischner, Phil Timmer, and Richard Bolton, all freshmen.

Three other players who started the season with the Reserves but who were advanced to the Varsity squad are Glenn Ikens, a freshman and Gary Vandenberg and Bob Mathews, Sophomores.

The Charlevoix-Gaylord game got off to a fast start with the first quarter ending in a 14-14 tie. Etienne accounted for four points, Pouquette for three, Dennis, Balch, and Kolker two each and Carson, one point.

Racking up 17 points in the second quarter, the Rayders went into a 31-20 half-time lead after Arvilla had tallied six field goals, Dennis and Etienne one each and Kolker a free throw.

The Charlevoix contingent tallied another 17 points in the third quarter as they went into a 48-25 lead as the final period opened, Kolker scored two field goals, Smith a field goal and a free throw, Dennis, Pouquette, Etienne and Davis one each and Elzinga two free throws.

Charlevoix outscored the little Blue Devils 12-11 in the last quarter as Dennis connected for one field goal and three gift shots, Putman added a field goal and two free throws, Pouquette a field goal and Etienne a free throw.

Arvilla paced the scoring for Charlevoix with 12 points, all made in one quarter; Dennis followed with 11; Etienne with nine; Pouquette and Kolker with seven each; Putman with four; Smith with three; Balch, Elzinga and Davis with two.

Campbell had 11 for Gaylord.

Charlevoix outscored Gaylord 23 to 12 in the field goal department. The Rayders scored 14 of 26 free throw attempts and committed 19 personal fouls. Gaylord connected on 12 of 23 free throw attempts and had 21 personal fouls called on them.

Harbor's Pifer Tops League Scorers; Bill Bennett Second

As the Northern Michigan Class C basketball season drew to a close, Harbor Springs' Stan Pifer was named top scorer for the league with a total of 238 points scored in 11 league games.

Following closely in second place with 233 points scored in 12 league games was Bill Bennett of Charlevoix.

Johnny Holstad of Mancelona who led the scoring for the first half of the season with 112 points dropped to third place with 174 points in 11 games as the season ended.

Pifer's impressive record, which was two points more than the 1952-53 total made by Frank Karwoski of Gaylord, was made on 100 field goals and 38 of 86 free throw attempts for 40 per cent of his team's total points. He also scored 43 points in three non-loop games.

Bennett, whose team finished first in league standings as well as in the scoring lead with 628 points, scored 37 per cent of his team's points. Though he scored only 85 field goals he brought his total up in the free throw department where he scored 63 of 83 free throws for an average of 75 per cent.

Pifer, who was second highest scorer as a junior last season with 210 points, scored 85 of this year's total in the first half of the season and 153 the second half. Bennett, who finished in fourth place with 173 points as a junior, scored 88 during the first half of this year's schedule and 145 the second half.

Both Pifer and Bennett tied the league record for scoring in one game set by Keith Emerson of Pellston against Mancelona in December 1950, when they tallied 35 points against Boyne City and Harbor Springs, respectively. Pifer tied the record with 14 field goals and seven of 13 free throw attempts against Boyne City. Bennett tallied nine field goals and 17 of 18 free throw attempts against Harbor Springs a week later.

Others among the top scorers are Keith Evans of East Jordan with 162 points; Mert Erber of Boyne City with 150; Bobby Danforth of East Jordan with 133; Chub Rothenberger of Boyne City with 127, 96 of which were made during the second half of the season; Alan Sommerville of East Jordan with 120; Glenn Aurrand and Merlyn Davenport of Pellston with 119 and 117 respectively; Earl LaDere of Mancelona with 112; Bob Schlang of Gaylord with 106; Tom Clarke of Harbor Springs with 103 and Nels Northrup of Boyne City with 96.

Last Week With Class 'C' Teams

The Northern Michigan Class C league wrapped up its 1953-54 basketball schedule Friday night with Boyne City defeating Pellston 55-49; Harbor Springs downing Mancelona 49-44 and Charlevoix winning over Gaylord 61-43.

With the score tied countless times althrough Pellston never was in the lead, Boyne City was ahead 14-13 at the quarter; 30-27 at the half and 42-38 at the third period in the game which moved the Ramblers into a Fourth place tie with Pellston as the season ended. Chub Rothenberger of Boyne City and Merlyn Davenport of Pellston shared scoring honors with 22 points apiece.

Harbor Springs' victory over Mancelona left the Rams in third place as the season ended. On Friday Harbor Springs led the Ironmen 11-8 at the quarter, 21-16 at the half and 37-26 at the third period ended for the seven-point victory. Stan Pifer tallied 26 points for the Rams to end the season as the top scorer in the league. Johnny Holstad had 13 points for Mancelona.

State Deer Herds Seem Unharmed By Ravages Of Winter

Lansing — Dogs have been harassing deer in the Baldwin district, conservation department field sources report.

Each year, reports are received of deer being chased. Conservation officers are authorized to shoot dogs found following deer and suggest that valuable animals are best kept tied to avoid their loss.

Elsewhere, deer last week were reported relatively secure from the ravages of winter, at least for the moment.

Heavy snow weighed tree tops down to within reach of deer in the Mio district, providing a valuable additional source of food.

The animals were less restricted in parts of the upper peninsula than the previous week, although still more or less restricted to protective swamps.

In the lower peninsula, however, deer are concentrated in the vicinity of yards and timber top-cuttings used as supplemental food.

Local Scout Troops Win First And Second Places In Klondike Derby At Petoskey

Two patrols of Charlevoix Boy Scout troop 1, the Flying Eagle and the Hawk patrols, participated in the annual Klondike Derby at Petoskey Sunday and returned with first and second place ribbons respectively, Frank Case Jr., Scout Master, reported this week.

Charlevoix's 11 Boy Scouts with their two sleds were among the 193 Scouts to enter 32 sleds in the annual Derby sponsored by the Scenic Trails Boy Scout Council of which Charlevoix is a member.

Headquarters for the Derby was the Petoskey Winter Sports Park from where each patrol left to cover a 1½ mile course and visited four stations where they displayed their knowledge of first aid, wildlife, fire building and outdoor cooking and rescue work. The Scouts covered the course by using a compass.

After the Derby all scouts were given chits which they exchanged for refreshments furnished by the Petoskey Kiwanis Club.

Mr. Case and assistant scout master, Larry Burns, accompanied the local scouts to Petoskey. Others who assisted were Leonard Burns, H. E. Bingham, Karl Schultz and Mrs. Lee Sneathen Jr.

The dates for the next major Boy Scout activity, the Scenic Trails Council Camporee, were also announced at the Derby. The annual event will be held May 21-22 and 23 at Magnus State Park in Petoskey.

FEELING LOW?

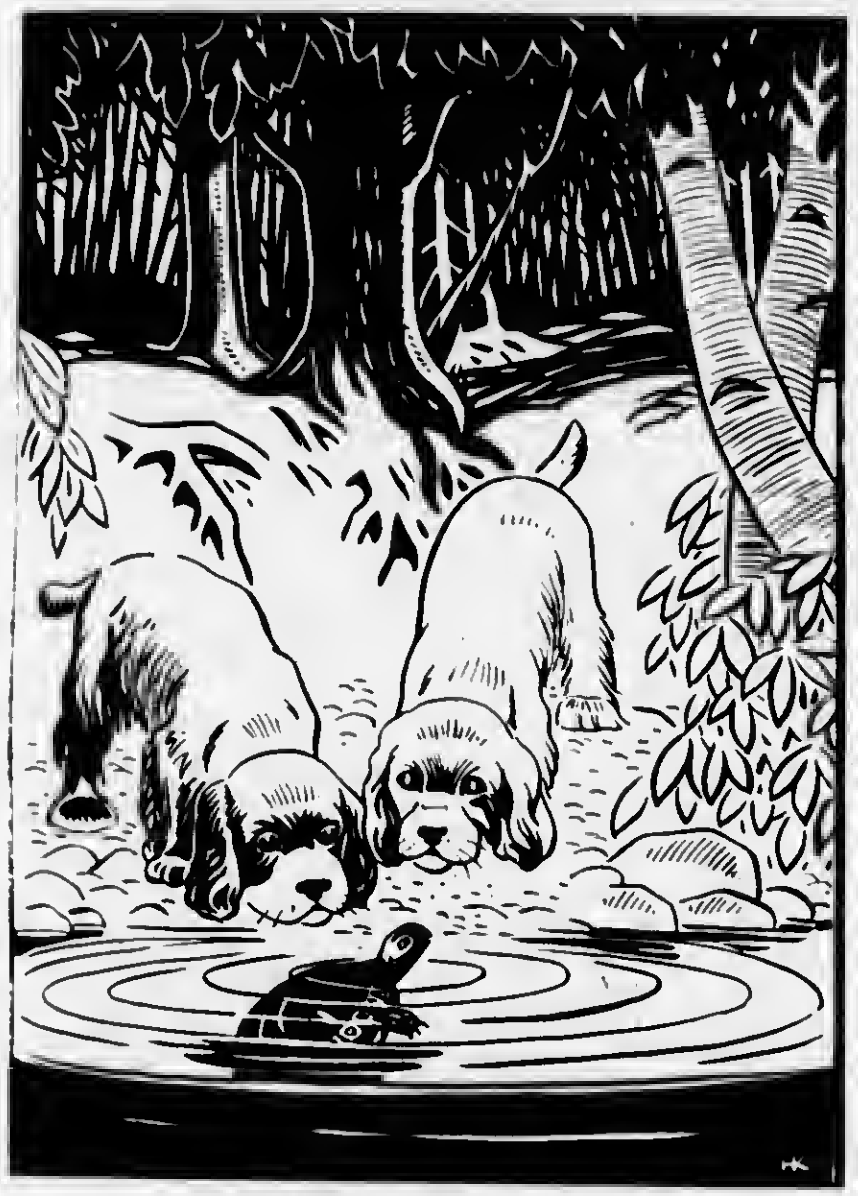
The Price of Being Human



The turtle is a fortunate fellow. When he squirms and struggles from the rubbery egg shell that for weeks has been his home, he is uniquely ready to face the world He is armored. A shell, composed in part of his own greatly flattened and fused ribs, covers his vital organs. Into this armor he can withdraw his head, his tail and his feet so that a cruel world cannot get at him nor hurt him. The turtle is well equipped to enjoy a painless existence.

But what an odd and unsatisfying existence it must be! No pain, but no joys either. Nor will this sheltered inhabitant of pond, lake and stream experience much sensation of any sort. For throughout nature one finds that creatures which wear their shells on the outside and their nerves on the inside are protected against both pain and pleasure. The turtle, the snail and the clam are unhurt by life's little bumps and untouched by life's little joys. They will never yelp with pain like a puppy, nor will they ever greet a master with a body that wiggles with uncontainable happiness.

And a puppy, because of the limitations of dogdom, will not know some pains man knows. The mental anguish of being a disappointment to himself, of failing in a mission, he will not experience. Nor will he suffer keen regret when the neighbor's cocker spaniel fails to earn the blue ribbon at the dog show. He cannot offer you heart-felt sympathy when the mortgage falls due, or when you lose your job, or when your rheumatism raises a fuss. There are some pains of the spirit you have that a puppy escapes. But his duller senses make him miss some of your joys, too — those of a job well done, of a mortgage met, of a disease arrested and cured, or when a friend wins well deserved recognition and reward.

The Almighty has not protected us as He has the turtle, with an armor into which we can withdraw from a hurtful world. Nor has He given us a puppy's dimness of sensation and intelligence to keep us blissfully unaware of our deepest needs and the troubles of others. Instead he has endowed us with keenest sensitivity. It brings us more pain, but also more pleasure. This sensative nature of ours has its liabilities, but also what advantages!

See for yourself! If you were given a chance to re-enter the world as a newly born creature, what would you choose to be? Cast your vote. Make your "X".

Michigan Mirror

by Gene Alleman

MICHIGAN Week, to be held May 2-8, may provide an answer to critics who charge that Michigan's tax structure is too high to hold present industry and to attract new factories.

The impressive list of plant expansion already scheduled for Michigan is headed by the General Motors three-fourths of a billion dollar program and includes many other sizable installations underway or about to get underway.

Voters may get a chance to decide on spending $500 million for highways during the next five years by bond issue. They may also get a chance to vote bonuses for veterans . . . an $80 million item which will probably be financed from cigarette taxes. Both subjects are under consideration in the legislature for reference to the people.

The state has already approved a bond issue of $99,800,000 to pay for the Mackinac Straits Bridge. This venture is to be paid back by revenue from toll charges.

STATE Residents have an important job to do in addition to determining the tax structure under which industry must function, say ardent boosters of Michigan.

That's where Michigan Week comes in.

Michigan Week is concerned with a healthy economic atmosphere that can be created by a general understanding of the state's economic machinery.

Importance of the "atmosphere" was outlined by Michigan Week's chairman Jay D. Runkle, when he introduced the program to a group of newspaper people. Nowdays when an industry is looking for a new location they check to see whether there is the proper type environment for their people and their plant. We want to help every community develop that kind of human atmosphere which will provide favorable conditions for economic growth.

RESIDENTS should hear about Michigan Week from local groups in this community. Organizations of every type are taking active part in the program. The list includes church, veteran, labor, business, industry and civic groups.

Schools will acquaint the state's youth with the observance through channels directed from the department of public instruction at Lansing.

Important point in the plan is to provide a state-wide opportunity for Michigan people to become more conscious and appreciative of the state's economic factors: its resources, industry and commerce; its problems and opportunities.

Some well known citizens are shaping program.

Sponsor of Michigan Week is a non-profit corporation devoted to the state's improvement called Greater Michigan, Inc. The president is Walter L. Cisler, who is also president of Detroit Edison Co. Chairman of the Michigan Week Committee is Mr. Runkle, general manager of Detroit's Crowley Milner & Co. Serving with him are 28 civic leaders from every field of society, representing all parts of the state.

They hope to make every person living in Michigan a salesman for his area. Direct result, the hope is, will be the desired atmosphere in Michigan for economic development.

CELEBRATIONS will be controlled in your area by a committee now being set up on a county basis. Four to six people will act as a clearing point for plans coming out of the state committee. They will decide the best way to apply the general idea in their own communities.

In most cases the committee will consist of the county school superintendent, county agricultural agent, a chamber of commerce secretary and the news paper publisher in the county.

Much of the work at the state level is handled through the Michigan Economic Development Department and its director, Don C. Weeks.

Theme for this year's promotion is "This Is Your Michigan" announced Mr. Cisler, who pointed out, "The success of the observance will depend largely upon the work and enthusiasm demonstrated by local committees." He emphasized that the program was state-wide . . . not a Detroit plan.

SPECIFIC promotions are suggested to fit the needs for every group from agricultural to youth organizations. They include programs, contests, pageants, displays, special editions of newspapers and recreational events.

Michigan is the second state to adopt the idea of a special week. "Pennsylvania has conducted a similar week for eight years . . . and with considerable success," says Mr. Cisler. An important difference is that Michigan's plan is financed privately, and Pennsylvania's promotion uses tax funds.

Troop 9 Of Girl Scouts To Hold A Chili Supper

The Girl Scouts of Troop 9 will sponsor a Chili supper at the new V.F.W. post home Monday, March 8, to raise funds to purchase overnight camping equipment, their leaders, Mrs. O. V. Cunningham and Mrs. Larry Tuomela, announced this week.

The Chili supper will be served from 5 to 7 p.m. with the Girl Scouts in charge of the event.

The following committees have been appointed; menu, Amy Mitchell, Susan Vance and Judy Kotesky; table decorations, Marlon VerWys and Hilda Bruce; Scout promotion, Marilyn Novak and Dee Anne Bartlett; advertising and tickets, Janice Burns and Vicki Miller. dinning room, Dawn Warner, Jean Thierry, Sandra Richardson, Bonnie Smith, Sandra Seale, and Nancy Staley; dish washing, Kay Ulrich and Sally Harrington; clean-up, Diane Fisher and Ruth Ann Riley.

Friends of scouting are invited to attend the supper and help the scouts raise funds for the much-needed overnight camping equipment.

Local Police To Step Up Traffic Law Enforcement

Chief Clarence Heise today stated that the Charlevoix Police Department is stepping up its traffic law enforcement activities in response to a state-wide request from the Chairman of the Michigan State Safety Commission, Owen J. Cleary, Secretary of State. This activity is part of the Obey Traffic Laws-Keep Your License emphasis program sponsored by the Commission and supported by all safety groups.

According to Chief Heise, as long as traffic accidents continue to increase throughout the state motorists must expect law enforcement to increase. Accidents won't come down until traffic violations come down. And vialations can't be decreased until more violators are apprehended.

Chief Heise explained that the enforcement activity of his agency will be tightened up in two ways, by gathering more evidence to support more serious charges in violations that threatened to endanger another, and by stopping more motorists for less serious offenses to discourage them from committing more serious ones in the future.

"This business of increasing enforcement because of increasing accidents will naturally result in more motorists having their licenses suspended, because it is the motorist the law enforcement agencies stop and those found guilty by the courts that are cited for license hearings by the department of state," the Chief added.

Chief Heise said, "Michigan motorists who violate the traffic law must expect to lose their licenses. They have violated the basis on which the privilege of driving was extended to them, a promise to obey the law and drive safely. All law abiding motorists will agree that one extreme violation which caused an accident or threatened to endanger someone, or a serious moving violation are more than ample justification for license suspension," he concluded.

The band will be seeking a first division rating to become eligible to participate in the state Class C festival at Ann Arbor next month.

The Charlevoix high school band directed by C. A. Odmark will be among the bands from 15 northern Michigan communities which will gather in Petoskey Saturday to participate in the eighth annual Qualifying Festival sponsored by District 2 of the Michigan School band and orchestra Association.

The 66-piece Charlevoix band, entered in the Class C division, will play at 10 a.m. in the high school auditorium, Mr. Odmark said. Each band will play three numbers, a warm-up march, the required number for its particular class and a selected number chosen by the individual band. Each band will play before four judges for a rating with the top winners qualifying for the state band and orchestra festival next month. The Class C state festival will be held in Ann Arbor April 10.

Judges for the qualifying festival in which 15 bands and one orchestra are entered will be Leonard Falcone, Keith Stein and Byron L. Autrey of the Michigan State College Music Department and Clarence Roth, director of bands at the Ann Arbor high school.

No charge will be made for admission to the festival which will begin at 8:30 a.m. and to which the public is invited. The Charlevoix high school band is scheduled to play at 10 a.m.

Participating with Charlevoix in the Class C division will be East Jordan, Boyne City, Harbor Springs, Gaylord, Grayling and Onaway.

Other participants in the festival will be Alanson, Elk Rapids, Mackinaw City and Northport in Class D; Petoskey and Rogers City in Class B; the Traverse City band and orchestra in Class A and St. Ignace, unclassified.

A total of 682 young musicians will be in Petoskey Saturday for the event.

Bill Bennett Is Named To Press Northwest State All-Star Team

Charlevoix's Bill Bennett was honored Wednesday when he was named to the Grand Rapids Press Northwestern Michigan All-Star cage team, a squad named by 78 area high school basketball coaches.

A second player from the Northern Michigan Class C league, Keith Evans of East Jordan, was also named to 'dream team'.

Stan Pifer of Harbor Springs was named to the second team with Marvin Bielski of Grayling winning a berth on the third team. Receiving honorable mention were Glen Aurrand of Pellston, Mert Erber of Boyne City, Johnny Holstad of Mancelona and Bob Schlang of Gaylord.

Others from the area who received honorable mention were Stan Ruis, Allen Elzinga and Rodney DeYoung of Ellsworth; Doug Peihl of Petoskey; Del Geim of Boyne Falls and Paul Kolinski of Petoskey St. Francis.

Named with Bennett to the forward position on the coaches first team was Audley Smith of Alma and teaming up with Evans in the guard spot was Gary Nielser of Lakeview.

All four of the other first team choices trailed Tillotson by the narrow margin of three votes or less in the balloting.

In naming Bennett to the All-Star squad he was quoted as being "the rare combination of defensive and offensive star that left coaches equally impressed whether he was blocking shots and stealing passes on defense, or tying the single game scoring record for the Northern Michigan Class C conference of 35 points. Perhaps most impressive was his amazing exhibition in sinking 17 of 18 free throws against Harbor Springs the night he tied the scoring record with his 35 point outburst.

"Drawing praise as perhaps the most brilliant all around player ever seen by many coaches, Bennett was an invaluable team leader in pacing Charlevoix to its league and Class C district tournament championships. He averaged slightly more than 18 points a game in 15 regular season contests.

"Deceptively fast, he displayed consistant college level playing ability".

Sermonette

Rev. W. N. Carr, Pastor

First Baptist Church

TEXT: Mark 8:34 " . . . Whosoever will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me."

During the past decade and in most of this century we have been hearing the word victory used very frequently. The price of victory in relation to world peace and the obtaining of it has been a subject for consideration and discussion very often in the past few years. In the life of every true believer, every person who names the name of Christ, there is a victory to be won and a price to be paid if it be won. In this verse of the Gospel of Mark, chapter eight, we have the way of victorious christian living outlined for us. As we approach the Easter season and the time when in a special way we commemorate the great victory that our Lord won over sin, satan, and death in his resurrection, it behooves each one of us, who claim to be one of the disciples of Jesus, to live a victorious life.

How does one get into God's army? How does one enter into the service of the Lord of Lords. It is not by compulsion, for God drafts nobody against his own will. The Master said, "Whosoever will come after me". You must voluntarily enlist for service, if you would be a soldier of the cross. Christ is a great example of how we should render our service. In the Epistle of Philippians 2:5-8 we read, "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ: who being in the form of God thought it not robbery to be equal with God: but made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant: and being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross." We as his followers need to follow his example, aid in his cause, and thus help in his great purpose of saving the lost souls of men. Don't put your christianity in cold storage, it won't keep.

Now note the sacrifice required of the one enlisting in Christ's service. Jesus said, "Let him deny himself." One who would serve God must deny his former way of life. He must often give up personal comfort and ease. The Apostle Paul told Timothy, "Thou therefore endure hardness, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ." If one would truly be a follower of the Lord he must deny his own will. There are no disappointments when we bury our will in the will of God. Christ must increase in our lives and self must decrease if we would have victory as Christians here on earth.

The price of our redemption and the victory won for us over our iniquity by Christ was by taking up a cross of self-sacrifice. Jesus gave himself as ransom for many and rose from the dead in a triumphant victory for our justification. Observe that in this verse the Lord imposes the same responsibility upon his followers. He said, "And take up his cross." We bear not the cross of Christ, but our own, and the easiest way to be rid of it is to die upon it as Jesus did. The cross is no longer a cross where there is no self to suffer under it. If we receive scars for Christ here, we'll wear stars with Christ over there.

Do you have victory in your life? It can be yours if you will pay the price. Will you volunteer for service, deny yourself, and take up our cross for Jesus sake? If you do, your life will be a march of victory as you pay the price.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

A TRAVEL folder of New Mexico this week from the Bill Heerings who are enroute . . . you guessed it . . . to visit their daughter, Nancy, now Mrs. Lou J. Brune in Denver . . . enroute west they also spent some time in Old Mexico and from their note, enjoyed every minute of it.

NOT LONG ago we had another card from the Heerings and on it was a little story we saved 'til now . . . Perhaps you've heard it . . it's one of our favorites . . . so we're passing it along to you . . . An old and beautiful legend has it that, at the time of the Crucifixion, the dogwood was comparable in size to the oak tree and other monarchs of the forest. Because of its firmness and strength it was selected as the timber for the cross but to be put to such a cruel use greatly distressed the tree . . . Sensing this, the Crucified Jesus in his gentle pity for the sorrow and suffering of all said to it: "Because of your sorrow and pity for My suffering never again will the dogwood tree grow large enough to be used as a gibbet. Henceforth it will be slender, bent and twisted and its blossoms will be in the form of a cross . . . two long and two short petals. In the center of the outer edge of each petal there will be nailprints . . . brown with rust and stained with blood . . . and in the center of the flower will be a crown of thorns and all who see this will remember" . . . And during this Lenten season we hope you will remember . . .

THIS IS a big week for Charlevoix . . . the Rayders will meet Grayling tonight in a real test and the band will play in the qualifying festival at Petoskey on Saturday . . . We'd like to go on record as thinking that the Rayders have a mighty good chance of upsetting the Vikings . . . It's going to be interesting to see and most of Charlevoix will be there to see the game . . .

AND SPEAKING of the tournament, how do you like the real 'big-time' way the players are introduced . . . just like Broadway only more so . . . spotlight and all . . . And did you ever hear close to 2,000 noisy basketball fans quiet down so quickly and completely as they did night after night when the National Anthem was played . . . it's really something to see . . . And how anyone can sit in the stands and knit during any tournament basketball game is something we'll never understand . . . Yet we saw two gals catching up on the purling during the games . . . Guess we're just too curious to do anything like that for there're more things to see . . . the kids, the fans, the players, the guys that sit on the players' bench . . . including the coach . . . Oh, it's wonderful and we wouldn't miss it for the world . . . But when it's all over, what does a basketball tournament prove? . . . Exactly nothing, for our money . . . and we're not afraid to make that statement this year . . we've said it for years . . .

AND ONE thing more . . . we'd like to join the host of fans who are wishing Coach Del Terrill and his Rayders all the luck in the world in the next week . . . You've had a lot of toughies this year and have managed to pull the important ones out of the fire . . . We think you can do it a few more times so the best of everything . . .

THOUGH the ice fishing season will soon be over, we'd like to pass along a little warning to said ice fishermen . . . One day recently someone we know fell in a hole cut by a fisherman simply because he hadn't bothered to mark it . . All this person got was plenty wet and cold but it could have been more serious, so next time mark the hole with something . . . even if it's only the piece of ice you cut from the hole originally . . . Or if it's near shore, place a piece of brush over the hole . . . It will certainly be a lot safer . . .

REMEMBER "Sleepy Time Gal"? . . . To you youngsters its a new tune but to your dads and moms it's a tune that was born at Harbor Springs and to which they danced some 25 years ago . . . with dance music played by a band in which Ange Lorenzo, who wrote the music for the song, played the piano . . . Lorenzo is now a theatre manager in Saginaw, but many local people will remember him during his years at Harbor . . . What was the name of that place where he used to play? . . . We've forgotten . .

THE Minstrel show . . . one of most successful shows last year . . . is preparing for its 1954 show to be given late next month . . . If you can sing, dance or do anything else that's entertaining or will fit into a minstrel show program, get in touch with Mr. Odmark or Dr. Hoffman . . . they're looking for talent . . . and who knows, maybe you've got it . . . We'll promise you one thing if you join the cast . . . you'll have a wonderful time . . .

WE understand that the Pete Scotts and the Bernie Wards who are spending the winter at Palmetto, Fla., had quite a fishing experience earlier this winter. Joined by friends from Carp Lake, they went deep sea fishing, with Mrs. Scott catching the biggest one, an 11 pounder . . . the others didn't do quite so well but they did bring in 11 fish weighing a total of 45 pounds . . . most of which disappeared at a fish fry held later . . .

IN THE mail this week a card from Mrs. Gerald Gibbons who is on a trip to Florida . . . looking, as she said, for the fountain of youth . . . While at Bradenton she ran into the Joe Fosters who are spending the winter there . .

IF YOU'VE been wondering why the birds haven't been visiting your feeding stations this winter, we may have the reason why the smaller birds have failed to come around . . . and we received it from Mrs. E. J. Edwards . . . She told us there was an invasion of northern shrikes and from the way she described them we don't think we'd like them . . . They are about the size of a robin, have the coloring of a grosbeak and a hooked beak like a hawk . . One came to their feeding station at the Belvedere Club several weeks ago and all the smaller birds stayed away . . . Must be a viscious character to scare away even the sparrows . . . Last week the chickadees came back . . . 17 at one time if you can imagine that . . . and more recently a phoebe with its plaintive call which has arrived exceptionally early from its southern haunts . . . And in our neighborhood, the first robin was heard Monday . . . chirping as tho' he didn't know it was only March and we're apt to have a lot more cold weather . . .

But with the sun coming up at 7:30 and tinting the white clouds a heavenly pink . . . can spring be far away? . . .

Charlevoix IN UNIFORM

Pfc. Albert C. Clark, stationed at LaRochelle, France, with the Army, took part last month in ODEX 16, an offshore exercise conducted near Bordeaux.

Under simulated tactical conditions, assuming that no port facilities remained on the coast, troops utilized BARCs, 197,000 pound amphibious cargo barges, to move supplies from ships anchored far offshore to postions on the beaches.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clark, now of Erie, Pa., he entered the army in January 1953. His wife, Fern, resides here.

In a recent letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Browe Sr., Ted Jr. Airman 2-c, stationed at Hunter AFB, Ga., said that one day recently he noticed several new men in the dining hall and was surprised to find one who looked familiar. It turned out to be Arnold Loper A2-c who is stationed at Robbins AFB, Ga., and who was assigned to Hunter Field briefly while working on communication installations there. A long gabfest about mutual friends and interests 'back home' followed the surprise meeting, according to Ted.

You can make your own brown coloring for chop suey, for soups, gravies and sauces, says Mrs. Norma Kowitz, a Michigan State college home economist. Simply carmelize one-half cup sugar in a frying pan until it is almost burned (it will have lost its sweet carmel flavor at this point) then add a little hot water to dissolve the carmelized sugar. Save what you do not need for later use.

Stronger laws for getting and keeping drivers' licenses and more emphasis on driver education were among the top recommendations passed by the first Michigan teen-age driver safety conference held at Michigan State college's Kellogg Center recently.

Mona Davenport, representing Charlevoix county, was among the 300 Michigan teen-agers who attended the conference sponsored by the Michigan State Safety Commission and the Youth Advisory council of the Michigan Youth Commission.

Seven pages of resolutions, including the two mentioned above, were passed at the two-day session which was handled by teen-agers with older safety workers serving as resource persons and observers.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Steve Tips the Balance

Was just leaving home this morning when the Missus reminded me to stop at Steve and Al's Meat Market for a pound of hamburger. "Be sure to get it from Steve," she said.

"Why?" I wondered. So when I got to the market I asked Steve if he knew. "I'll tell you, Joe," he said. "Al and I sell the same meat, and a pound is a pound. Maybe it's just that we go at it differently.

"Al loads the scales and takes away 'til he has a pound. But I put too little on and start adding. To your wife — that probably looks like a better buy."

From where I sit, there's always more than one way to approach a thing and still come out fair and square to all. My wife likes a cup of tea with dinner; I prefer a temperate glass of beer. We get along fine. Gets me pretty mad though, when somebody starts "throwing his weight around" and demands that I see things exactly his way.

(Isn't this why more people want—and buy—Chevrolets than any other car?)

What you want most Chevrolet gives you first

See how Chevrolet stays ahead of other low-priced cars in all the things that mean the most to you. See how much less Chevrolet costs you—it's the lowest-priced line of them all. Come on in and let us show you how you can have the things you want and be a good many dollars ahead with a new Chevrolet. That's promising a lot, but we welcome the chance to prove it!

OUT AHEAD with that bigger, lower look. Only Chevrolet and leading higher-priced cars have Body by Fisher with that big, smooth, low-slung look.

OUT AHEAD with zippy, thrifty Powerglide. It's the first and most advanced automatic transmission in the low-price field. Acceleration is instantly responsive and as smooth as silk. Optional on all models at extra cost.

OUT AHEAD with the highest-compression overhead valve engines. Chevrolet's great engines have the highest compression ratio of any leading low-priced car.

OUT AHEAD with that smooth and solid big-car ride. Chevrolet's the only low-priced car with Unitized Knee-Action—one reason for its finer road-smoothing, road-hugging ride.

OUT AHEAD with automatic power controls. Chevrolet is the first low-priced car to bring you all the latest automatic power features and controls as extra-cost options.

Knights Of Pythias To Conduct Traffic Safety Ideas Contest

The fraternal order Knights of Pythias, which more than a year ago launched a continent-wide Highway Courtesy Campaign, will now conduct a continent-wide contest seeking the best suggestion for solving the traffic safety problem on the local community level.

Announcement was made here by Grover C Geneit, secretary of Pine Lake Lodge No. 122 of the Knights of Pythias, following word of the contest received from Judge Sheldon M. Roper, Lincolnton, N. C., supreme chancellor of the Knights of Pythias.

First prize is a unique one. Winner of first place will receive an all-expense-paid trip to Washington, D. C and Ottawa, Canada. While in the capitals of the two countries, the winner will be presented with flags that have flown over both capitols. They will be the flags which were flying over the capitol at the time of a recent continent-wide radio broadcast celebrating the 90th anniversary of the founding of the Knights of Pythias.

The contest is open to individuals or organizations. If an organization wins first prize, it may designate the individual who will make the trip.

In announcing the contest, Supreme Chancellor Roper pointed out that the Knights of Pythias Highway Courtesy Campaign has been successful everywhere that it has been undertaken. He said that the fraternal order is now requesting other organizations and all individuals to join in this effort to bring courtesy to the highways and streets of North America to replace highway slaughter.

Suggestions for plans for community action in solving the traffic safety problem should be sent to Dale Stump, Columbus 15, Ohio.

by Gene Alleman

IF YOU want to make money, Michigan is a good place to seek your fortune. There are several excellent reasons why the state's economic condition can be expected to boom. Very important in this rosy picture are three factors: Extensive industrial expansion, the Mackinac Straits Bridge, the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Kicked around politically for more than 20 years, the St. Lawrence Waterway seems finally within grasp. Best indications are that the United State Congress will approve the project this year. If they should not, the Canadian government, which has already served notice that she will dig the channel herself, can be expected to begin operations.

Main impact of seaway will be felt in transportation and by industries which ship or use ore, grain, coal, etc.

Michigan with its good port cities and expanding industry is certain to benefit greatly.

GIANT increases have been predicted for the tourist trado when the Mackinac Bridge is completed. The tourist industry already ranks among the state's top three. Substantial boosts in the business of resorts, gas stations, restaurants, motels, transportation and communication offices mean more money and jobs for Michigan residents.

Plant expansion in Michigan promises even more!

Biggest plan announced is that of General Motors, which expects to spend three quarters of a billion dollars within borders of the Wolverine state.

Other programs by other factories are already underway or have been announced recently. Included are: Ford Motor, $500 million of expansion, Packard Motor, $47 million plant near Utica; Dow Chemical, $300 million, mostly at Midland; Continental Motors, $200 million power plant at Muskegon.

Montague, a small city about 20 miles north of Muskegon, is the site of a new Hooker Electro Chemical plant, costing $12 million, a DuPont neoprene plant for $15 million and a "smaller" factory for Union Carbide Company, which will cost nearly $2 million.

Smaller plants will soon join communities in every part of the state. Mueller Brass invested $500,000 in a operation to make plastic pipe at Port Huron. Michigan Tool bought Manistee Iron Works to produce gears. Standard Cotton Products is spending half a million near Flint for a new site. White Products plans a quarter million dollar addition at Middleville.

ABOUT 80% of Michigan's growth is from 'within'', "says John Beukema, former secretary of the Muskegon Chamber of Commerce and an authority of industrial expansion. This is considered a healthy situation, but the movement of plants outside Michigan into the state is not to be overlooked.

Data from the Michigan Department of Economics Development lists 20 firms which moved into the state during 1953. They are:

American Bitumals and Asphalt, Howell; Bliss and Laughlin, Macomb; CBS-Hytrom, a division of Columbia Broadcasting System making television tubes, Kalamazoo; Clinton Machine, Clinton; Guedon Co., Chelsea; Gunn Co., Grand Rapids; Photographic Industries, Harbor Springs; Truck Equipment, Norway; Stream Eze Tackle Co., Charlevoix; Alma Plastics, Alma; Dog Life Corp., Hamilton; American Colortype, Decatur; Frankfort Manufacturing, Frankfort; Negaunee Needlecraft Co., Negaunee; Bryan Manufacturing, Reading; Tesar Printers and Binders; Stevensville; Jolly Kids Togs, Onaway; Superior Plating, Howell; General Electric, Holland; Bridgeport Prass, Adrian Industrial expansion is expected to be greater in Michigan than in any other state during 1954.

Since 1951 Michigan has ranked high. In that year only two states saw more money for new industry; Ohio and Pennsylvania. These two states and Illinois exceeded the $608 million spent in Michigan in 1952. In 1953 Michigan was second only to Ohio.

To the "average" citizen, all this invested money means opportunity. Opportunity for new jobs, for bigger purchasing power, for a higher standard of living.

A new factory in a community means a new source of taxes for the local government where it is located, and for the state. Added income from taxes paid by large industries in small communities has the advantage of reducing the amount each individual must pay. It supplys a source of money that can be used for local improvements.

The sizable capital investment made recently in Michigan makes it possible for a resident to watch first hand the working of the American economic system . . . and to share in its benefits.

Benefit Dessert Luncheon Given For Club Project

Mrs. Gordon L. Freedman opened her home at 409 Michigan ave. last Thursday to approximately fifty women who attended a dessert luncheon with proceeds given for the benefit of the Shakespeare Study Club's Americanism project to restore Independance Hall and to provide for prizes to be awarded to Americanism essay contest winners, which is being conducted in the local schools.

Guests were served at tables attractively decorated in the Easter theme, after which card games were enjoyed during the afternoon.

Winner of the drawing prize was Mrs. Arthur Ranger and the door prize was awarded to Mrs. Fay Davis. First prize bridge winner was Mrs. C M. Bice and Canasta and pinochle prizes were won by Donna Ball and Mrs. Dean Davenport respectively.

Boys' Chorus To Present Program Monday Evening

From the land of cactus and coyotes, canyons and cowboys, comes one of the unique new attractions of the American concert stage. It is the Tucson Arizona Boys Chorus which will sing Monday evening, March 15 at the Petoskey high school auditorium, under the auspices of the northern Michigan Community Concerts Association.

In choir vestments or cowboy jeans, the boys are beguiling in their program of classics, carols, folk songs, Mexican novelties and westerns sung with a superb blend of fine young voices. Their own highly original arrangements of songs of the great Southwest, spiced with comedy and seasoned with calf bawls and coyote calls, give their program a distinctly American flavor and make it a round-up of music and fun for everybody.

The Tucson Arizona Boys Chorus was founded in the fall of 1939 by Eduardo Caso, its present director. An Englishman who had recently arrived in Tucson, Caso met with little encouragement when he undertook the project of which he had long dreamed. The Chorus, known then as the Tucson Boys Choir, gave its first concert at Christmas of that year.

As the local prestige of the organization grew so did its membership. From a choir of eight, the Chorus has now burgeoned into an aggregation of over 100 boys ranging in age from 8 to 16. There are approximately 30 in the senior group, 50 in the intermediate, and 20 in the junior. The touring chorus is chosen from the best voices of the senior and intermediate groups and barring measels, chickenpox, overnight baritones and other hazards of boys choruses, consists of 28 to 30 members.

This will be the last concert in the 1953-54 series of Community Concerts and admissions will be by membership in the Association only.

Making Plans To Release Hungarian Partridge In State

Michigan may have to roll out the welcome mat any day now for a group of feathered dignitaries that, state game men hope, will come to stay longer than the span of a brief official visit.

These grand noblefolk come from across the seas, originally, but in recent years have lived across Michigan's border in southern Ontario. Also, they are partridges, not potentates, Hungarian partridges.

The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests says within about two weeks it hopes to have 25-50 of the birds live-trapped and ready for shipment to northern Michigan.

In exchange, Michigan game workers hope to trap sufficient numbers of sharp-tailed grouse in the upper peninsula so a colony can be started across the border in Ontario.

Michigan already has a few Hungarian partridges. The birds have been reported in southern counties and occasionally in the north. For about 20 years, they were raised at the state game farm near Mason and planted at various places, including Delta and Menominee counties of the upper peninsula.

The birds never grew plentiful and the plantings were, in general, considered failures so far as hunting is concerned.

However, in southern Ontario 'Hunkies' have taken hold strongly and are now an important game bird. Conservation department workers hope the strain of bird acclimated to Ontario will be able to take hold here.

Hunkies are between quail and ruffed grouse in size. They prefer open country, often fly up some distance ahead of the hunter and tend to run after they land.

Better quality roughage can reduce costs of producing milk in Michigan by 20 to 25 per cent, asserts an M.S.C. agricultural economist, C. R. Hoglund.

Commission Ends Spring And Summer Hunting Of Bears

Lansing — The conservation commission recently ended spring and summer bear-hunting seasons in the upper peninsula, in hopes it might also end a pile of problems that resulted from those seasons.

Biggest objection to the August 15 — September 15 season was the shooting of bears at city garbage pits. That problem, the conservation commission notes, should be handled during the fall hunting seasons or by city authorities through a special ordinance instead of indiscriminately during the now-ended early seasons.

Also, upper peninsula residents objected to persons taking high-powered rifles into woodlands throughout the year. They say the practice is dangerous and causes an unnecessary poaching problem.

In addition, the April 1-May 31 spring season in some cases caused a difficult problem of cub bears. Hunters were not allowed to shoot mother bears with cubs, but in the wild, cubs can often be separated from mothers and thus unseen. Hunters could not always be blamed when cubs turned up without mothers, but ending the spring and summer seasons also ended the problem.

Bear hunting will now be permissable with dogs October 1-November 5 and without dogs during the regular November 15-30 deer hunting season.

Take Inventory To Better Your Buying

Have you taken inventory of your food buying practices recently?

If you review your buying practices, you may find ways to improve your food buying habits, suggests Mary Morr of the Michigan State college foods and nutrition department.

Here are three points you might consider:

First, are you buying all of the nutrients that your family should have? Remember that the Basic 7 food groups make an easy check sheet to determine if all of the family's food nutrient needs are met.

A second point to consider is how much of your food dollar are you willing to spend for services, in the form of pre-packaged, processed and ready-to-eat foods? It might be interesting to use paper and pencil to determine how much of your food dollar you may be spending for this type of service. You'll want to compare the value of these services in relation to your other homemaking duties.

And third, have you learned to look critically at the quality and quantity of foods purchased in a ready-to-eat form?

On such an overall appraisal of value of time, quality and quantity of food purchased, you may realize where you can make some valuable savings by revising your practices.

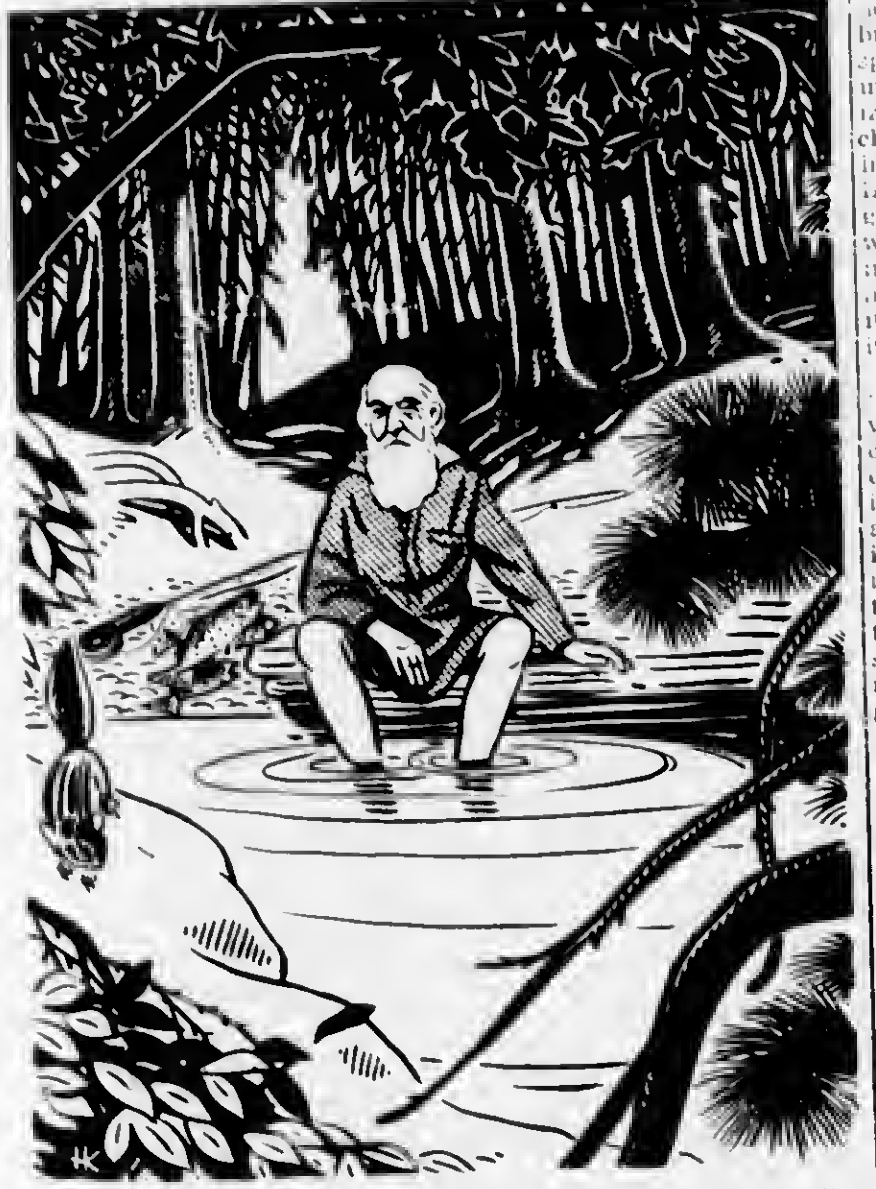
FEELING LOW?
Inspiring Lessons Learned from Nature

Viruses "B" and "H"



Perhaps one reason why that loveable naturalist, John Burroughs, lived to such a ripe old age was that he was never weakened by two diseases that are prevalent in our own time. Let's call them Virus "B" and Virus "H" — boredom and haste. From the day of his birth in 1837 until he died at eighty-four years of age he seemed an utter stranger to monotony and hurry. Like the rest of us he had routine chores to do, but he wasn't bored by them. He was often busy, but never rushed.

He did not breathe and drink as a matter of course. He breathed with exhilaration, fairly tasting the hemlock-scented air. When he could he drank from springs and smacked his lips over the mineral flavored draught. Burroughs refused to speed through life at a dizzy, headlong pace. He stopped to look around him. He took time to notice and to be enchanted and thrilled by wild flowers in the spring, birds' nests in the lilacs, and stars in the sky.

John Burroughs not only got what he was after in life, but some by-products too. From his fireplace he got warmth, but more than warmth. He claimed all the odors, all the sights, feasting upon every sensation a fire could offer. On a walk he reached more than a destination. His ears gathered in the subtle sounds of blown grasses, distant bird calls, beating insect wings. When angling he caught more than fish. He rolled up his trousers, or removed them, and caught the swirl of brook waters against his legs, and with a quick eye snatched glimpses of scampering furred and fluttering feathered things. From earliest youth through old age his life was radiant with the enjoyment of the little things the Creator has put here for us all. As far as we know, in eighty-four years he never knew a monotonous day or a hurried hour.

One of the most vicious viruses infecting human life is Virus "B" boredom. The most significant symptom of its presence is fatigue. We may catch the virus from the daily grind of work to be done which sometimes seems meaningless and therefore monotonous — the production line business of endlessly putting a nut on a bolt, or the office business of filing folders in cabinets, or the kitchen business of doing dirty dishes three times daily, or the organization business of regular and unending committee meetings. Sighed one Negro maid as she summed up her feelings of boredom, "Life is so daily." Indeed it is!

Virus "B" gives us a lost feeling. And it's no wonder. It is easy to have lost feelings amidst monotonous barrenness. In the deep forests where the trees all look pretty much alike, or on the seas where the waves are cut to the same pattern, or on the vast sweep of the desert where the sands spread out in uniform sameness we find it hard to get our bearings. Few regain our sense of direction through something that stands out from the dull regularity. A different tree in the forest, a buoy or marker amidst the ocean's waves, an oasis in the desert will save us from our lostness.

So some high moments of the spirit, some exciting little discoveries, will work upon the symptoms of virus "B" and give us valuable clues as to the cure of the disease.

One of the ways we lick boredom is by having a high purpose for living, big enough to tower above the monotony of the daily grind. If the purpose is high enough — like building character, serving humanity, meeting the approval of a God who cares for us — it will relieve tedium.

Another remedy is a perspective. It is the ability to see the distastefully dull routine as only a small part of doing great things. Washing diapers and mixing formulas are part of taking care of a baby, and they can be "so daily." Yet, isn't the baby worth it? When the routine care is seen in perspective with the baby's importance, virus "B" is given a hard jolt.

An intense interest in what is going on near at hand and all around us counteracts virus "B". Boredom doesn't stand the ghost of a chance of badly infecting the person who has an absorbing curiosity about the nature of things. Then everything becomes an unexhaustible supply of information and delight. J. Henri Faore, the French student of insect life, once said, "Human knowledge will be erased from the world's archives before we possess the last word that a gnat has to say to us." No one yet has learned all that can be known about a robin's feather, a trout's diet, or the growth of a blade of grass. Everyone, even the hospitalized and imprisoned, is surrounded by things, and no one can be bored for long who has an inquisitive interest in the nature of things.

Another virulent disorder is caused by the "H" virus, haste. It speeds up our lives to an intolerable tempo. It robs us of the beauty of slowness that we find in the change of seasons. They do not dash in and out of the year, but saunter. Nor does the sun sprint into the heavens at morning and bound toward the horizon at eventide. Its morning climb is in slow time and its evening pace is relaxed and leisurely. Buds unfold, birdlets and grasses grow, tides wax and wane, all with a gentle and dignified timing. Nature at its loveliest does not race madly about. It works its wonders as if each deserved its calm and measured attention.

In contrast to nature's elemental slowness, how hurriedly we live! Although we teach our children not to eat hastily because it is both greedy and injurious to health, how we gobble and gulp! We snap up our reading matter and hurriedly bolt it down. The beauties of the natural world we swallow without testing. The delicacies of friendships, meditation, solitary moments, and prayer we hurriedly gobble without savouring.

And at what a cost! We people of the Ulcer-and-Aspirin Age suffer from more than the physical results of our haste. Our minds are troubled by undigested thoughts. Our souls are heavy and sick with an unused variety and richness of experience that, when not assimilated, turns to poison. The only cure is to slow down, savour well each dish of life's banquet. Chew well before swallowing.

Are you feeling low? Look about you. God has put within your reach a wealth of good things that money cannot buy. The beauties of His Creation grow all about you. The lovely and loveable qualities in your dear ones, too, are food for your soul. Gather them. Feast upon them. But take time to taste them. The antidote to Viruses "B" and "H" are interest and appreciation.

Many Class 'C' League Players Will Graduate

With the current basketball season over for all but one of the teams of the Northern Michigan Class C league, jerseys have been packed away and basketballs stored until another season.

And as they always do at this season of the year, coaches are counting their losses to the 'cap and gown parade' and taking stock of material available for another year.

Hardest hit by graduation will be Harbor Springs which will lose almost its entire Varsity squad, nine players in all; Mancelona and Boyne City are graduating six players each; Charlevoix and East Jordan will lose five players each; Gaylord four with Pellston losing only three players.

Missing from the Harbor Springs line up next season will be Stan Pifer, an outstanding athlete and top scorer in the league, Chuck Taylor, Cart Seeley, Leon Sterly, Bob Bethke, Jim Herrick, Tom Bawkey and Wally Granstra, all seniors, and Rod Pontius, a junior, who will be ineligible under the 19-year-old ruling.

Mancelona will count among its losses four of the best athletes the school has produced in recent years including Johnny Holstad, the team's top scorer and third highest in the league, Earl LaDere, Bill Dalton and Dick Derrer who played only part of the season following a serious illness but who is an outstanding player on both the basketball floor and the football field. Other seniors include Bill Kube and Ken Rosa.

Boyne City is counting among its losses Mert Erber, Don Milbrandt, Tom Whale and Ed Lawrence, regulars during the past season, plus Ed Boyer and Jack Lucas.

Playing their last season for Charlevoix are Bill Bennett, top scorer for the team and second highest in the league with only five less than the loop-leading Pifer, Gordon Mol, Mark White and Dave Glassford, all seniors, and Joe McDermott, who will be 19 years old this summer. All played major roles in the team's successes which included the conference championship for the fourth straight season and a district title won Saturday night at Petoskey.

At East Jordan Keith Evans, one of the outstanding athletes in the league will head the list of graduates which also includes Jim Weisley, Francis Trojanek, Pete Nemecek and Gene Nachazel.

Pellston, with the youngest team in the league will lose only Glenn Aurrand, who sparked the Hornets to a good season and another regular, Harold Drier, along with a senior substitute, Herb Searles.

The March plentiful foods list of the U. S. Department of Agriculture offers a good basis for budget-saving Lenten meals. There are plentiful supplies of potatoes, eggs, all types of cheese, and pinto and red kidney beans about which many main dishes can be built.

Soil Scientists Take 'Chances' Out Of Farming

Soil testing takes part of the "gamble" or "chance" out of farming explains Ed Rehmun, Charlevoix county agricultural agent. Medical science uses the X-ray, metabolism tests, blood counts and many other tests, checks and devices in diagnosing disease of the human body. The soil scientist now uses sensitive scientific equipment in gaining basic knowledge of the soil.

Only by testing can we accurately learn whether or not lime is needed. Tests tell us about the quantity of plant food elements in the soil, the balance between the elements and the presence of elements in toxic or poisonous quantities.

A survey made in Otsego county last fall indicates that 70 percent of the fields in the county have a "ph" below 6.5 and should benefit from an application of lime. A similar survey in Missaukee county indicates 93 percent of the land is in need of lime. Charlevoix county records indicate only about 15 percent of the land is needing lime. The fields sampled in the surveys included those that have been limed in the past. Experiments indicate that one dollar's worth of lime applied where needed will return $8 to $10 over a period of 10 to 15 years.

Furthermore, testing enables one to use fertilizer economically possibly to use less fertilizer or a less expensive fertilizer. Let's take a practical case. We have a sandy loam soil and intend to plant oats seeded with clover-alfalfa. Without a test we would guess that 150 pounds of 5-20-20 fertilizer or its equivalent should be used. This fertilizer would cost $15.50 per acre. But suppose we test the soil and find it contains 15 pounds of phosphorus (low) and 185 pounds of potassium (high) per plow acre. Then we would recommend 450 pounds of 5-20-10 per acre. This would cost $12.70 and result in a saving of $1.80 per acre.

Oats, Barley Make Good Nurse Crop

The companion or nurse crop may determine the quality of stand farmers get from alfalfa seedings.

A study of the effect of various companion crops on the establishment of alfalfa in a field experiment has recently been completed by Robert Briggs and C. M. Harrison, of the Michigan State College farm crops department.

In the experiment, using various nurse crops, several varieties of oats and barley were used in addition to many other grasses and grain crops.

The best yield of alfalfa was obtained when Clinton oats were used as the nurse crop and cut at three inches for grain. Both oats and barley were about equally satisfactory when cut at three inches and the straw removed

When sudan grass, millet and soybeans were cut for hay the resulting alfalfa crop was fairly good. It was fair when buckwheat was used and cut at full bloom and end bloom. The resulting alfalfa yield and stand was very unsatisfactory when sudan grass, millet, soy beans and buckwheat were used as a nurse crop and cut for grain.

There Is Right Way To Put Eggs In Case

The test started with eggs grading 50 per cent "AA" and 50 per cent "A". Nearly all of the eggs which were packed with large ends up were still of "A" quality as determined by candling at the end of 14 days. But those packed with the small end up averaged a "B" quality.

The interior quality of eggs which can be determined by candling is an important factor in wholesale grading, the poultrymen explain. To grade "A" or better, an egg must have a well-centered yolk. And the yolk has a tendency to rise in an egg packed with the small end up. This causes the egg to grade lower when it's candled. That means a lower price.

Set Date For Meet Of Fruit Growers At Traverse City

Fruit growers in this area are reminded by Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent, that the Spring meeting of the State Horticultural Society for this area will be held next Tuesday, March 16 at the Traverse City high school.

This meeting covers the latest developments in fruit raising, with many noted speakers on the program. Fruit growers are urged to get together and take a car load of people to this Spring Horticultural meeting.

Prices For Finished Beef May Warrant Extra Feed Costs

Michigan cattle feeders will find it an advantage to put a good finish on their feeder cattle this season because of the substantial price differential between finished and unfinished cattle in the same grade.

That is pointed out by George A. Branaman, a Michigan State college animal husbandman. He urges the feeding of plenty of protein supplement because cattle not getting enough are lacking proper finish.

Although protein supplement is slightly higher priced than last year, he stresses, the benefit in the form of finished cattle is more than worth the expense.

Branaman also advises shopping around for the best buy in protein supplement of similar quality. For instance, he points out, cottonseed meal is at an attractive price in comparison with some others.

Will Stock State Park With Turkeys From Pennsylvania

The conservation commission meeting here recently approved a three-year planting project in hopes the big wild birds can be re-established in the state. Since about 1900, wild turkeys have been absent from Michigan's wildlife scene

Pennsylvania has successfully converted its turkey population into a huntable game bird. Hunters in the Keystone state take about 10,000 of the birds each year.

Game workers here say they hope to buy eggs, young turkeys or wild brood pairs for the Michigan experiment and that Pennsylvania is the first logical market place

The birds, when obtained, will be released in Allegan state forest, probably this year.

Corn growers this year can get some cheap "crop insurance" by selecting two or three hybrids that differ slightly in the time they take to ripen.

That's a suggestion from E. C. Rossman, farm crops researcher at Michigan State college. He points out that adverse weather conditions particularly at tasseling time and for three or four weeks afterwards, may affect one hybrid more than another, depending on how far the crop is along.

Rossman advises selecting hybrids from a copy of Extension Folder F-67, available at the county extension office or from the Bulletin Office, Michigan State college. This publication gives the results of 1953 corn hybrid tests which were conducted over the state as well as a summary of the past performance of each hybrid.

The crops researcher suggests selecting early maturing hybrids that yield as much or more than the late varieties. The early corn usually matures before frost, and mature corn makes better livestock feed. And, Rossman points out, dry, mature corn doesn't spoil in storage, a higher price is paid for dry, mature corn which can be harvested in the fall before bad weather sets in. That means a farmer can frequently seed wheat after harvesting an early hybrid corn.

New hybrids are continually being developed, he notes, and they should be tried by farmers when the variety has been adequately tested to show it's better. By planting the best hybrid, a yield increase of two bushels per acre will more than pay for the cost of the seed. If a grower plants corn for silage, it's still important to have a hybrid that yields a high amount of grain, Rossman stresses.

If you plant oats on land where corn had been picked the previous year, you may get less oats than if you had harvested corn silage, M.S.C. farm crops men suggest. Reason: Corn stalks tie up nitrogen when they're plowed down.

State To Accept Four Programs Of 4-H Club Awards

The State Club office has accepted four national 4-H awards programs for participation of members in 1954, the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work has announced. The programs are Garden, Clothing Achievement, Poultry and Tractor Maintenance, in the last three of which awards have been changed.

In the 4-H Clothing program, four (formerly one) gold-filled medals of honor will be provided for winners in qualifying counties by the awards donor, Coats and Clark, Inc. As in the past, the state winner will receive an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago. Also 12 of the winners selected for national honors will each receive a $300.00 college scholarship.

Instead of five sterling silver medal awards to county winners in the 4-H Poultry program, four gold-filled medals will be provided this year by the Tractor and Implement Division, Ford Motor Co. Awards of an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago for state winners, and $300.00 college scholarships to the national winners remain unchanged.

In the 4-H Tractor Maintenance program, the Standard Oil Foundation, Inc. (Chicago) will provide four gold-filled instead of sterling silver medals of honor as county awards. The state winner will receive an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club congress, as heretofore. The national awards, however, have been increased from eight to 12 $300.00 college scholarships.

Awards in the 4-H Garden program, which are provided by Allis-Chalmers, remain the same as last year, four gold-filled medals of honor, an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress, and eight $300.00 college scholarships, to county, state and national winners, respectively.

Intangibles Tax Expert Will Aid Local Taxpayers

On Tuesday, March 23 Richard Harbaugh representing the Michigan Department of Revenue will be at the Charlevoix County State Bank between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. for the purpose of assisting taxpayers in the preparation of their intangibles tax returns due not later than March 31.

Intangible personal property subject to the tax includes all mortgages, land contracts, bank accounts, cash, postal savings accounts, accounts and notes receivable, corporate stocks, corporate bonds and other similar types of property. However, all United States bonds, are exempt from the tax, and the tax on deposits in Michigan banks and building and loan associations, as well as stocks in Michigan banks, will be paid to the Department of Revenue directly by the banks or building and loan associations.

Under the present law as amended by the Legislature in 1945, all Corporate Stocks are 100% taxable including Michigan Corporations.

The Department has issued a warning to all owners of property, such as is outlined above, to file the necessary return forms prior to March 31. The Revenue Department is constantly engaged in checking stockholders' lists, mortgage records, income tax returns and other data for the purpose of discovering evasions of the Intangibles Tax Act. Failure to file a return when a tax is due subjects the taxpayer to severe penalties.

In addition to assisting taxpayers in the preparation of their returns, Mr. Harbaugh will also be glad to advise any person concerning his liability, if any, under the Intangibles Tax Act.

Those desiring this advice or assistance are requested to bring with them full information concerning their holdings, including the face or par value, and income received therefrom during the year, and copy of the previous year's return filed with the Department.

Band To Play In State Event

Wins First Division Rating In District Qualifying Festival

The Charlevoix high school band directed by C. A. Odmark received a first division rating in the District Qualifying Festival at Petoskey Saturday.

The local group was one of three organizations to receive the coveted rating and qualify to participate in the State Band and Orchestra Festival to be held in Ann Arbor April 10. The other bands were East Jordan in Class C and Petoskey in Class B.

Charlevoix received a first division rating from all four judges who heard the band, Leonard Falcone, Keith Stein and Clarence Roth, in concert playing and Byron L. Autrey in sight reading.

The adjudicators were unanimous in praising the band for its tone quality, precision, contrast and appearance but were critical of intonation and a tendency toward harshness at times.

Minor defects were pointed out with the idea of helping the band attain the rating of a 'really fine band'.

Other bands participating in the festival and their ratings follow: Boyne City 2, Harbor Springs 3, Onaway 2, and Gaylord 2 in Class C; Alanson 2, Northport 3, Elk Rapids 3, and Mackinaw City 3 in Class D; Traverse City 2 in Class A. The Class A Traverse City orchestra also received a 2 rating.

Bands from Rogers City and St. Ignace were unable to attend because of the storm which hit the area Friday and the Grayling band did not participate because of a death in the director's family.

Rehearsal To Begin Friday For Minstrels

The minstrel chorus of the second annual Northland Minstrel Show sponsored by the Charlevoix Band Parents Association will begin rehearsals this week, C. A. Odmark, director of the chorus, has announced.

The first rehearsal will be held at the high school band room at 7:30 p.m. Friday and anyone wishing to sing with the group is asked to attend the initial rehearsal.

This year's production promises to be the best ever and everyone is invited to participate.

Dr. Walter Hoffman who is working with the endmen reports several new faces will appear in the group, including Dr. L. E. Grate.

Proceeds for the show will be used to finance various projects not sponsored by the school, Mr. Odmark said. The hotel expenses of the band when they attend the State Band and Orchestra festival in Ann Arbor next month, the Interlochen Scholarship fund which is being taken over by the Band Parents Association, the purchase of three new majorette uniforms and the purchase of new show equipment are among the projects for which the proceeds have been earmarked. New equipment is expected to include spotlights and color wheels which will be available to all groups presenting shows in the auditorium.

Several Events Mark Birthday Of Girl Scouts

Sixty-four Brownie Scouts gathered at the Girl Scout room in the City Hall Friday to celebrate the birthday anniversary of Girl Scouting. The troop leaders joined the Brownies for the event.

A lighted birthday cake with 44 candles was a feature of the refreshments which were served following an entertaining program, which included a story told by Mrs. Harry Stewart; a nature film, The Three Bruins, and a Disney film, shown by Glenn Snider and group singing led by Mrs. E. D. Hawley.

The Brownie party was only one of several events which marked the birthday anniversary of the Scouting movement.

On Tuesday Troop 5 participated in an investiture service; on Monday Troop 9 gave a chili supper at the V.F.W. post home and raised $52.65 for camping equipment which has already been ordered; on Sunday, March 7, 107 Girl Scouts attended the Assembly of God in a body in observance of Girl Scout Sunday.

Last week two Scout troops, Troop 5 and Troop 9, had Girl Scout displays in the Polly Kay and Murdick Candy Kitchen windows.

Charles Krahnke and James Bowman, students at the University of Michigan, came Thursday to attend the regional tournament games and visit their respective parents, Mrs. Florine Krahnke and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Bowman.

A feature of the dinner meeting will be the showing of the 1½ hour movie of the 1953 Boy Scout Jamboree held in California last July. Troop awards will also be presented.

Regional Meeting On TB Programs To Be April 12

Invitations to the regional tuberculosis conference at Gaylord April 12 were issued this week by the Michigan Tuberculosis Association.

Among the major issues to be discussed at the conference will be such programs as routine x-ray service in general hospitals, community-wide x-ray and TB skin testing programs and tuberculosis laws and money. An attempt will also be made to find a solution to the TB trouble spots both in the northern part of the southern peninsula and the eastern section of the upper peninsula.

Another item high on the agenda will be mass chest x-ray service which currently reaches less than 50 per cent of the adult population in a 29 county area in northern Michigan.

Schools To Aid "Bundle Week" Clothing Drive

The Charlevoix public schools will participate in the state-wide Save the Children "Bundle Week" drive to collect used clothing for needy children, Supt. R. G. Bennett announced this week.

The drive, which is part of the twelfth annual Children's Clothing Crusade, will open here Monday, March 22, and continue through the week.

"We cannot stress too much the desperate need for clothing that exists among children in this country and overseas", Mr. Bennett said in announcing plans for the drive. He went on to say that he was sure the people of Charlevoix will want to lend a helping hand. "Bundle Week" provides a practical and effective means of clothing collection, and at the same time, teaches youth in our schools to share what they have with those less fortunate. Participation in the National Children's Clothing Crusade will help foster a sense of brotherhood and lay a firm foundation for international goodwill.

Needed most are outgrown, used or new children's and adult clothing such as coats, dresses, sweaters, shirts, pants, socks, underwear, pajamas, warm nightgowns, sheets and blankets; baby clothing such as shirts, diapers, blankets and warm clothing; good wearable shoes tied together in pairs. Do not send high heeled shoes.

All clothing must be in clean, and in wearable condition.

The children are asked to bring the clothing for the drive to their rooms at school. It will be sorted and packaged for shipment to the Save-the-Children Federation, Inc. for distribution to needy children and families in Korea, in war-depleted countries of Europe and the Middle East and in isolated rural areas of the United States.

Three million pounds of wearable clothing has been set as the goal. Last year over four million pupils collected a total of 2,500,000 pounds of clothing, approximately five million garments.

Complete Plans For Good Friday Union Services

Plans for the annual Good Friday Union Service were completed Tuesday at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix Ministerial Association held at the Methodist church Tuesday morning.

The annual service will be held at the Assembly of God church from 1 to 3 p.m. April 16. The theme of the service will be "The Three Crosses" with the Reverends Lloyd M. Schloop, Harold E. Kohn and W. N. Carr as the speakers.

Special music will be provided by the churches of the community.

The local churches will also cooperate in a county-wide youth meeting to be held in Boyne City Sunday, March 23. Dr. Glenn Frye, assistant to the Methodist bishop and noted youth speaker, will address the gathering at the Boyne City high school gymnasium at 3 p.m.

Special services on Sunday morning, March 28, will feature the "One Great Hour of Need" campaign with all churches accepting a special offering to be used for the needy around the world.

The Association expressed its decision regarding of advertising of alcholic beverages on radio and television by sending a telegram to Harry H. Hittle, chairman of the senate judiciary committee urging the passage of House Bill No. 297 which would prohibit such advertising.

Present at the Tuesday meeting were Rev. George L. Majors, Rev. R. J. Lintner, Rev. Schloop, Rev. Carr and Rev. G. R. Kars.

District Band Festival Will Be March 17

Charlevoix will be host to the District Solo and Ensemble Festival Saturday, March 27, C. A. Odmark, director of the Charlevoix high school band and festival chairman, has announced.

The festival will open at 9 a.m. in three locations in the local schools and continue until late afternoon before three judges who will be named later.

The festival is sponsored by District 2 of the Michigan Band and Orchestra Association.

No admission charge will be made for the all-day event and the public is invited to hear the soloists, duets, trios and other musical groups from northern Michigan communities.

Measure Now Being Considered By House State Affairs Group

Norman D. Ance, city attorney, and Roy R. Robinson, city superintendent, are in Lansing today to attend the hearing in the House State Affairs committee on Senate Bill No. 1102 which would permit easier financing of expansion and improvement of municipally-owned utilities in Michigan through the sale of revenue bonds.

The bill met its first test when it was passed by the Senate last week by a 17 to 8 vote over strong opposition by private utility companies. It was then sent to the House Senate Affairs committee for consideration with the hearing set for 10 a.m. this morning (Thursday).

The measure, an amendment to the revenue bond act, would permit municipally-owned utilities in some 40 Michigan cities including Charlevoix to authorize revenue bond issues for expansion programs by resolution without a vote of the people.

It would eliminate the necessity for publicly-owned light and power plants and gas companies to use general obligation bonds or mortgage revenue bonds to finance improvements.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

IF YOU don't think spring is about to make its dramatic entrance, take a look around you . . . Look, for instance, across Round Lake to the lighthouse depot dock where huge buoys, painted a brilliant orange, are emerging daily from Klaus Andersen's workshop where they have been readied for the opening of navigation . . . Or watch the kids playing marbles, always a sure sign . . . And pussywillows by the millions, more or less . . . Barney Englehart brought us a beautiful bunch of them from Camp Charlevoix last week . . . They must be a special brand or something 'cause underneath the gray coat they're tinted a delicate pink . . . And have you noticed how the willows are taking on a golden hue . . . And how about the chirp of a brave little robin who returned early as tho' bringing hope for an early spring to those who have tired of the long winter . . . And the 'peep peep' of baby chicks heard almost daily in the postoffice . . .

COME SUNDAY, the long-awaited season will officially be here . . . on the calendar if not elsewhere . . . In northern Michigan we can expect a few more storms like the one we experienced over the weekend but they'll soon be over and we can look forward to the spring plowing, the planting, the first flowers.

AND NOW that March 15 is past and you've parted with all your extra foldin' stuff along with your income tax report . . . why not settle down and get a little rest before that big summer season which will soon be upon us . . .

FEATURED in a recent picture story eabout shipkeepers in th Lorain, Ohio, Journal was a former Charlevoix resident, Marcus Cross, who spent the winter aboard the giant lake freighter, Ernest T. Wier, one of 20 such ships in Lorain's winter fleet . . . Occupying the spacious quarters with no one but his shadow, he has spent the winter cleaning and painting or checking lines and riggings on the ship's exterior for winter damage . . . While his family lives ashore, he lives alone and seems to like it . . . when not working he does his own cooking and watches one of the ship's three television sets . . .

Last season, Mark served as third mate aboard the George R. Fink but doesn't know where he'll be this season . . . he's applied for his master's license but it hasn't come through yet . . . He'll be assigned to one of the ships in the company's fleet . . now that the crews are coming back after spending the winter ashore . . .

Can't quite imagine Mark living the quiet life but this is the second winter he's kept ship so he must like it . . . Glad to hear he's doing alright for himself . . . but one rather expects it of the Crosses for they've all done OK to date . . .

A COUPLE guys we know got quite a shock the other day when a deer ambled past their cars as they stopped for traffic at the Dixon-Michigan ave. intersection . . . They were Jim Willis and Charlie Bleha who had came to a stop to await the passing of several cars on the highway when the deer crossed in front of them from the vacant lot above the mill traveling toward the lake . . Jim thinks it's the same deer that was rescued recently from Round Lake and which has made its home on the Chicago Club since then . . .

AND SPEAKING of wild life, a red fox dashed in front of the car the other night while we were enroute to Petoskey . . . The big old fox with it's bushy tail was running across the field near the viaduct when we first saw it . . . We all thought it would stop wheo it saw the car but it came right along and we had to slow down or hit it . . . Enroute home the same night someone else reported seeing nine deer near the Birchwood Ranch . . .

A man-made sight that was really something was the long string of cars with only the red tail-lights showing as far as one could see formed by the cars returning from tournament games in Petoskey . . .

WELL, the rat race is over for another year . . . of course we mean the tournaments . . . It was heart-breaking Saturday night to watch the Rayders try everything in the book and have nothing work while the Marion team, playing inspired ball, could do nothing wrong . . . But that's the fortunes of the game, they tell me . . .

But when you see kids play as hard as our boys played and not get any place, you can't help but feel it wasn't in the cards for us to win . . . But they're good kids, they've given us a lot of good basketball all season and they're entitled to an off night now and then in our book . . . even when it means the regional title . . .

AND TO prove that there are others who feel the same way we do, there's a movement afoot, a successful one, to send the team, all 15 of them, to Lansing to see the semi-finals on Friday and the finals nn Saturday . . . If that doesn't prove to Coach Terrill and his Rayders that we love 'em as much as ever then there isn't much we can say . . . But we know they know and that's what's important . . . Just have yourselves a time . . .

AND IF we may we'd like to say a few more things about the tournaments before we file them away under 'T' for another year . . . For those of you who haven't heard about it, Coach Dick Boles and his Harbor Springs Rams sent a 'good luck' wire to Coach Terrill and his Rayders last Thursday morning . . . a mighty fine gesture, especially after the Rayders defeated the Rams in the district finals . . .

WE DON'T know how you feel about it, but the fact that this was Marion's very first regional title kinda took some of the sting out of the defeat they handed us . . . No wonder they were so elated . . .

Fans could take a few lessons too from the players . . . Or have you heard that one before . . . Did you notice that our Rayders, bless their hearts, offered their congratulations to the winning team Saturday . . And on Thursday the Grayling players, who were certainly crushed by their upset did the same thing to our boys . . . Good sportsmanship, it's called . . .

AND DID you know our Coach Terrill was invited to speak at the Luncheon that the Harbor Springs Kiwanis club gave for the Harbor Rams and Coach Boles . . . His topic, "Why I like coaching' and he brought in too a lot of good ideas about sports, players and sportsmanship . . . Quite a step in cementing relations between the two schools, we'd say.

AS YOU may not know, Mark White has broken his glasses a number of times during the past basketball season . . . This gets to be costly after a while so in order to help out some 32 fans 'dibbied up' and helped foot the bill . . . And Mark and his family are ever so grateful and wanted us to tell you so for them . . .

Michigan Mirror

by Gene Alleman

SUPPORTERS of a proposed half-billion dollar bond issue to build new highways in Michigan are singing the blues.

The current Highway Department scandal has just about shattered all hope for approval of the $500 million bond issue this year. Maybe forever.

Sen. Joseph P. Cloon (R-Walkefield) and four other senators, including a Democrat, sponsored a Constitutional Amendment resolution in January to place the bond issue question on the ballot in the November 2 election.

The resolution appeared to have a good chance to get through both housess. Preliminary plans were launched to finance a campaign for the resolution if it got on the ballot.

Everyone seemed confident the voters would approve the bond issue which was to be retired from gasoline tax revenues.

THEN IT happened. Rumors of irregularities on the Highway Department's Grand Rapids right-of-way division were no longer rumors.

At first, supporters of the Cloon resolution told everyone the Western Michigan affair would "blow over."

The Senate Taxation Committee held a public hearing on the proposal. Everyone agreed Michigan's highway system could become the nation's finest for $500 million.

After the hearing, several Taxation Committee members said they were ready to report out the Cloon proposal immediately.

But a couple of days later, the Western Michigan scandal got worse instead of "blowing over," as everyone hoped it would. Warrants were issued against two former right-of-way buyers.

As the investigation grew, chances for approval of the Cloon proposal faded.

A few of the bond issue's supporters still hope it may get on the ballot. But others, including several sponsors of the resolution, admit privately that it probably will die. One Senator put it this way: "I'm afraid the voters would be reluctant to give the Department $500 million after reading in the newspapers about all of these alleged irrgularities.

"The highway scandal couldn't have come at a worse time."

THE SIZE of Michigan's State Police force may be increased by at least 50 troopers by the Legislature. That's the prediction of a member of the House Ways and Means Committee who asked that his name not be used.

State, Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs has asked for about 160 new men while Gov. G. Mennen Williams recommended increasing size of the force by at least 100.

An increase of 50 men would raise size of State Police to about 750. Most of the new men would be used to patrol highways.

MICHIGAN'S new medium security prison probably will be built at Ionia despite a report recommending six other possible sites. The Legislature must decide whether it will be a 600, 800 or 1 200-inmate institution and also pick a site before adjourning April 9.

Lawmakers from areas named as possible sites may fight to keep it from Ionia but it will be for a lost cause. Key legislators have been told it will cost less to build at Ionia and that will be the biggest factor in reaching decision.

IT'S OFFICIAL now. More babies were born in Michigan during 1953 than in any previous year. The State Health Department says preliminary figures show more than 181,000 babies were born.

Dan Gerber, president of Gerber Baby Foods, Inc., of Fremont, says there were fewer "first" babies born in 1953 than in 1952 but the number of second, third, fourth and fifth babies born in a family continued to increase.

THE CONSERVATION Department reports that 1,140,000 hunting licenses, all all-time high, were sold in Michigan last year. Previous high was 1,104,090 licenses sold in 1952.

The new record was set despite a drop of nearly 20,000 in number of deer licenses sold last fall.

"Why, he even looks like the governor from a distance," one House member said. "If he were just a little older, he would be the Republican party's best candidate to run against Wililams. And he'd beat him, too!"

Smith, who is 31 years old, served in the South Pacific with the First Marine Division during World War II, received a law degree in 1950.

Like Williams, he is tall, athletic appearing, has a so-called "boyish" face, and wears bow ties.

Sermonette

The High Cost of Living

Rev. Lloyd M. Schloop, Pastor
Methodist Church

One sure-fire topic for conversation is the high cost of living. We all feel the pinch somewhere. One item in the high cost of living hits us hard. It is the high cost of low living.

Low living costs our nation plenty. Everyone's taxes could be cut if every government official and every citizen in dealing with the government were honest. However the worse situation is not in Washington, but in our cities and counties. Here investigations show gambling and crime linking poor government and organized crime. Why? Do we need better laws? Perhaps. But that is not the main trouble. It lies with the ordinary fellow like you and me. We are like the young "vet" who burst into the minister's office and said, "I've discovered it no longer pays to be good." He was in a hurry to get ahead to make up for the lost years. Honesty did not pay him cash on the barrelhead every Saturday night. Too many of us think it no longer is smart to be honest or good. More of us are quilty of subversive inactivity. An Old Testament parable warns that when the pine and olive refuse to be king, the bramble will be the ruler.

Low living costs the individual even more. After all, all low living is low living of individual persons. We can blame our heredity, our community, or our training. We can say, "God doesn't know or care," but the voice of God still accuses us. We can say, "Everybody is doing it," but we know that when nobody is being a man, we can stand up and be counted for right. We can with Christ's help.

Low living costs God the cross. No one can understand how the Holy God became a man and died upon the cross. No one knows how he was able to bear the penalty for the sins of the whole world throughout all ages. But countless voices of those who have carried the burden of low living to the foot of the cross say, "This I know. Having bowed low at the cross, I stand erect before man." The cross of Jesus Christ is God's remedy for low living. There is no other way.

Air Photographs Of Most Regions Now Available

Aerial photographs of most areas of Michigan are now available at cost from the federal government, the Michigan Conservation Department has announced.

The entire state is being photographed in a joint state-federal project which started in 1052. Still to be photographed are Charlevoix county and seven townships in northern Antrim county. Work on these areas will probably be completed this summer.

Conservation department fish, game, land and forest specialists use the aerial maps in outlinging proposed projects. The photos are also useful to anyone working in the field of land-use management.

Senate Passes Utility Bond Bill

Backers of the measure, municipally-owned utilities of Michigan, point out that local government now has such authority to finance necessary improvements to garbage disposal, sewage disposal, water supply and parking systems.

They also point out that the revenue bond act provides safeguards in that 10 per cent of the electors may, by petition, force a referendum on any proposed revenue bond issue, that it must be approved by the state municipal finance commission and in addition, unless it is a sound issue it is not possible to find purchasers of the bonds.

Municipal electric utilities throughout the state, including cities as large as Lansing and as small as Charlevoix, have faced an increased demand for electrical service. According to the information available, demands for electrical service on a nationwide basis have been doubled about every eight to ten years. In addition, all cities and villages are increasing in population and are enjoying increased industrial activities, all of which are placing heavier demands on the communities, particularly upon the municipal systems.

The revenue bond issue of financing available to Michigan municipalities for practically all major improvements since 1933, have proved an exceptionally sound method of financing municipal improvements since it places the responsibility for adequate financing on the users of the improvement. So far as is known, there has never been a default on a revenue bond in Michigan.

Senate Bill No. 1102 is designed to keep municipal electric utilities, that the people voted to purchase or build in a sound financial condition. This type of financing is considered by experts to be the most economical overall method of building and financing self-supporting municipal improvements.

Under the proposed bill, bonds issued for such expansion programs would be retired out of revenues received by the utilities.

The proposed amendment was voted down earlier this year in the Senate committee but Senator Frank Andrews, head of the committee on municipalities, obtained a rehearing before his committee Feb. 24. It was then voted out for the consideration of the Senate last Wednesday.

Two-thirds of Michigan's 12 million acres of farm land would be in better shape with at least an occasional use of lime, MSC soil scientists point out.

Red Cross Fund Drive Progress Is Reported

The annual Red Cross fund drive in Charlevoix and the adjacent area is progressing successfully, Mrs. J. C. Marshall reported Wednesday.

At that time $858.00 toward the community's quota of $950 had been contributed with several areas not reporting total receipts.

The drive will continue through the month of March until everyone in the area has been contacted.

Defeat Graying In Semi-Finals, 45-36

After upsetting the highly-rated Grayling Vikings by a score of 45-36 in the regional tournament at Petoskey Thursday night, the Charlevoix Rayders bowed to an inspired Marion five as the Eagles captured their first regional title Saturday night.

The score of the game was 55-37.

Coached by Wally Dietz, a former Boyne City athlete, the Eagles were to meet the upper peninsula regional finalists, Wakefield, in the quarter finals at Gaylord last night. Wakefield advanced to the quarter-finals with a 63-60 win over Houghton at Negaunee.

Playing their last game for the Rayders Saturday night were Bill Bennett, Gordon Mol, Mark White and Joe McDermott who were in the starting line-up, along with Tom LaBlance, a junior, and Dave Glassford.

The favored Rayders, who had played outstanding ball against Grayling Thursday, couldn't find their stride Saturday night as the Marion Eagles, gunning for their first league title in the school's history, outscored Charlevoix 13-7, 18-6 and 15-8 before the Rayders came back for a 16-9 final quarter, but their comeback was too late as the game and the regional title went to Marion by a 55-37 score.

The story can best be told in the total of field goals attempted and completed. Charlevoix shot 59 times but only connected 14 times. Marion, on the other hand, connected 19 of 46 shots.

On the free throw line, Marion connected for 17 of 27 free throw attempts while committing 15 personal fouls. Charlevoix was successful on nine of 19 free throw attempts and had 21 personal fouls called against them.

Others in the line-up for Charlevoix were Dwain Walker, Quint Walker, Dave Glassford, Guy Swanson and Bob Mathews.

Bennett scored 13 points; Mol and McDermott, six points each; Mathews, four; LaBlance, three; White and Dwain Walker, two each and Quint Walker one.

Fred Sible paced the scoring for the game with 19 points for Marion, Bruce Swiler had 16 and John Isanhart 14.

In the game against Grayling Thursday, the Rayders jumped into a 10-6 first period lead, stretched it to 20-15 at halftime and 29-24 as the third period ended.

LaBlance opened the scoring for Charlevoix followed by three quick long shots by McDermott while Grayling was scoring two free throws.

The quarter ended 10-6 and Grayling tied the score 10-10 as the period opened before the Rayders forged ahead 20-15 as the half ended. The Vikings kept pace with the Rayders in the scoring department in the third period but it was not enough as the period ended 29-24. In the last quarter, the Rayders, with their fast breaks and long shots working to perfection, went ahead to take the game by nine points.

Bennett led the scoring with 12 points followed by McDermott with 11, LaBlance with 10, White and Swanson with five points each and Dwain Walker with two.

Grayling had 10 field goals, 16 of 31 free throws and 17 personal fouls called on them.

Coach, Rayders Thank Fans For Season Support

From Coach Del Terrill and his Charlevoix Rayders comes a big "Thank you" this week for the support given the team throughout the 1953-54 basketball season.

The Rayders who finished the current season Saturday night in the regional tournament at Petoskey captured their fourth N.M.C.C.C. title and the district title at Petoskey earlier this month.

In behalf of the team, Coach Terrill said he and the boys appreciated all the kindnesses shown the team during the past season as well as the support given them.

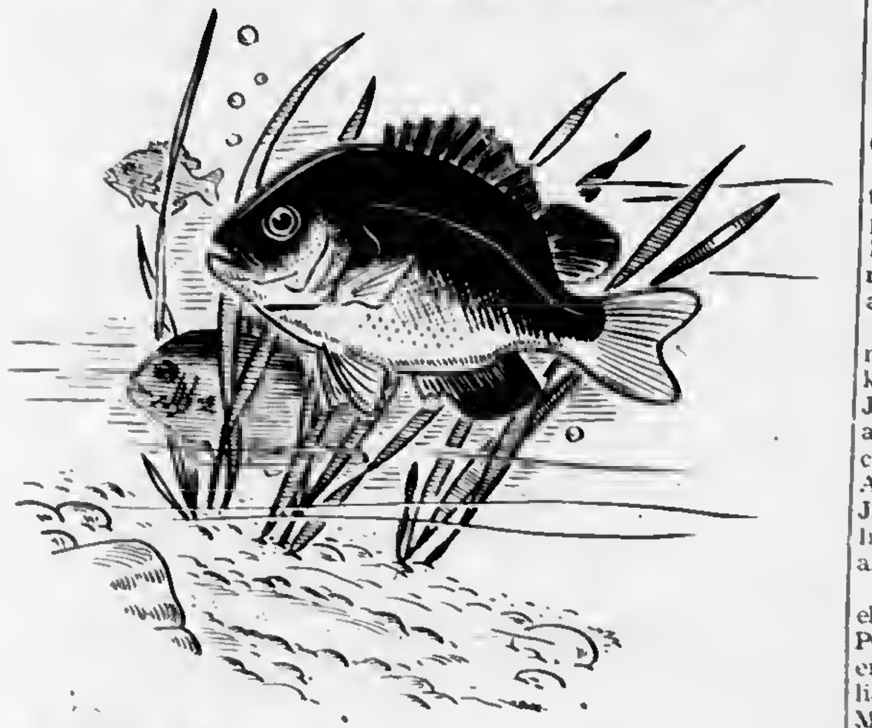
FEELING LOW?
Inspiring Lessons Learned from Nature

Nature's Strange Overflow



In late spring the bluegill, like myriad other finned, feathered, and furred creatures, prepares to propagate its race. Watery nests the size of a dinner plate are built in colonies on the sandy or gravelly lake and stream bottoms. There the eggs are laid by the thousands and fertilized. Then the bluegill male guards them until they are hatched, fiercely driving away all intruders and fanning the incubating eggs gently with his fins to keep a soft current washing over them.

Since several females may spawn in a single nest, each laying as many as ten to fifteen thousand eggs, the male may have more than sixty thousand eggs to guard. He is a faithful father — until the eggs hatch and the young fry swim away from the nest. Thereafter he would as soon eat one of his own children as he would a succulent worm or a juicy insect!

Why is it that a bluegill female lays so many eggs? And why does a common perch sometimes hold as many as a quarter of a million eggs, a fair sized cod seven million and a salmon approximately one thousand eggs for every pound of its body weight? Not nearly all those young will be needed to keep the species alive.

One reason for this bewildering abundance is that the young of fish, from egg to adolescence, are faced with so many dangers that an unusual fecundity has been granted them to insure their continuance. Some eggs are infertile. Others become infected with fungus. The little fry are attacked by other fish. Aquatic animals and birds, disease and parasites finish off still others. The race of fishes might not survive if each mother spawned but a single egg, or twins, or even triplets.

But there is another reason, above and beyond cold biological fact. It is the generosity that lies at the heart of nature and nature's Creator. There are more leaves on a tree than the minimum required to gather the sun's warm light for the manufacture of starches. The sky needs not quite so many stars, nor the fields all their grasses. Just as the beauty of a butterfly's wing has its own reason for being and need not be a slave to some biological purpose, so nature's strange overflow, its random super-abundance, is a grace given to the universe. It is here not because it has to be, but because at the heart of things there is an ungrudging, open-handed liberality.

In human nature signs of this generosity are present. We are given more brain power than we use. We seldom spend our very last ounce of strength. Sometimes we think we have. Then suddenly still more power is called for. And lo, it is there — waiting to be used. When the future looks dark we say to ourselves, "I can never get through it!" Then the glowing future becomes the leaden present, and at last the darksome past, and we are through it! Where did the courage, the stamina, the strength come from? From the plus supply — the extra abundance we didn't know we had!

The sheer necessities for living are here. But life has been filled with extras too, overflowing with a flood of breath-taking beauties and an outpouring surplus supply that exceeds the demands of occasion and circumstance.

If God puts into nature, including human nature, a generosity beyond all we could hope for, imagine, or deserve — what then? What can realization of the fact do for us? It should make us trustful because we now know no crisis is too big for us. Whatever comes in the tomorrows there will be the necessary faith and strength to meet it — plus an extra measure of spiritual resources. Gratitude too will be ours. Said Isaac Watts, when contemplating the way God's goodness overflows, spilling into our living:

"Were the whole realm of nature mine
That were a present far too small,
Love so amazing, so divine,
Demands my soul, my life, my all."

Farm Bureau Women's Committee Discusses Fair, Hears Reports

The Charlevoix county Farm Bureau Women's Committee met Friday at the home of Mrs. Laverne Phillips near Walloon Lake for a business meeting.

The tentative plans for the Charlevoix county fair to be held over the Labor Day weekend this fall were discussed at length. The group went on record as opposing the Sunday fair which is being held for the first time.

Plans for participation in the fair with a Farm Bureau booth were also discussed. All members were urged to enter items in all divisions and to plan their year's activities with an eye to entering farm produce, canned goods, hand work and other items for judging.

Mrs. John Wieland of the Safety committee reported on the organization's safety program and urged everyone to practice safety in the home where the majority of accidents occur. She also reported that Cliftnn R. Jacobs of Alpena, a representative of the State Farm Insurance company would attend the next meeting and answer questions related to motoring responsibility. All members are asked to bring questions to the meeting regarding the driving public.

Mrs. L. E. McGhan of the legislative committee reported on bills related to the farm now before the governing body in Lansing and urged that farm women become more legislative minded and not leave this to the farm men alone.

Further plans for the Rural-Urban tea to be held April 29 were made.

Dates for the annual Farm Bureau Camp at Gilbert Lodge on Twin Lakes near Traverse City were announced. The event has been set for June 8-9-10. An interesting program has been planned and anyone wishing to attend is asked to contact the Women's group of the Farm Bureau for additional information.

Eleven groups were represented at the Friday meeting.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Wieland April 9.

Use Buckwheat For Quick Soils Builder In Area

The "Walker Quickie" method of organic matter buildup is being stressed again in Northern Michigan areas, reports Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent. It will be used in the 1954 soil improvement program of the Agricultural Stablization and Conservation committees in several counties

The system, developed by Orville Walker, former Kalkaska-Crawford county agricultural agent and now special township agent in Kalkaska county, made good use of rye and buckwheat as green manure. Conservation committees in several northern Michigan counties are recommending the plan this year for coarse sandy soils. Walker has two farms in Antrim county.

The essential features of the six-step program include:

Testing soil for lime, applying it and as needed.

Preparing seedbed and seeding 1½ bushels of buckwheat per acre the first week of June with 400 pounds of 10-10-10 or 12-12-12 fertilizer.

Discing down the buckwheat in full bloom, before seeding.

Discing down the rye when it is knee-high, making sure it does not grow too tall in a fast-growing springtime.

About 30 farmers are carrying out this project with the cooperation of their A.S.C. and the Extension Service. These farmers are urged to obtain their buckwheat seed and their high nitrogen fertilizer as soon as possible.

New Insecticide Approved For Use In Dairy Barns

After trying methoxychlor and lindane to control flies in dairy barns farmers now have another promising insecticide for that purpose.

Malathion, a phosphate type insecticide, is the newest one recommended. It can be used as a bait or as a wall and ceiling spray according to Ray L. Janes, extension entomologist at Michigan State college.

The barn recipe calls for one pound of 25 per cent wettable malathion powder to three gallons of water. If the 50 per cent emulsion form of malathion is used, one-half pint will make three gallons of spray.

Baits are made by using one cup of 50 per cent emulsion, one cup molasses and three gallons of water. The bait is sprinkled on a clean cement floor, perferably behind the cows. Three gallons will be enough for a 20 to 30 cow herd.

There are some distinct disadvantages to a wet bait, however, Janes says. It has to be applied about every seven days and is slippery before it dries. It is not effective in dark barns and the malathion may become weaker but the molasses may attract more flies without killing them.

A dry bait, using malathion's wettable powder and sugar, is being tried and looks promising for the dairy barn, according to Janes.

Janes emphasizes that malathion should not be used in the home or milkhouse or be sprayed directly on the cattle. Users should read the labels on the containers carefully before using this chemical.

Smelt-Dipping Season

There are more comfortable methods of catching smelt than by letting them in—along with several quarts of water—over the tops of your boots, as this somewhat dampened angler will tell you. But the little silvery fish are so plentiful during the late March-early April spawning run in Michigan that most any procedure will work. The usual plan involves a small dipnet for catching and a bushel basket or bucket for holding your catch. Lists of streams open to such fishing may be obtained by writing the conservation department's fish division at Lansing, 26.

Fruit Tree Ages Should Be Considered When Making Applications Of Nitrogen

Take the age of the fruit tree into consideration when you apply nitrogen fertilizer, advises Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent.

The amount of growth and the tree's production are important in determining the amount of nitrogen fertilizer to apply. Growers should use severe pruning and mulching to stimulate plant growth.

It may be a good idea to rob a little of the nitrogen from the overly vigorous plants and increase the amount given to those poor in vigor.

For apples, apply one-half to one-quarter pound of ammonium nitrate for each year of age per tree until five-seven pounds are used.

Peaches and cherries need one-third to one-half pound ammonium nitrate per year per tree up to one-half to three pounds per tree.

For raspberries, apply 150-300 pounds of ammonium nitrate per acre.

On sandy soil, blueberries need two ounces of 8-8-8 per plant in spring of the second year and an increase of one ounce per plant to a total of seven.

Sidedress strawberries with 200 pounds of phosphorous two weeks after planting and repeat the first of August.

Cites Profits To Be Had From Farm Woodlot

Is there any money, any annual income, in a woodlot?

"I'm no forester but this looks like a pretty fair income with no soil fitting or fertilizing," said Paul J. Rond, Michigan State college soil scientist, as he read a story in the South Haven Dairy Tribune. It was about a woodlot near Rood's home town of Covert.

"These figures show a $25 per acre income for 83 years, just taking the interest and leaving the capital," explained Lester E Bell, M.S.C. extension forester. There's the story of $20,600 cash income from 10 acres:

Back in 1871, Adam Bowman came from Ohio and bought 40 acres south of Covert in Van Buren county. Clearing 30 acres and selling logs to a nearby sawmill for a possible top rate of $10 per 1,000 feet, he built a home and started to farm. But the story is about the 10 uncleared acres.

In 1922, Bowman's son-in-law, Bert Stanley, sold some 20-inch trees to Pierce Williams company for $2,100. Two years later he sold the farm for $4,000 to James Sarno who still owns it.

Sarno bought no coal for 29 years, using about 20 cords of wood a year from his woodlot of beech, basswood, elm, maple, sycamore, ash and whitewood, he also harvested some maple syrup.

In 1945, Sarno sold the 20-inch trees to the same company for $15,000 but reserved the tops and 33 basswoods. The tops provided 300 cords of wood to sell for $1,500. In 1950, the basswoods brought another $500. When a gas main was laid through the property, the damages payment was $875. He sold another 125 cords of stovewood for $625, found enough logs to build a double garage and give him some spare lumber, and still has 200 trees of more 20-inch diameter.

Sorry

Sam Brill, Ford tractor dealer for this territory has been having a tough time convincing some farmers that he knows the price of the new Fordson diesel tractor he sells. this announcement ad in the Courier of Feb. 11 offered this new tractor "Sensationally low Priced at only $2116.30."

Evidently the price was more sensational than planned, just a matter of $600 less than the delivered price. This unfortunate error has caused Brill to do considerable explaining to prospective buyers. The delivered price should have read $2716.30.

Plan Meetings To Outline Controls For Caterpillers

Lansing — Bugs, bugs, bugs, marching up and down again.

Not really bugs either, but caterpillars, big bluish forest tent caterpillers, will be busy chewing their way through northern Michigan forest lands again this year.

Each year since 1947, the caterpillars have created a problem in Michigan. Mostly, however, state foresters say the foliage-eaters are simply nuisances and not seriously dangerous to forest areas. Millions will be active from early May to mid-June, but the effects of their busy chewing are not expected to effect forest lands very much in the long run.

A series of meetings concerning the pests has been planned in the northern lower peninsula this month. No meetings have been planned in the upper peninsula, where the outbreak is now in its seventh year and, for the most part, on the decline.

Evening meetings will be held in courthouses at Cheboygan and Petoskey on March 22 and 23, respectively. A third meeting has been suggested for Rogers City on March 24, though final plans have not yet been scheduled, and a final meeting will be held the afternoon of March 25 at Alpena.

State foresters at those open public meetings will outline control measures and discuss expected extent of this year's outbreaks.

The state does not spray-control the pests, except in certain heavily-used park areas. On forest lands, spraying would be too costly and only temporarily effective. Natural parasites will build up anyway, and eventually conquer the pests more effectively than large-scale spray measures.

Now in its fourth year in the northern lower peninsula, the outbreak is still on the increase in eastern Presque Isle county, northern Alpena county and northern Emmet county. Other areas where the pests occurred last year are expected to remain about the same in extent this year.

ARTHRITIS?

I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippled in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular soreness from head to foot. I had Rheumatoid Arthritis and other forms of Rheumatism, hands deformed and my ankles were set.

Limited space prohibits telling you more here but if you will write me I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.

Mrs. Grant Hastings

Birthday Surprise

"Small Town Stuff" may get under your skin at times, but there are other times when it walks right into your heart. Such as what might have been John Garen's reaction when he walked into the White Swan restuarent last Thursday evening supposedly to help Don Campbell move his fish shanty. However, fish shanties were forgotten when Mrs. Campbell walked into the dining room, bearing a large birthday cake decorated with 27 lighted candles, which was a cue to the young people who had casually sauntered in, to serenade John with, "Happy Birthday To You."

John is the young man who has been installing the new dial phones in our area the past few weeks. He is living in the William Patterson home and is a regular customer at the White Swan restuarent, so Mr. and Mrs. Don Campbell planned this surprize for John, who is from Ohio and would be away from home and friends on his birthday.

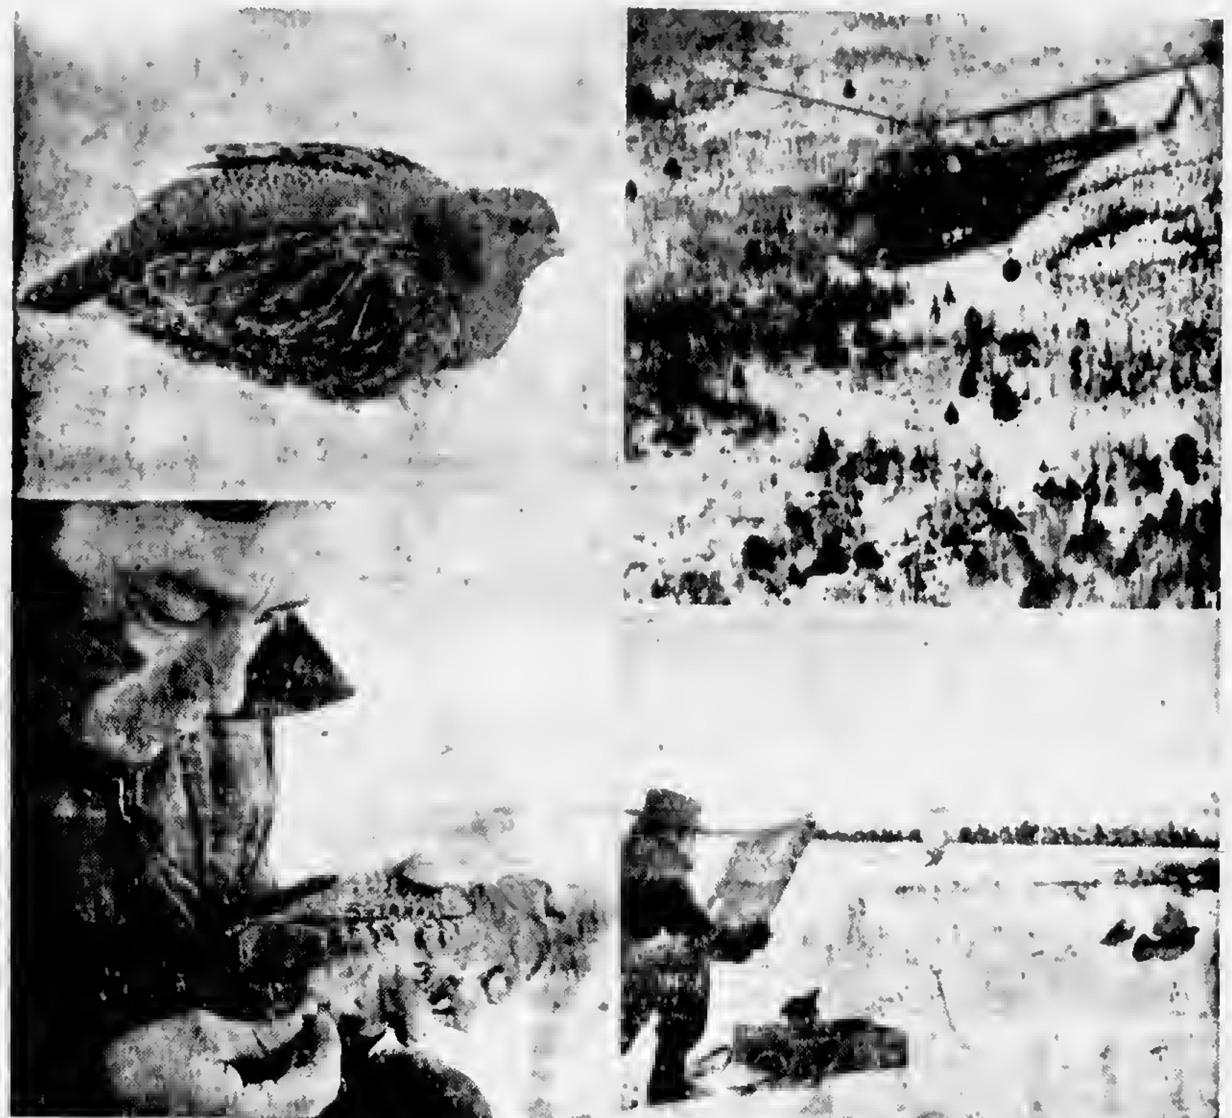
New Citizens of Michigan



The Hungarian partridge, a rapid-flying little game bird, may someday develop into an important wildlife species in Michigan. Conservation department wildlife workers at least hope they will and perhaps partly as a result of recent releases of the birds in the state. This series of pictures was taken to show those releases, made in the eastern upper peninsula recently. At upper left is a portrait of one of the 49 "Hunkies" received from southeastern Ontario, where the birds seem to be thriving in the wild. At upper right, an Air Force helicopter helps department workers spot good terrain west of Sault Ste. Marie in which to release the birds. A particular type of cover was necessary in order that the birds might thrive. Lower left shows game worker Lloyd Schemenauer banding one of the birds before release and at lower right the birds explode out of their shipping crates and into their new home territory.

Soap is best to remove soil from cotton, linen and rayon garments. Syndets are recommended for removing soil from silk, wool and nylon pieces. For garments containing elastic, soap is far superior, reports Evelyn Zwemer of the home management department at Michigan State college.

Lancers Win "D" Regional Trophy For Second Time

Ellsworth — The Lancers won the regional championship trophy for the second straight year Saturday night This trophy was claimed only after a hard fought game in which the team played probably their best game of the season. The Lancers were playing the very fast and unusually high scoring team of Copemish.

A balanced offense plus a good defense proved too much for Copemish as Ellsworth pushed ahead in the third period and went on to widen the gap in the final period. There were many tense moments in the game but the teams and the cheering sections from Ellsworth and Copemish are to be complimented for the fine sportsmanship displayed.

An interesting sideline to the tournaments is the amount of support the Lancers are receiving from local fans. For the five tournament games a total of $887.70 was paid out by Ellsworth fans for advance sale tickets. 375 tickets were purchased for Saturday nights championship game. The administration of the school is very appreciative of this support and the sportsmanship displayed by our fans.

The northern Michigan premiere of the film, which was released March 15 by Gospel Films Inc. will be one of three showings of the picture in Michigan this Spring. The others will be in Grand Rapids and Detroit.

Filmed in color, the new production tells the story of Fin and Becky Tazwell, unfortunate mountain children, and the change that comes into their lives when they come to the Galilean Children's Home following the death of their father in a mine disaster.

The beautiful scenery of the Cumberland Mountains plus the legendary wit of the Kentucky mountaineers give the 45-minute film a novel freshness. Emphasis throughout the picture is given to the impact of the gospel message as drawn from numerous case histories in the lives of the orphaned children at the Galilean Home.

Residents of northern Michigan first met the Rev. Mr. Vogel and some of the children from the Home last fall when they spent some time here as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Boss of Silver Birch cabins and motel. Sermonette

ON PLAYING THE GAME

Richard James Lintner, Vicar
Christ Episcopal Church

TEXT: "Do you not know that in a race all the runners compete, but only one receives a prize? So run that ye may obtain it." I Corinthians 9:26.

We are constantly being reminded in this age of ours, that we must "play the game" if we desire to fit into life's picture. When Saint Paul wrote the above exhortation, no doubt his writing was influenced by the tremendous importance that the Romans put on athletics. From the Acro-Corinthus he had watched Roman soldiers in their contests and sports; the sturdy gladiators, the fleet runners, all had a fascination for him, and he drew from this experience many of the most vivid and thrilling illustrations of Christian life.

Life is a great adventure and we must "play the game." In playing the game one must remember that preparation is necessary and that the laws which govern the game must be observed in order to "make the grade." Men have paid a great price in self-denial and preparation for this great adventure. You must prepare for the game of life by following our Master's injunction. "If any man will come after me let him deny himself and take up his cross daily and follow me."

There are some games in which one mistake ruins the game. Fortunately, in the game of life, if we truly repent our mistakes and strive to have mastery over ourselves, we are given another chance. However, we must endeavour to keep the rules. He who lies or cheats and makes no effort to make restitution for his errors forfeits the game. In order to play the game of life successfully we need only turn to our Lord and His Church to help us. He, who is the Way, the Truth and the Life, will show us the way and teach us the truth and will lead us on to a higher life.

Therefore let us strive to fight the good fight; and lay hold on life eternal.

PRAYER: O thou who are the way, the truth and the light, lead us in thy path, illumine us by thy spirit, show forth thy truth in our lives that we may play the game successfully, so that in the end we may receive the crown of righteousness which fadeth not away; through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Christ is thy strength and Christ thy right:
Thy joy and crown eternally.

ODDS 'N ENDS

By Fran Martin

AT 9:45 P.M. EST, Saturday, Spring arrived officially according to our weather man . . . tho temperature hovered around 20 degrees here but the air was clear and the sunshine brought a promise of warmer days to come . . . At least that's the way we interpreted it . . . Of course a few other signs were visible including the annual Girl Scout cookie sale that always accompanies Spring, crows which make a fuss early every morning, and another sure criterion of better things, the smell of the skunk, the smart animal that's pretty sure of tho weather before he celebrates by giving forth, with the familiar 'aroma' . . .

ANOTHER was the opening of the bridge for the first time since the Molly Hogan (North Shore, to you) was laid up early this year for a clean-up job . . . And it was a good thing, too, for a day or so later the Sundew came in with the LaBlance tug in tow . . . The Coast Guard cutter was on its way north to help with ice-breaking chores . . . But its entrance into the harbor is always a good sign . . . Soon they'll be back to tote supplies to the lighthouses and to lay buoys along the reefs and shoals and what-have-you . . .

AND SPEAKING of the harbor, have you noticed how much the water has subsided . . From looking at the highwater line along the channel, we'd say it's down 18 inches at least . . . all the pilings on the north side of the channel are visible again . . Gee, it's going to be interesting to watch it for the next few months.

YOU KNOW that class in short story and magazine writing you've been hearing about? . . . It's a success ... believe it or not, one of our members had an article returned with a rejection slip and a personal letter from an editor . . . Things like that are encouraging, we're told . . .

SORRY WE didn't know the name of the place in Harbor Springs where the song, 'Sleepy Time Gal' was born . . . it wasn't mentioned in the news story we saw but a couple of people havo told us it was Juillaret's . . . You see, that was a little before our time so we really couldn't be expected to remember . . .

IN A bit of publicity released recently about the 137th birthday anniversary of the University of Michigan, Charlevoix and another Michigan city, Sturgis, got a mention . . . In the story it said that "back in 1880 the buildings were lighted with gas and heated by stoves with cord wood always on hand and coal scuttles furnished for every classroom. Today the University furnishes enough electricity to light the cities of Sturgis and Charlevoix" . . Not much, we'll agree, but we appreciate even that . . . after all, there are a lot of other towns that could have been mentioned.

A GRAND letter from Allen E. Arnold of Birmingham brought the news that a photograph of Charlevoix is to appear in the May issue of the D.A.R. magazine . . . One thing about former residents, you can sure depend on them to give Charlevoix a plug at every opportunity . . . As Allen said in his note . . . "Even though I have lived away from Charlevoix for a great many years, I still have a rather warm spot in my heart for the town and am always glad to give it a plug whenever the apportunity presents itself" . . . And with tho beautiful pictures he has taken of not only Charlevoix but northern Michigan he can do it with little effort . . . .

MOST PEOPLE who've lived here must feel pretty much the same as he does . . . And if you don't believe us, take a look at the account of the Charlevoix-California party elsewhere in this issue . . Many of those people haven't been here in years, most of them rarely see each other but now that they live in California they have one thing in common . . they all lived in Charlevoix at one time or another so they get together, compare notes on mutual friends and have a grand time . . .

NOTES FROM people who were there verified that statement . . . Among those present were the Charlie Martinis who reported that they had a wonderful visit with people they hadn't seen in years and years . . . The Martinis, by the way, were visiting the Harry Walstads in Phoenix when they wrote . . . They're now enroute to Michigan after about six months of wandering through the west . . .

HAD THE nicest surprise recently when I was given an honorary membership in the Charlevoix Rod and Gun Club . . . It's an organization that does a lot for the community as a whole and for the kids in particular so I felt very honored . . . One of these days when I get ambitious I'll sew on the pretty club emblem that goes with the membership . . . To my fellow club members . . . a million thanks . . . I do appreciate it . . . Gee, maybe I should have asked earlier . . . do you suppose there's some work that goes with this?

AS MOST of you already know, our basketball team was in East Lansing over the weekend for the state basketball tournament . . . The town, as a 'thank you' to the team, financed the trip and Coach Del Terrill, Herb Schofield and Cliff Gregory took the boys to southern Michigan in their cars . . . While there they stayed at Quonset Village on the campus at M.S.C. and from what wo hear they had a grand time . . . Watched basketball almost to the saturation point and all in all had a super time . . . The team, all 13 of 'em, are most appreciative of what was done for them and their parents, many of whom have voiced their gratitude to us would like to have you know how they, as parents of the boys, appreciate your thoughfulness and kindness in arranging the trip . . . And in answer to the players and their families we say, we couldn't do it for a nicer bunch of boys . . . Next to you as parents, we of the community, love 'em best and appreciate the good ball they played all season . . .

AS WE'VE all known for a long time, basketball games can be won on the free throw line but it took a team like Muskegon Heights to prove it . . . In all their games they were outscored by their opponents in the field goal department but won anyway . . . right on the free throw line . . . So in your spare time during the next few months, you guys, when you have nothing better to do, spend some time just 'shooting' . . . Who knows, maybe it will bring a state title to Charlevoix . . .

Charlevoix, Michigan

At a recent meeting of the Michigan Federated Humane Societies held at Michigan State college, we learned that Charlevoix is to have a Humane Society. Every community should have such an organization that the needs of unfortunate animals may be better served.

There is so much cruelty, abuse, neglect, desertion and many other forms of animal cruelty in every community that the representatives from your city should be given every encouragement and help necessary that your community may be better able to serve those who cannot speak for themselves.

The Charlevoix Humane Society is to be congratulated in having Mrs. Wesley L'Huillier as its first president. Won't you please lend the support of your valued paper in helping her in the great work she is undertaking. I am confident that with the support of your public officials and the citizens of your community, the Humane Society will succeed and do a most useful work, and take it's place with the other cultural organizations in Charlevoix and surrounding territory.

Yours very truly,
Walter G. Fenton, Director of Michigan Humane Society, Vice president, Michigan Federated Humane Societies, president, Macomb County Humane League.

D.A.R. Magazine To Carry Aerial Picture Of City

Charlevoix will receive some unsolicited publicity by way of an aerial view of the city in the May issue of the D.A.R. magazine, according to Allen E. Arnold of Birmingham whose photograph of the city will appear in the magazine with identifying lines.

Mr. Arnold, a former resident, said he made several aerial photographs of Charlevoix and surrounding area several years ago. The picture to be used was made over Lake Charlevoix looking northwest showing Lake Charlevoix in the foreground, then Round Lake and Lake Michigan in the background.

He concluded by saying that he was hoping to have Mrs. Kohr include in her article the fact that Charlevoix has one of the United States.

Farewell Given For Rev. E. Boeve Last Thursday

Ellsworth — Rev. E. Boeve and Mrs. Boeve left Monday for Cadillac where Rev. Boeve has accepted the pastorship of the Cadillac Christian Reformed church.

The Boeve's were honored at a farewell gathering held in the church basement Thursday evening of last week. Opening prayer was made by G. P. VanderArk, vice-president of the Consistory. Readings were given by Danny VanderArk, representing the Sunday School, Gerrit John Drenth, Echo Mission representative; John B. Oosterbaan, from the Men's Society; Mrs. John Timmer Dorcas Ladies Aid; Mrs. Allen Klooster, Junior Ladies Aid.

Vocal numbers included the mixed quartet composed of Alice Veldkamp, Virginia Kuiper, Don Heeres and William Kooyer, representing the Young Peoples Society; a duet by Mr. and Mrs. W. Karsten, Ebenezer school; solo by Henry Drenth, delegate from the consistory and an instrumental duet by Jay Kuiper at the organ and Virginia, at the piano.

G. P. VanderArk presented a gift of remembrance and Rev. Boeve spoke briefly and gave the closing prayer after which, the group sang "God Be With You Til We Meet Again".

Don't Forget

That's right! Don't forget the full course chicken dinner to be served this Friday night, March 26 in the Ellsworth Community Hall by the couples club of Atwood Reformed church. See the members for your tickets.

Also two films one "45 Tioga Street' a religious film and the other "God's Wonders in Nature" a film for children will be shown: first at 7:15 for those who eat dinner early and again at 8:30. A free will offering will be taken at the film showings. If you can't get over to the supper you are still welcome to attend the films showing.

Banks P.T.A. To Start Loan Fund For Graduates

Ellsworth—Banks P.T.A. members voted to establish a student loan fund for graduates of Banks school who wish to enter the teaching field. This was a recommendation of the Scholarship Committee composed of Rex. Wood, Henry Elzinga, Lynn Carpenter, Richard Lather, Mrs. Henry Ruis and Mrs. Marvin Elzinga.

The meeting was opened with group singing led by Charles Bower with Miss Golda Sherk accompanist, after which Rev. H. Fikse offered prayer.

Instrumental numbers were given by Mrs. Kenneth Peebles and Mrs. Lynn Carpenter who played two accordiun numbers.

The Junior Choir of the Pilgrim church under the direction of Mrs. Dean Fiedler sang for the group and Mrs. G. A. Hastings gave a monologue.

The Seniors held a baked goods sale before and after the meeting.

During the business meeting it was voted to have the annual planned potluck banquet in May to close the year's program.

Also the election in April was announced. Miss Durance, sponsor, announced the plans for the sophomore Hobby Show to be held Wednesday night of this week.

After the business was disposed of Mr. Lather, principal of Banks school, talked frankly and revealingly of our school and what can or should be done by the parents and school personnel cooperating to give or teach our children so that when they are graduated they are really entitled to the diploma they receive.

A questionaire given to each one at the meeting can and should provoke a great deal of thought among the people who need to be interested in what our school is or should be.

Following the meeting lunch was served. Mrs. Fiedler's room won the "kitty" for having the largest percentage of parents present.
